Electric Power Shut-Off Ordered Throughout France

Assembly Debates New Anti-Strike Measures

Paris, Dec. 1 (AP) — The entire [illegible] subway system was halted shortly after [illegible] today by an [illegible] power shut-off ordered [illegible] France by the light and power [illegible] the National Assembly [illegible] new anti-strike emergency [illegible].

(Reuters News A[illegible]ed, meanwhile, that [illegible] Confederation of La[illegible] announced in a commu[illegible] that negotiations with the government aimed at ending the widespread strikes had broken down "completely.")

Thousands of persons were stranded by the shutdown, which the Ministry of Industrial Production finally announced had become 100 per cent effective after it had struggled throughout the morning to keep a few trains moving.

The power strike was called in a country-wide attempt to halt all industry and force Premier Schuman's week-old coalition cabinet to accede to the wage demands of the Communist-dominated General Confederation of Labor.

Schuman, who won the National Assembly's approval last night of his decision to call up 80,000 more reservists to maintain order in France, went before the assembly again today to seek approval of the remainder of his emergency measures.

The session became tumultuous. Communist benches inter[illegible] government speakers with [illegible] and exchanged violent [illegible] sallies with Rightist [illegible].

The assembly session was suspended for two hours at 1 p.m. [illegible] the tumult grew so loud [illegible] neither the chairman nor the [illegible] could be heard.

Authority Given.

Authority to call additional men to the colors was voted by the Assembly 408 to 184 last night after a session which lasted 35½ hours. Only the Communists voted against the measure, which would bring to 300,000 men the number added to the army since the current strike crisis and attendant disorders broke out two weeks ago.

The troop call originally was included in the anti-strike legislation, but the government agreed to separate the measures at the requests of the assembly's legislative commission. Use of the troops for police purposes was limited to a period of six months. The Assembly reconvened at 10 a.m. to resume debate on the strike curbs less than eight hours after it rose from its near-record sitting.

Police, reinforced by troops, fought scattered disorders last night throughout the country. These included an attack on a Paris telephone exchange by a group of 200 persons, describing themselves as Communists, who interrupted service for five hours

Secretaries List Chief Dislikes

Albany, N.Y., Dec. 1 (AP)—Secretaries turned on their bosses today with a "what-we-don't like" list, headed by last-minute typing jobs at quitting time.

Other major peeves of female secretaries, compiled in a poll of 1,000 business college graduates:

The mumbler—"Phlubbs and flunks his dictation."

The Wolf—"An invitation to dinner and then .... all very harmless, he insists."

The secretaries agreed that the ideal boss should be married, about 40, six feet tall, well-groomed, and one who treats his secretary like "a responsible, grown-up responsible business associate."

CIVIC ELECTIONS BEING HELD IN MANY CITIES

Many Voters Confronted With Votes on Municipal Bond Issues

(By The Canadian Press)

In clear cold weather thousands of voters visited the polls today in Ontario municipalities. Among larger cities holding annual civic elections today are Windsor, Sarnia, Chatham, London, Brantford, Guelph, St. Thomas, Kitchener and Peterborough.

Mayoralty contests in London, Chatham and Brantford highlighted the elections which generally had been conducted briskly but quietly. Several mayors and many other candidates had been returned by acclamations in nominations previously.

At Brantford Mayor John H. Matthews is opposed in his bid for a third term by Ald. Walter J. Dowden. Chathams Mayor R. D. Steele is opposed by Ald. Garnet Newkirk in his effort to gain a fourth term. At London there are five candidates for the mayoralty held by George Wenige, including Mr. Wenige. The others are Fred G. McAlister, who was mayor in 1946, Ald. R. A. Dennis, Morris Gootson and Angelo Pinta.

As usual voters in many centres were confronted with votes on municipal bond issues for civic improvements. At St Thomas there is a proposal to rebuild the Wilson Bridge at a cost of $275,000, to erect a new school at a cost of $225,000 and to build a new trunk sewer at a cost of $125,000.

APPOINTMENT MADE

Kingston, Dec. 1 (CP) — Rt. Rev. John Lyons, Anglican Bishop for the Diocese of Ontario, today announced the appointment of Rev. C. P. Heaven as rector of the parish of Wellington and Hillier.

At present rector of the Shannonville parish Mr. Heaven will take over his new duties Dec 15, succeeding Rev. E. N. Grant who has been named to the parish of Maitland.

THREE FATALITIES IN THE DISTRICT DURING WEEKEND

Two Highway Deaths, Girl is Found Dead

Twenty-year-old A. Leslie Smart, Deseronto Indian, was instantly killed Saturday night when struck by a heavy transport as he was walking on the side of the highway just west of Deseronto. His father A. Alexander Smart, was injured and is suffering from a broken collar bone, head lacerations and leg injuries.

The father and son were walking east toward Deseronto on the south side of the highway when an eastbound transport owned by the Reliable Transport of Kitchener and driven by Reginald Rintoul of Kitchener struck the younger man.. Driver told police that he had been blinded by the lights of an oncoming car and did not see the two pedestrians.

A preliminary inquest looking into the death was held by Coroner Dr. J. Russell Scott of Belleville, the hearing being adjourned until December 10th. Provincial Constable Sam Ervine investigated.

Call 2793 For Election Returns

As is its usual custom, The Ontario Intelligencer will provide telephone service for its readers following the civic elections today.

An augmented staff will be on duty in the editorial rooms tonight to relay returns as they come in from the official offices at the City Hall.

Call 2793 instead of, as in other years, 99. But please do not call before eight o'clock. The polls close at 7 p.m., and the first returns will not be available until an hour later. Remember the number, 2793.

VETERAN PRINTER SERVED 65 YEARS AT TRADE

Whitby, Ont., Dec. 1 — (CP)— A well-known Whitby citizen and resident here for most of his 78 years, William Edward Rice, veteran printer, died in nearby Oshawa hospital Sunday following a brief illness.

Mr. Rice had been associated with the printing and publishing business for 60 years and at the time of his retirement last June was considered one of the oldest printers in the Dominion, with 65 years' experience. In 1881 he was apprenticed in the office of the Whitby Chronicle, then under the proprietorship of A. G. Henderson and Samuel Graham.

U.S. Armed Forces Work to Protect Civilians From Atomic, Germ Attack

Washington, Dec. 1 (AP) — United States armed forces are working on plans to protect the civilian populaton from the two newest and deadliest forms of warfare — atomic and germ attack.

The report of a five-man board of generals on civil defence of the United States, a project originally started as an army study, has been completed. After perusal by the navy, air force and other interested agencies, it has been turned over to Defence Secretary James Forrestal.

The report at present is classified as secret. It is understood, however, that part of the bulky document is concerned with explaining the problems involved and the possible fundamental changes in laws and national economy needed to set up a program for protection against modern mass destruction methods.

Such questions as the dispersal of industry and populations to reduce casualties arising from atomic and bacteriological warfare should not properly be the decision of the armed forces, military men point out.

The specific methods of coping with an A-bomb attack, the spreading of poisonous radioactive materials by air or the equally stealthy technique of attack on men, animals and plants by bacteriological means are part of the research activities of the army, navy, air force and other agencies including the Atomic Energy commission, the public health service and the agriculture department.

A mantle of secrecy surpassing that surrounding the atomic bomb has been thrown about the subject of bacteriological warfare by the commands of the armed forces.

However, those familiar with the project point to at least three major factors to be considered in defence against germ warfare:

1. Early detection of the planting of toxic agents in the air, in water supplies, in crops, among livestock.

2. Immunization (if the agent is such that immunization is possible) against spread by epidemic from the deliberately-planted source of infection.

3. Allaying of panic created either by the actual dissemination of germs or by the mere rumor that such a secret attack by an enemy has been made.

Six Named in Injunction And $100,000 Damage Suit By Corbin Lock Company

Announcement was made today that the Corbin Lock Company, Ltd., of this city has entered suit for $100,000 damages against six persons at present in this city for "damages inflicted upon the plaintiff, its business, and property through acts of violence and by causing, promoting and furthering an illegal strike and illegal picketing at, and doing structural injury to the plaintiff's plant at Belleville".

Named in the suit are Messrs. Ross Russell, Neville Hamblyn, Jefferson Hurley, John Whalen, Carl Wannamaker and Fred Day.

In addition, the announcement stated, the Corbin Lock Company has applied for and been issued with an injunction restraining the defendants and each of them, their servants, agents, associates, and any one acting under their instructions, and any one assisting or aiding them from interfering with, or preventing the access of the plaintiff's officers, employees, servants, agents and contractors to the plaintiff's property and from committing acts of damage to the said property and for an interim injunction for the aforesaid purposes.

The injunction issued in the Supreme Court of Ontario by Mr. Justice McFarland at Osgoode Hall on Saturday, November 29, states that the "Court doth order that the defendants and each of them, their servants, agents, associates and any one acting under their instructions and any one assisting or aiding them be and they are hereby restrained until the third day of December, 1947, and until any motion which may on that day be made to continue this injunction shall have been disposed of, from interfering with or preventing the access of the plaintiff's officers, employees, agents and contractors to the plaintiff's property and from committing acts of damage to the said property."

A full-page advertisement in this newspaper today carries the statement that the plant will reopen Tuesday morning.

Homeless Men's Hostel Burns Six Known Dead, 38 Injured

Philadelphia, Dec. 1 (AP) — Six men, some employed as street corner Santa Clauses, were known dead today, several others were believed missing and more than 30 were injured following a fire which swept through a dormitory for homeless men.

Flames whipped through the four-storey building early today and some of the victims were killed or injured in leaping from second and third floor rooms.

Thirty-eight men were treated in hospitals and doctors described a number of them as in critical condition.

Thomas P. Burns, assistant superintendent of police, said that several hours after the blaze was brought under control, 51 men had been accounted for, including the six bodies removed to the city morgue.

This left ten or more still missing from among the 61 or more believed by night watchman William Patterson to have been in the building.

The blaze was first discovered by Patterson at 12.04 a.m. and he ran through first and second floors shouting the alarm. Fanned by a high wind, the flames spread rapidly through the four-storey brick building.

Reporter Charles Berry, one of the first to reach the scene, said he saw "four or five men jump from the second and third floors of the building."

"Several men were hanging at arm's length from window sills," Berry said, "and then let go despite the fact that by then firemen had ladders raised.

"One man was discovered a half hour later standing on the roof." Major Thomas J. Strickland, head of the Charity Organization Volunteers of America, Inc., rushed to the scene to direct rescue work. He estimated damage at $50,000.

Volunteers of America used the first floor of the building for a shop in which new and repaired toys were sold during Christmas season. Second and third floors were dorimtories for homeless men, many of whom worked as street-corner Santa Clauses, collecting donations for charity.

Princess Invites Galt Woman To Tea Party

London, Dec. 1 (CP) — Mrs. Robert Bracey, wife of a Galt sectionman, has accepted an invitation from Princess Elizabeth to attend a tea party at Buckingham Palace Dec. 16, Canada House announced today.

The invitation was the second extended by the Princess — and this time Mrs. Bracey will be there on time. The grey-haired Galt housewife was first invited to London by the Princess to attend a reception at St. James's Palace on the eve of the Royal wedding, given for persons from various walks of life who sent wedding gifts.

But Mrs. Bracey missed the party by a few hours. Travelling with 16-year-old Betty Joyce White of Winnipeg who had sent a gift of nylon stockings, Mrs. Bracey arrived in Britain hours late because of adverse weather conditions on their flight across the Atlantic.

Mrs. Bracey was disappointed because she could not see her gift — a tatting bedspread on which she had worked eight years.

Says He Was Forced By Wife to Sleep in Car

Baltimore, Dec. 1. (AP) — Louis Dascenzo obtained a warrant charging his wife with assault and testified in court she hit him with a shoe, dumped him out of bed, shoved him downstairs, and forced him to spend the night in his automobile.

Hamilton Dealers Warned of Bogus $100 Bills

Hamilton, Dec. 1. (CP)—Hamilton merchants were warned today to be on he look-out for counterfeit $100 bills which may be in circulation here following recent discovery of a ring. Cpl. Eugene Touchie, R.C M.P., who issued the warning, said that police had so far been unable to locate the spot where bills had been photographed on bonded paper and turned out on paper similar to legitimate bills. However, he did not believe the bogus bills were in circulation here.

When one of the counterfeiters was picked up in Hamilton, he was carrying 10 of the bogus bills. He was sentenced to Kingston Penitentiary. Another of the gang was arrested in Kirkland Lake, and a third in Montreal. One of the culprits told police they possessed more than $35,000 in the counterfeit currency.

It had been the intention of the gang at first to purchase high grade ore at a mining centre. After the transaction had been completed, high graders would have been out of pocket and the counterfeiters could have unloaded gold.

DEAN BROTHERS AND BROWN SISTERS FOUND ASPHYXIATED IN CAR

Sutton, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP)— The Dean brothers had a "double date" with the Brown sisters, but all had an appointment with death. The bodies of the four young persons were found yesterday in an automobile filled with gas fumes, police reported. Authorities said the gas evidently seeped from a broken exhaust pipe.

CIGARET PRICES INCREASED TWO CENTS PACKAGE

Basic Price in Future Will be 35 Cents

Montreal, Dec. 1 (CP) — Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada today announced that the price of cigarets will be increased by two cents for each package of 20.

The announcement by company president Earle Spafford, said that the basic price will in future be 35 cents a package instead of 33 cents.

Mr. Spafford's announcement said the company had "no alternative but to increase the price" because "the cost of everything entering into the manufacture of cigarets had increased very materially, in some cases such as labor costs and leaf costs to the extent of 100 per rcent."

Cigarets still were selling at the old price here today and tobacco store salesmen said they believed the lower figure would be retained on old stock.

There was no immediate announcement by other tobacco companies but it was believed here that they would follow the Imperial Tobacco company lead.

Three Young Men Are Remanded

Toronto, Dec. 1 — (CP)—Three Ontario men, held on charges of conspiring to steal and having offensive weapons, today were remanded to Dec. 8, after being questioned by police in connection with the murder last Nov. 4 of Ralph Margeson, 32-year-old taxi driver. A native of Rockland N. S., Margeson was shot to death on the city's western outskirts, his body being thrown into a ditch.

The men, Douglas Pollock, 18, of Windsor; Walter Stockdale, 19, of Burlington, and Basil Faulkner 19, of King Kirkland, were arrested over the weekend as police continued their investigation into the cabbie's death. Faulkner was reported to have not been armed at the time of arrest but two .45-calibre revolvers and a "throwing knife" were found on the other men.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Dec. 1 —(CP)— Synopsis: A weak disturbance swept across James Bay during the night. Southwesterly winds ahead of the storm centre caused moderating temperatures throughout the province. Temperatures are above freezing at some Northern Ontario districts this morning. Cooler air which is pushing southward behind the disturbance will cover the White River and Kirkland Lake regions during the Day. Elsewhere over Ontario temperatures will rise to the mid-30s this afternoon. Gale warnings have been lowered on Lake Superior but remain displayed on the other Great Lakes.

Increasing Worry Shown by Britons Of Hunger Before Next Year's Crop

London, Dec. 1 (AP) — Britons showed increasing worry today over a possibility that they may become really hungry before next summer's food crops flow into the stores.

Doctors, clergymen and newspapers expressed fear that the food shortage may bring on diseases and cut workers' energy enough to hamper the country's "produce-for-recovery" industrial drive.

Geoffrey Cox, political correspondent of the Liberal News Chronicle, reported that many Labor members of parliament and some members of the government are urging the sale of more of Britain's reduced foreign investments to buy food abroad.

Government spokesmen would neither confirm nor deny that such a course might be taken, but the treasury announced today it had sold £48,000,000 ($192,000,000) of its gold reserves in November and bought $60,000,000 from the international monetary fund.

Cox pictured Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, as holding out against sale of foreign investments, which bring Britain an annual income of foreign currency estimated to equal $600,000,000.

said to be leading the ministers urging the sale on the grounds that reduced rations might produce a serious black market as well as set up the vicious circle

Food Minister Strachey was of less food, lower production, fewer exports and still less food.

Meantime, next year's crops already were threatened.

Drought delayed plowing in many of the richest British agricultural areas and now, with much of the work unfinished, freezing weather has set in to prevent catching up.

The drought, following snow and floods last winter, cut this year's crops so heavily that potatoes had to be rationed at three pounds weekly per person.

Partition Decision Causes Threat Of More Trouble

Britain Proposes To Quit Palestine by Aug. 1

Jerusalem, Dec. 1 (AP)—Weekend violence aroused by the United Nations decision to partition Palestine has resulted in the deaths of eight Jews and the threat of more trouble tomorrow during a large demonstration planned to start a three-day Arab general strike.

Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham, British High Commissioner, and Hussein Khalidi, Secretary of the Arab Higher Committee which called for the country-wide strike, conferred on the explosive situation.

A communique said Khalidi was advised that Britain proposes to quit Palestine "before Aug. 1, 1948, but that the British army and civil officials propose to maintain law and order until the withdrawal is completed. Sir Alan warned the Arab committee against any action "contrary to this policy." The bulletin said proposals for the recurity of Jews in predominately Arab areas were discussed.

Arab sources said the demonstration at the start of the three-day strike would be held tomorrow inside the old city of Jerusalem and "there may be trouble."

The latest death reported was that of an oriental Jew, said to have been shot to death near the Damascus gate of Jerusalem by a group of Arabs. Police denied reports that three Arabs had been killed in the Jewish sectors of Jerusalem.

The executive committee urged Arabs to intensify their boycott of Jewish goods and labelled "any association with Jews high treason and a crime against country and religion." The committee termed Saturday, when the U.N. voted for partition, "a day of mouring and tyranny."

First signs of Arab violence developed Sunday when seven Jews were killed and 16 others wounded as buses were riddled by gunfire and streets raked by shots in Jaffa.

Five Jews lost their lives and 14 were wounded—eight seriously —in two machine-gun and grenade attacks on buses travelling the Petah Tiqva road —southeast of Tel Aviv.

Another Jew was shot to death in the Arab city of Jaffa near the Tel Aviv municipal boundary.

The driver of the first bus, in which four passengers lost their lives, said three Arabs opened fire from an orange grove after two other Arabs stood in the road to halt the vehicle. Eight Jews were wounded.

Another bus, passing the same spot a half hour later, was attacked by gunfire and grenades and one Jewish woman was killed. Six other passengers were injured.

Attacks on eight other buses were reported last night, seven of them in Haifa and one in Jerusalem. There was one casualty, an Arab policeman, wounded in Haifa when he investigated an attack on one of the buses.

Meanwhile at Acre prison in northern Palestine 16 Arabs were wounded slightly when guards opened fire on Arab prisoners attacking Jews.

Reliable Jewish informants said that Hagana, Jewish underground army estimated to have between 50,000 and 70,000 members, called for mobilization of all men and women from 13 to 25 beginning Dec. 5 for special "security" ranks. Hagana also was reported to have called for all men 25 to 45 to enlist for "home guard duty" to protect communities.

SEVEN ARE KILLED PLANE MISSES SEATTLE RUNWAY

Blind Woman Trapped as Air Transport Smashes Auto on Road

Seattle, Dec. 1 — (UP)—Seven persons were killed and 10 others critically injured when a four-engined Alaska Airlines transport overshot a runway yesterday at the Seattle-Tacoma airport and smashed a passing automobile.

Twenty-six of the 28 aboard the big plane scrambled from door and emergency exits or were pulled from the flames by rescuers. All, however, were seared by the flames that flashed through the fuselage. Five of the rescued died later.

The latest casualty was the plane's stewardess, Miss Reba Monk, credited by survivors with having led many of the passengers to safety.

The other dead were Fred Smith, who died eight hours after the crash; Leslie Howe, 33, died in hospital; Ole Ring, died of burns and injuries; Mrs. Virginia Stitsworth, 33, entertainer known professionally as Virginia Grafton; Gordon Johnson, 21-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Johnson, Palmer, Alaska; Mrs. Pearl Stella Jones, 43.

Mrs. Jones, a blind woman, was trapped in the car which the big transport smashed as it careened off the field.

Several Not Expected to Live

Ten others of the plane's passengers and crew members were in critical condition. Several were not expected to live.

Bodies of two of the dead were not recovered until nearly four hours after the crash because of intense heat emitting from the wreckage.

The plane, a DC-4, crashed only a few minutes after it had been turned back by fog from an attempted landing at Seattle's Boeing Field.

Mrs. Jones was riding with a neighbor, Ira Von Volkenburg, when the plane came plunging down a steep bank and swept the car across the road. Von Volkenburg said he escaped by kicking out a window and then groped in the smashed car without finding Mrs. Jones. He was driven away seconds later as the plane burst into flames, followed by an explosion.

CUSTOMS RETURNS INCREASE $97,047

Custom returns at the Belleville office for the month of November totalled $707,671.61, and compared with $610,523.81 for the same period in 1946. This is an increase of $97,047.80 for the month.

70-YEAR-OLD TAKES BATH EVERY DAY IN THE LAKE

A bath a day keeps the doctor away, to paraphrase an old adage, appears to be the health slogan of Mr. Daniel Frame, 70-year-old Toronto resident who with Mrs. Frame returned to their city home a few days ago after spending the past seven months in their summer home on Roblin's Lake, Ameliasburg.

Mr. Frame makes it a practice of taking a dip in the waters of the lake daily and has maintained this practice for a number of years. He claims it is both "refreshing and invigorating" and good for one's health.

VEHICLES DAMAGED

Damage amounting to approximately $200 resulted this morning to a station wagon and an auto when the two vehicles were in collision at the intersection of Catharine and Everett Streets. Percy Gryce, R.R. 2, Belleville, was driving east on Catharine St., in a station wagon owned by Bishop's Seed Store, when a car northbound on Everett Street, and driven by F. Parrott failed to stop at the intersection. Damage to the car included a smashed fender, dented door and running board, while lights and grill of the Jeep were damaged. No person was injured in the accident.

Belleville Group Conducts Program Trenton Meeting

The Christian Youth Fellowship of this city held their November meeting on Saturday evening in the Church of The Nazarene, Trenton. A capacity audience enjoyed the program of music, testimony and inspiration presented by the Belleville group. Principal speaker of the evening was Miss Audrey Gerrie, whose theme "The Way of Salvation," was interestingly delineated through the medium of sketching board and chalk.

Basing her remarks on the words of Jesus to His disciples, "I am the way, the truth and the life," Miss Gerrie depicted a cross representing the Way, through the shed blood of Christ; the Bible, which contained the Truth; a well from which flowed the "living water," which Jesus referred to in His conversation with the woman of Samaria.

Only by having complete trust in Jesus could one become a "living water" Christian, said the speaker. She warned against selfishness, unbelief and works without faith, which tended to produce the "stagnant pool" type of Christian, whose source of spiritual power was dammed and clogged, by those hindering things. It was not enough to be moral, to attend church, or to perform good works, asserted Miss Gerrie, for without the shedding of blood there was no remission of sins. If we will confess our sins He is willing to forgive us our sins and cleanse us from all unrighteousness.

The opening prayer was given by Gordon Brown. Sincere words of welcome and appreciation were voiced by Mr. Crowder, pastor of the Trenton church. Eric Naylor, chairman of the Fellowship, conducted the meeting with characteristic charm and sincerity. Scripture was read by Alan Haw and words of personal testimony were expressed by Margaret Sullivan and Margaret Atyeo.

Gifts in song by the chorus and octet, under the direction of Stan Lessels, were very effectively rendered and gladly received by the audience. The numbers included "Fairest Lord Jesus," "All Hail Immanuel" and "You Must Believe." Gordon Brown contributed a violin solo, "Trusting Jesus," and a march from the Salvation Army Band repertory was played by the instrumental quintet. Margaret Atyeo capably performed the duties of pianist.

Acclamation Given Madoc Reeve, Council

Madoc (Special) — Reeve George West received an acclamation for the reeveship of the village of Madoc at the nominations meeting held in the village town hall on Friday night.

Also given an acclamation were last year's council which includes village councillors Jack Kincaid, Wesley Hulin, Philip Rivers and Jud. McGowan. Mr. Percy Derry was nominated for council but withdrew his name. Mr. Kincaid received a nomination for the reeveship but did not allow his name to stand.

Dr. S. R. Beatty, was the meeting's unanimous choice for the office of hydro commissioner.

Discuss French Crisis

Paul Ramadier, right, who resigned the French premiership in the wake of nation - wide Red - inspired strikes, is pictured chatting with his successor, Robert Schuman, at the first meeting of the new French cabinet in Paris. The nation is slowly being strangled by labor strikes, and the new premier has appealed to all Frenchmen to return to their jobs.

Advent Season Is Marked by Special Services

The beginning of the season of Advent was marked by special services in Christ Church early in the morning, the adult branches of the Woman's Auxiliary made their communion and offered special prayers for missions, following the example of St. Andrew who was the first disciple to win another for Christ. Breakfast in the Parish Hall followed at which the Rector, J. Grant Sparling, spoke on the International Missionary Conference at Whitby.

At 11 a.m., the Scouts of the parish in charge of Mr. Alfred Cooper, and the Wolf Cubs in charge of Mrs. Kemp attended morning prayer in a body. The first lesson was read by Patrol Leader Kenneth Moore, and the second by Sixer Philip Stewart. Other Scouters on parade included Jos. Burshaw and Baloos Dorothy Little and Jean Lamb. The service was conducted by the Reverend Everett P. Smith, with the rector delivering an Advent message from the text in Romans 14:11 "Awake, Thou That Sleepest."

The choir under the direction of Mr. Arthur Simpson and Mr. Kaye Martin sang Purcell's "Rejoice in the Lord", for an anthem, featuring a trio of men in the solo section, Arthur Young, Lionel Blaker and Alfred Evans.

The Reverend J. M. Brownlie rector of St. Paul's Church, Marmora, was the special preacher at evensong. A fine evangelical sermon was delivered from the text "And She Said Within Herself, if I but Touch the hem of His Garment, I shall be Whole."

SAILING FROM KENYA TO BRITAIN

Mombasa, Kenya, Dec. 1 (Reuters) — Three South Africans in their early 20's, passed through here during the weekend on the first phase of an 8,000 mile journey to London in a 27-foot sailing boat. Starting from the Seychelle Islands in the Indian Ocean, Ben Miller, the skipper, hopes to reach the Thames in a few months, although the journey has never been made in such a fragile craft.

Picton

Anniversary Services Held by Salvation Army

Picton — Anniversary services were held by the local Salvation Army over the weekend. Special speakers were Col. and Mrs. Arch Layman and Brig. and Mrs. Newman.

Saturday night a meeting was held in the S. A. citadel, Brownie Mary Young gave greetings; Major B. Ritchie, a welcome; vocal and instrumental music by the Young People's Singing Company; piano selections, Miss Earline McCutcheon.

Sunday afternoon a service was held in the theatre. Belleville S.A. Band gave a concert. Col. Layman was the speaker. Hon. J. dec. Hepburn, Mayor L. Netnery, Warden D. Thompson, Reeve J. C. Cooper spoke briefly.

Col. Layman and Brig. Newman addressed services in the citadel.

Monday night, a women's rally is being held in the citadel. Taking part are Mrs. Layman, Mrs. Captain Greenwood, Mrs. R. Warren, Mrs. Curtis Stanton, Mrs. C. Walters, Mrs. Brig. Newman, Trenton Home League.

Drama Presented

The Collegiate hall was filled to capacity Friday night when the school's Drama Club presented two one-act plays. They were — "Who Gets the Car Tonight" and "Glamour". Both were well enacted. Next Friday night Commencement will be held.

Dr. Glen Shortliffe of Queen's University was guest speaker at Bloomfield Men's Association banquet, Friday night.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church W. A. held a successful tea and bazaar in the Parish Hall on Saturday. The hall was loaned by the Anglican Church since the Presbyterian Church was destroyed by fire. The Presbyterians held service Sunday afternoon in the Anglican Church.

Sir Thomas Picton Chapter I. O. D. E. held a tag day on Saturday. Money will be used to send food parcels to Britain. Baskets were placed in local stores and many donations of canned goods received. Mrs. S. J. Collier was convener.

Colorful Parade

A typical winter setting was provided by nature for Saturday's colorful Santa Claus parade. Light, downy snow all morning ceased at noon and a bright sun shone as two miles of floats, bands, costumes and other entries travelled from Bloomfield, five miles, distant to Picton, and through the town. Though slippery roads kept many from a distance away, a crowd estimated at 12,00 ooh-ed and ah-ed as the royal welcome for Santa passed by. At the Armories, more than 2,500 children greeted Santa and were given old-fashioned candy canes by the Chamber of Commerce.

Music was provided by the Air Cadet bugle band of Kingston and by Picton band which wore colorful red and gold outfits.

There were 120 imported costumes, including all kinds of animals, long-necked clowns, dancing girls and story-book characters.

One float included a cage containing 20 valuable pups worth $1,000. A bakery had two Aunt Jemimas cooking on a rickety stove. A huge black shoe filled with children represented the Old Woman who lived in a shoe. An Alaskan float was in silver with big snow ball and cast in parkas.

A laundry showed washing methods of 1847 and 1947. A feed display was followed by cows, horses and pigs. A snow queen drove a horse on a decorated carriage. Several children rode handsome horses. Gary Gardiner drove his pony on a decorated outfit, a clown adding to the fun. A man dressed as a lady pushed a baby carriage with a beer - drinking babe. The Community Centre float depicted all kinds of winter sports. Decorated bicycles added a splash of color. Many children wore original costumes and received boxes of chocolates and theatre tickets. An evergreen-covered truck had a Christmas theme as did that of a florist. Mayor L. Nethery and Reeve H. Cleave of Bloomfield rode in open car. School children rode on a float singing carols.

Phil Dodds was chairman; Don Thomas in charge of costumes; A. F. Brown and A. W. Hensman, judging of children's classes; Don Baxter and Creighton Lockyer, parade starters; H. Hyatt and R. Heffer, Santa float; Colin Carter, treats.

OBITUARY

LATE SAMUEL BUSH (Madoc Township)

Madoc, Dec. 1 (Special) — The funeral of Samuel Bush of Madoc township who died in the Belleville General Hospital on Sunday, Nov. 23rd, after suffering injuries when hit by a motor car a week previous to his death, was held from the Duffin Funeral Chapel, Madoc, on Wednesday last to Hazzard's United Church where service was conducted by the Rev. J. Smith, Rector of St. John's Anglican Church, Madoc, who also said the committal prayers at the graveside in Hazzard's cemetery.

The funeral was under the auspices of Hazzard's Orange Lodge No. 1133 and members were present from Madoc, Queensboro, West Huntingdon, Cooper and Eldorado lodges. The bearers were Charles Keene, George Ketcheson, William Tennyson, Benjamin Miller, Mark Howard and Ken. Burris.

The late Mr. Bush was born in Madoc township and was in his 81st. year. He was a son of the late Samuel Bush and his wife the late Mary Ryder. TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Dec. 1 (CP).—Price trends were mixed in quiet early session trade on the stock exchange today as industrials and base metals improved moderately while golds eased off. Stocks traded fairly widely in small-lot turnover.

Volume for the first three hours was 420,000 shares. about 2,000 less than Friday's similar period.

Industrial price range was largely fractional although Algoma Steel was up a point and Argus Pfd. down one. Bertram "A" lost 1½, Canadian Oil Pfd. 1¾, International Metal lost one.

Senior golds moved narrowly mildly down while better juniors were Dulama, Eldona, Giant, Hosco, Macassa, Malartic, Sullivan, Starratt, Richmac and Pamour. Base metals advanced for Smelters, East Sullivan, Eureka, Labrador, Steep Rock and Sherritt.

Some Milk Distributors Fear Drop In Consumption if Price's too High

(By The Canadian Press)

Although most Ontario milk distributors today increased the retail milk price the two-cent-per-quart maximum permitted by an Ontario Milk Board ruling last week, many in Western Ontario held firm to their decision to increase it only a cent.

Distributors at these centres—including Kitchener, Galt, London, Waterloo, Guelph, Woodstock, St. Thomas, Stratford, Tillsonburg, Strathroy, Listowel, Aylmer and Harriston—feared a drop in milk consumption if prices go too high.

But producers, faced by mounting costs, urged action, Said Bert Hughes, president of London District Producers: "We are ready for a fight to have the two-cent increase enforced and will not back up for anything."

Two-cent increases were announced at Toronto, Sarnia, Owen Sound, St. Catharines, Oshawa, Niagara Falls, Goderich, Kingston, Cornwall, Brantford, Peterborough, Sault Ste. Marie and Timmins. At two of these points, Brantford and Timmins, the new price per quart will be 19 cents.

Toronto and Sault Ste. Marie consumers will pay 18 cents, St. Catharines, Niagara Falls and Goderich 17½ and the others 17.

One Ontario point held firm as Palmerston distributors decided to keep milk at its present 15 cents a quart.

Argument between producers and distributors continued at a number of points. At Hamilton a Board of Arbitration was set up to fix an equitable price. At Kitchener, producers announced a meeting this week would discuss the matter and said they would fight for the 55-cent-a-hundredweight increase for whole milk awarded by the Ontario board. Waterloo County producers at present receive $3.35 a hundredweight.

In Essex County, where producers are asking an increase from the present $3.55 to $4.96, which would raise the price to consumers from 16 to 20 cents a quart, a deadline for agreement was extended. If no agreement is reached the matter will go before the Ontario Milk Control Board for arbitration.

Canadians Win Most of Top Grain Awards

Chicago, Dec. 1 —(CP)— Canadian exhibitors today, held most of the top grain awards, including wheat, oats and barley championships, at the 48th annual International Livestock Exposition.

Competing against entries from 32 states and three Canadian provinces, S. J. Allsop of Red Deer, Alta., last night won the coveted "Wheat King" title of North America, deposing Mrs. Amy Kelsey of Erickson, B.C., diminutive farm wife who was crowned "Wheat Queen" last year and is the only woman ever to win the title.

The 33-year-old Allsop, who has been exhibiting wheat at the exposition since 1932 and was Wheat King in 1934, won with his sample of Reward variety of hard red spring wheat, judged finest among the 3,000 choice samples in the show. His victory marked the 14th time a Canadian has won the wheat crown during the last 25 years.

Mrs. Kelsey's 1947 entry placed second in the hard red spring wheat class.

The new oats crown went to Alex M. Stewart and Son of Ailsa Craig, Ont. The Stewart entry, a Beaver variety of early oats, was selected from a crop of 800 bushels grown this year.

Other Canadian entries winning honors were:

D. E. McEwen, London, Ont., as only exhibitor in the native lambs under 85 pounds class, was awarded first prize.

The team from the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph placed sixth in points among 20 entries in the collegiate livestock judging contest. The Canadian team was 13th in hogs and fourth in cattle.

H. E. McGill of O.A.C. placed fifth in the competition involving individual members of the teams.

Walter J. Harpel, of Crawfordsville, Ind., was crowned Corn King when his 10-ear sample of Yellow Dent Hybrid 844D was selected as the best in the show. His success brought the corn title to Indiana for the 20th time.

Chambers Appeal Is Dismissed

Toronto, Dec. 1 (CP).—The Ontario Court of Appeal today dismissed the appeal of Sydney George Chambers against his second conviction and death sentence for murder in the slaying last Christmas of nine-year-old Marion Rusnak of St. Catharines. He was sentenced in St. Catharines at his second trial to be hanged Dec. 8.

Little Marion Rusnak disappeared Dec. 23, 1946, and the Crown alleged that Chambers, night watchman at a St. Catharines canning plant, lured her to his room in the factory, smothered her, and threw her body in a furnace. Her body was not found.

Chambers was convicted and sentenced to be hanged on his first trial, but on appeal won re-trial. The second in October again resulted in conviction and death sentence.

Defence counsel argued before appeal court last week that the Crown had not proved death beyond a reasonable doubt. He attacked validity of a confession made by Chambers which was admitted at his trials. In the first appeal, the court found it was not necessary to prove a corpus delecti for prosecution of a murder charge.

Business Spotlight:

Stock Markets Reflect Pressure Of Uncertainties

(By The Canadian Press)

North American business concluded November with uncertain looks at Europe's industrial and political troubles; the unpredictable outcome of the Big Four Foreign Secretaries' meeting in London; the special session of the United States Congress dealing with internal inflation and European aid; and, in Canada, import restrictions designed to reduce the outflow of United States dollars.

Stock markets reflected the pressure of uncertainties by drifting downward, despite dividend declarations and extra disbursements from unprecedented high earnings. Recent annual statements of 24 Canadian companies representative of nearly all sections of business—utilities, steels, agriculture, foods, liquors—showed profit increases over the preceding year ranging from 4.1 to 158.4 per cent.

Failure of markets to respond to good earnings was said by many to reflect belief that earnings have reached peaks, and that with buyer countries imposing import restrictions, exports from producing countries may decline. Counteracting this was the expected implementation of the Marshall Plan which, in its vast $16,000,000,000 or more aid to Europe might be expected to take up any slack.

High Activity In Canada

Carloadings for the week ending Nov. 22 increased to 86,508 from 82,508 the previous week. Canadian tobacco stocks at Sept. 30 were up 26.3 per cent from a year ago. Payments of $1,900,000 by the Alberta wheat pool in the six months ended Sept. 30 wiped out the pool's indebtedness to the provincial government.

October figures:

Department store dollar sales up 12 per cent over October, 1946, with average increases for the first 10 months of the year at 15 per cent.

More motor vehicles financed than in any month since September, 1941.

Employment:

Unplaced applicants Nov. 13 was 35,000 lower than a year ago. Ontario manufacturing plants report capacity operation with 60,000 more employed than a year ago, and some plants putting in night shifts to increase output.

Youths Accused Of Slugging, Robbing Taximan

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Dec. 1 (CP) — Three youths were held last night, accused of slugging and robbing Peter Lorenzi, 38-year-old local taxi driver Saturday. Police rounded them up in a hunt that covered Espanola, Blind River and Webbwood.

The trio: C. Morpaw, 20, of Perth; A. McFarlane, 21, of Lanark; and D. A. Calford, 21, of Espanola; will appear in court today on robbery with violence charges. Lorenzi was struck on the head with the back of a knife in an attack by three men who beat him up, robbed him of $100 and left him in bush near Walford, 125 miles east of here, after wrecking his taxi.

CHIANG'S SON TO SUPERVISE ANTI-INFLATION PROGRAM

Shanghai, Dec. 1 (AP)—Chiang Kai-Shek's eldest son, Maj.-Gen. Chiang Ching-Kuo, will supervise Shanghai's anti-inflation program, the Chinese press reported today. Meanwhile on the black market the excxhange rate of the Chinese dollar dropped from a ratio of 140,000 to the dollar to 125,000 to the dollar.

Looking Ahead in Ottawa

Price Ceilings Likely To Remain Until Next Pack is Harvested

By the Ottawa Staff of The Canadian Press

Ottawa, Dec. 1 —(CP)— The expectation in this capital is that the recently-imposed price ceilings on the more important varieties of canned fruits and vegetables will remain in force until the new pack comes to the market sometime next summer or fall.

This also would apply for the wholesalers' and retailers' markups being put back again on fresh fruits and vegetables and canned fruit juices.

This does not necessarily mean, however, that the ceilings will be removed in one order. The harvesting seasons for fruits and vegetables vary from early summer to late September and the packs of each variety consequently reach the market at different times.

Thus, it is likely that the removal of ceilings will come at various dates timed to meet the appearance of the new pack.

Economic Restrictions

Considerable speculation also is arising as to the probable date for the removal of the import restrictions and outright prohibitions announced recently under the government's dollar-saving program.

It has been noted that quota schedules being drawn up under the program have March 31, 1948, as their expiry date, thus leading to suggestions that the restrictions would be short-term in character. However, official sources have explained that this date is used only because it marks the end of the country's fiscal year.

Basically, the life of the restrictions, which are aimed at conserving Canada's dwindling supply of U.S. dollars, depends on external rather than internal developments. If, for example, an increased flow of U.S. currency comes to Canada through the external purchases under the Marshall Aid-to-Europe plan it is possible the controls may disappear in short order.

Next week should see the end of the Board of Transport Commissioners' freight-rate inquiry, which now has dragged itself out for about a year and some 5,000,000 words.

Final presentations of the embattled parties— the Canadian Railways versus all the provinces except Ontario and Quebec—now are in their concluding stages. They are expected to wind up within a fortnight.

How long it will take the Board to reach its decision on the railways application for a 30-per-cent increase in freight rates is a matter of guesswork. However, it is likely the verdict will be handed down by the start of 1948, despite the mass of material before the commissioners.

DOESN'T WANT FOR TRAP BABY CATCHES MOUSE

Hagerstown, Md., Dec. 1—(AP) — William Smith, aged 16 months isn't waiting for someone to build a better mousetrap.

A mouse crawled out of a kitchen cupboard so Billy crawled over and grabbed it bare-handed, hanging on until his mother, Mrs. Frances Smith, came to the rescue.

Mrs. Smith, almost as nervous as the mouse, wrapped it in a bag and dumped it in a nearby coal yard.

Show Window Lighting Regulations Revised

In consideration of assurances that interior store lighting will be reduced by an amount equal to or greater than the wattage to be permitted for window lighting, certain exemptions to regulations made under the Power Commission Act are hereby announced.

In Southern and North Eastern Ontario, each self-contained show window facing the street may now be lighted by a single 100-watt lamp from 4 p.m. to closing time, but not later than 9 p.m., for the period December 1, 1947 to December 25, 1947, inclusive.

Additional savings in the use of electricity by all classes of consumers are still urgently needed. If the exemptions announced here result in an increase in the amount of electricity used by merchants, the exemptions will be withdrawn.

December

December the month which enshrines the height of the year has come. It has for all the unusual weather conditions hitherto all the evidences of the customary December with cold and snow and short days soon to reach their shortest and then to start increasing.

Our ancestors with an unfailing sense of the appropriate made this month a time of rejoicing, of reunion, of high festivities, for they gathered about the old Yuletide festival and Christmas a wealth of customs which make this time the merriest of all the year. As the days are shortest, the evenings and nights are longest and to those who lived centuries ago and since these long nights when the earth is wrapped in white became the setting for times of merriment and of family reunions. Christmastime or Yuletide is the time of greatest enjoyment for young and old of all the year.

To people in these modern times, December is a time of planning and preparation for the festivities to come three weeks hence with the celebration of Christmas, the greatest of festivals known to man. Everyone is busy and takes delight in the heavy round of duties.

The years as they pass do not change the spirit of Christmas.

To the children this is the happy month which ushers in the miracle of Christmas, that time when childhood is enthroned in the great Yuletide gatherings.

No other month of the year is so given to thought of others. Other months have their qualities and characteristics but December is packed full of the true spirit which no one can escape and which no one tries to escape, so merry and so happy is the time. The very word December signifies intense human interest to everyone.

The spark of imagination is in every mind and in every deed.

It is the spirit of Christmas which inspires all from child to adult to find in December a message of good will and cheer.

The days of this month pass swiftly as men and women, boys and girls are caught up in the whirl of the pre-Christmas period of the great mid-winter festival and then feels a sense of profound happiness in the days that follow to the end of the month when a new year enters.

Co-Ordination of Private Flying

All private flying and air touring throughout the world is to be co-ordinated from London. This has just been decided by a unanimous vote of the International Aeronautical Federation which has chosen the Royal Aero Club of Britain as the body responsible for the task. A private aviation division of I.A.F. has also been formed and is to make its headquarters at Londonderry House, in Park Lane. To assist I.A.F. in this expansion of its activities, the Royal Aero Club will bear the cost until long-term arrangements for financing the new section are completed. Aviation clubs of all nations affiliated to I.A.F. will be entitled to make use of the services offered by this department in London without charge. They include reliable information on fuel supplies, routes and landing grounds, as well as supply of maps. Assistance will also be given those national aero clubs which desire to start air touring sections.

European Workers for U.K. Pits

30,000 European volunteer workers are to be recruited to Britain's coal mines during the next 12 months under a scheme which was recently approved by the National Union of Mineworkers' Executive. It is also proposed to bring over 10,000 homeless German orphans who are now in camps in Germany. Foreign volunteers are already coming to England to work in the mines at a rate of 100 a week and this number will be stepped up to 250 by mid-December. The foreign workers will be taught English at special camps and given training in coal mining before starting work in the pits.

Newcomers

Canadians welcomed the news that there are plans for a movement of 10,000 Netherlanders to settle on farms in the Dominion, the first group coming in March, 1948.

These are people possessing admirable qualities such as thrift and industry. Holland has the example of history to point to in order to prove the sturdy and reliable type to which her people belong.

Among Canadians today is a large number of citizens with Dutch names and they still preserve the qualities of their ancestors, their reliability, their energy and activity.

Canada will expect to have no problems to deal with over the accession to her population of these ten thousand newcomers who are to arrive early in the new year. Already there have been Hollanders who have taken up their residence in the Dominion this year and have started in well. These people are immigrants of whom Canada will be proud.

Surveying Limit of Space

The 200-inch telescope, which will be the largest in the world, is nearing completion. The great disk, weighing 40 tons, has been successfully transported up the winding road to Mount Palomar Observatory in California. It will be put in a chamber where the air will be exhausted and aluminum evaporated so that a film will settle and transform it into a mirror. Then it will be set in the telescope.

The primary purpose of the telescope will be investigation of the most staggering ideas formulated in the whole experience of philosophy and scientific speculation. Is the universe finite or infinite? Is the universe expanding? Is space curved?

These questions all grow out of the Einstein theory. The suggestion that space is curved has support in proof already attained that light travels not in straight lines but in curves. The expanding universe is an idea arising in study of the great islands of stars lying beyond the system of which our own sun is but an insignificant member. Spectral lines in these studies, shifting to the red, indicate that the distant stellar islands are running away from us.

A number of the foremost thinkers of our time have applied themselves to these problems, but the work done has not been conclusive. The big telescope at Mount Palomar is designed to make observations not heretofore possible.

If present hopes are realized new intellectual experience is in store. What can be the meaning of finite, curved space? What is beyond the boundary of space? What is nothingness?

We'll leave the job of answering to the astronomers of Palomar and the mathematical philosophers who pore over their observations in the generations to come.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Whites Lead

Popular belief that the yellow races comprise the bulk of earth's population has been debunked. The "white" Caucasoid races have a larger membership than have the Mongoloid and Negroid races together. The present day world's population of 2,500 million is about 52 percent Caucasoid, 40 percent Mongoloid and but eight percent Negroid, says Milwaukee Journal.

Furthermore, the "white" races rapidly are widening the gap. Anthropologists estimate that during the last 300 years, the Negroids have increased 100 percent while the Mongoloids have increased 200 percent. But the extremely prolific "white" races have mutiplied themselves 700 times.

Twelve Polish war veterans out of 4,500 brought to this country have broken the rules and are "missing" from their assigned places of employment. The remarkable thing is that so few out of so many have broken bounds, says Ottawa Journal.

Unfortunately we cannot rid ourselves of criminals by abolishing slums and paying higher wages. Most crimes are crimes against property — it is the lure of "easy" money, money without the necessity of work, that fills the penitentiaries, and that lure is not confined to any group or class, the Ottawa Journal comments.

HINT TO FATHERS

At eight or nine, if he were wise,
Sat still and seldom ran,
Had weariness within his eyes,
Like you, he'd be a man.
And if he ate with proper grace,
The best of manners knew,
Washed willingly his hands and face,
He'd be as old as you.

Though fond of candy, cake and pie,
If he were strong of will,
And let a little satisfy—
Lest much should make him ill—
When playing, if he didn't shriek,
As youngsters often do,
But always softly thought to speak,
He'd be as old as you.

Time was you raced the place about,
With strength and ardor fired,
And just as loudly used to shout.
Time was you seldom tired.
Why now command in manner grim
A grownup he should be?
Remember, you were just like him
When you were young as he.

40 YEARS AGO

December 1st., 1907.

The roller skating race between Ed. Thomas and Jimmie Barnum was hotly contested and Thomas won by forty feet. This evening Thomas and Jewell Hickey will skate a one-mile race at the roller skating rink.

Police Magistrate Masson is in Deseronto today.

Lovers of hockey will be pleased to learn that Belleville will have a fast junior hockey team this season which will be looked after by that excellent manager and good sport Harry Burrell, who has handled many winning combinations in the past and will probably do so again this season.

December 1st., 1897.

The reunion of the members of Court Quinte A.O.F. at their hall last evening was a great success. Bro. Sir Mackenzie Bowell presided and introduced the program with a short address: Sam G. Retallack gave a number of beautiful moving pictures with the veriscope and several musical selections on the gramophone, all of which pleased the audience. Songs were contributed by Frank Lewis, George Fax and A. Ruttan. Miss Lula Chalaupka acted as accompanist in a pleasing manner.

Mr. S. Campbell, clerk at the G.T.R. offices here is relieving at the Kingston office.

Mr. Edward McHugh is spending a few days in Pembroke.

The Rev. David Wishart of Madoc was in town today.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How did "fathom" originate?

"Fathom" in the sense of a unit of measurement is derived from Anglo-Saxon "faethm," an embrace. The outstretched arms is the underlying thought of the term.

Before linear measurements were standardized and when most of them were derived from the human body, a fathom was a rough measurement of the distance from finger tips to finger tips of a man's outstretched arms. "Fathom" is used in the English version of the New Testament to render Greek "origina," which is from "orego," signifying to extend the arms.

Although originally a land term, "fathom" as a noun survives chiefly as a sea term to denote six feet, the unit of a measure used in taking soundings of the depth of water. Figuratively the word is used in the sense of to sound, to interpret, to get at the bottom of, or to find the depth of.

What is meant by the "leaves of Vollombrosa"

In "Crusador in Crinoline (1941) Forrest Wilson says that Henry Ward Beecher told his sister Harriet Beecher Stowe that if she should finish "Uncle Tom's Cabin" he would "scatter it thick as the leaves of Vallombrosa." When the story was published in book form in 1852 it sold 2,500,000 the first year.

"Thick as the leaves of Vallombrosa" was suggested by a famous passage in John Milton's "Paradise Lost":

> Thick as autumnal leaves > that strew the brooks
> In Vallombrosa, where th'
> Etruscan shades
> High over-arch'd imbow'r.

Vallombrosa (literally "Shady Valley") in Milton's time was a famous Benedictine monastery in the Apennine forests about 16 miles from Florence in Tuscany. Scholars point out that most of the trees there are evergreens and do not strew the brooks with autumnal leaves. The 11th-century at Vallombrosa, suppressed in 1816, now houses a school of forestry, and the village is a noted summer resort.

ARABS CALL STRIKE

Officials of the Arab higher committee telephoned mayors of all Arab cities for "situation reports" and told them to urge the people to "stand by for a call to action." The committee will meet later in the week in Damascus with Haj Amin El Husseini, Mufti of Jerusalem.

One high Arab source said that "Arab tension is mounting over Palestine" and "much of the bitterness is toward the British."

Some Arabs warned American correspondents to remain in their homes, explaining that the Arab masses blamed the United States for success of the partition vote.

In Jerusalem thousands of Jews danced in the streets in celebration of the decision to set up separate Jewish and Arab states, while street-helmeted police patrolled the city and other patrolmen combed the Jaffa road in the heart of the Jewish quarter, warning all Arabs to get out.

Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish underground group which opposed partition, broadcast an appeal to Jews for "fighting unity" but repeated earlier assertions that their organization was not bound by the partition boundaries or by Jewish agency acceptance of the U.N. decision.

London, Dec. 1— (Reuters) — British newspapers said today that the weakness of the Palestine partition plan approved by the United Nations Assembly is that the commission entrusted with its imposition has no physical force at its disposal.

The Conservative Daily Telegraph said:

"Probably no niceties of map making could have modified the vehement opposition of the Arabs to partition. Yet, given the necessary authority to impose it the present settlement might have offered, in the long run, as good a chance of ultimate peace as any other. Unfortunately this indispensable authority is the one ingredient lacking in the scheme."

The Times said that many delegates were uneasy at the failure of the United Nations Palestine Committee to take sufficient notice of the British refusal to accept responsibility for imposing by force any plan unacceptable to Jews and Arabs.

"The committee's final recommendations," the paper added, "were plainly inadequate for filling the gap that will arise on the withdrawal of the British civil and military machinery which now ensures law and order.

No Power to Enforce

"There is no sign that the commission will be able to call upon the services of an international military force provided by the United Nations, and some doubt exists whether the power assigned to the Security Council under the charter suffice to cover the coercive measures which threatened Arab opposition may entail."

The Liberal Manchester Guardian said: "The plan as it stands has two great weaknesses. The form of partition is, absurdly complicated and no neutral force has been provided to impose it."

"The paper described the British government's conduct of the case before the United Nations as "unworthy."

"We gave no advice in the assembly, we made no suggestions, we proposed no plans," it said. "If our silence was intended to shock the United Nations into a sense of reality, it was singularly unsuccessful.

"It is easy to say, of course, that the United Nations should have realized from the first that it must provide an international force to impose partition. So indeed it should. But in practice this is not quite so easy as it sounds and it is hardly surprising that both Russia and the United States tried to avoid it."

THREE FATALITIES

Crashes into Bus

Suffering fatal injuries when the car which he was driving went out of control and crashed into an army bus three miles west of Trenton, Dr. Ralph Christianson, age 33, Hamilton, was instantly killed Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Christianson who was a passenger in her husband's car, is in Belleville General Hospital suffering from lacerations and shock while their small son Peter, age four, was uninjured.

Dr. Christianson was driving west and is thought possibly to have been blinded by the glare of the sun as he passed a small truck. His auto crashed into an east-bound army bus driven by Cpl. William Wilding.

Coroner Dr. F. M. Dure of Brighton has ordered an inquest looking into the death but the date had not yet been set. Mrs. Christianson is in Belleville hospital under the care of Dr. G. S. Cronk.

The body of Jean Badgley, 23, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Badgley, of Frankford, was found Sunday evening at her parents' home a .22 calibre rifle beside her. The body was found by a friend, Harold Hagerman, of Stirling.

Miss Badgley's parents were at church at the time, the girl being the only person in the house. The body was found in the summer kitchen.

Provincial Police at Belleville are investigating the death while Coroner J. Russell Scott has ordered a postmortem by provincial pathologist Dr. Waite of Peterborough who will act in the absence of Dr. McKay of Belleville.

ROOKIE COP FINDS MANHOLE COVER STOLEN

Toronto, Dec. 1 — (CP)—Rookie Constable Stanley Raike does not appreciate some ambitious thief making off with manhole covers. While checking a local black alley he narrowly escaped tumbling down an open sewer.

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

(Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address Dr. William Brady, care of this newspaper.)

SPOONFUL EVERY MONTH

The body of a healthy adult contains approximately a teaspoonful of iron.

Most of this iron is a component of the hemoglobin, the iron coloring matter in the red blood corpuscles. Hemoglobin had as affinity for and unites with oxygen in the lungs and carries the oxygen in the blood stream from lungs through pulmonary veins to the left auricle, through the mitral vilve into the left ventricle, through the aortic valve into the aorta or great artery, and so into the general circulation to the capillary spaces (not vessels) throughout the body, where the blood seeps or oozes between the cells of the tissue or organ. Here the hemoglobin gives up its load of oxygen, takes on a load of carbon dioxide. In the capillary bed, pool, spaces, oxygenation, oxidation, combustion, metabolism, life goes on.

Physiologists and nutrition investigators estimate that a healthy adult needs approximately one-fourth of a grain of iron daily to prevent anemia. This is merely the minimum daily requirement, remember, and it does not mean it would be enough for one who is anemic or one whose health is impaired in any way or one who suffers from any kind of chronic poisoning (such as chronic lead, arsenic, acetanilide poisoning) or one who has frequent losses of blood which are apparent or internal or occult and therefore perhaps not recognized as hemorrhages.

In the home made iron tonic described in the booklet Blood and Health there is nearly one-fourth of a teaspoonful of the compound called iron-and-ammonium-citrates in each spoonful of the tonic. But pure iron-and-ommonium-citrates is not pure iron; in fact only one-sixth of it is, so in a teaspoonful of the home made iron tonic you get perhaps a little more than one-thirtieth of a teaspoonful of iron. Even that represents at least ten times as much iron as a healthy adult requires. But ten or twenty times the minimum daily requirement of iron is only a fair medicinal dose when the purpose is to combat anemia

Unfortunately there are two official (U. S. P.) preparations called iron-and-ammonium-citrates, the one I have recommended, which comes in thin, transparent, garnet-red scales or granules or dull-red or brownish if oxidized by long standing, and green scales or granules, which contains less iron and, I think, is more likely to irritate stomach and bowel. But readers who encounter difficulties in procuring garnet-red scales or granules of Iron-and-Ammonium-Citrates please take notice: I shall no longer quarrel with your druggists about it. I regret now that I ever wasted time trying to persuade recalcitrant pharmacists that transparent garnet-red scales or granules, not green, should be dispensed when the customer asks for Iron and Ammonium Citrates.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

What is a Housecar?

Ben Told it is unhealthy to live and sleep in a housecar on account of carbon monoxide fumes accumulating in the vehicle.

(C. L.)

Answer — If any kind of fuel is burned for heat or for cooking there should be a suitable vent or stove pipe to carry products of combustion out of the housecar. Use a screen of unbleached muslin for safety at night—this admits fresh air and permits any dangerous carbon monoxide to escape, admits light in the daytime, excludes insects, rain, snow, dust or peepers.

To Our Employees, Their Families and the People of Belleville

On November 24th, this Company inserted an advertisement in The Ontario Intelligencer explaining its position in respect to the strike situation at our plant. We stated that we would only open the plant when the U.E.-C.I.O. called off its picket lines which would assure to our employees freedom in coming back to work, without fear of any intimidation or violence.

Despite our suggestion which was made in this advertisement that the U.E.-C.I.O. resort to the peaceable procedure of an election to determine whether they should be the collective bargaining representative of our employees other than those in the foundry, it is apparent from the events of last week that the U.E.-C.I.O. still prefers to maintain its picket lines in an attempt to force recognition through economic pressure.

In View of the Fact That There is No Indication that This Picketing will discontinue, and the Fact that We Feel Our Employees Should Be Made to Suffer No Longer

WE HAVE NOW DECIDED TO REOPEN OUR PLANT ON TUESDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 2nd, AT 8.00 A.M.

WE HAVE TAKEN ALL POSSIBLE PRECAUTIONS IN RESPECT TO THE SAFETY OF OUR EMPLOYEES IN THE FOLLOWING MANNER:

1. WE HAVE BEEN ASSURED COMPLETE CO-OPERATION ON THE PART OF THE POLICE TO SEE TO IT THAT WHATEVER PICKETING IS PRESENT SHALL BE ORDERLY AND LAWFUL.
2. WE HAVE ALSO SECURED AN ORDER FROM THE SUPREME COURT OF ONTARIO WHICH IN PART READS AS FOLLOWS:

> "THIS COURT DOTH ORDER that the defendants and each of them, their servants, agents, associates and any one acting under their instructions and any one assisting or aiding them be and they are hereby restrained until the 3rd day of December, 1947, and until any motion which may on that day be made to continue this injunction shall have been disposed of, from interfering with or preventing the access of the plaintiff's officers, employees, servants, agents and contractors to the plaintiff's property and from committing acts of damage to the said property."

Due to the fact that construction of our new plant additions have been seriously curtailed by this strike, and the fact that it will be some time before we can resume full production, we will be forced to operate the plant with a reduced working force. Accordingly, all employees who are needed when the plant reopens will be so notified by telegram to-night. Consequently, only those employees who receive notification by telegram should report for work to-morrow morning. We will recall other employees from time to time as they are needed.

As stated before, this Company will recognize any union which establishes its right to represent our employees through the normal processes of law.

MY HERO!

Carole Kirchner, seven, Sherman Oaks, Calif., hugs her springer spaniel, Topper, after the dog was named most heroic dog of the year and given the American Humane Society's annual award. Topper won the accolade by saving his young mistress life when she was attacked by a three-foot rattlesnake near her home. The dog interferred between the child and the reptile and took the bite intended for the girl. Badly bitten, the dog was given serum treatments and so lived to wear his gold medal.

WEDDINGS

MOORE—LONGWELL

In a double ring ceremony with Junior Miss Judy Broadworth, (wearing blue silk jersey), and Master John Allen Hazard as ring bearer, Anna Ruth Longwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Longwell, and Irvine A. F. Moore, son of Mrs. Bernice Moore, of Plainfield, exchanged marriage vows in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Foxboro, Nov. 22, with Rev. Mr. McMillan as the officiating clergyman, and with Misses Jeanne and Helen Snider as soloists. Evergreen trees were used as a background for effective decorations with baskets of yellow and bronze 'mums, and white ribbon marking the guest pews.

Mr. Longwell gave his daughter in marriage The bride was gowned in traditional ivory satin, fashioned with a fitted bodice featuring a yoke of Madeira lace and long sleeves. The full skirt formed a slight train, and her long veil fell gracefully from a coronet of pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses with maidenhair fern.

Miss Dorothy Read was the maid of honor, in a gown of pink satin with skirt of nylon net. She wore a matching shoulder-length veil and mitts and carried a nosegay of pink 'mums.

Bridesmaids, the Misses Phyllis Dafoe and Doris Burd wore identical gowns of blue satin with nylon net skirts, matching shoulder-length veils and mitts, and carried nosegays of blue 'mums.

Mr. Glen Priest ably assisted the groom, and the ushers were Messrs. Wesley Henderson and Irvine Badgley.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the "Chez Henri" restaurant in Belleville, where the bride's mother received in a dress of mulberry crepe with black accessories, and a corsage of yellow 'mums. She was assisted by the groom's mother in a gown of grey lace with wine accessories and a corsage of blue 'mums.

The groom's gift to the bride was a cabinet of silver; to the groomsman and ushers initialled gold pen knives, and to Master Hazard a pencil. The bride's gift to the groom was a parka jacket; to the senior attendants, miniature cameo pictures, to the soloists, gold compacts and to Junior Miss Broadworth, a pencil.

For travelling to London, Ont., the bride chose a dress of cerise crepe, with black accessories and fur coat.

Returning, Mr. and Mrs. Moore will reside at Marlbank, Ont.

GAINFORTH—SMITH

Rev. W. T. R. Delve officiated at a recent marriage in the United Church parsonage at Wooler, when Nita Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Smith, became the bride of Lloyd Gainforth, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gainforth.

The bride wore a gown of pale pink chiffon with matching veil and a corsage of red roses. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Muriel Gainforth of Glen Miller, gowned in a deeper shade of pink, with shoulder-length veil to match, and a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Harold Gainforth ably supported the groom.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Gainforth left for a honeymoon in Lindsay and Haliburton.

FIREMAN KILLED

New York, Dec. 1 — (AP) — The body of a fireman was found Sat., in the burning debris of a five-storey loft building in uptown Manhattan in which another fireman also lost his life and seven were injured.

Twelve hours after the fire broke out in the structure, searchers found the body of fireman Howard E. Wynn, 32-year-old war veteran. Earlier, they had removed the body of Jacob Bassman and had rescued two seriously injured fire fighters.

Damage was estimated unofficially at $500,000.

"NEW LOOK" BY YOUTHFUL DESIGNER

Betty Berry, 20, seems pleased with the fitting she is getting from 18-year-old Marion Buckley, of Amarillo, Tex., youthful dress designer. Marion, daughter of Mrs. Thelma Buckley, who is also a well-known designer of women's fashions, draws her own designs and the dresses are made in her mothers shop. The sketch for the dress Betty is wearing is in foreground here. Marion is wearing one of her own creations.

Women's Activities

LADIES' AUXILIARY CANADIAN LEGION 99

Ladies of the Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion No. 99 held their monthly meeting Thursday night, in the Saco Club rooms, when officers for the coming year were elected. Mrs. Jeffs was re-elected as president for a fourth term. Other officers reinstated are as follows: 1st Vice President, Mrs. Styles; 2nd Vice President, Mrs. Clark; Secretary, Mrs. Young; Treasurer, Mrs. Bradford; Standard Bearer, Mrs. Dolder; Chaplain, Mrs. Kent.

Several reports from various committes were read. Six parcels of food have been sent regularly each month to Britain, and the sick committee has visited and taken care of sick veterans during the year.

It was decided to hold a joint Christmas party, Dec. 23rd.

WALLBRIDGE W.I.

Wallbridge W.I. members were entertained on Nov. 26 by Mrs. Lorne Badgley. Twenty-one ladies and two children were present.

The business of the meeting was followed by a sing song and Mrs. Lloyd was presented with her Life Membership Certificate.

A nominating committee consisting of Mrs. S. Nicolson, Mrs. C. Sine and Mrs. F. Harris was appointed to bring in a slate of officers for the coming year.

The next meeting to be held Jan. 28 is to be held in the school house in the evening. Entertainment will consist of a debate "Resolved that men spend more time and money on pleasure than women do," program, draw for the wool blanket, and if possible a showing of the film of the 50th Anniversary Pageant "Let There Be Light." Refreshments will be served.

Mrs. W. Tufts then took charge of the meeting and took the members mentally with her on a recent trip to New York City where they visited many interesting places. Mrs. Tufts pictured the sight-seeing tours so clearly that every one listened intently and felt they had been greatly benfited by Mrs. Tufts trip.

Mrs. J. Sine thanked the guest speaker on behalf of the members.

Mrs. F. Phillips presented material for two quilts to be made for the Red Cross.

A vote of thanks was tendered the hostess by Mrs. J Sine.

The meeting was closed and refreshments were served.

Fashion Flashes

THERE'S A BATTLE raging in some stores, we hear, between the inexpensive fur coat and the fur-trimmed cloth number, especially now that the latter is back in good array, and tax free. Better a good fur-trimmed fabric coat than a cheap, indifferent fur job, seems to be the way of thinking.

FANCY GETS full swing in many of the new dinner hats. White-smoked felt, intricately draped, is used for a turban from which soar enormous white wings with gilded touches, held at the centre front by a golden rose, tied with gold lame ribbon. Definitely a creation!

IMPRESSIVE BAGS for evening wear are now on display. A beautiful bag has a solid background of black jet beads, a foil for a large floral design in yellow, red, gold and pearl colored sequins. Narrow gold plated frame and gray satin lining.

REALLY NEW is a group of fur capes being readied for Spring wear. Made for budget departments are high-style capes of mouton dyed a beautiful silver-gray shade. One model is a 34-inch opera cape in the gray mouton, made with four-flare dipping back, softly rounded shoulders and a cutaway front.

HIGH STYLE costumes show fine suits of fur and fabric. Supple black broadtail is used for a beautifully fitted jacket that flares from slim waist to hips. With it a pencil-slim skirt of black angora with a hemline border of the fur.

ONE-COLOR costumes always draw applause. A beauty is in gray, a favorite shade for the monotone ensemble. Platina gray is used for a softly tailored suit worn with a matching off-face hat. Blending hose, and darker gray shoes, bag and gloves add up to a smart study in gray.

THE COMBINATION of warmth and good-looks adds up to nice winter daytime dresses. Wool jersey in black or brown is used for a slim frock with a peplum that curves up and twists over in front. The peplum, the high turtleneck collar and the sleeves are of jersey striped in violet or aqua.

DON'T THINK for a moment that the cape is only an expensive fur promotion. One designer reports huge success for a cape in mouton. It is a dashing affair, 30-inches long, with a four-flare back and a standing notched collar. It is lined with pastel wool.

AT THE CAPITOL

1,000 BOMBERS DESTROY CITY IN "THINGS TO COME"

Motion picture producers are nothing if not accommodating. To satisfy the fans' notorious yearning for realism, they will cheerfully wreck expensive cars to blow up full-sized yachts in mid-ocean. But, however much they may yearn to, they simply cannot actually destroy the Empire State Building or send bombs raining down on Piccadilly.

So when the imagination of the very imaginative Mr. H. G. Wells demands such things as it does in "Things To Come," opening tonight at the Capitol Theatre his amazing forecast for the future which Alexander Korda produced, there is nothing for it but to call in the special effects expert and his faithful ally, the trick photographer.

For the breath-takingly ambitious production, the Korda studios sent clear over to America for Ned Mann, Hollywood's special effects ace, and Harry Zech, trick photographer par excellence. And here were a few of the orders they found awaiting them upon their arrival:

Show a cloud of 1,000 bombing planesin the sky.

An army of thousands of workers operating batteries of drills the size of ocean liners to carve the wonderful subterranean city of the future out of a mountain.

Whole cities bombed to destruction.

Television in the year 2036.

Miracle "Man"

Mechanics had to be trained to operate the new machines of Wells' and Mann's devising. Few models were used, although models happen to be Mann's specialty. Such as were used were of giant size, necessitating the construction of special carpenters' and plasterers' shops.

All this was routine work for Mann, who has his own staff of trained mechanics and who worked on such gigantic works of fantasy as "The Thief of Bagdad," "Dirigible" and "Deluge." It was he, as a matter of fact who created the ghost who walked through solid objects in "The Ghost Goes West." He has "destroyed" London, Paris and New York any number of times, and in "Deluge" he had the privilege of flooding the universe on the same program H. G. Wells mystery spectacle! A modern Aladdin who made women do things! A story of mind smashing, eye-amazing, 20,000 thrills, Alexander Korda presents "The Man Who Could Work Miracles" with Roland Young, Joan Gardner, Sir Ralph Richardson and a cast of thousands. Civic election results tonight from our stage.

ELECTRIC POWER

before they were driven off by police. One hundred and fourteen of the demonstrators were arrested.

Saboteurs derailed the Paris-Geneva express near Bour-En-Bresse, injuring one person. In St. Brieuc four hand grenades were thrown at Communist party headquarters, but no casualties were reported.

Government sources estimated that 2,000,000 railwaymen, miners and workers in a variety of other industries were out on strike. It was expected that the number of idle would soar still higher as a result of the electrical workers' strike.

Calls for Sentences

The anti-strike legislation before the assembly called for jail sentences ranging from six months to five years, and fines ranging from 1,000 to 500,000 francs ($8 to $4,000) for inducing work stoppages by "threats, knowingly propagating false news, by violence, blows or fraud."

The measure was somewhat milder than that originally planned by the government, which had sought to have the penalties doubled in cast of strike agitate resulting from "concentrated effort."

This would have greatly broadened the law in its possible application to union or party officials.

Also eliminated by the government from its original draft were penalties for those who "advise, approve or praise" the acts listed as illegal. Instead restrictions on freedom of the speech and press are limited to those who "directly provoke" illegal acts.

Other changes in the original proposals provide that the emergency measures be for three months duration instead of six and eliminate provisions for the discharge of government employees found guilty of violations.

Although the restrictions on press freedom had not yet been approved, police seized editions of eight newspapers during the weekend in Paris, Marseille, Bordeaux and other cities on charges of fomenting unrest.

Still unconfirmed today were reports that Palmiro Togliatti, Italian Communist leader, had arrived here during the weekend for consultations with French Communists.

BEATRICE ZEBEDEE

A highly skilled and efficient AO employee, Beatrice has charge of a series of curve generating machines, one of which is pictured above. Developed by AO engineers, these ingenious, almost human machines utilize a diamond-charged tool to cut curves into lenses with great speed and accuracy.

Beatrice's work requires nimble fingers, keen eyes and constant vigilance so that the machines under her control perform their curve generating operation properly. These are the talents Beatrice possesses . . and one of the reasons why AO Belleville lenses are famed for their quality and precision.

A reporter on the AO plant paper, Beatrice collects china elephants as a hobby and derives great pleasure out of sports activities. An expert bowler, she also swims, skates and plays baseball. Like many of her fellow employees, Beatrice really enjoys her work and her hobbies.

Employed by AO for nearly three years, Beatrice is typical of the AO people whose skill and energy are responsible for the company's steady growth in Belleville.

Wings Only One Point Ahead Of Leafs After Close Weekend Games in National League

Toronto Defeats Canadiens on Saturday and Tie Boston on Sunday

By HARRY ECCLES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Except at Chicago goals were scarce as hen's teeth in the National Hockey League's four weekend games and the only team making definite progress was Toronto Maple Leafs, now second to Detroit Red Wings by a slim one-point margin.

Toronto defeated Montreal Canadiens 3-1 Saturday night and then split a scoreless tie at Boston Sunday. Canadiens and Detroit also tied 1-1, while New York Rangers defeated Chicago 6-2 in the third Sunday encounter.

Result is that Detroit are hanging on the top rung with a half game advantage behind Boston and have a three-point edge over Rangers.

The Leafs hadn't counted too much on the game at Boston last night, where victory would have given them a share of the league lead. They haven't won in Boston since February of 1945, but the Bruins likewise couldn't score suffering the loss through injuries to forward Milt Schmidt and defenceman Murray Henderson in the third period which might have made the difference.

Never Looked Back

Don Raleigh, the great rookie from Winnipeg, scored New York's first only to have Red Hamill match it five minutes later, but Eddie Laprade gave New York a 2-1 edge and they never looked back. Tony Leswick, Phil Watson and Ed Kullman made it 5-1 in the second period. Bud Poile, recently traded to the Hawks from Toronto, got Hawks' second goal in the last frame and Grant Warwick scored Rangers' last.

In the tie game at Detroit Pete Horeck collared a pass and scored from 10 feet out to give the Wings 1-0 lead in the first period. The second frame was less than a minute old when Harmon fired from the blue line on a screened shot that scored the tie.

The hard, close checking at Detroit finally brought about a free-for-all in the second period. Bill Quackenbush of the Wings and Maurice Richard and Elmer Lach of Montreal started it and all received minor penalties. Quackenbush suffered a gash over one eye.

The Saturday night game at Toronto was a dull close-checking affair. Vic Lynn, Howie Meeker and Joe Klukay were the Toronto goal-getters, while Bob Carse potted Montreal's lone counter.

PITTSBURGH SETS SIGHTS ON NEW HOCKEY RECORD

(By The Canadian Press)

Pittsburgh Hornets today set their sights on an American Hockey League record jointly held by Buffalo Bisons and Cleveland Barons. If Hornets continue at their present clip, they should easily topple the record — most games won in a season — which now stands at 38.

Over the weekend, the high-flying Wasps rang up victories number 14 and 15 in downing New Haven twice, 5-1 on Saturday and 3-1 Sunday.

Hershey Bears and Providence Reds are running neck and neck in the league's eastern section, both with 26 points. Hershey shut out Springfield 3-0 on Saturday but were held to a 1-1 tie with Indianapolis on Sunday. Providence downed Indians 8-6 Sunday in their only outing.

Buffalo and Philadelphia split a home and home series, the Rockets coming out on top 5-0 Saturday with Bisons winning 7-4 last night.

Cleveland also split two games, losing 5-3 to Indianapolis Saturday and whipping St. Louis 7-2 on Sunday to round out the loop's nine-game weekend schedule.

John (Peanuts) O'Flaherty continued in his role of shelling out the winning goal for Hornets Sunday, scoring in the third period to break a 1-1 stalemate. Pete Langelle and Syd Smith also scored for Hornets while Bing Juckes bulged the twin for Ramblers. On Saturday, Smith, Tod Sloan, Pete Backor, Langelle and Fleming Mackell counted for Pittsburgh with Ian Mackintosh avoiding a shutout for New Haven.

Johnny Pierson scored for Hershey with only 36 seconds to play to earn a 1-1 tie with Caps. Hugh Millar scored the lone Indianapolis goal. Pierson, Joe Scherzl and Johnny Lund scored for Bears on Saturday as they whitewashed Indians.

Liscombe Leads Reds

Carl Liscombe led Providence's attack against Springfield with three goals. But Edward (Whitey) Prokop stole the spotlight by notching two goals to extend his consecutive scoring run to 21 games and now is only three from equalling the record of 24 established by Tommy Burlington of Cleveland in 1945-46. Harvey Fraser, Rap LaPlante and Harry Taylor also scored for Reds. Bill Summerhill scored two for Springfield and Paul Courteau, Jim Hayden, Harry Frost and Eric Unger one each.

Len Halderson paced Buffalo to their win on Sunday with two markers. Tom Cooper, Floyd Curry, Jerry Brown, Todd Campeau and Les Hickey each counted one. Philadelphia was paced by Steve Wochy with a pair with single goals being picked up by George Defelice and Jim Drummond.

Chuck Kraiger, with two goals, led Philadelphia to their white-wash win on Saturday. Other Rocket scorers were Ken Kilrea, Wendell Jamieson and Mike Narduzzi.

Fern Gauthier scored twice to lead Indianapolis to their win over Barons. Don Morrison, Tony Picari and Lloyd Doran picked up the others. The scorers for Cleveland were Bob Solinger, Jack Holoto and Jack Lavoie.

On Sunday in St. Louis, Fred Thurier paced Barons to a weekend split with three goals while Ab Demarco scored twice. Holota and Tony Leswick notched one each for Cleveland. St. Louis marksmen were Ed Olson and Don Lund.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Honors for the first thirty-game schedule of the major 'A' League of the Bowl-O-Drome bowling alleys were evenly divided among the teams of the loop, according to statistics released the other day.

Individual honors went to members of five respective teams, indicative of the closeness of play over the tough first thirty-game grind.

Thirteen of the forty-eight participating players registered an average of over 220 which is a standard that rates high in bowling circles of the district.

To Wilf McLaughlin, of the Lawn Bowlers team goes the honor of registering top score during the session. He rolled a neat 386 for the high single and 887 for the top three - string. Runner up in the high singles were Jimmy Semark, Optical team, 375 and W. Greenfield, Northern Electric, with 339.

Wally Dingman grabbed second place in the three string with a nice 869 with Art Cruji, Kinsmen Club, in third slot with 860.

Dingman was the best consistent bowler over the half registering a 30-game average of 238 which "aint bad" brothers, in any man's league. Those averaging 220 points or better included: P. Drumm, 232; A. Stewart, 231; N. Wilbur, 231; Greenfield, 227; D. Adams, 224; W. Fraser, 223; C. Hardwick, 223; L. Lennox, 223; B. Sheffield 221; T. Caton, 220; J. Legault, 220 and H. Ridley. Indicative of the fine scores, it is pointed out that the lowest average in the thirty-game schedule was 180.

The RCAF Flyers enter the hockey lists after a long layoff tomorrow night when they meet the fast travelling Point Anne team in the first game of the regular Tuesday night double-header. The Flyers have won two and lost one and are now in third slot in the "A" section of the loop. A win will catapult them into a first place tie with the sectional leaders Napanee, and one point ahead of the Belleville Juniors On the other hand a win for the Ox Pointers will practically guarantee them a playoff slot as they have two more games to play while the Hornets who have three points, have one game left. Anything can happen in a hockey game and it likely will.

Trenton Hockey Club meets Madoc in the nightcap part of the twin-bill and this sortie should produce some tingling shinny. Trenton has four points and a win will boost them up there in a first place tie with undefeated Cobourg. Madoc has only two points and needs the victory if she is to stay in the running. Games on the next night or so will have a distinct bearing on the playoffs and all squads will be bearing down to grab a slot in the money games.

Felix A. (Doc) Blanchard was the roughest, toughest football player Army produced in many a year. It was claimed that the Doc, for practice, would run around the field three times with 300-pound Coach Herman Hickman on his back. In many a game, an Army lineman would whisper to his opponent: "Blanchard's carrying the ball this trip. I don't know what you're going to do, but I'm getting the hell out of the way." In one game, however, Doc Blanchard was warned to watch a rival defensive back who was reputedly as strong as he. Blanchard's first opportunity to test his rival came toward the end of the half. There were a few yards to go, the rival team had their backs almost literally against a brick wall, and Blanchard carried the ball. The Doc bust through the line, through his rival back, and on until he smacked the brick wall. At half time, Coach Earl (Red) Blaik asked Blanchard what he thought of his rival. "Oh, he's easy enough," said the Doc. "But they've got a backer-up behind him that's terrific."

A fighting courageous gang of football Lochinvars came out of the west on Saturday, and in one of the most thrilling games ever witnessed by the football faithful in a Dominion finals classic shoved the vaunted Toronto Argonauts to the wire by hairs before bowing by the close margin of 10-9. Only four seconds of play remained with the squads deadlocked at 9-9 when the magnifice toe of Joe Krol "Mr. Football" himself lashed the ball to the deadline for the most important point football has seen this year.

At that the Blue Bombers might have won the game. Sandberg, their star player in a moment of bad judgment called the wrong play and therein lay the ball game. As one Toronto sports writer puts it, "More than one Blue Bomber broke down completely sobbing in bitter disillusionment in the dressing room. The game they thought they had won was lost. Lost because of a bad gamble on the part of a player who was their outstanding star."

"For years they'll talk about how Bob Sandberg, former University of Minnesota backfielder, elected to try for three yards on third down at his own 33-yard line against all the mechanics of football strategy. Sandberg, hopeful of a surprise opening and large gain from where Bombers might have kicked the winning point, called for what Winnipeg terms its "guard around" play. It consists of the centre, Mel Wilson, handing the ball to inside wing Bert Iannone, who plunges straight ahead. It paid off for Winnipeg against Calgary in their Western championship series.

The No. 1 question mark in box-fight circles hereabouts today is whether the pile of hope blocks Promoter Frank Tunney built around Li'l Arthur King in an effort to revive boxing interest here, is going to come tumbling down because King has failed to live up to advance notices, remarks The Canadian Press.

Boxing sank to an all-time low in Toronto until Tunney plucked the once-sensational Negro lightweight from amateur ranks a couple of years ago and built him up as headliner for professional shows. He acquired the nickname "Tiger" as he belted opponents aside but of late the talons seem to have been removed from his paws.

There was talk of Li'l Arthur, still not old enough to vote, being the next world lightweight king, but the dynamic sock that skyrocketed the Chocolate Dropper to the limelight seems to be losing its sting fight by fight, or round by round. Still strong and beautifully muscled for his business, King has lost a lot of his flair and dash.

His handlers will tell you that Li'l Arthur now is meeting tougher opponents but to date he hasn't convincingly trounced a top-flight fighter unless it was Montreal's Dave Castilloux and when the pair met the French-Canadian was well past his prime.

King still seems unable to throw a right hand without throwing himself and he's still easy to hit. He hasn't learned to step forward when pitching a left.

The answer may be with King that the world is no longer the dreary, lonely, moneyless place it was when he, fresh out of an orphanage, discovered he could pick up a few dollars by banging somebody on the chin. He was desperate then and fought like it, but since turning pro the Negro has since earned what to him is "big money."

He'll be seen in action in Toronto tonight against Terry McGovern and whether or not he will be able to continue to draw cash customers depends on whether he regains the "killer" instinct that started his fistic climb.

GALT ROCKETS DEFEAT WINDSOR, GENERALS BEATEN

Spitfire Coach Banished From Game for Striking Penalty Timer

(By The Canadian Press)

Galt Rockets provided the "surprise package" in the weekend's Ontario Hockey Association Junior A "grab bag". They zoomed to a 4-2 victory over the league-leading Windsor Spitfires at Galt taking 37 shots on goal to Windsor's 23 and moved up into fifth position.

In the four other junior tilts Stratford Kroehlers notched their second victory this season over Oshawa—tied with Windsor in first place—when they decisioned the Generals 4-3 at the Motor City; St. Catharines eked out a 2-1 win from Barrie at St. Catharines, and in a Saturday afternoon twin bill at Maple Leaf Gardens Toronto Marlboros defeated Toronto St. Michael's Majors 3-1, Guelph Biltmores notched a 4-1 victory over Toronto Young Rangers.

The one Senior game Saturday provided the top-place Toronto Marlboros their ninth win in 12 starts when they thumped the winless Brantford Redmen 8-1 at Brantford.

Alfie Moore's Rockets played inspired hockey holding the edge all the way. Windsor Coach Jimmy Skinner was banished from the Galt game when he demonstrated his annoyance of Referee Jack McEachern's stiff rulings by taking a poke at the penalty timekeeper and following it up with a punch at McEachern at the end of the first period. Manager Pollock took over the reins after the local police subdued Skinner. Fifteen penalties were handed out Spitfires drawing 10.

16 Penalties Handed Out

It was also a heavily-penalized affair at Oshawa with 16 of them handed out including a misconduct. Stratford drew 11 including the misconduct. Kroehlers were led by Pierre Cadieux with two counters while Billy Mitchell and Dinny Flanagan tallied once. Sandy Air, George Scholes and Dick Gamble scored for Oshawa.

A cool performance by St. Catharines' goalie Cec Gruhl resulted in their win. He handled 32 shots to Barrie netminder Gil Mayer's nine. Wayne Service and Fred Hildebrand tallied Teepees counters. Paul Meger scored for Barrie.

Toronto Junior Marlboros garnered four points for their afternoon efforts over St. Mike's. Frank Kent led the Dukes with two counters and Grant Speers tallied once. Gord Hannigan came through with the lone Irish goal.

Guelph Biltmores toyed with Ed Wildey's Young Rangers who still seek their first win this season—in the afternoon's second game both squads putting on a listless display. Tatter McClellan, Yacker Flynn, Laurie Thompson and Gordie Miller scored for Guelph. Reg Spragge tallied the only Ranger counter.

In Brantford's Senior fixture Marlboros took a three-goal first period lead, added two more in the second frame and outscored the Redmen 3-1 in the final session. Ike Hildebrand tallied three goals and Johnny McCormack scored the Duke's other counters. Brantford's lone tally came from Scotty Linn.

The two Senior games slated for tonight will see Owen Sound visiting winless Brantford and Toronto Marlboros at Hamilton Pats. There are no Junior games scheduled.

Back of HOCKEY VICTORIES

HOCKEY equipment really "takes a beating" in the "hot" incidents of every game of big time hockey. Fast skating, instant turns, collisions, spills and immediate stops impose terrific strains on skates and shoes.

The failure of a skate or shoe may cost the game, or the trophy, so championship players use C.C.M. Matched Sets and take no chances.

The Toronto Maple Leafs won the world's Professional Championship, the "Stanley Cup", with C.C.M. Matched Skating Sets on every player.

The Montreal Royals won the Canadian Senior Amateur Championship, the "Allan Cup", with C.C.M. Matched Skating Sets on every player, and all players used C.C.M. Laminated Hockey Sticks.

The St. Michael's College "Majors"—Toronto, won the Canadian Junior Amateur Championship, the "Memorial Cup", with C.C.M. Matched Skating Sets on every player.

And so goes the story of amateur and professional hockey in Canada and the United States—actual check shows over 95% of the players used C.C.M.'s.

In selecting hockey equipment for yourself or others be guided by the preference of the champions and choose C.C.M. Matched Skating Sets and C.C.M. Laminated Hockey Sticks.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Bridge players could save a lot of playing time. Know how? By following rules instead of explaining why they didn't. Or by learning rules they can use instead of those they abuse.

See this pair of partnership hands:

SOUTH

♠K 5
♥A Q 10 4
♦10 7 5
♣A 6 5 2

NORTH

♠A 6 4 2
♥8 7 6 3

It did not seem likely that any partnership could go wrong with these hands. South should open with a heart. North should assist to two hearts. South should then pass. They belong there.

South has a total of five tricks; four high cards and a short in spades. He shows that many with an opening of one. With no more than five, he has none for any subsequent raise in number.

North has three tricks; two high cards and a short in clubs. These are enough for one raise in number. Between the two hands, only the heart suit is biddable. North has adequate support for it. However, this pair had elaborate bridge lessons and read books with many pages of words. They took in biddable, conditional, shaded suits. So, south opened with one club, a conditional suit.

North responded with one club, a conditional suit. South then bid two hearts. North came back with a raise to three hearts. And I could not bear to listen to the four heart raise by south.

No sound system bids like this. So, it was not what they read or were taught. They simply knew not the conditions under which the conditional suits apply. Nor do many players of long experience.

Conditional suits are safe only with a clever application of a number of exceptions. It takes a master touch. Even the advanced players court trouble with their loose use.

A stupid policy in the bridge profession is the teaching of conditional suits to beginners. Only biddable suits are sound. Palookas pick up enough bad habits without help from teachers.

FAIL TO FIND PERSONS WHO BURNED NEGRO SCHOOLS

Laganville, Ga., Dec. 1 (AP)—The search for persons responsible for the burning of all Negro schools and churches in this north Georgia community during the last month has been futile, Mayor C. H. Byrd said today, despite a $100 reward offered by the city.

Victory salute . . . "I'm kissing him for the way he played — but only in the last quarter," smiled Argo Coach Teddy Morris as he planted a kiss of thankfulness on Joe Krol, who kicked the point which gave Argos a 10-9 win over Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the final minutes of the game Saturday.

Argos Retain Grey Cup Title By Single Point Victory Over Winnipeg in Thrilling Final

Joe Krol Kicks Winning Point After Being Down 9-1 at Halftime

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Dec. 1 (CP)—If there's anything closer than a hair's breadth, then that's the way to describe the margin by which Toronto Argonauts reigned today as monarchs of the Canadian football world.

Argos came out on top 10-9 here Saturday over Winnipeg Blue Bombers in one of the most sensational contests in the 21 years of east-west play. To triumph they produced two single points in the last 90 seconds of play.

As a game it had everything. Argos had been expected to walk away with victory; in fact, they had been installed as 5-1 favorites. Instead, the scullers found themselves pushed around for 30 minutes of the fray. But they bounced back like champions to walk off the field with their third successive Dominion title.

Loose-jointed Joe Krol, the man they call Mr. Football, blasted the Bomber hopes when he hoisted a long ball that bounced over the goal-line and out of touch on the last play of the game. The final whistle sounded as the ball soared through the air.

Through the entire game the build-up to this tremendous climax was such that there never was a dull moment. Bombers, the team that supposedly didn't have a chance, led 9-1 at half-time. And in the third quarter, they scored a touchdown that probably would have assured them of victory, only to have the play called illegal by the officials.

Play Called Back

That was one heartbreaking moment for Bombers and their small band of supporters among the more than 19,000 witnesses to the contest since the touchdown would have given them a 14-7 margin with an extra point thrown in if the convert was good. Nobody in the stands doubted it would have wrapped up a Winnipeg victory.

But the crucial play of the game came with only seconds remaining when burly Bob Sandberg of Bombers, the outstanding man on the field, elected to try for yards on third down from Winnipeg's 35-yard-line. The Argonaut front wall held; the scullers got possession and Krol booted the game-winning single.

Sandberg, who ripped the Argos' line time and again through the first half in sparking a 70-yard drive for a touchdown, said after the game he made the gamble for a first down because he thought there was three minutes left to play. He felt that if Bombers could hold the ball they might be able to march into position to kick a point for victory.

Purely a Gamble

Coach Jack West backed up the strategy of his signals caller, terming the play "purely a gamble that lost". West remarked that Bombers had tried the same play—a plunge off a fake kick formation—for a big gain against Calgary Stampeders in the western final.

"Sandberg realized that if the game went into overtime we would be no match for the Argos and their powerful reserve strength—it would be just postponing the inevitable," said West.

There wasn't the slightest similarity in the manner in which the game's two touchdowns were engineered. Sandberg carried over the ball from the four-yard line at the conclusion of Bombers' great upfield sweep in the opening quarter, a drive featured by his heavy smashes at the line and a double of short forward passes.

Forward Pass

Argos, on the other hand, struck for their touchdown in a manner that has became familiar to the Eastern teams they have encountered. The score came on a Krol to Royal Copeland forward pass—a long ball that Copeland snared on the Bomber seven yard line. The blonde Argo speedsters swivelled around after the catch and just managed to slip over the line before he was brought down.

Setting the stage for Copeland's third quarter touchdown was a fumble by Harry Hood of Bombers with lineman Frank Morris of Argos trapping the ball. Quarterback Don Hiney converted Sandberg's touchdown in addition to booting a perfect 35-yard placement in the second quarter. Krol converted on Copeland's score.

With the score 9-7 in the fourth quarter, Krol sought to boot a placement that would have sent Argos out in front but the ball was wide. However, it counted for a point as Hiney, playing safe, grounded the ball to concede the single. Krol tied the score with about a minute to go when he hoisted a quick kick that bounded over the goal-line with Hiney barely failing in the run-out attempt.

Called Back

However, the picture play of the game was one that didn't get into the scoring records although it produced a touch down. It was the third-quarter touchdown, scored by Johnny Regan, that the officials called back.

At the time Bombers held the ball about 30 yards out from the Toronto goalline and they lined up in placement kicking formation on third down. Sandberg went through the motions of setting down the ball for Hiney to kick, then wheeled upright and tossed a forward pass to Reagan. The gangling Negro backfielder raced over the line without any difficulty as the majority of the Argos seemed "frozen" by the play.

But headlinesman Bill Rogin of Toronto ruled that Reagan had not crossed the line of scrimmage before catching the ball and he was upheld by Umpire Hec Crighton of Toronto. Both Rogin and Crighton said later that Reagan had been anywhere from three to four yards back of the scrimmage line.

Reagan maintained later that he had been in proper position to accept the pass. When Sandberg asked him about it, Reagan replied. "I'd bet my life I was over the line of scrimmage on the play."

AT THE McCARTHY — John Garfield, star of Enterprise Studios' "Body and Soul," at the McCarthy Theatre today and Tuesday, through United Artists release. The film, Garfield's first independent venture, also stars Lilli Palmer and introduces Hazel Brooks, the sensational coppery-haired siren who has Hollywood all agog.

AT THE BELLE — Darryl F. Zanuck's eagerly-awaited screen pr sentation of "Forever Amber" stars Linda Darnell in the tit role, and Cornel Wilde as Bruce Carleton, the dashing cav lier, the one man Amber really loved throughout her adve turous life. Filmed in Technicolor "Forever Amber" is d today at the Belle Theatre.

The Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

It was strictly a goaltenders' weekend as National Hockey League marksmen could only find the range for 14 goals in four games. Jimmy McFadden, Detroit's crack sophomore wingman, earned himself an assist to move into a first place tie with Maurice Richard of Montreal with 21 points. Doug Bentley of Chicago also picked an assist to move into a seventh place tie with Canadiens' Toe Blake as all other scoring leaders went pointless.

Li'l Arthur King Has Tough Fight

Toronto, Dec. 1 — (CP) — Toronto's Negro lightweight star, Li'l Arthur King, may have one of the toughest fights of his professional career here tonight when he steps into the ring for battle with England's Tommy McGovern in the main bout of a boxing card at Maple Leaf Gardens.

McGovern, former British amateur lightweight champion, is making his first appearance in a Canadian ring since turning pro in the United States. In his 13 American bouts the Briton has lost but two.

Kitchener Senior Team May Hav Services of Bauer

Prediction that all-star righ winger Bobby Bauer, formerl with the National Hockey Leagu Boston Bruins, will line up wit the Kitchener senior team in th Ontario Hockey Association h been made by manager Edd Schmaltz of the O.H.A. team.

Bauer retired from professio al hockey this year and took ov coaching duties of the Quebec e try in the junior O.H.A. unt "business pressure" forced his r signation earlier this week.

Schmaltz said that Bau would join the Kitchener-Wate loo Dutchmen — fourth in the team league — "within the ne week."

Before Bauer can don a Ki chener uniform, he must g clearance from Boston and be r instated by the Canadian Am teur Hockey Association.

Led by their brilliant 172-l fullback, Elwyn (Rip) Rowa the Army cadets rang down the football season with a 21-0 vi tory over Navy in a colorful spe tacle at Philadelphia Saturday The vast throng of 101,500 fa which included President Tr man, saw the game.

CHAPTER 10.

They started quickly up the path. "Remember," he warned severely, "you're engaged to me. I know you so well, Kay, you'll be a honey for me to take. I'll know how to manage you."

Her laughter came out now, highly pitched, hysterical.

"Ma-manage me?" she shuttered. "No—it's not true! I—I won't—I won't be managed!"

He stopped dead in his tracks, dismay leaping into his face. He took her by the shoulders and gave her a quick shake.

"Fool! Little foot! Snap out of it! Do you want all the others to be asking questions?"

Kay abruptly sobered, then burst into tears. She lagged along toward the dressing-rooms. He made no move to follow her. He hated sobbing women and was slightly afraid of this one. It might require a bit of doing to keep Kay in hand. He was worried.

No one dressed for dinner that night. The cold wind, so unexpectedly blowing in from the north, had dampened the spirits of all the guests. They sauntered into the long low lounge, one by one to stand around the big logs cheerfully blazing in the wide stone fireplace.

Kay came in and was relieved that neither Webb nor Chuck were among those present. Even though this reprive would be of short duration, it would help. With those two men in the same room it was bound to be strained, to make nerves raw-edged.

Kitty Fenner wound an arm around Kay's slim waist and drew her within the circle of new acquaintances, who curiously appraised her. They had all heard of her recent bereavement. She looked and acted as if losing her fiance had been nearly too much for her. Kay immediately sensed their sympathy, hoped that they wouldn't begin to coddle her. She wanted no undeserved pity wasted upon herself. If these people only knew what was in her mind!

The men were thinking Kay most desirable in her blue flannel sport dress, wondering how long she had known Webb Taylor. The two of them had disappeared to be getting on famously this afternoon. They had come to the lake together, hadn't they?

Kay's soft full lips parted in a smile, making her beauty warm, vital. "Fine!" she declared. "I should love it!"

"We'll be partner's then," he said, pleased at this coup before the other men, who hesitated on the brink of her loveliness.

"Arranged a nice evening for yourself, haven't you Jones?" put in Triggs Sheldon, his laugh shaking his rotund body like jelly. "We'll all play. Edna and I will be at your table—the rest of you can pair off as suits your convenience."

Edna Lawton a pretty little brunette with a baby stare, began to pout. No girl enjoyed a whole evening with Triggs, who laughed only at his own jokes.

At that instant a voice came from the hall, saying, "My dear Gloria, I'm simply famished! We had a stupid accident on the highway—I thought we'd never get here!"

Kay wheeled quickly to confirm her worst suspicions. Adele Sanders was entering the room, one more menace of Kay's peace of mind. Why had Adele come here? Why couldn't she have remained in her own back yard?

It set Kay to pondering. Could there be any connection between Adele's bouncing in on this party when Chuck was a guest? Had it been pre-arranged between them?

"Oh, Kay—darling!"

Adele embraced her old friend, planting a swift kiss on her flushed cheek.

"Let me look at you! Marvelous! Not a scar on your face! Aren't you glad?"

;;Naturally," responded Kay half-heartedly, thinking it lucky that her leg was now as good as ever, or Adele would have focused attention on it.

Chuck Nourse pushed past several men, strode forward, and took Adele's arm.

"Welcome, cousin!" he said familiarly.

Adele has practiced blushing to order. The color looked quite enchanting now on her suntanned cheeks.

"Chuck! You arrived before I did! I'm so sorry!"

Kay's suspicions were confirmed. They had planned to be together on this party. Suddenly in the midst of this buzzing crowd of people, Kay felt alone, forlorn. Chuck so good-looking in his white flannels! Chuck totally ignoring her!

Webb asked, like a privileged man in her life, "Happy, dear?"

He looked down at into her pleading, upturned face. She hoped he could read what was written there. The super-egoism of him!

Cocktails were being served now and the wilted spirits of the crowd were picking up at the first sip. Kay, standing very straight, held herself in check, wished she were anywhere else.

She wondered how long she could continue this pose of indifference, with Adele and Chuck a daily love scene before her very eyes. This was apparently what Adele intended to do. Of course, if Chuck could enjoy that sort of thing—

Like an obedient child; Kay allowed Webb to take her in to dinner, but after being seated she perversely directed most of her conversation to Reginald Wallgood on her right. Walgood's homely features made him distive - looking, and he was so bookish he was interesting. Webb, she could see out of the corner of her eye, was fuming. But it was far better he should be jealous of some one other than Chuck.

From time to time, however, Kay felt Chuck's eyes upon her, those puzzled gray eyes she must not meet. She thought he looked a little grave, that his smile was forced, but concluded finally it must be her lively fancy. Was he worrying over her? That was the way she would choose to have him look and act tonight—as if she meant more to him than any one else, even Adele. But what could his thoughts be now? Was he by any chance haunted by the remembrance of that body on the apartment floor?

She finally sent him a sharp, soft look that meant much. If he had anything to confess, he must confess it to her soon.

However Chuck, having no such resolve in mind, was figuring out a way to approach her, without seeming to do so, a way to fathom the mystery of her behavior toward him. The matter of the ring that night at the Junior League garden party! Had she connived with Webb to make a fool of him? Adele had intimated it. But even Adele, as geherous-minded as he thought her, might be mistaken.

The dinner dragged out interminably for Kay. She felt like an h wildhgl mcnctlylylWKdin inr; actress of multiple roles, being acted simultaneously. There across the table was Adele beside Chuck, Adele keeping close tabs on him. Adele was a demanding, insistent creature, who was possessed to have her way with him, to crush Kay's spell over him. Kay must act for Adele's benefit, act for Chuck's. She must act for ebb on one side of her and Walgood on the other. She must act for the whole company the part of the bereaved fiancee of the late Hennington Blare, ready and even eager to be taken on by another man in the person of Webb Taylor. She wondered how long she could keep up this complicated deception.

Webb was forgetting his reformation tonight and drinking too much champagne He was leaning toward her now in maudlin disregard of the others.

Post's GRAPE-NUTS
King and Bay Sts., Toronto, in 1897 — that's when Grape-Nuts was born!

ALMOST from its very beginning in 1897, Grape-Nuts was a sensation. That malty-rich, sweet-as-a-nut flavor made an instant hit. And the fine nourishment provided by Canadian wheat and malted barley has helped make better breakfasts for 50 years.

Enjoy "golden good" eating with Grape-Nuts. Buy the new red-white-and-blue package—really economical because only two tablespoons makes an average serving. Your grocer has Grape-Nuts.

FIRE GUTS BUILDING

New York, Dec. 1 (AP).—Fire gutted an upper Manhattan five-storey building last night and one fireman trapped by the blaze was found dead while two were seriously injured.

A fourth man was believed still in the smouldering debris.

The body of the dead fireman was taken out of the ruins of the building, occupied partly by a plumbing concern, a short while after discovery of the injured men. Their rescues were made three hours after sections of the building began to collapse and more than four hours after the first of five alarms was turned in.

FIRE BREAKS OUT WHILE SPECIAL COLLECTION TAKEN

Indianapolis, Dec. 1 (AP) — A special collection for new furnishings was taken up at Olivet Baptist Church here, but the money will be used instead for repair. While the ushers were circulating through the congregation Sunday, a choir member gave the alarm of fire. Rev. G. L. Lillard, pastor, said flames caused about $500 damage to the church attic.

SAYS HE BROKE $1,500 WINDOWS WITH HAT RACK

Chicago, Dec. 1 — (AP)—Don Quixote won fame in literature by attacking windmills with a lance, but, with Clarence Murray, 35, police said today, it was another story.

Murray was charged with malicious mischief after Oscar Marienthal, 34, restaurant owner, accused him of charging into 15 plate glass windows of the establishment with a coat rack.

CIVIC ELECTION

Brantford taxpayers will vote on a $200,000 debenture issue for half the cost of a municipal arena and Woodstock has a vote on a $44,500 money by-law for arena improvements.

The city manager plan figures on the ballot at Sarnia, and Windsor taxpayers will vote on the proposed purchase of Peche Island as a playground site. The island at present is owned and operated by a United States amusement company. A federal program for construction of 500 veterans' homes is also being voted on at the border city.

Picture Elsewhere

Peterborough — Nine candidates for five vacant aldermanic seats.

Woodstock — Vote on $44,500 money by-law for arena improvements.

Kitchener — 14 run for 10 aldermanic seats, four for two public utilities commission seats, some school board contests.

Waterloo — Vote on 15-year transportation franchise, two-year term for aldermen.

Niagara Falls — Vote on hospital alterations and purchase of lands for hospital extension, also on extension of the street railway franchise.

Chatham — three issues: box factory fixed assessment, sale to Kent county of city's interest in joint municipal building and an over-all sewage system with $150,000 spent on a Queen Street sewer in 1948.

Guelph — 17 candidates, including 11 members of the 1947 council, bid for 11 council seats. Two non-money plebiscites: on establishment of a parks commission and on whether Guelph shall contribute to construction of an airport in the Kossuth area to serve Wellington and Waterloo counties.

Marmora

Residents Form C. of C. in Village Following Banquet

Marmora (Special) — To further the cause of the Chamber of Commerce for the village of Marmora, a dinner meeting was held at the Royal Hotel on Thursday evening with about forty in attendance. An appetizing repast having been served by Mrs. H. J. Neath and her staff, Alex Fraser who presided, called upon F. R. Wells to lead in a singsong. The chairman then outlined two meetings which had led up to the present one, and introduced Jack Badgely, manager of Belleville Chamber of Commerce as guest speaker. The speaker touched upon a suggested slogan for the local Chamber of Commerce, "What can I Do For You?"

Weight in Numbers

He maintained that the organization called for weight in numbers and the inclusion of the ladies as well as the men in its operations. It should take in all those who would exercise the true community spirit. He gave the gathering other useful advice and wished the project every success. Fred Wilson, M.P.P. also present, spoke of the value of such organizations in each community. He said that the Chamber of Commerce could do a good job in the Dominion. He also touched upon the present industrial expansion in Ontario and mentioned that the province was using twenty five per cent more Hydro now than in the war years. Dr. G. Hammond, as succeeding speaker spoke on the question of Marmora's dam, which has recently undergone some repair. He felt that the matter of lake levels was one for the Department of Lands and Forests to give attention to. A water level kept within moderate limits, would protect the muskrat life as well as protect fishing. An unanimous vote was then recorded as being in favor of the Chamber of Commerce being carried on.

Provisional Officers

Provisional officers elected were,

President, Alex. Fraser
Vice President, Irwin McCoy
Secretary to be elected later.
Treasurer, H. R. Pearce
Directors—H. A. McNally, H. A. Burwash, R. E. Bonter, C. H. Buskard, G. Forestell, H. J. Neath, D. P. Marett, J. L. Shannon and W. R. Bonter.

It was decided to invite a head office representative to meet with the executive at their next meeting to assist in further organization and with a membership campaign.

It was also decided to make the Chamber's initial project a Santa Claus parade with Major Percy Gray in charge. Other minor matters engaged the attention of the gathering before adjournment.

REPORTED RUSSIAN BOMB TEST

Tokyo, Dec. 1 — (AP) — Two Japanese who said they were in a concentration camp nearby when the Russians were rumored to have detonated a test atomic bomb at Irkutsk, Siberia, last June 15 told the newspaper Yomiuri today that they had heard nothing and doubted there was such a test. The report was never confirmed.

What You Should Know about TRAVEL RATIONING

Why?

Canada's supply of U.S. dollars will no longer stretch far enough to permit all the purchases of goods and services or all the travel in the United States that has taken place in the past. It is, therefore, necessary to reduce our expenditures of U.S. dollars in many different ways. As one of these steps, the Government has decided that the use of U.S. dollars for pleasure travel spending must be reduced. To ensure this reduction in a way that is fair to all, an annual "travel ration" has been established. As in the past—a Form H permit is required by anyone taking out of Canada more than $10 U.S. or more than a total of $25 in Canadian and foreign currencies.

Pleasure Travel

Regulations now provide that the maximum amount of U.S. dollars which any Canadian resident may obtain for pleasure travel purposes is $150 per year. In the case of children of eleven years and under, the amount is $100. There is no restriction on the number of trips as long as this annual allotment is not exceeded. Any U.S. dollars obtained for one trip and not used on that trip must be brought back to Canada and exchanged for Canadian dollars at a bank immediately on return. No credit for these funds can be allowed against the annual ration for subsequent trips.

Business Travel

Applications for U.S. dollars for business travel must include a certification by the employer that the travel is required in his business interests. Reasonable amounts of U.S. dollars may be obtained for this purpose.

Travel for Health or Education

Applications for U.S. dollars for travel for health or educational reasons are to be made on special forms available at chartered banks. These applications will be forwarded by banks to the Foreign Exchange Control Board for consideration. Applications for health travel must be accompanied by a medical report on forms which can also be obtained at chartered banks. The Department of National Health and Welfare will act as advisor to the Board in reviewing these medical reports.

Border Travel

A Canadian resident wishing to make visits on which he will not be taking out of Canada more than a total of $25 of which not more than $10 is in U.S. dollars, may purchase from his bank for this purpose up to a total of $10 in any calendar month. This is in addition to the annual travel ration.

Personal Purchases of U.S. Goods

A Canadian tourist should remember that the new restrictions applying to imports from the United States govern his personal purchases there. He may not bring back any merchandise which has now been prohibited or which may now only be imported on a quota basis. The list of goods covered by the new import restrictions is an extensive one. Tourists contemplating any particular purchase in the United States would be wise, before leaving the country, to ask Canadian Customs Officials if this purchase will be admitted.

Travel Requiring Sterling Funds

Applications for sterling funds for travel in sterling area countries are normally approved for any reasonable amounts.

Further Increases Recommended For Meat Packers

C.P. McTague, Arbitrator, Outlines Recommendations

Toronto, Dec. 2 (CP).—Besides a general wage increase of 10-cents-an-hour for employees of Canada Packers, Ltd., and Burns and Company, C. P. McTague, arbitrator appointed under terms which settled this fall's six-week wages strike of packinghouse workers, announced today he had recommended further increases above the 10-cent boost for plants outside Toronto.

This extra amount will be five cents for the Charlottetown plant of Canada Packers, three cents for the firm's plants in Montreal and Hull, four cents in Peterborough, and 1½ cents in Edmonton and St. Boniface, Man. At the same time, workers in Burns and Company plants in Winnipeg, Calgary and Edmonton are to receive 1½ cents above the basic 10-cent increases.

This brings the basic wage rate to 87½ cents an hour, or $38.50 for a 44-hour week.

The etrax pay above the basic increase was Mr. McTague's award o.. the union demand for an additional five cents in areas outside Toronto to bring these rates up to the Toronto scale.

17 Cents Demanded

Mr. McTague said the union had demanded an increase of 17 cents an hour. The companies granted a seven-cent-an-hour increase in terms which ended the strike at its peak embraced 14,000 packinghouse workers. What remained for him to decide was the amount of any additional increase for the Canada Packers and Burns workers, the Swift Company having already agreed on an increase of 10 cents an hour for its workers.

In making his decision, he had first to come to a conclusion as to whether it was proper to regard each plant as a purely local operation or as "a component part of an integrated whole."

"The point of view makes some difference in respect of wages," said Mr. McTague. "I do not believe wages should be made uniform throughout, because there are different factors relating to wages in different districts. Neither do I believe that certain districts should remain chronic low wage areas because of factors that are not fundamentally related to wages at all."

ATTITUDE NOT JUSTIFIED

Montreal, Dec. 2 —(CP)-- The large contribution made by Soviet Russia in the war against Hitler does not justify her present all-out attempt to crush the democratic way of life in Europe by fostering Communism in countries ruined economically by the war, External Affairs Minister St. Laurent said in an address yesterday.

DISABLED SHIP IN PORT

Halifax, Dec. 2 —(CP)— The 7,744-ton Greek freighter Vernicos Nicolaos, reported in distress 400 miles east of Bermuda Nov. 12, was towed into Hamilton, Bermuda yesterday by the Halifax salvage tug Foundation Josephine according to a radio message received here by her operators, Foundation Maritime.

CIVIC ELECTIONS APPROVE LARGE EXPENDITURES

Close Mayoralty Contests Another Feature in Many Municipalities

(By The Canadian Press)

Civic electors were in a mood to authorize large expenditures for city improvements as many Ontario municipalities held elections yesterday. Some close mayoralty votes were another feature of the widespread voting for municipal officers and commissions.

Altogether the votes made a sizable dent in the annual balloting, with more scattered elections coming this week and on New Year's Day.

Among the monetary projects on which voting was limited to property owners and regular tenants, Oshawa approved expenditure of $700,000 for site and construction of a new school. Sudbury taxpayers okayed a $500,000 school, $125,000 for additions to an existing school, plus three new bridges and authorization of a city-owned transport system.

Woodstock approved a $44,500 project for improvements to the civic arena, and voters at Windsor by a two to one majority approved the proposal to enter agreement with the Federal government for construction of 500 homes for war veterans. The city will provide the sites and accept $70 per home in lieu of taxes. Windsor voters however turned down the proposal to purchase Peche Island — at present owned by a United States amusement company — as a civic playground.

Favor D. S. T.

Substantial majorities were given in favor of daylight saving time in the four places where this question was submitted — Windsor, London, Sarnia and Wallaceburg.

Another side issue was a vote at Sandwich East where liquor with or without meals — in dining lounges and cocktail lounges — was approved.

But in the large cities it was the mayoralty vote that attracted most attention. At London 73-year-old George A. Wenige was re-elected for his eighth term. He defeated four others with a handsome plurality. The unofficial count gave Wenige 9,311 to 7,441 for Fred G. McAlister, who was mayor in 1946, and 7,044 for Alderman Ray Dennis. Two other mayoralty candidates were Angelo Pinto with 69 votes and Morris Gootson, 39.

The London turnout was 50.8 per cent of the voters' list, highest since 1934 when the figure was 58 per cent.

At Brantford Major J. H. Matthews lost his bid for a third term. The winner there was W. J. Dowden with 4,271 votes to 3,894 for Mr. Matthews.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Dec. 2 —(CP)— Synopsis: Air of Polar origin has pushed into the White River and Kirkland Lake regions. Its southward motion is being retarded and it is not expected to spread into the Lower Lakes regions. Moist air moved in to Southern Ontario during the night accompanied by overcast skies and a few light rainshowers. Little change in the present weather conditions is anticipated for today and Wednesday. The high winds of Monday have subsided and gale warnings have been lowered on the Great Lakes.

NEGOTIATIONS ON FOOD CONTRACTS AWAIT APPROVAL

British Delegation Completes Ottawa Talks

Ottawa, Dec. 2 (CP) — British-Canadian negotiations here on the renewal of food contracts have been completed and await the approval of the British government, it was learned today.

Informed sources said members of the nine-man British delegation which has been here more than a week have cabled to London the terms of the proposed contracts and are awaiting instructions.

There is just a possibility that announcement of the terms of the agreements may be made late today in Ottawa and London but the likelihood is that the official word will not come until tomorrow.

This announcement, if it is made, hinges on the British government accepting the contracts as negotiated.

The agreements are for the extension of contracts under which Canada has shipped substantial quantities of beef, bacon, pork, mutton, eggs, cheese and other products to Britain They expire during the next few months.

The four-year Anglo-Canadian wheat agreement, now in its second year, is not due for review but may have entered into the discussions in an informal sense. There is no indication that it will be affected by the talks.

It is expected that the renewed contracts will provide for lower shipments in many of the foods being sold to Britain. This expectation is based on official predictions from the agriculture department that Canadian production of beef, pork and cheese, at least, will decline in 1943.

Dairy Products Outlook Better For 1948

(By GEORGE KITCHEN (Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Dec. 2 (CP)—Delegates to the three-day Dominion-Provincial Agricultural Conference today began study in camera of 1948 targets for Canadian food production.

Dealing with cereal grains, the Federal Department reported that the world shortage is expected to become "more acute" in 1948 and indicated the demand for Canadian wheat will continue to be "urgent."

Total Canadian meat production dropped six per cent in 1947 and a similar decline was anticipated for 1948. A sharp decline in pork production was expected to reduce the total amount of meat available for export in 1948 to 50 per cent of 1947.

The dairy picture was better. Output of fluid milk and butter advanced this year and butter was expected to go ahead in 1948. Cheese production slumped badly. Output of eggs and poultry exceeded production total of 1946.

The outlook for most Canadian fruit crops was good for 1948 and some advances also were expected in potatoes, tomatoes and beans. The harvest of corn and peas possibly would decline.

If Inventions Keep on at Carnivals All the Old Thrills Will be Gone

Chicago, Dec. 2 —(AP)— The carnival-goer of 1948 will find all the old thrills awaiting him, but practically all will be mechanically provided.

That prediction is the result of a visit to the exhibition hall of the National Association of Amusement Parks, Pools and Beaches, now in convention here.

Gents, you want to step up and see the kootch dancer. Well, what you think you are seeing in the flesh may be an undulating hunk of papier mache. The Association is displaying a life-like Little Egypt made of that material, with electrically-powered hips.

Maybe you want your fortune told? Instead of the shivery experience of entering a dim tent and letting a costumed mystic look into your future, you put a coin in a slot and out the fortune comes, antiseptically printed on a clean pastboard.

If you want a seductively undraped pinup photograph of a "real model," put a nickel in the slot. If you're somewhat younger, put a nickel in the other side of the same machine and out will come an autographed picture of your favorite cowboy actor.

Machines also will provide you with frozen custard, hot French fries, and, of course, popcorn, candy cotton, hot dogs, pop and other items which in combination prove indigestible.

One of Worst Riots In Holy Land History Prevented by British

Jerusalem, Dec. 2 —(CP)—British troops and police, intervening between thousands of Arabs, inflamed by the impending partition of Palestine, and Jews angered by Arab violence, today prevented one of the worst riots in the turbulent history of the Holy Land, eyewitnesses on the scene reported.

As Jerusalem became a bedlam of shouting demonstrators, blazing buildings and armored cars, Jews this afternoon set afire the Rex, largest Arab-owned movie theatre. Irate Arabs, who stormed through the Jeruselam streets for more than two hours, burning, wrecking and looting, had already set fire to more than 50 Jewish shops.

Jews counter-attacked in a test of blood and fire. Army fire brigades were called in, from outlying military camps to prevent numerous fires from spreading into a major conflagration.

Arabs, who tried to march to the King David Hotel, were stopped by police and the British civil and military headquarters at the hotel was barricaded by British troops.

As smoke from burning buildings hung over the city, it was officially announced that all Arab areas of Jerusalem would be placed under a dusk-to-dawn curfew, effective tonight.

Jewish sources estimated property damage at $1,000,000.

Unofficial casualty reports placed the day's toll all over the Holy Land at four Jews dead, 29 Jews and nine Arabs injured.

Many of Jerusalem's buildings still were burning late today when police and troops restored a semblance of order. The Arabs began their attacks at dawn, with the opening of a three-day Arab strike called by the Arab higher executive to protest the United Nations partition decision. Jews in trucks and afoot counter-attacked swiftly.

Armored cars and Bren gun carriers were used by British authorities to disperse the rioters. The authorities were assisted by thousands of khaki clad young Jews, apparently members of Hagana, self-styled Jewish defence army, who assembled in midtown Zion square. Jewish volunteers, distinguished by blue arm bands, directed traffic around congested areas.

After the main body of the Arab rioters had been dispersed, leaving in their wake a trail of burned shops and overturned automobiles, they were reported regrouping behind the walls of the old Holy City in preparation for a new foray.

A Jewish counter-attack meanwhile appeared to be developing. Four trucks loaded with young Jews armed with clubs sped out of Zion square shortly after noon, followed by approximately 2,000 Jews on foot.

Eject Reds, Break 'Filibuster Of Silence'

Paris, Dec. 2 (AP).—A 10-hour "silent filibuster" by Communist deputies was broken early today and the National Assembly was called back into session to enact a stringent anti-strike law requested by Premier Robert Schuman to fight work stoppages paralyzing France.

One stoppage was ended this morning when police cleared sit-down strikers from six power plants in the Paris area, permitting subways to resume operation after service had been suspended for several hours.

More than 2,000,000 workers remained idle, however, stalling every major industry.

The Communists' "silent filibuster' against Schuman's anti-strike bill, which is aimed at breaking the Communist grip on the French labor movement, ended when Republican guards ejected Community Deputy Raoul Calas from the assembly chamber.

Fifty other Communist deputies who had occupied the otherwise empty chamber with Calas followed him out. Calas made no effort to resist the guards and there was no disorder.

Calas refused to leave the speaker's rostrum yesterday afternoon after a vote of censure against him for urging army reservists to refuse to comply with government orders calling them to the colors. The vote also directed his temporary expulsion from the assembly.

The tumult in the chamber over the incident became so great that assembly president Edouard Herriot was forced to suspend the session. Calas stayed on the rostrum and other Communist deputies occupied the chamber through the night. They said they wanted to be sure Herriot would not reconvene the assembly without their knowledge.

The anti-strike bill, which the Communist deputies are fighting so bitterly, would give the government power for three months to fine and jail strike agitators, and to apply doubly stiff penalties for sabotage.

KILLED BY TRAIN

Toronto, Dec. 2 CP)—Efforts to stop possible derailment of a Canadian Pacific Railway engine here cost Kolis Radeff, 57, his life, police said today. A trackman, he was fatally injured Saturday when he tried to retrieve a heavy hammer left between the rails and he died in hospital today without regaining consciousness. Police said Radeff was struck by the engine tender after he had picked up the hammer.

WARNS FARMING METHODS NEED TO BE CHANGED

Dr. Archibald Gives Talk at Convention

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL (Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Dec. 2. (CP)—Dr. E. S. Archibald, of Ottawa, director of Experimental Farm Services, today warned the 36th annual meeting of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce that unless Canadian agricultural methods are changed farming in the country will suffer great harm.

Addressing a concluding session of the two-day meeting, Dr. Archibald said that continuous cropping of the country's agricultural areas was depleting the land of organic matter.

A survey of agricultural areas was needed and boards and chambers could support plans for the undertaking of such a survey.

W. E. Wood of Guelph asked if the lifting of the ban on the export of some agricultural products to the United States would not help ease the American dollar shortage. He said he felt that the country was encouraging other industries to export but was stifling agricultural production.

Dr. Archibald said that he could not speak on the dollar question, but it was true that young people were leaving the farms.

He felt that the young people should be encouraged to take over abandoned farms, plow them, fertilize them and grow grass on them. Once this was done they could move into production of beef and a surprising amount of meat could be produced.

Former Owner Ill-Fated Gem Leaps to Death

The ill-fated gem, stolen from an Indian shrine near Pondichery early in the last century, was reputed to have brought violent death to all who ever owned it. The stone originally weighed 195 carats but was cut into smaller pieces by an Austrian jeweller to end its evil renown.

Nadia Vyegin-Orloff, wife of a Rome jeweller, was the second Russian Princess who once possessed the stone to leap to death in Rome. The other was Princess - Galitzine-Baria-Tinsky, who threw herself from the fifth floor of a boarding house last month.

EVA'S FATHER FINED

Munich, Germany, Dec. 2 (AP)—Fritz Braun, father-in-law of Adolf Hitler, was fined 2,000 marks ($20) yesterday and placed under probation for a year as a minor offender under the denazification law. His daughter Eva is believed to have married the German dictator and to have committed suicide with Hitler just before Berlin fell.

New "Club" Method in Retailing Meat Swamps Originators With Business

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER (Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Dec. 2 (CP). — At least two butchers believe they have solved the problems of housewives harried by high prices of meat.

Rocco Martino, 33-year-old proprietor of the meat department of a small neighborhood store in suburban Rye, N.Y., is the self-described idealist who is selling meat at cost plus a flat weekly service charge of $1.25 a family.

Families in the middle-class section where his store is located were depriving themselves of vitamins because of the high prices of meat, he said in an interview.

The co-operative-like idea hit him. He consulted a lawyer on the economics of the plan. Nov. 1 he revolutionized his business and now has 135 housewives in the "club" which is growing daily. He says he will stop at 200—the optimum for overhead costs.

George Rookstool, 32, has the same service charge for his customers who now are 560 strong. His original plans called for only 300, but housewives clamored to join. Rookstool has disconnected his phone and advertised for more help.

The Rye butcher pledges to sell to any family as much meat as they want during the week for exactly the price he pays for it wholesale.

Are the housewives happy with the results?

They say they are able to get more meat and at a lower cost.

Bacon selling elsewhere at 89 to 95 cents was sold for 78 cents by Martino. Steaks were going for 65 to 67 cents compared to 75 and 83 cents at other stores in Rye.

Rookstool said he assures a saving of at least 25 per cent monthly for each customer. Martino is more conservative—he said housewives dealing with him save $2 to $4 a week, while they are getting more meat.

Wotten Re-elected Commissioner by Margin of 51 Votes

Harvey and Chamberlain Of Old Council Defeated

Belleville hailed a new mayor last night when after one of the biggest votes polled in the history of the city, Denzil L. Storey, was elected to the office of chief magistrate defeating Mayor Frank Follwell, seeking his fourth term of office by a majority of 856. Mayor-elect Storey polled 3,040 votes as against 2,184 compiled by Follwell.

One of the highlights of the electoral battles was that waged by Public Utilities Commissioner Russell Wotten, who was chased to the wire by ex-Mayor Harry Rollins. The lead changed hands several times during the evening and the issue was in doubt up until the last three polls were in. Wotten was re-elected by the slim margin of 51 votes, polling 2532 as against 2,481 for Rollins. It was the closest fight seen here in some years.

Polling records went by the boards as the electorate turned out to the polls in much larger numbers than last year. In the 1946 elections 4 652 voters went to the polls This year the number was 5,224 an increase of 572.

Allin Heads Polls

Alderman Jack Allin seeking re-election headed the aldermanic poll receiving 2,452 votes, said by veteran municipal officials to be the largest vote ever polled here by an alderman. By the same token and establishing another record, Board of Education Trustee Harold Seldon also seeking re-election piled up the large number of 2,653 votes to head the lists in the trustee fight. A close second and also a holder of a polling record was Dr. Austin Walters, a newcomer to the Board of Education, who received 2,547 votes to lead Miss Josephine Tickell and Arthur L. Burke, who finished in third and fourth places respectively. Frank Creeggan was the defeated candidate.

Four city alderman were re-elected to office with three newcomers finishing in second, third and fourth positions. Re-elected are Aldermen Jack Allin, Charles L. Hyde, Claude D. Tice and Newton C. Wilbur. Newly elected candidates are Aldermen-elect "Sandy" Lummiss, George Brown and Orliff Lloyd, who finished in the positions named; Aldermen Hyde, Tice and Wilbur finished in fifth, sixth and seventh positions respectively.

Never in Doubt

Defeated aldermen are William Harvey who finished in eleventh position and Alderman Fred Chamberlain who wound up in ninth place. New candidates who were left were Everett Liddle who finished eighth in position 111 votes behind Alderman Wilbur; Douglas Bews in 10th place, Harry Knott, in twelfth spot and in the order named, Frank Smith, Arthur Cole, Arthur Keegan, Thomas Rees, Isaac Stephenson and Jeuel Bentley.

Injured Man, 80, Insists on Voting, Has Never Missed

Chatham, Dec. 2 (CP)—Thomas Cross of Chatham was out to set a local record for civic elections and, even though handicapped he celebrated his 80th birthday by casting his ballot for the 60th consecutive time.

The aged man suffered a fall at work and was removed to his home and later to hospital for examination. He was found to be suffering arm and hip injuries and was ordered home by ambulance. Although he was unable to stand or walk, he persuaded the ambulance attendants to wheel him into the polling booth to cast the ballot which he had never missed since his 21st birthday.

HEADS OFF COUNTRYWIDE STRIKE

Rome, Dec. 2 — (AP) — The Italian government staved off a country-wide strike of city employees today by agreeing to furnish municipal governments enough money to pay promised wage increases.

It also announced settlement of a political dispute in Milan where leftists almost seized power Friday in protests against replacements of the prefect (governor) of Milan province, Ettore Troilo, a leftist.

MAYOR-ELECT STOREY TO OPEN TREE FUND

One of the first functions since his election to be performed by Mayor-elect D. L. Storey will be the opening of the Canadian Legion Christmas Tree in the Canadian Department Store on Thursday afternoon. The gifts donated will be presented to children, widows and worthy veterans besides those in hospital.

WEATHER COOLER IN NOVEMBER THAN LAST YEAR

Coal bins of city householders suffered just a bit more during November this year than in November 1946, according to official statistics announced from the local water filtration plant today.

The mean temperature for the past month was 34.9 degrees as compared with a mean of 40.5 degrees for the same period one year ago. Maximum temperature, however, was higher at 61 degrees as against 56 one year ago, while the low temperature was eight degrees as compared with 21 degrees during November 1946.

Rainfall for the two periods was approximately the same, there being 1.48 inches last month as compared with 1.76 inches one year ago. Snowfall last month was 10.9 inches as compared with 10.8 inches one year ago. Total precipitation for the last month was 2.57 as compared with 2.84 for November, 1946.

Ontario, Manitoba Entries Take Prizes at Chicago

Chicago, Dec. 2 (CP)—Entries from Manitoba and Ontario today hold top livestock prizes to add t othe list of laurels won by Canadians in both the animal and hay and grain contests at the 48th International Livestock Exposition.

The major Canadian victory yesterday was that of "Kelburn Royal Banker" owned by James Richardson and Sons of Winnipeg, who was named champion shorthorn bull in the breeding class.

In the Aberdeen Angus breeding bulls class, the Don Head Farms of Richmond Hill, Ont., won first place with their entry "Bandelier of Don Head 19th." Bulls of this class were calved between May 1 and Dec. 31, 1945.

Another Ontario winner in the livestock show which has a record of 12,500 farm animals entered, was the entry of the Leeland Farms of High Gate, Ont., in the fat Lincolns, wether lambs class. The entry of Stanley A. Graham of Alvinston, Ont. was second in the event.

Thief Steals Purse From Mr. Storey's Home

Being elected mayor of a city at least has a few drawbacks, if an incident occurring at the home of D. L. Storey, Foster Ave., is any criterion.

During the early hours of Monday evening the Storeys followed closely the election returns which ultimately showed the approval of the ratepayers for Mr. Storey as Mayor. But in doing so the Storey place of residence was possibly not as well closed to intruders as it might have been.

This morning at a very early hour Mr. Storey notified the local police that some time during the night his house had been entered and that his wife's purse, containing the house keys and $45 in cash was missing.

Madoc

Maj. J. Foote, VC, Guest Preacher At Anniversary

Madoc, Dec. 2 (Special).—On Sunday the congregation of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, Madoc, held their 66th anniversary services. The speaker for the services being a Madoc boy and a former member of St. Peter's congregation, Major Rev. John Foote, V.C. At the morning service the choir rendered an anthem, "We Would See Jesus" with Christena Walden taking the solo. Miss Phyllis Beatty was guest soloist.

During the morning service the little son (William Kemis Carswell) of Mr. and Mrs. Kemis Carswell was baptized. A large congregation attended. At the evening service Rev. H. V. Walker of Stirling assisted in the service. William Hawthorne, Jr., sang a solo and the choir sang an anthem "Abide With Me". Maj. Foote delivered two very inspiring sermons and left a thought with each and everyone attending to take home and think over in these troublesome times. The congregation of Trinity United Church, Madoc, friends from West Huntingdon, Stirling, Tweed and St. John's Anglican Church, Madoc, attended the evening service and enjoyed the hour with a young man who not only brought honor to his church, but to his home town and his country.

Three Municipal Elections in P.E.

Picton (Special) —There were only three municipal elections in Prince Edward County yesterday. In Hallowell township, Reeve Sherman McQuaid was defeated by Deputy Reeve Dwight O. Reynolds by 31 votes. In the Deputy reeveship contest, Lee Allison defeated Donald Hefferman by 134 votes.

Police Continue Probe into Girl Secretary's Death

Provincial Police are still investigating the death of pretty Jean Badgley, 23-year-old private secretary at the Corbin Lock Company, whose body was found Sunday night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Badgley, at Frankford. Beside the girl's body was a .22 rifle.

Home visiting her parents over the weekend, Miss Badgley was alone in the house when Harold Hagerman, Stirling, called to take her back to Belleville. He found the girl lying on the kitchen floor with the rifle beside her. The parents were at church at the time.

Provincial Constable J. Ernest Keays has worked almost continuously on the case since the death was reported by Hagerman Sunday evening and has questioned several persons in the matter.

A preliminary inquest looking into the death of Miss Badgley was held at the Belleville General Hospital this morning under Coroner Dr. J. Russell Scott, and after identification of the body was adjourned for two weeks.

Corbin Plant Reopens For Work No Resistance Offered by Pickets

Strikebound for the past eight weeks, the plant of the Corbin Lock Company, reopened this morning when approximately one third of the normal complement of employees returned to their jobs as L. E. McLean, general manager of the firm, received a restricting order preventing strikers from blocking entry into the plant.

Under the watchful eye of a strong force of city police the non-striking workers passed through picket lines without incident as the plant reopened for operations after being closed for the past two months. Picketing was orderly, also when workers returned for work at 1 p.m.

About 240 workers were affected by the strike which started last October 6th., when a number of workers in the plant objected to the layoff of 19 employees three days previously. The company maintained at the time that the layoff was due to factory adjustments but the strikers, and the United Electrical Radio and Machine workers charged the employees had been discharged for union activities.

Noted Newspaper Advertising Man Dies at Toronto

Toronto, Dec. 2 (CP) —William Wallace, advertising manager of the Toronto Daily Star and the Star Weekly, died suddenly today in his office age 54.

A member of a noted Canadian newspaper family he was a former executive secretary and manager and president of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association. In 1943 he became the first Canadian president of The Newspaper Advertising Executives' Association of America.

A native of Orangeville, Ont., where his father published the Sun, he was known to newspaper and advertising executives throughout the continent.

He came to Toronto where he joined the staff of the Star as a reporter. After five years, he became an insurance executive. After serving with distinction in the First World War — he rose to the rank of Captain and won the Military Cross—he became private secretary to Hon. N W. Rowell, then secretary of the Canadian Privy Council, at Ottawa. When the Empire Press Union visited Canada after the war he went on their tour as Canadian secretary.

Shortly after that he took up his post of executive secretary and manager of the C.D.N.A. of which he became president in 1939. He rejoined The Star in 1921 as an advertising salesman and became advertising manager in 1936.

He was literally reared in the newspaper business. His father the late William Wallace, was publisher of the Dufferin Advance after the Orangeville Sun. His brother Clifford, had a notable career in newspaper editorial work before entering the advertising agency business A sister, Claire, was in newspaper work for many years before she entered the radio field.

H. Howard Elected Deseronto Reeve

Reeve of Deseronto for the past two years, P. J. Kirby went down to defeat at the polls on Monday in a three-way fight which saw Henry Howard elected to the reeveship. Also defeated for the reeveship was H. Sauer.

In the mayoralty race Leo Therrien was elected over R. K. Jackson and J. W. Holden.

Councillors for the new year are G. Walker, Howard Hawley, R. Bradshaw and L. Polmey. In the fight for utilities commissioner C. W. Duffield was elected over H. Hall.

PETERBOROUGH DAIRYMAN DIES

Peterborough, Dec. 2 — (CP) — Frank Kelly, 44, vice-president of the Peterborough Holstein Breeders Association and one of this district's leading dairymen, died suddenly today of a heart attack.

POLLING SIGN STOLEN

London, Ont., Dec. 2 (CP) — Municipal voters in south-end subdivision 69 went around in circles yesterday. Somebody stole the sign from the polling place.

FURTHER INCREASE

Other parts of the report made recommendation on the length of the work week, which varies, on union dues check-off which will remain as in the last contracts of the companies and on maintenance of membership. The finding provided that the new contract, which will terminate Aug. 1, 1948, will contain a new "no-strike" clause.

44 Hour Week

Noting that provincial legislation differed in regard to the work week, he said:

"I think the work week in Canada Packers should be 44 hours a week except in the Montreal and Hull plants, where it should be 46 hours weekly. The guaranteed 37 1-2 hours in effect under the last contract should be reduced to 36 1-2 hours. The guaranteed 40 hours in Montreal and Hull should be reduced to 38 hours.

"In the case of Burns and Company, the work week should be reduced to 44 hours and the guaranteed 37½ hours reduced to 36½ hours.

"In view of the other benefits given in the award, I do not make any compensating wage adjustments as a result of the reduced hours of work."

A clause in the arbitrator's ruling banned a strike vote during the term of the agreement or during negotiations until issues have been submitted to some form of mediation.

Mr. McTague rejected a request by the companies for a withdrawal of union security provisions from the contract. He ruled that present members of the union will have to maintain their membership in the union as a condition of employment.

He had set the contract termination date with "some misgiving." The companies, which said negotiations in the past had been conducted "in the midst of strikes" wanted it to extend as long as possible.

Check-off Problem

For a time he felt the solution of the check-off problem lay in the Rand formula, which provides that all employees in a bargaining unit must pay union dues.

After declaring that the formula seemed to have induced a greater sense of union responsibility at the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., plant in Windsor and had recently been accepted at the General Motors of Canada, Ltd., plant in Oshawa, he said:

"It does not appear to have been a factor in promoting union responsibility at the plant of Sherritt-Gordon (gold mines) in Manitoba.

"That the Rand formula will necessarily promote a greater responsibility on the part of the union, and therefore good industrial relations, I have grave doubts. I think that, on the other hand, the modern tendency is in the direction of non-compulsion as far as minorities are concerned and away from the compulsory contract labor principle."

Returning to the question of duration of contract, Mr. McTague said:

"The real difficulty is not in the length of the contract but in the attitude of the parties to the collective bargaining process.

"The union holds its convention usually sometime in May and there the new demands are discussed. They are then presented to the companies by the union officers sometime in June.

Present Maximum Demands

"I am rather afraid that the tendency on the part of the union officers is merely to collect the maximum demands from all of the locals, no matter how exorbitant or extravagant they are, and present these to the companies.

"This is a technique that may satisfy very aggressive and unreasonable members of the union but it is far from being a constructive foundation for the process of real collective bargaining as understood by reasonable men.

"It does seem to me that the union officers have some responsibility in formulating demands which carry their own judgment, rather than making themselves mere messenger boys for unreasonable elements in the union membership.

"There has been a tendency on the part of the companies to hold back a reply to the union demands for an unreasonable length of time. Then the trouble begins. The existing contract has reached its termination date, the membership becomes restless, meetings are held and a strike results.

"Then the true and genuine collective bargaining process begins to take place in the very worst of auspices for its success, in the midst of a strike."

IN MEMORIAM

SMITH—In loving memory of our dear dad and grandpa, William Smith, who passed away, Dec. 2, 1943.

Calm and peaceful he is sleeping
Sweetest rest that follows pain.
We who loved him sadly miss him.
But trust in God to meet again
Ever remembered by Harold and Ivy, June and Ronald. D2

SMITH—In loving memory of our dad, William Smith who passed away Dec. 2, 1943.

We often sit and think of him when we are all alone.
For memory is the only friend that grief can call its own.
Like ivy on the withered oak, when all other things decay.
Our love for him will still keep green and never fade away.

POMEROY—In loving memory of Henry Pomeroy, who passed away Dec. 2nd., 1942.

He will live with us in memory,
Until the end of time.
Sadly missed by mother, father, wife and family. D2

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Dec. 2 —(CP)—Steels, newsprints and utilities showed moderate improvement in the early session on the stock exchange today with several key issues in the groups posting fractional advances. Golds, however, continued to drift listlessly.

Volume for the first three hours was 344,000 shares, about 76,000 below yesterday's similar period.

Algoma led steel gainers on an advance of $2 but nearly all in the group trading added fractions. Newsprints were mostly up. Utilities improved and liquors, food, were firmer but oils were quiet.

For senior golds fractioned advances were posted by Bralorne, Dome and Hollinger while juniors were off for Cariboo, Chesterville, Duquesne, East Malartic, Eldona, Giant, Madsen, Negus, Sullivan, Sylvanite and San Antonio. Base metals softened.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Dec. 2 (CP) — Cattle rices were firm at Monday's advances in the livestock market up to mid-session here today. Calves, hogs, sheep and lambs all remained steady. Receipts: Cattle 500, calves 400, hogs 600 sheep and lambs 800.

Butcher steers and heifers were bringing $11-$13.75 a hundredweight with fed yearlings at $14-$16. Butcher cows brought $7.50-$11 with canners down at $5-$6 cwt. Bologna bulls were $7-$9 with good butcher bulls bringing up to $10.75.

Calves were firm at $17-$18 for choice with plain heavies down to$10 cwt. Grassers brought $9-$9.50.

Hogs were steady at $23 for grade A and $22.60 for B1. Sows brought $15 dressed.

Lambs were steady at $15 for good ewes and wethers, $14 for bucks and $11-$12.50 for culls.

Sheep were steady from $4-$8.

Canadian Dollar Quoted at 88 Cents

Local banks quoted the Canadian dollar at 22 cents. In 1935 it dipped as low as 22 per cent discount.

Banking circles said Canada's unfavorable trade balance was responsible for the drop.

DREADED BACKACHE

For more than half a century De Witt's Pills have been helping sufferers from backache, and world-wide testimony fills our files to prove it. Try them for your trouble. Cut out the coupon below—mail it to De Witt's and get a free trial sample of this time-tested medicine.

Whether you suffer those back pains in silence or whether you complain, this much is certain—Nature is warning you that worse may follow unless you DO something about them. These pains may be traced to impurities left in the system that should have been cleared by the kidneys. This means that these vital organs are not doing their work thoroughly—it means that harmful waste matters are being allowed to linger and circulate in the system, setting up pain and discomfort—it means that the kidneys must be assisted in their non-stop duties as swiftly as possible. Get De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills—a medicine specially made for kidney trouble. De Witt's Pills act directly on the kidneys, helping to cleanse, to soothe, and assisting them to function naturally. They act promptly too, and relief soon follows, as those impurities that hurt and irritate are regularly expelled from the system.

Melrose

Melrose.—Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Whiteman, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McMechan and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Lazier recently returned from a few days spent in Toronto. Mrs. Lazier stopped off to visit her daughter, Mrs. Frank Bush, in Port Hope, on her way home.

The Women's Institute supper and bazaar were well attended on Wednesday evening and the proceeds amounted to over $100.00. Something new in the way of entertainment were the tricks of magic put on by the popular magician from Belleville, Mr. Foxard.

A number of families enjoyed the oyster supper in the Orange Hall, Shannonville, on Friday evening.

Mrs. Arnold Masters, Karen and Donald, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. R. Macfarlane.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Pascoe Jr., attended the funeral of the late Wm. White, of Roslin, on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant McLaren have taken up residence in the west part of the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. McLaren.

Mrs. Clayton Osborne has returned from a pleasant trip to Western Canada.

Mr. J. Tiffin with his father and sister, has taken over the business of the general store at Melrose. The former merchant Mr. C. E. Sexsmith, with his family, have moved to Cobourg, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Newton of Peterborough, visited the latter's sister, Mrs. R. Macfarlane, on Sunday. Mrs. R. McMechan returned to spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Newton, in Peterborough.

DROP IN SALES EXPECTED

Toronto, Dec. 2 (CP)—Toronto milk sales were expected to drop at least slightly as a result of the new two-cents-a-quart price boost a survey of milk distributors indicated today, but most of those polled added that it would take two or three more days to determine the exact effect of the new price.

Some dairy officials felt that the new price of 18 cents a quart would have a negligible effect on total sales. At the most, the decrease was not expected to be more than five per cent.

BRAKES BLAMED

Seattle, Dec. 2 — (AP) — Hydraulic brakes that failed to hold were blamed yesterday by Pilot James E. Farris, 37, of Seattle, for the Alaska Airlines transport plane crash at the Seattle-Tacoma airport Sunday which resulted in the death of eight persons. Two others are in critical condition.

London, Dec. 2 (CP) — A patchy, cold fog overlay most of the British Isles. Mon., stopping air services, delaying trains as much as an hour and trapping motorists who attempted to use the last drops of their withdrawn gasoline ration on weekend trips.

A railway worker was killed by an express train and more than a dozen persons were injured in bus and automobile accidents in the fog.

Temperatures fell to zero at Dalwhinnie, Scotland.

City's Elections

Monday's municipal elections in Belleville will go down on the records as the most enthusiastic contest in many years. They set a new record in the total of the vote which turned out to decide the four contests, those for mayor, aldermanic seats, the public utilities commissionership and the Board of Education. In the mayoralty the number of ballots cast was 5,164 as against last year's total of 4,652. For some years there has been a steady rise in the number of voters exercising their franchise and it is encouraging to have the vote still larger this year.

The mayoral contest provided the most exciting feature of the day's voting, Mayor-Elect Denzil L. Storey being a newcomer to municipal office. He has been a resident for many years but this was his first attempt to seek municipal office. The fact that he was competing with Mayor Frank S. Follwell who is completing his third year as Mayor after three years spent as an alderman together with the fact that Mr. Storey had never competed for local office contributed much of the interest and speculation of the public as to the probable outcome of the fight for the mayor's office. Mayor Follwell received 2,184 votes but his opponent received 2,980 for a majority of 796. During the course of the counting of the votes, the Mayor-elect steadily advanced his majority, never being headed by the present occupant in office. Analysis of the polling shows that Mr. Storey led in 22 of the 30 voting subdivisions.

Closest competition of all was for the Public Utilities Commission. Commissioner Russell Wotten was victor by 51 votes in a total poll of 5,013, his opponent being Ex-Mayor Harry Rollins. This contest was keen all the way to the final tabulation.

Additional interest in the contest for the council is seen in the large number of eighteen seekers for the seven aldermanic seats. Three newcomers made high runs for the office. Alderman H. John Allin led the poll to be followed by Urias (Sandy) Lummiss in second place, George Brown, third, Orliff Lloyd, fourth. Alderman Charles L. Hyde, Alderman Claude D. Tice and Alderman Newton C. Wilbur of the present council were returned with a large following in each case. These elections were very close the six men elected for second to seventh places were bunched together in the final results, only 419 votes marking the second from the seventh place. Following fairly close on the successful seekers for the aldermanic seats were most of the other candidates. Among the defeated were Everett Liddle in eighth position, Alderman Fred Chamberlain ninth and Douglas Bews, tenth, and Alderman William Harvey, who has spent many years in the Board of Education and in the Council, in eleventh place. The other candidates in the losing column were Harry Knott, Frank Smith Arthur C, Cole, Arthur Keegan, Thomas Rees, Isaac Stephenson and Jeuel Bentley.

In the Board of Education there was a spirited competition with 2,653 votes going to Harold Seldon, present trustee who led the poll. Dr. Austin Walters ran second in his first contest for office, while Miss Josephine Tickell, a present trustee, was third. In the fourth seat to be filled in the board for 1948 will be Arthur Burke of Belleville, a former Sidney township resident and reeve of the township, of long municipal experience. Frank Creeggan, who had filled an unexpired term, was in fifth place and therefore failed to be elected.

The voters who turned out to roll up the highest totals on record made a commendable showing in their interest in civic affairs. There are a number of reasons for this unusual interest, the spirited rivalry of the contestants, the impressive development of Belleville industrially, and the increase in the city's population during the war years and since. This enthusiasm in municipal matters is a healthy sign and is inspiring to those who have been reelected to office and those who enter upon these official duties for the first time as well as to those who have served the municipality up to this time.

In the proportion of the number of voters exercising their franchise, Belleville can take pride and look forward to still further and continued interest in the progress and administration of the city.

Cranberries, With Honor

Before succumbing to the human appetite the cranberry runs a gauntlet of slings and arrows that would long since have discouraged a berry less hardy. Two hungry fungi find him quite palatable. In his peat bog he is susceptible to the nippers of frost twice a year, in the spring for the blossoms, in the fall for the fruit. A whole host of insects must be repelled. Cranberries fascinate the gypsy moth. Baby fruitworms cry for them. They lure black-headed fireworms irresistibly. A fearsome critter, known to microscopes as the blunt-nosed leaf hopper, is a steady diner. It's a rugged trip from the bog to the bag, but they make it.

The fact is no better case history can be found for the thesis that Man is everywhere engaged in a life-and-death struggle with The Insect. Subversive larvae bore from within the berry. Full-grown barbarians invade the bogs as often as eight times a year, requiring different techniques for counter-attack. It is totalitarian warfare, with poison a top weapon. Researchers, scientists, manufacturers co-operate with growers in a permanent Marshall plan to sustain the berries against all enemies, foreign and domestic. Airpower is in the fray, with helicopters spraying insecticides onto bogs otherwise inaccessible.

General Le Clerc

One of the dramatic moments of the Second World War occurred on Jan. 19, 1943, when patrols from General Montgomery's Eighth Army came up with a ragged French column which had advanced across a thousand miles of desert from Lake Chad. French Equatorial Afrlca, refusing to co-operate with Vichy, had painfully mustered its forces. Gen. Jacques Le Clerc, adhering to the de Gaulle government in exile, had assembled a few hundred white men and a larger force of native Africans and made this tremendous march across the desert. In the final North African campaign he moved into Tunisia on Montgomery's left flank, and in the year of victory he led an armored division in Normandy and escorted de Gaulle into Paris. His military operations were on a small scale in a tremendous war, but the first of them came at a time when they were of incalculable value in arousing hope and fighting spirit in France.

Later, as France, liberated, split into warring parties, Le Clerc was a figure in the controversy that raged around de Gaulle. Perhaps this political storm will be forgotten now, for the famous desert fighter, one of the victims of an airplane accident, lies dead in the Sahara sands. What will be remembered will be that Jacques Le Clerc, faced with a choice between a base compromise and an almost hopeless resistance, chose the nobler course.—New York Times.

A Book of Honor

In the London Press Club there has been unveiled a Book of Honor containing the names of 420 journalists of Britain, the Dominions and the colonies who lost their lives in World War II. It includes the names of 27 Canadians.

Many of these men were war correspondents. No other war ever was reported so swiftly and with so much competence, but to perform this most important public service the correspondents shared the risks of the combatants — without the satisfaction of fighting back—and the casualties among them were heavy.

Correspondents who lost their lives by enemy action were war casualties equally with those who fought and died on land, on sea or in the air, served as gallantly, were moved by the same sense of duty and devotion. They belong, reporters and fighting men, in the same roll of honor.—Ottawa Journal.

EXCUSE MAKER

The dullest man can think up in the twinkling of an eye,
When he's asked to lend assistance,
why the call he must deny.
He can rattle off excuses for not doing what he should,
And he'll add he's very sorry, for he wishes that he could.

The maker of excuses seldom wonders
if he can.
He will answer very promptly, he's a very busy man.
He has all the reasons ready why he cannot lend a hand.
He is always most regretful, and he hopes you'll understand.

The useful man is different. He may have excuses good,
But he hesitates to tell them if he thinks that help he should.
And, he may be very busy and be often out of town,
But if the cause be worthy he will never turn it down.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

When were oil pipelines first used?

Transportation of crude petroleum by means of pressure-operated underground metal pipes was suggested soon after the first successful oil well was drilled in 1859 at Titusville in western Pennsylvania.

As early as 1861 Henry Hartley devised a pressure pipeline that he believed would transport crude oil as easily as water or natural gas if properly installed.

The real beginning of pressure-operated pipelines began in 1864 when a New Jersey engineer named J. L. Hutchings demonstrated in the western Pennsylvania oil fields a rotary pump capable of forcing crude oil through iron pipes. Although this first demonstration failed because

In some lines as many as 16 different grades of gasoline and other petroleum products are transported in successive "slugs."

Pipelines are used to transport not only crude oil and its many by-products and natural gas but also to a limited extent many "modified solids," such as powdered coal and certain types of ore is suspencion, molasses and the latex of natural rubber.

Petroleum pipelines are often obstructed by an ice-like formation known as gas hydrate. When a section of pipeline has to be cleaned scouring devices called "go devils" and "scarifiers" are blown through the pipe.

(1936 was the year of the big Arab uprising in Palestine.)

At 1:10 p.m. the official Palestine information bureau issued a statement saying the "situation is under control."

A bureau spokesman said police were holding the Arabs within the old city and that the Jewish agency had recalled Hagana forces.

Police earlier estimated that as many as 3,000 Arabs had stormed out of the old city of Jerusalem and headed for the Jewish quarter.

WOTTEN

The fight for the mayoralty was never in duobt after the first five or six polling subdivisions submitted returns. The first return gave Mayor Follwell a majority of two, but after that it was a consistent Storey story. The new mayor piled up a gradually increasing majority despite the fact that Mayor Follwell held leads in eight of the 30 subdivisions. Mayor Follwell gained his biggest majority in Coleman 15 where he held a 51 majority over the opposition while Mayor-Elect Storey polled his biggest subdivision vote in Murney 23 receiving a majority of 91 over his opponent.

With 20 polls heard from Mayor Elect Storey had a majority of 406 over Follwell and he doubled this in the next ten subdivisions.

Ran Consistently

Aldermanic candidates ran consistently throughout the evening. Alderman Allin, Lummiss, Lloyd and Brown established an early lead and never were headed. Aldermen Tice and Wilbur staged a stubborn battle with the lead changing occasionally while candidate Everett Liddle was a close runner-up but lost out as the final returns came in. A margin of two votes separated Alderman Chamberlain and candidate Douglas Bews who finished in 9th and 10th places respectively.

And there was plenty of electoral interest in the elections. Indicative of this, in conjunction with other instances, was the fact that one voter called the editorial rooms of this newspaper as early as four o'clock in the afternoon, requesting information on the standing of the mayoral candidates.

The offices of City Clerk Wilfred Holmes were packed to the doors shortly after seven o'clock, as aldermen, candidates and interested voters thronged and milled about impatiently awaiting returns.

Corridors Crowded

By nine o'clock the corridors outside the city clerk's offices were crowded with people. They spilled over into the mayor's office and the council chamber. Some stood outside. Others with pencil and paper tirelessly took down returns as they trickled in over the wire to the desk where City Engineer Charles Mott, City Comptroller Harold Bateman, Assistant Assessor Layton Thompson and press and radio representatives, held forth as statisticians. Not a few ladies were noticed in the milling crowd that packed the upper floors of the City Hall.

Then it was over. And for the first time in years, the sound of music and cheering echoed in city streets as a victorious candidate was escorted from his headquarters to the City Hall. To the skirling pibrochs of Wee Jamie Clark's pipes, the Storey supporters paraded their new chieftain to the seat of the municipal mighty, where he received the congratulations of many.

Geo. A. Reid, Chairman

The council chamber was packed to the doors with excited victorious candidates, the more sombre gentlemen who were not elected and a milling crowd of people. They jammed the doorways and the corridors. Inside George A. Reid was appointed chairman for the post-election vocal celebrations, every seat was occupied and standing room was at a premium. It was by far the largest crowd to great successful election candidates seen here in years.

Another hive of activity was the editorials room of this newspaper. A battery of telephones rang and buzzed consistently as hundreds of the curious requested information regarding the outcome of the election. An augmented staff were kept busy up until eleven-thirty and calls did not begin to slacken until well after that time. Busy too, were the young ladies of the Bell Telephone Company here who did a fine job in relaying calls to these offices. It is estimated that the number of calls received ran well up in the thousands.

DEPRIVATION OF OXYGEN

The old, familiar name for it is asphyxia, asphyxiation, which means deprivation of air (oxygen), whether by suffocation, smothering, submersion, drowning, accidental obstruction of breathing by lodgment of foreign body, choking or throttling, or gassing.

Here is part of the story of Mrs. Idi Otic, let us call her, who, like millions of laymen and thousands of doctors, still harbors a quaint notion that par - boiling stewing or roasting is good treatment for whatever the victim believes to be a bad "cold". I print excerpts from Mrs. Ottic's story here only as a warning to others who may be tempted as she was to flirt with death.

"I lit our gas heater in our tiny bathroom, closed the door and window, filled the tub with water as hot as I could stand and settled in the balm of the hot bath. Remained there for three hours. I could smell the sickly fumes from the heater but . . . I began to feel nauseated, my face became flushed and I became fainter and fainter, but still managed to open the window above the tub. Then I guess I passed out . . . my symptoms were from monoxide asphyxia . . ."

Luckily the lady lived to tell the story.

The first moral to draw from her story is this: Never use a portable heater that burns any kind of fuel in a bathroom or a closed bedroom, unless ample ventilation is assured— by way of an open window. Only an electric heater is safe to use in bathroom or bedroom without such ventilation.

The second moral to draw from Mrs. Idi Otic's stupid gamble with death is this: If the burner produces enough carbon monoxide to bring the concentration up to 3 parts of the deadly gas in a thousand parts of air, breathing the air man mean death unless rescue is prompt.

Air containing a dangerous amount of carbon monoxide may have no noticeable odor. It is not the carbon monoxide that causes the "sickly fumes" Mrs. Otic mentions, but other and comparatively harmless combustion products. It is therefore stupid (I seem fond of the word, don't I? But N. Webster tells me it is the word for wanting in understanding)—it is stupid to assume there is in dangerous carbon monoxide in the air just because you can't smell anything.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Asphyxia and Goat Breeding

Much interested in your articles about carbon monoxide asphyxia. I have a pure bred Toggenburg registered buck — if you know of any one who wants to breed a doe. (E. L.)

Answer—I don't, but I know a fellow who has a pair of English bowls, not two badly cracked he'd be glad to trade for what you have.

Pruritus Cured

Want you to know that the carban tetrachloride treatment you recommended completely cured my pruritus, although the first application hurt terribly for there were fissues, too. (Mrs. E. W. A.)

Answer—Thank you. On written request (no clipping, please) any reader who provides stamped self addressed envelope may have the pamphlet on Pruritus — ($1.50 word for itching, especially itching without spparent cause.)

M. D. versus D. O.

Please explain the difference between an M. D. and D. O. Probably a good many people do not understand — they think any one who calls himself "Doctor" must have been authorized by the "authorities" to do so. (Miss C. F. M.)

Answer—M. D. means doctor of medicine and surgery. D. O. means doctor of osetopathy. Consult Webster for the meaning of medicine, surgery and osteopathy. There should be no difference between doctors — all should be licensed on the same qualifications and all should work together. It is stupid to attempt to diagnose or treat disease by the narrow tenets or system of a particular "school".

Bank of Montreal President Says Self-Imposed Restraint Needed To Fight High Prices

George Spinney Also Asks For Immediate Selective Immigration Policy For Canada

B. C. GARDNER, GENERAL MANAGER REPORTS B of M DEPOSITORS NOW OVER 1,600,000; CAUTIONS BUSINESS ON FINANCING

Montreal, Dec. 2.—"Self-imposed restraint from charging what the traffic will bear, either for goods or the skill required to produce them, is as necessary, as practical and as prudent as fire insurance on a highly inflammable structure." In these words, George Spinney, president of the Bank of Montreal, Monday emphasized the need of a "sharpened sense of responsibility" among all influential groups in the community for the implications of their policies in relation to the behavior of price and living costs.

Speaking at the bank's 130th annual meeting, Mr. Spinney said that self-restraint in the matter of prices and costs is a "safeguard that no group, representative of labor or industry and responsible for shaping policies that bear on prices and costs can afford to ignore in the interests of their own continued well-being, apart entirely from broader and no less important considerations of the collective welfare of the entire community."

The great rise in prices and costs was described as "everybody's concern" by Mr. Spinney, who observed, "It affects the housewife, ruefully contemplating the family budget. It enormously complicates the problem of providing urgently needed housing at prices that people can afford to pay. It reduces the real value of all accumulated savings in monetary form, eating away at the hard-won rewards of foresight and thrift.

"While we in Canada have been spared the hardships of violent inflation," he concluded, "we have experienced enough of the consequences of a gradual depreciation of the internal purchasing power of our dollar to yearn for the advantages of a dependable standard of values in terms of a stable level of prices."

Less Government Spending

Emphasizing the need for reduced government outlays, Mr. Spinney said that, at the present time, "even the most ardent proponent of compensatory public spending would, I think, agree that we have arrived at one of those points in the economic cycle where old-fashioned virtues of frugality are thoroughly consistent with the dictates of the most advanced economic theory. The course now indicated is the difficult and more courageous route of remorseless elimination of luxuries of governmental expenditure, which represent an unnecessary demand on the taxpayer and on our productive resources."

Noting that Bank of Montreal loans had increased by 91 per cent since the end of the war, Mr. Spinney explained that this trend was much in the nature of a readjustment during which banks had been resuming their normal and necessary role as a source of credit in a peacetime economy.

Constructive Credit Policy

"I am satisfied," he continued, "that this bank has been, and is now, actively pursuing a liberal and constructive credit policy in the broadest and best sense of these terms. But, as I endeavored to emphasize last year, it is certainly not a part of such a policy to encourage a business or an individual to get into debt for ill-considered expansion or for any other purpose in conflict with sound and reasonable practice. Only by a continuing concern to avoid extension of credit for such purposes can our responsibilities be fulfilled—not only to borrowers, depositors and shareholders, but I should add with special emphasis, to the community as a whole.

"It is at a time like the present," Mr. Spinney added, "that the practical value of the highly personal relationship between banker and customer becomes most fully apparent. Every situation has its individual aspects, and in meeting each one intangible factors of character and personal knowledge arising out of long experience are given due weight."

"I know of no business less fitted to the routine techniques of bureaucracy than banking," he said.

Immediate Immigration

Touching on our unbalanced trading relationships, Mr. Spinney suggested that Canada should forcibly direct her attention to ways and means of shaping a more balanced economy, thus lessening this nation's dependence on, and vulnerability to, influences beyond her control.

"To put the matter bluntly," he declared, "Canadians are at this moment helping to support, at a low level of existence, many of these people who could be and should be carving out a fuller life for themselves in this country in which there are far too many empty spaces. If ever there was a time when Canada should press forward with an immigration program, that time is now," he said. "Such a policy must be vigorous, imaginative, and it goes without saying, highly selective from the standpoint of occupation and fitness for citizenship.

"An influx of new skills," Mr. Spinney continued, "will be of immeasurable aid in bringing about the further development of our industrial capacity, both extensively and intensively, and thus helping to overcome some of the instabilities that are the inevitable consequence of our present relatively small home market and our over-dependence on external trade."

General Manager's Address

In his report, B. C. Gardner, general manager, reported a new high in number of B. of M. deposit accounts—now more than 1,600,000. Total deposits were $1,783,000,000, he added, as compared with $1,736,000,000 for the previous year.

As further evidence of the bank's expanding post-war activity, Mr. Gardner noted that the bank had opened 28 branches and sub-agencies during the year. There had been a relatively greater increase in bank personnel which grew from 8,400 in 1946 to 8,900 at the end of the current fiscal year. He referred to the bank's staff training program, the increasing mechanization of routine transactions, and the establishment of a group of routine organization officers whose duty it was to assist branches in simplifying and improving their operations.

Turning to the volume of foreign trade in the last year, Mr. Gardner reported that importers and exporters have made increasing use of the bank's facilities, while the demand for travel funds and foreign remittances has also been greater.

Through its relationships with banking correspondents in practically all foreign countries, Mr. Gardner said that the B. of M. had found that dealing with long-established banks in their respective countries enabled the bank to provide its customers with unexcelled facilities for conducting their import and export trade.

Sound Financing Needed

Referring to the increase in borrowing for capital purposes, Mr. Gardner emphasized the importance of maintaining in corporate structures, a reasonable relationship between equity capital and borrowed money. This, he said, applied particularly to concerns that had been expanding rapidly and whose equity investment had become proportionately small in relation to higher turnover and increased fixed assets.

"One of the necessary conditions of a vigorous and healthy flow of equity funds into industry is a taxation policy which makes investment of risk capital both possible and worthwhile," Mr. Gardner pointed out. "In this connection," he went on, "it may be said that the high taxation of recent years, in addition to discouraging new equity investment, has encouraged a substitution of borrowed money for shareholders funds in existing capitalizations, principally because of the fact that interest is deductible as a prior charge before arriving at taxable income. While this is an understandable development from a taxation standpoint, it has in many instances had the effect of introducing an undesirable element of rigidity in corporate financial structures.

Working Capital Needed

"I also feel," he continued, "there may be some danger that under present conditions some concerns are attempting to do a larger volume of business than is warranted by their capital resources. While I do not suggest that this development has reached alarming proportions, I do feel that where the physical volume of business is substantially larger and prices are higher, the need for adequate working capital should be kept actively in mind. This is particularly true as long as the high level of taxation limits the amount of profits that can be retained in the business."

In his closing remarks, Mr. Gardner paid warm tribute to the staff. Noting that numerous returned veterans on the staff already occupied important posts, he added that many new entrants engaged since the war were also veterans. Mr. Gardner paid special tribute to the women employees who comprise some 56 per cent of the total staff.

"The organization and arrangements relating to the development, the progress and the welfare of our staff are under continuous and careful study," Mr. Gardner said. "I know of no feature of our business that has required more care and consideration over the past year."

Montreal, December 2 — Appointment of Gordon R. Ball as general manager of the Bank of Montreal, succeeding B. C. Gardner, who becomes executive vice president was announced by Geo. W. Spinney, president of the bank, following its 130th annual meeting here yesterday.

Long one of the bank's key executives, Mr. Ball, who has been head of the institution's important New York agency for the past three years, brings to his new post a broad experience in banking. Just past his fiftieth year, the new general manager of Canada's senior bank began his career 33 years ago as a junior at Perth, Ont.

Mr. Ball who is a Torontonian by birth, was scarcely started in banking when, at 18, he enlisted as a private in the Canadian Field Artillery. After a brief training period at Kingston, Ont., he was sent to England and early in 1916 he went to France as a reinforcement to the Third Battery C.F.A. First Division. As a signalman and later as an observer, he saw considerable active service. Twice wounded, he was awarded the Military Medal for bravery, and was discharged in November 1919, with the rank of Corporal.

While in New York, Mr. Ball has always taken an active part in Canadian affairs there. He is first vice president of the Canadian Society of New York, past governor of the Canadian Club of New York, and a member of the British Empire Chamber of Commerce in the United States.

Headed C.B.A.

His predecessor, Mr. Gardner—now executive vice president of the bank—who has just completed a two year term as president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, was once—like Mr. Ball—first agent at the bank's New York office. That was in 1934, following two years as second agent.

From New York he came to Montreal as assistant general manager at the head office, a position he held until 1942, when he became the B of M's general manager. Two years later his responsibilities were enlarged when he was made director of the bank with the title of vice president and general manager.

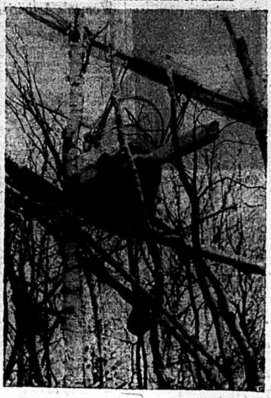
GORDON R. BALL

Mr. Gardner, who was born in England, came to Canada in 1906 at the age of 22, after five years' experience with Stuckey's Banking Company Limited in Bristol, his native city. His early years in Canada were spent in British Columbia—then very much in the pioneering stage of its development. His first managerial appointment came when he was 26—at Trail, B.C.

Mr. Gardner, also, has had a a distinguished military career. It began at the outbreak of hostilities in 1914. Commissioned as a lieutenant in the Overseas Detachment of the 79th (Winnipeg) Regiment, Cameron Highlanders of Canada, he saw extensive service in France. Twice wounded, he won the Military Cross for conspicuous bravery in leading an attack at Avion. At the end of the war, Mr. Gardner held the rank of Major and was second in command of his unit.

To the newly created post of executive vice president of the bank, Mr. Gardner brings outstanding experience in the various fields of the B of M's operations, including Newfoundland, as well as the United States and Canada, while his services in community matters have included active participation in the affairs of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, of the executive committee of which he is a member, and in the activities of the Canadian Legion. He is a past president of the Sir Arthur Currie branch of the Legion, a life governor of the Montreal General Hospital, and a member of the board of governors of Ridley College, St. Catharines, Ont.

PLANE LANDS GRACEFULLY ON TREES



The pilot of this two-seat training plane, owned by the Cape Breton, N.S., Flying Club, found himself in an embarrassing position when his plane settled gracefully on the treetops near Reserve flying field. The plane was only slightly damaged during the routine take-off and the pilot got down from his lofty perch unhurt.

Cold Fog Overlies British Isles

London, Dec. 2 (CP) — A patchy, cold fog overlay most of the British Isles. Mon., stopping air services, delaying trains as much as an hour and trapping motorists who attempted to use the last drops of their withdrawn gasoline ration on weekend trips.

A railway worker was killed by an express train and more than a dozen persons were injured in bus and automobile accidents in the fog.

Temperatures fell to zero at Dalwhinnie, Scotland.

Despite the weather 300 persons queued for as long as four hours in front of St. James' Palace, awaiting the 10 a.m. opening of a public exhibition of Princess Elizabeth's wedding gifts.

In London, vsibility varied between five and 25 yards. Icy roads added to the hazards.

With thousands of motorists deprived of the "basic" gasoline ration under a government austerity move, "priority" drivers gave lifts to many but many more jammed commuters' trains. These trains have been running less frequently than usual because of the necessity for especially careful "fog services."

Main line trains were far behind schedule. Scottish expresses arriving in Euston were more than an hour late.

Sleet or snow was expected in many parts by nightfall.

George W. Spinney, C.M.G., President, and B. C. Gardner, M.C., Vice-President and General Manager, who addressed shareholders at the Bank of Montreal's 130th annual meeting.

Bank of Montreal President Says Self-Imposed Restraint Needed To Fight High Prices

George Spinney Also Asks For Immediate Selective Immigration Policy For Canada

B. C. GARDNER, GENERAL MANAGER REPORTS B of M DEPOSITORS NOW OVER 1,600,000; CAUTIONS BUSINESS ON FINANCING

Montreal, Dec. 2.—"Self-imposed restraint from charging what the traffic will bear, either for goods or the skill required to produce them, is as necessary, as practical and as prudent as fire insurance on a highly inflammable structure." In these words, George Spinney, president of the Bank of Montreal, Monday emphasized the need of a "sharpened sense of responsibility" among all influential groups in the community for the implications of their policies in relation to the behavior of price and living costs.

Speaking at the bank's 130th annual meeting, Mr. Spinney said that self-restraint in the matter of prices and costs is a "safeguard that no group, representative of labor or industry and responsible for shaping policies that bear on prices and costs can afford to ignore in the interests of their own continued well-being, apart entirely from broader and no less important considerations of the collective welfare of the entire community."

The great rise in prices and costs was described as "everybody's concern" by Mr. Spinney, who observed, "It affects the house wife, ruefully contemplating the family budget. It enormously complicates the problem of providing urgently needed housing at prices that people can afford to pay. It reduces the real value of all accumulated savings in monetary form, eating away at the hard-won rewards of foresight and thrift.

"While we in Canada have been spared the hardships of violent inflation," he concluded, "we have experienced enough of the consequences of a gradual depreciation of the internal purchasing power of our dollar to yearn for the advantages of a dependable standard of values in terms of a stable level of prices."

Less Government Spending

Emphasizing the need for reduced government outlays, Mr. Spinney said that, at the present time, "even the most ardent proponent of compensatory public spending would, I think, agree that we have arrived at one of those points in the economic cycle where old-fashioned virtues of frugality are thoroughly consistent with the dictates of the most advanced economic theory. The course now indicated is the difficult and more courageous route of remorseless elimination of luxuries of governmental expenditure, which represent an unnecessary demand on the taxpayer and on our productive resources."

Noting that Bank of Montreal loans had increased by 91 per cent since the end of the war, Mr. Spinney explained that this trend was much in the nature of a readjustment during which banks had been resuming their normal and necessary role as a source of credit in a peacetime economy.

Constructive Credit Policy

"I am satisfied," he continued, "that this bank has been, and is now, actively pursuing a liberal and constructive credit policy in the broadest and best sense of these terms. But, as I endeavored to emphasize last year, it is certainly not a part of such a policy to encourage a business or an individual to get into debt for ill-considered expansion or for any other purpose in conflict with sound and reasonable practice. Only by a continuing concern to avoid extension of credit for such purposes can our responsibilities be fulfilled—not only to borrowers, depositors and shareholders, but I should add with special emphasis, to the community as a whole.

"It is at a time like the present," Mr. Spinney added, "that the practical value of the highly personal relationship between banker and customer becomes most fully apparent. Every situation has its individual aspects, and in meeting each one intangible factors of character and personal knowledge arising out of long experience are given due weight."

"I know of no business less fitted to the routine techniques of bureaucracy than banking," he said.

Immediate Immigration

Touching on our unbalanced trading relationships, Mr. Spinney suggested that Canada should forcibly direct her attention to ways and means of shaping a more balanced economy, thus lessening this nation's dependence on, and vulnerability to, influences beyond her control.

"To put the matter bluntly," he declared, "Canadians are at this moment helping to support, at a low level of existence, many of these people who could be and should be carving out a fuller life for themselves in this country in which there are far too many empty spaces. If ever there was a time when Canada should press forward with an immigration program, that time is now," he said. "Such a policy must be vigorous, imaginative, and it goes without saying, highly selective from the standpoint of occupation and fitness for citizenship.

"An influx of new skills," Mr. Spinney continued, "will be of immeasurable aid in bringing about the further development of our industrial capacity, both extensively and intensively, and thus helping to overcome some of the instabilities that are the inevitable consequence of our present relatively small home market and our over-dependence on external trade."

General Manager's Address

In his report, B. C. Gardner, general manager, reported a new high in number of B. of M. deposit accounts—now more than 1,600,000. Total deposits were $1,783,000,000, he added, as compared with $1,736,000,000 for the previous year.

As further evidence of the bank's expanding post-war activity, Mr. Gardner noted that the bank had opened 28 branches and sub-agencies during the year. There had been a relatively greater increase in bank personnel which grew from 8,400 in 1946 to 8,900 at the end of the current fiscal year. He referred to the bank's staff training program, the increasing mechanization of routine transactions, and the establishment of a group of routine organization officers whose duty it was to assist branches in simplifying and improving their operations.

Turning to the volume of foreign trade in the last year, Mr. Gardner reported that importers and exporters have made increasing use of the bank's facilities, while the demand for travel funds and foreign remittances has also been greater.

Through its relationships with banking correspondents in practically all foreign countries, Mr. Gardner said that the B. of M. had found that dealing with long-established banks in their respective countries enabled the bank to provide its customers with unexcelled facilities for conducting their import and export trade.

Sound Financing Needed

Referring to the increase in borrowing for capital purposes, Mr. Gardner emphasized the importance of maintaining in corporate structures, a reasonable relationship between equity capital and borrowed money. This, he said, applied particularly to concerns that had been expanding rapidly and whose equity investment had become proportionately small in relation to higher turnover and increased fixed assets.

"One of the necessary conditions of a vigorous and healthy flow of equity funds into industry is a taxation policy which makes investment of risk capital both possible and worthwhile," Mr. Gardner pointed out. "In this connection," he went on, "it may be said that the high taxation of recent years, in addition to discouraging new equity investment, has encouraged a substitution of borrowed money for shareholders funds in existing capitalizations, principally because of the fact that interest is deductible as a prior charge before arriving at taxable income. While this is an understandable development from a taxation standpoint, it has in many instances had the effect of introducing an undesirable element of rigidity in corporate financial structures.

Working Capital Needed

"I also feel," he continued, "there may be some danger that under present conditions some concerns are attempting to do a larger volume of business than is warranted by their capital resources. While I do not suggest that this development has reached alarming proportions, I do feel that where the physical volume of business is substantially larger and prices are higher, the need for adequate working capital should be kept actively in mind. This is particularly true as long as the high level of taxation limits the amount of profits that can be retained in the business."

In his closing remarks, Mr. Gardner paid warm tribute to the staff. Noting that numerous returned veterans on the staff already occupied important posts, he added that many new entrants engaged since the war were also veterans. Mr. Gardner paid special tribute to the women employees who comprise some 56 per cent of the total staff.

"The organization and arrangements relating to the development, the progress and the welfare of our staff are under continuous and careful study," Mr. Gardner said. "I know of no feature of our business that has required more care and consideration over the past year."

Montreal, December 2 — Appointment of Gordon R. Ball as general manager of the Bank of Montreal, succeeding B. C. Gardner, who becomes executive vice president was announced by Geo. W. Spinney, president of the bank, following its 130th annual meeting here yesterday.

Long one of the bank's key executives, Mr. Ball, who has been head of the institution's important New York agency for the past three years, brings to his new post a broad experience in banking. Just past his fiftieth year, the new general manager of Canada's senior bank began his career 33 years ago as a junior at Perth, Ont.

Mr. Ball who is a Torontonian by birth, was scarcely started in banking when, at 18, he enlisted as a private in the Canadian Field Artillery. After a brief training period at Kingston, Ont., he was sent to England and early in 1916 he went to France as a reinforcement to the Third Battery C.F.A. First Division. As a signalman and later as an observer, he saw considerable active service. Twice wounded, he was awarded the Military Medal for bravery, and was discharged in November 1919, with the rank of Corporal.

While in New York, Mr. Ball has always taken an active part in Canadian affairs there. He is first vice president of the Canadian Society of New York, past governor of the Canadian Club of New York, and a member of the British Empire Chamber of Commerce in the United States.

Headed C.B.A.

His predecessor, Mr. Gardner—now executive vice president of the bank—who has just completed a two year term as president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, was once—like Mr. Ball—first agent at the bank's New York office. That was in 1934, following two years as second agent.

From New York he came to Montreal as assistant general manager at the head office, a position he held until 1942, when he became the B of M's general manager. Two years later his responsibilities were enlarged when he was made director of the bank with the title of vice president and general manager.

Mr. Gardner, who was born in England, came to Canada in 1906 at the age of 22, after five years' experience with Stuckey's Banking Company Limited in Bristol, his native city. His early years in Canada were spent in British Columbia—then very much in the pioneering stage of its development. His first managerial appointment came when he was 26—at Trail, B.C.

Mr. Gardner, also, has had a distinguished military career. It began at the outbreak of hostilities in 1914. Commissioned as a lieutenant in the Overseas Detachment of the 79th (Winnipeg) Regiment, Cameron Highlanders of Canada, he saw extensive service in France. Twice wounded, he won the Military Cross for conspicuous bravery in leading an attack at Avion. At the end of the war, Mr. Gardner held the rank of Major and was second in command of his unit.

To the newly created post of executive vice president of the bank, Mr. Gardner brings outstanding experience in the various fields of the B of M's operations, including Newfoundland, as well as the United States and Canada, while his services in community matters have included active participation in the affairs of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, of the executive committee of which he is a member, and in the activities of the Canadian Legion. He is a past president of the Sir Arthur Currie branch of the Legion, a life governor of the Montreal General Hospital, and a member of the board of governors of Ridley College, St. Catharines, Ont.

PLANE LANDS GRACEFULLY ON TREES

The pilot of this two-seat training plane, owned by the Cape Breton, N.S., Flying Club, found himself in an embarrassing position when his plane settled gracefully on the treetops near Reserve flying field. The plane was only slightly damaged during the routine take-off and the pilot got down from his lofty perch unhurt.

Cold Fog Overlies British Isles

London, Dec. 2 (CP) — A patchy, cold fog overlay most of the British Isles. Mon., stopping air services, delaying trains as much as an hour and trapping motorists who attempted to use the last drops of their withdrawn gasoline ration on weekend trips.

A railway worker was killed by an express train and more than a dozen persons were injured in bus and automobile accidents in the fog.

Temperatures fell to zero at Dalwhinnie, Scotland.

Despite the weather 300 persons queued for as long as four hours in front of St. James' Palace, awaiting the 10 a.m. opening of a public exhibition of Princess Elizabeth's wedding gifts.

In London, vsibility varied between five and 25 yards. Icy roads added to the hazards.

With thousands of motorists deprived of the "basic" gasoline ration under a government austerity move, "priority" drivers gave lifts to many but many more jammed commuters' trains. These trains have been running less frequently than usual because of the necessity for especially careful "fog services."

Main line trains were far behind schedule. Scottish expresses arriving in Euston were more than an hour late.

Sleet or snow was expected in many parts by nightfall.

LONG YULE HOLIDAY

Brantford, Dec. 2 — (CP) — Many Brantford stores will close from Wednesday evening, Dec. 24, to Monday morning, Dec. 29, according to a unanimous decision reached at a meeting of 25 leading merchants today.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. R. Odendahl wish to announce the engagement of their granddaughter Marjorie Lorraine Odendahl to Harry Arthur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Newman, Saskatoon, Sask., wedding to take place in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Krause, of Aurora, Ill., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Freeman, Bridge Street East.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Dew, Maple, Ont., were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. McBurney, Hillside Street.

Fashion Flashes

NO COLLAR at all last year, and now it's the chin-chin collar that rides high and frames the chin. It appears in some of the new fur coats, and on fabric and fur-trimmed models. Grand on a blustery day, and very pretty. When not buttoned securely, it can be flipped in half, or left quite unbuttoned with one side rolled.

VERY RICH embroidery decorates many of the small headdress coifs so liked as hats for important after-five costumes. The coif effect is used for a turban much draped at either side, with the front or the top open to reveal the hair. It is thickly embroidered in black and gold sequins and gold thread in a sculptured design with an irregular edge.

WEDDINGS

OSTERHOUT—BAITLEY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. George Baitley, Wellington, was made doubly attractive with an arch of evergreens as background for baskets of bronze and yellow 'mums and large wedding bells, for the marriage at one o'clock on the afternoon of Saturday, Nov. 29, of their youngest daughter, Kathryn Jeane, to William Elmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Osterhout of Burr's. Rev. E. Grant performed the ceremony, and wedding music was provided by Mrs. Dayton Murphy, who played "Smilin Through" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charmingly gowned in blush pink brocaded satin, princess style, featuring a sweetheart neckline and puff sleeves. Her fingertip veil fell from a headdress of rosebuds, and she carried a bouquet of Briarcliffe roses and bouvardia. Her only other ornament was a strand of pearls.

Miss Eleanor Ogilvy was her cousin's bridesmaid, wearing a gown of ice blue chiffon, with matching shoulder length veil and a headdress of pink gardenias. She carried a nosegay of pink snapdragons and white 'mums.

Mr. Donald Osterhout, of Burr's, was his brother's groomsman.

Following the ceremony a reception for forty-five guests was held at "Maple Inn", in Bloomfield, where the bride's mother received in a dress of grey crepe, with black lace trimming, a black hat with pink ostrich plume, matching accessories and a corsage of bronze 'mums. The groom's mother also received, wearing a dress of royal blue crepe, with black hat and accessories. Her corsage was of yellow 'mums.

Following their return Mr. and Mrs. Osterhout will reside in Wellington.

The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a strand of pearls, to the organist, a cup and saucer; the groom's gift to the bride was a chest of silver.

REID—BURLEY

Rev. J. Grant Sparling officiated recently at a quiet wedding in Christ Church when Marion Helena, daughter of Mr. Harry Burley and the late Mrs. Burley, became the bride of George Wesley, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Reid, Green Street, Belleville.

Mrs. Fair of Toronto, was her sister's only attendant, and Mr. Glen Reid ably performed the duties of groomsman.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid will reside in Belleville.

Mrs. Allen Day Guest of Honor At Afternoon Tea

Mrs. F. C. Ellsworth was hostess to about sixty guests Sunday afternoon for an afternoon tea at her home in Cannifton, honoring her sister, Mrs. Allen Day, a recent bride.

Mrs. Ellsworth received from three to six o'clock, with Mrs. Chas. Matthews, Mrs. John Goodwin pouring the beverage and Mrs. Jack Sweet, Mrs. Donald Tearne, with the Misses Grace Furmidge, Jean Matthews, Hilda Matthews and Rita Ellis, acting as serviteurs.

Decorations in the spacious rooms and on the tea table were vases of white 'mums, with the glow of tall white tapers reflected in the sheen of silver services.

Wedding gifts were displayed by Mrs. W. Gould, mother of Mrs. Day, who has recently returned from a trip to the Canadian West.

St. Andrew's L.A. Sponsors Successful Tea and Bazaar

Trenton (Special) — As gay as a Yule card were the Church parlors of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church for the Christmas tea and sale sponsored by the St. Andrew's Ladies' Aid on Friday afternoon.

Christmas colors were evident in the decorations attractively arranged with the greenery of evergreen branches, while two decorated Christmas trees gave the whole setting a Yuletide atmosphere.

The many guests attending were graciously received by the President, Mrs. F. D. Stringer and Mrs. R. C. MacLean.

Tall red tapers glowed softly on the gleaming silver of the main tea table, spread with a lace cloth and centred with a unique arrangement of Canadian holly and gay silver and red poinsettias, the whole presenting a very attractive appearance. Mrs. C. V. Wilkins was responsible for this lovely effect, assisted by Mrs. Miller.

Pouring during the afternoon were Mrs. James Shurie, Mrs. J. H. Ormiston, Mrs. W. H. Colterjohn and Mrs. C. V. Wilkins.

Mrs. E. A. McQuade and Mrs. Murray Dixon were in charge of tickets.

Plates and tea urns were replenished by Mesdames C. Brown, Phillips, Ament, Walker, Graham and H. McClung while Mesdames R. Y. Wemyss, Veitch, Mills, Hayne, Smith, Potts, Alyea, Spencer and W. McClung served the guests at small tables.

The ever popular home cooking table was in charge of Mesdames Thow, Anderson and Shier and at the "Corner Grocery Store" were Mrs. Post and Mrs. Hadrell. An attractive "Shower Table" was convened by Mrs. D. C. Bonisteel and Mrs. G. Martin.

The music, under the capable supervision of Mrs. C. V. Wilkins was rendered beautifully by Isabella Jordan, Muriel Hill, Mary Ellen Farrar, June Whaley and Annette Pinch.

The results of the tea were very gratifying to all the ladies who worked to secure its success.

LOBA Lodge 604 Holds Successful Tea and Sale

Trenton, (Special.) — On the afternoon of Friday, November 28, the Trenton Lodge, L.O.B.A., 604, held a very successful pre-Christmas tea and sale in the Lodge Rooms, Front Street.

The long tea table, with its beautiful white linen cloth, was charmingly arranged with a centrepiece of pink and white 'mums, flanked by tall pink and white tapers.

Small tables with snowy white covers were scattered about the hall, each with its own cream and sugar and a silver holder for its lone pink or white candle.

Treasurer for the afternoon was Mrs. E. Coukell.

The different sale tables were charmingly arranged, each individually decorated.

Mrs. E. Leitch convened the "Touch and Take" table, while selling groceries were Mesdames E. Spicer and A. Cowdy.

Mrs. L. Wannamaker and Mrs. L. Stickle were in charge of the kitchen.

The proceeds of the afternoon were gratifying to the ladies sponsoring this lovely event.

LEAVES FOR GENEVA

Smiling Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is shown as she left La Guardia Field, New York, for Geneva, Switzerland. There, the former First Lady will attend the meeting of the United Nations' Human Rights Committee, of which she is chairman. She told reporters that she "hoped" the session would be harmonious, as "human rights form the basis for peace."

25th Wedding Anniversary Is Observed

Married 25 years ago at Marysville, Mr. and Mrs. T. V. "Terry" Scanlan, 46 Forin Street, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary on Saturday when friends and relatives called at the home and later enjoyed a dinner party at the Hotel Quinte.

During the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Scanlan were "at home" to approximately 80 guests, including Msgr. J. F. Nicholson, V.G., and Rev. J. A Carley. Twenty guests attended at the dinner party.

Mr. Ed. Brown acted as master of ceremonies for the dinner arty at the hotel, while guests outside of the family attending included Mr. and Mrs. Brown; Miss C. Flynn Reg. N.; Mrs. Irena Holland and Betty Pat. Holland, Mrs. B. O'Regan, and Alan of Toronto.

Residents of Belleville since their marriage 25 years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Scanlan have lived in the East Hill district. Mrs. Scanlan is the former Rose Fahey, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Fahey of Marysville, while Mr. Scanlan was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Terrence Scanlan, of Westport. They were married by Rev. Father O'Gorman.

Manager of the T. J. Holland Company on Pinnacle Street, Mr. Scanlan is an ardent fisherman although, according to his bride of 25 years, a "not too successful one". Mr. Scanlan is a member of the Knights of Columbus, while Mrs. Scanlan is a member of the Catholic Women's League.

The numerous gifts received by the couple indicate the high esteem in which they are held by friends in Belleville and district.

Mr. and Mrs. Scanlan have four children, three sons, John, of Belleville, Bernard, of Toronto, and Lewis, at home and one daughter, Sister Scanlan of the House of Providence Order, Novitiate of Kingston.

Women's Activities

ST. PAUL'S W.M.S.

Stirling.—The November meeting of St. Paul's W.M.S., was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. E. Macklin with an attendance of twenty and one visitor.

The Community Friendship secretary reported 18 calls made in the month and the Christian Stewardship secretary read an article from the September issue of the Missionary Monthly, "Our Women Face Tasks". Mrs. Pollard reported on the supply work and its needs. Mrs. Pitman reported 43 subscribers to the Missionary Monthly for next year.

Mrs. Armstrong gave a report of the Sectional Rally at Trenton, and told of the work of the Missionary at Porcupine and Timmins and also explained "The Quiet Half Hour" which was a short drama entitled "The Grain of Mustard Seed" very capably presented by ladies from Tabernacle Church, Belleville, and led by Mrs. F. B. Harbeck. Mrs. A. Gordanier had charge of the program which opened with hymn "O Love of Love, O King of Peace", followed by a Scripture Lesson read by Mrs. Macklin. A reading "Remembrance Day", was given by Mrs. J. L. Good.

A chapter from the Study Book was effectively dramatized by Mrs. H. C. Martin and Mrs. R. A. Patterson, assisted by Mrs. Pollard and Mrs. Gordanier. They explained how the Bible was translated by Mr. Bingham Sr. for the Hawaiian Islanders, and later, by his son for the Gilbert Islanders.

Mrs. Ralph Barker presented a chart showing the dates and places, where the Bible was being translated and studied.

The Mizpah benediction closed this meeting. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge and a social hour enjoyed. A vote of thanks was tendered the hostess for the use of her home.

PRINCE EDWARD-BELLEVILLE WOMEN'S CLUB

When the Prince Edward-Belleville Womens Club held its November meeting in the Board room of the Y.M.C.A., plans were made for a Yuletide bazaar and tea to be held in the near future.

Mrs. Osborne presided for the program, with community singing led by Mrs. G. F. Lent and Mrs. Ackerman. Readings were given by Mrs. Parliament and Mrs. Lent.

Interesting contests were conducted by Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Roblin, "Canadian Ministers" and "Jumbled Rhymes" both of which were much enjoyed.

Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. F. Bedell, Miss Clara Anderson, Mrs. S. Anderson, Mrs. M. B. Weese and Mrs. J. N. Boyd. Appreciation was expressed to those assisting.

ALLAN MILLS W. I. MEETING

Allan Mills — On Friday afternoon the members and visitors of the W. I. met at the home of Mrs. Percy Bateman with a splendid attendance.

The meeting opened in the usual manner with Mrs. Cosby in the chair.

Mrs. W. J. Barlow was in charge of the business. A special meeting will be held on Thursday Dec. 4th., in the parish hall of St. Mark's Church when the guest speaker will address the ladies from 10 a.m. to 4 p. m.

Wellmans Corners and Rylestone Institutes were invited to attend. The dinner will be served by the ladies of Springbrook W. I. Mrs. Fred McKeown, convener for agriculture, was in charge of the program. The roll call was answered by 'Some advantages of a good farmer's wife.' Mrs. Morley Barlow gave a splendid address on "The Future of Agriculture". A wonderful talk on "The Care of Flowers and Shrubs" was given by Mrs. S. G. Meiklejohn. She also talked on the beautiful flowers at the Royal Winter Fair.

Mrs. Fred McKeown gave a splendid report of the District Area Convention held at Belleville.

Mrs. G. Meiklejohn led in a discussion on school lunches and lunches for men.

Mrs. Gordon Webb sang a solo "Star of the East". The meeting closed and refreshments were served by the hostess and assistant hostesses.

BRIDGE STREET W.A.

The Women's Association of Bridge Street United Church met in the church parlors last Friday, with the President, Mrs. H. Rollins, in the chair.

A report on the progress of the kitchen was quite satisfactory.

Mrs. Seldon, Mrs. Adams and Miss Cora Clarke were chosen as a nominating committee to bring in a slate of officers for 1948. A letter from the Children's Aid was read, thanking the ladies for infants' clothing.

The program was in charge of a group convened by Mrs. Wray and Mrs. Marsh. Mrs. Davidson conducted the devotional period, using the 31st verse of the 4th Chapter of St. John's gospel, part of the story of Jesus' ministry on earth.

The soloist was Mrs. Aspinall, with Mrs. Guthridge as accompanist.

Mrs. A. McLaughlin was the guest speaker, giving an instructive address on the work of the Children's Aid Society as a whole, and telling of its local activities.

Mrs. Marsh expressed appreciation to Mrs. McLaughlin.

Refreshments were served by the group in charge.

C.W.L. MEETING

Marmora — The November meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in Sacred Heart School on Wednesday evening, November 26th., with a good attendance. Mrs. J. Black presided. The meeting opened with the chaplain Rev. H. J. Farrell leading the prayers, and singing of the hymn, "Come Holy Ghost." In the absence of the secretary Mrs. W. Shannon took over her duties. Several "Thank-You" letters were read and also a letter from the Diocesan President, Mrs. McGlade.

Mrs. Black gave a report of the activities of the League, in connection with the recent bazaar and reported that $270 had been raised. Mrs. Charles Crawford gave the treasurer's report showing a balance in the treasury of $191.30. Deloro Group reported that $26.30 had been realized at a party in the Deloro Hall on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. M. J. Maloney reported that she and Mrs. J. A. Shannon had made five visits to the sick and shutins, during the past month. Mrs. E. D. O'Connor and Mrs. G. Forestell took over this duty for the coming month. Mrs. Black advised that a shower had been held and gifts sent to the Laton twins this being the second shower held for twins during the past few months. Mrs. Black also advised that a mass had been offered for the Holy Souls during the month. It was decided that the December meeting would take the form of a "Grandmother's night and prizes would be given Group No. 7 were asked to be conveners for the December meeting. It was decided to send a donation of $10 to the Sisters of Service, and a donation of $15 to the Holy Fathers' Relief Fund. It was decided that some quilts would be made for a needy family in the parish and a bake sale and tea will be held on December 13th

Rev. H. J. Farrell then addressed the meeting speaking of the honor and privilege bestowed on Marmora Parish in having the visit of the statue of Our Lady of Fatima. He thanked the League for their donation of flowers for the shrine and the ladies for their assistance and co-operation during the recent bazaar. It was suggested by Mr. Donald Shannon that the members receive Holy Communion in a body on December 8th., the feast of the Immaculate Conception, in thanksgiving to Our Lady Fatima and also for the success of the bazaar. Mrs. S. A Stephens gave a reading entitled "A Rose for Ave Maria." A few games of bingo were then enjoyed and special prizes were won by Mrs. Charles Crawford and Mrs. J. J. Esther.

It was decided to make a fancy quilt and sell tickets on same after Christmas. Mrs. Black thanked the members for their co-operation in aid of the bazaar after which delicious refreshments were served by Group 6 and the meeting adjourned.

EVENING BRANCH W.A.

Mrs. E. Hickey, opened her home on Albert Street Monday evening for the monthly meeting of the Evening Branch of Christ Church W.A., when Miss Eliza Bell, president, conducted the devotional period, leading in the prayer service; while Mrs. Hickey read an inspirational hymn and Mrs. Stewart the Scripture lesson.

In the business period reports were presented by Miss Frances Reid, secretary; Mrs. H. Ingram, treasurer, and Mrs. E. Smith, secretary of the Flower Fund and plans were made for a Christmas supper party in the near future.

Mrs. W. P. Youdale, well-known local elocutionist, was the guest of the evening, adding much to the enjoyment of the program by her contribution, "The Black Madonna," and responding to continuous applause with two shorter numbers.

Appreciation was expressed by Mrs. Pitt to Mrs. Youdale, and also to Mrs. Hickey for her hospitality.

The serving of refreshments and a social hour brought a profitable and inspiring evening to a close.

Rawdon

Presentation Party

Rawdon. (Special.) — Miss Mabel Sharp was hostess for the Wellman's "Wide-a-Wake" Sunday School class, when they tendered one of their members in the person of Mrs. Gordon Peelow, (nee Hazel Dunham), a party and presented her with a lovely wool blanket.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Watson sang a duet and Miss Mary Heagle gave a vocal solo.

Readings were given by Miss Mina Dracup, Miss Doris Dunham, Mrs. Douglas Clancy, Miss Patsy Follock, and Mr. Edgar Graham.

All enjoyed a number of contests and games. Following the presentation Mr. and Mrs. Peelow expressed their thanks for the lovely gift. The hostess served delicious refreshments and an enjoyable social hour was spent.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris Dean and family of Fuller are holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. L. Pauley.

Mrs. Victor Graham has been visiting relatives in Peterborough recently.

Introductions of Parents when Their Surnames Differ From Hers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

Since my marriage I have become acquainted with quite a few people who have no idea what my maiden name was, and there has been no occasion for me to tell them. Now, when I introduce my mother and father, how should I I make the introductions so that these new acquaintances of mine will know my parents' last name?

J. G.

Since now your parents' name differs from your name, it is courteously necessary for you to mention their name when you introduce them, so that your new acquaintances will know how to address them. Remember that you must introduce everyone to your mother, and a correct and gracious form to use, when you are making this introduction in which you must mention your mother's name, as: "Mrs. Allen, I would like to introduce you to my mother, Mrs. Robinson" or "Mr. Forbes, I would like to introduce (or 'present') you to my mother, Mrs. Robinson."

Or, very informally, "This is my mother, Mrs. Robinson. . . Miss Graham."

Introduce your father to a woman by saying, "Mrs. Hall, may I present my father, Mr. Robinson," or "Mrs. Hall, this is my father, Mr. Robinson." And to another man: "My father, Mr. Robinson. . . Mr. Wells."

Housewarming is First General Party in the New Home

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

My husband and I have been married for two years, we bought a house several months ago, and we have been living in our new home since July. Do you think it would be improper for us to have a housewarming or housekeeping shower now? If not, how should I go about making the plans? And what would be a suitable menu to serve to a mixed crowd?

Lee

If, since you have moved into your new home, you haven't given any large general parties, it would be quite proper for you and your husband to plan to have a housewarming now. A housewarming is, as its name implies, supposed to be the first general party given in the new home. . a party to "show" the new home. Usually a housewarming is given by the hosts of the new home (although it is correct too for this kind of party to be planned as a "surprise" by the friends of the hosts). But a housekeeping shower would, naturally, be given by the friends of the hostess and host of the new home.

You might plan to have your housewarming on a Sunday afternoon, the day usually chosen because of its convenience to the majority of guests, the hours usually from four to seven o'clock, or three to six or three to seven You may telephone your invitations or, better, write cordial little notes. Have the house in spick-and-span order, for even the closets should be "on display". And seive a typical tea-menu . . . small sandwiches, cakes or cookies, tea and/or coffee and/or fruit punch or other cold drink, and such accessories as nuts, potato chips, and candy. Add any items you wish, to elaborate this menu.

King Thought for Your Hostess

You'll gladden the heart of a hostess if, during her party (perhaps quite early in the party) you'll say something high-heartedly enthusiastic about her party. . . ."What a wonderful party, such charming guests, and everyone having such a good time. What a perfect hostess you are, Anne!" Sweet assurance to her that everything is going successfully.

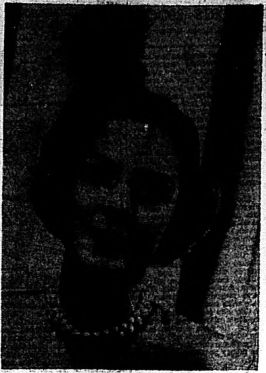
Fashionable Hair-Do



By PRUNELLA WOOD

THE NEW SILHOUETTE, so round, so smooth, so anything but firmly packed, has brought out compensating hats. . . and with them, necessary new hair dressing styles.

The simplest, the one which goes most easily and attractively with the side-slanted new hats is shown above, and it is done with your own hair, and short hair at that.

Lura de Gez, who blueprinted it and also designed it, says part your hair on one side, and bring the two divisions forward in soft puffs along your ears. Pin the puffs at outer curve to the head contour. The same coiffure is possible with a centre parting; the side parting, of course, leaves a swirl, not a parting, over back of head.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Parents Disapprove of Their Daughter's Romance

There is no harder situation for parents to face than the one in which a son or daughter falls in love and wishes to marry someone of whom they disapprove. Such a situation calls for infinite understanding and wisdom, and presents the parents with the alternative of coming closer to their children or of setting up perhaps forever a barrier between the children and themselves.

Here, for example, is a case in point in the letter of a mother who writes:

"My daughter will be 24 in June. She tells us she is in love with a man she has worked with for five years. He will be 38 shortly, is divorced, and has no children.

"My husband and I are very much upset. We think the difference in age is too great. My husband says he will disown her if she marries this man.

"Am I right in thinking that we should not raise so much opposition and that perhaps we should let him call on my daughter, who may, in time, see things in a different light? I thoroughly agree with my husband, but I also feel that too much opposition often makes for greater determination. I am concerned about the right and fair way to deal with this situation in order to insure the happiness of our daughter."

To this letter, I would make the following reply:

Your daughter is a very fortunate girl to have so wise and understanding a mother, and such an attitude as you take should, I feel, go a long way toward making it possible to iron out this situation.

You are quite right in feeling that too much opposition in a matter of this kind is a dangerous thing. If your daughter could feel that you and her father understand her feelings and want to help her make a wise decision, rather than have her resentment aroused by a flat refusal to consider her side, there is of course a far better chance that she will give this the serious consideration it should have.

The crux of the matter, of course, lies in the character of this man and in whether or not their interests are sufficiently similar to insure their being companionable. If a man and a woman are the same age spiritually, so to speak, this might bridge almost any gap of years. By all means, then, let this man come to your home and give yourselves the opportunity to know him thoroughly. It may be that you, too, will look at the thing differently after you know him better. Certainly you will be able to tell in a relatively short time whether or not he is the type of man to whom you would feel like trusting your daughter's happiness, and you could tell, too about this matter of compionability.

Of course another significant point would get the reason for his divorce. If the fault was on his side, then you would certainly be right in pointing out to your daughter the advisability of caution in considering taking him on as a marital partner.

It may be that you are already sufficiently acquainted with this man to form an opinion of him. But you do not indicate that your opposition is based on anything except the fact that he is 14 years old than your daughter, and, as I say, even a large difference in age does not necessarily mean that two persons will be incompatible. Your daughter should look ahead, however to the time when she will be 56 to this man's 70—as you have already no doubt pointed out to her—when things might well look entirely different to her as she found her life slowed down to suit the pace of an aging man's steps.

I do hope you can persuade your husband out of his uncompromising attitude. It would be a very tragic thing if he took a position from which he could not later retreat and so drove a permanent wedge between himself and his daughter. It seems to me that even though it should turn out that your daughter marries against your wishes and best judgment, neither you nor her father would want to cut yourselves off from her. Young people are bound to make mistakes, some small, and others serious. But it would be very sad indeed if those who loved them most refused to stand by.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Wrinkles! How Not to Get Them

If a woman has to worry about something—and many make it a mental hobby—let her fret about her appearance; it may inspire her to join the ranks of the grand army of beauty seekers; that will take her mind off her troubles, whatever they may be. Let her stop and think how she is going to look in the future. Time won't be on her side. No, indeed. The old gent with the scythe and the long white whiskers hasn't a heart. He doesn't care what he does to women's faces.

Money, effort and cosmetics won't erase wrinkles after they have dug in far enough to get a a firm foothold. Plastic surgery is expensive, and skilled operators in this line are few and far between. The sensible thing is to avoid facial pleatings. Many a woman of sixty, even of seventy, has been able to do it. They got an early start. That is the secret.

If you know what makes wrinkles, you can avoid them—if you have health and vitality.

The rapid reducer, who goes on a starvation diet of a freaky nature may find that while she has attained a young figure she also has gotten an old face. By going slowly, under the supervision of a physician, and by treating the complexion with ice frictions, she can avoid wrinkles.

Many wrinkles are self inflicted, which seems pretty silly. Habitual contraction of certain muscles will put furrows in the human map. Scowling, squinting, pulling down the mouth corners and lifting the eyebrows will do it. It is not only the skin that is affected, but also the tissues, even the underlying fibres.

Loss of sleep will bring ugly marks, because it interferes with body repairs. Every cell is constantly undergoing a system of decay and renewal; and it is during sleep that Nature puts us all together again, recharges energy batteries.

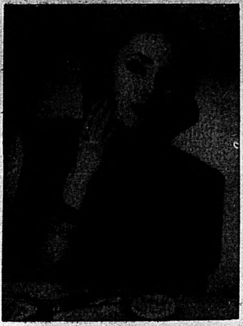
Wrong eating habits get in their mean licks. Unless the body is properly nourished, facial tissues will go into a state of semi-starvation; they will lose firmness and fall into crinkles. Many women who are fussy about the diet and eating habits of their children pay little heed to their own needs. And, of course, a gloomy disposition is a common cause of wrinkles.

Let her consider how she is going to look in the future.

So much for causes. What about cures? Good nutrition; fresh air; exercise; cheerfulness; restful sleep, and plenty of it.

There should be nightly applications of a heavy emollient. We don't claim that creams will restore depleted tissues, but, with brisk manipulations that rouse circulation, they will prevent further havoc. Don't expect immediate results. Wrinkles are a long time coming they will not disappear overnight. Persevere and have faith.

Make-Up Shouldn't Be Lavish



A none-dry cream wafer make-up base leaves the skin radiant and glowing

By HELEN FOLLETT

NOT ALONE the skin coloring and the color of the eyes determine the kind of make-up that enhances, or the way it should be used, but type and personality as well. There are retiring lasses who can apply the cosmetic delicately and become a bit more vivid. But let them indulge in eye make-up, or lay on the lipstick with a lavish hand, and they are out of character. Too senic an effect gives them a brittle look that is not according to their natures or dispositions.

How can one tell just how far one should go when playing with the contents of the make-up box?

Good taste, the seeing eye, and a mirror placed in a strong light should guide one. The trouble is, of course, that everyone's ideas as to what constitutes good looks are not the same. Some admire the flashy woman who makes herself conspicuous. Others follow the example of the woman who is fastidious in her grooming who feels that, above everything else, she must appear ladylike.

Dark-Eyed Girl

Consider the dark-eyed, dark-haired girl with lovely olive skin. A fluff of golden powder and a bit of rich damask coloring on her lips, are all she needs. Cheek rouge will ruin the attractive facial landscape, eye shadows are out of the question. The blue-eyed brunette with fair skin—the Irish type—can do a bit of complexion tinting but her type is so lovely and so rare it is gilding the lily to lay on the paint and the calcimine.

Right up the alley of the girl who wants a truly natural look is a new non-drying cream wafer make-up base, which can be used with or without face powder. Unlike most cake make-up, which requires the use of damp sponge or other applicator, this one is applied merely with the fingers, leaving the face with the glowing look of radiant health.

White-Haired Ladies

Some elderly, white-haired sisters can get away with cosmetic murder and still look like their sweet selves while others appear haggard and older than their years the moment they ply the rouge pad and the lipstick.

We hear, from beauticians, about certain rules, but face decorating is an individual problem that must be worked out carefully and deftly. Even pallor can be beautiful; and that is especially the case if the features are small and delicate.

As in many other matters, one must use the old head.

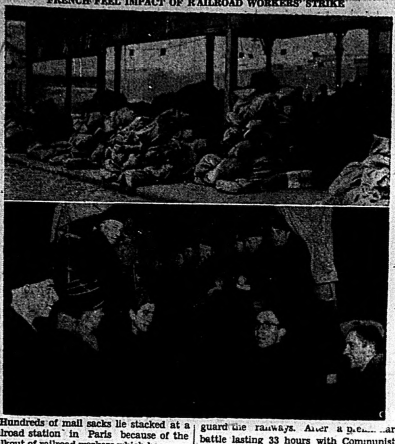
FRENCH FEEL IMPACT OF RAILROAD WORKERS' STRIKE



Hundreds of mail sacks lie stacked at a railroad station in Paris because of the walkout of railroad workers which has completely disrupted all transportation throughout France. Pictured below, French civilians are given a military escort as they sit huddled together in an army lorry, pressed in to service because of the strike. About 50,000 troops have been assigned to guard the railways. After a preliminary battle lasting 33 hours with Communists resisting at every point, the French Assembly passed that part of Premier Robert Schuman's strike measure authorizing the mobilization for police use of 80,000 military reservists. An amendment limits this power to March 31 next.

MCFADDEN MAKES MOST HEADWAY IN SCORING RACE

Detroit's Prize Rookie in First-Place Tie With Maurice Richard

Montreal, Dec. 2 —(CP)— Jimmy McFadden, Detroit's prize rookie find, made the most headway in an otherwise lean week for National Hockey League marksmen, and today the Irish-born centre finds himself in a first-place tie with Montreal's Maurice Richard, each with 21 points.

McFadden picked up two assists during the week while Richard had only one assist to show for his efforts. Richard has 10 goals and 11 assists, McFadden nine markers and 12 helpings.

Syl Apps, Toronto Maple Leafs' captain who led the parade by five points two weeks ago, failed to gain a single point during the last week, and dropped to a third-place tie with Ted Lindsay of Detroit. Apps has 11 counters and nine assists, while Lindsay has 12 and eight.

The rest of the list is well bunched with only six points separating the 10th man from the leaders.

Tied in fifth spot are George Gee of Chicago and Elmer Lach of Montreal, each with 17 points. Doug Bentley of Chicago and Canadiens' Toe Blake come next with 16 points apiece, while New York's Buddy O'Connor and Milt Schmidt of Boston each have 15.

Lindsay's 12 goals give him the leadership in that department while McFadden with 12 heads the assist column.

Bill Barilko, Toronto's blonde blocker, still leads in most penalties with 55 minutes spent in the penalty coop.

Boston's Frankie Brimsek has the best average among the league's goaltenders, with 37 goals against him in 37 games for an average of 2.17.

HITLER'S MOTHER-IN-LAW CLEARED

Adolf Hitler's mother-in-law, Frau Franzika Braun, is shown with her husband, Wilhelm, in their Munich, Germany, home, after a denazification board absolved the former charges that she was a Nazi. The court is scheduled soon to rule in the case of her husband. They are the parents of Eva Braun, who became Hitler's wife a few hours before their reported double suicide in a Berlin bomb shelter.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By BOB JELLISON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifav Dec. 2 (CP) — With little to do on these long winter nights, a couple of Nova Scotian sports writers agree filling the gaps between poker sessions and their turns at the pin ball machine by stirring up controversy based on the "my hockey team can lick your hockey team" school of argument.

The duel was occasioned recently when Saint Mary's junior hockey team of Halifax, Maritime junior champions, was casting about for first rate competi- and began giving senior teams the hard stare. They invited Sydney Millionaires, who lead the Cape Breton senior loop for an exhibition game in Halifax. Millionaires declined, pleading a previous engagement.

Alec (Halifax Herald) Nickerson, chortling as, he went, ground out a column to the effect that the only reason Milionaires wouldn't agree to a sojourn in Halifax is because they're scared stiff.

On the other side of the Strait of Canso, ED (Sydney Post Record) Smith received this intelligence with what he described as considerable amazement and amusement, insinuating that no beskated Cape Bretoner would be found dead in Halifax because of an incident eight years ago.

He reports that during the 1939-40 season Sydney lost a similar match to "Halifax plus Halifax referees." He also points out, without drawing any conclusions, that the game was played "before an obviously packed forum but when it came around to final statistics the gate was reported to Sydney club officials to be in the vicinity of 2,200." (capacity of the Forum is about 6,000.)

"The Sydney club decided it would never play another exhibition game in Halifax." And with nearly-audible setting of the Smith Jaw, he adds: "That resolution still holds."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

Indicative of the upsurge in interest in minor hockey was the meeting of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association in Toronto on Saturday, said to have attracted the largest attendance of delegates since the inception of the organization.

An important feature of the meeting was the announcement that the executive committee will create an annual award for the person or group making an outstanding contribution to minor hockey each year. What form the award will take and the conditions that govern it, will be taken up by a special committee.

Amendments adopted at the meeting included OMHA teams can now dress thirteen players with sub-goalie added but playing certificates must be used to sign all players, these to be turned in by Jan. 15 for group play and Feb. 15 for playoffs.

The executive now has power to classify all teams for grouping in all series. No players, manager or coach can referee any game in which his team is participating. Protest fees are raised from $10 to $15 and must be mailed to the OMHA secretary within 48 hours.

The Ontario Hockey Association granted the minor body the sum of $1,000 an increase of $300 from the amount requested. President George Panter, head of the OHA made the presentation at the meeting.

One Belleville team, the Belleville Merchants, a midget squad backed by some business men submitted an entry which Burrill Morris, athletic director of the YMCA here attended the meeting and represented the Inter-Service Club Council. It is planned to enter a bantam and a midget team under the sponsorship of that organization.

This column has long advocated minor hockey for this city and it looks as if the Belleville Merchants management and the Inter-Service club officials are to be the pioneers in the movement for organized minor hockey here. True there have been efforts along the line made by service clubs and the YMCA in the past, but these have been of a strictly local nature, and nothing much came of it.

Art. Black of Trenton rises up in arms to defend the Trenton Financiers, an intermediate basketball team, which according to the Trenton writer is expected to be some punkins in the court game this winter. It seems as though our informant erred when he told us the Albert College quintet defeated a Trenton team on two occasions, or perhaps he was referring to the Flyers team.

In any event M'sieu Black hastens to inform us that the Financiers have played Albert College twice, lose the first game 39-21 but came out on the long end of the 43-39 count in their second meeting. The Financiers have also defeated the Trenton Flyers twice, so it looks as if the crew from the town to the west have something besides the cover on the ball.

As Mr. Black points out, the calibre of basketball in this district this year should be good, and worth watching. Picton will likely enter a team and a four-squad set-up with Albert, Trenton, Flyers, and Picton should be productive of a fine class of the indoor sport.

Now that elections are over and the various consciences are clear again for another year, it won't hurt to remind people there is a hockey twin bill at the Arena tonight. Flyers zoom back into action after a lenghty lay-off against the Point Anne Pointers, and there me hearties should be a struggle. The Pointers hung a knockout on the Hornets for their first win of the season in their last game, and they are just as anxious to ground Nicky Sargent and his winged warriors come this evening.

The Flyers aren't out of the playoff woods yet, and need a win tonight to put themselves back up among the topflight teams. A victory over the Pointers should give them a playoff berth. On the other side of the picture, the Trenton Hockey Club will cross hockey swords with Madoc and the village crew, too, are all out for a much-needed win. They have played three games to date with two more to go, and if they slip tonight their chances for a playoff spot won't be so hot. So from now on in to the wire, all squads will be battling desperately for a spot in the money positions. First game 7:30.

Slammin' Sam Snead, one of the great pro golfers, came out of the foothills of the Virginias in 1937. He had been a barefoot caddy, and he created a sensation by winning the Oakland Open. Newspaper photographers asked him to pose for a picture, and the hillbilly jumped with fright at the explosion of the flashlight bulbs. At the next stop of the touring pros, in San Francisco, a fellow golfer showed Snead his picture in a New York newspaper. "What do you know about that?" exclaimed Snead. "Here's a New York paper with my picture in it, and I've never been to New York in my life."

One of the more interesting stories of recent days is that of Edward Moffitt, the San Francisco sportsman and nature lover who is developing thoroughbred racing rats. It seems that Moffitt believes that rat racing is the coming sport. He has built a rat race track complete with treadmills, flashing lights and dials and buzzers and bells. The rats are albino critters and Moffitt believes that man with all his worries will find new thrills in watching his sleek racers run. Right now he still hasn't figured out how to put the venture on a paying basis.

CASH REGISTERS ARE RINGING A MERRY TUNE

Louis' Personal Drawing Power Bringing the Customers in

By MURRAY ROSE

New York, Dec. 2 — (AP) — Joe Louis probably would draw a good house against a midget and since the champion is meeting a legitimate heavyweight in Jersey Joe Walcott the box office cash registers are ringing out a merry tune for the promoters of Friday night's title fight in Madison Square Garden.

So strong is Louis' personal drawing power that even against a short-ender like Walcott more than $100,000 already has been subscribed for the scheduled 15-rounder.

Sol Strauss, acting director of the promoting 20th Century Sporting Club, believes the bout will gross around $270,000, Louis won't have to worry about the tax-collecting man after this one as he is down for 45 per cent of the net as well as for the same percentage of the movie, radio and television proceeds.

Walcott, an 8 to 1 underdog in man-to-man wagering, will collect 15 per cent. All around, Louis stands to make well over $100,000 while the veteran Jersey boxer figures to make somewhere between $40,000 and $50,000 which will keep plenty of meat on the table for his brood of six in Camden, N.J.

The 20th Century is charging from $3 to $30 for the fray and all seats are on a reserved basis.

Meanwhile, Louis planned to box four rounds at Pompton Lakes today and finish up with another four Wednesday. Walcott winds up his boxing today. Jersey Joe will do only light exercising after that until fight time and most observers feel that's all he will have a chance to do Friday night.

DUKES LENGTHEN LEAD TO EIGHT POINTS IN RACE

Mercurys Defeat Brantford Redmen 8-5 and Settle Into Third Position

(By The Canadian Press))

The way it looks now Joe Primeau's Toronto Marlboros are given little thought of abdicating from their seat at the top of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior "A" loop.

The Dukes lengthened their lead to eight points over their nearest rivals, Hamilton Tigers, for a total of 21 points after blanking Hamilton Patricias 5-0 at the Mountain City last night. Owen Sound Mercurys tramped the winless Brantford Redmen 8-5 in the other senior A game at Brantford and settled into third position one point behind the Tigers.

There were no junior games slated for last night.

Marlboros' goalie Howie Harvey shone for their 10th victory in 13 starts. He has allowed only 25 pucks to slip past this season. It was a rugged display with Pats' Smack Allen suffering a cut over his left eye requiring four stitches.

Toronto took advantage of a first period penalty to Allen to ram in two goals within 20 seconds at the 14-minute mark, Ray Hannigan and Johnny McCormack doing the honors.

They rambled through a scoreless second frame and in the third session Leo Curik sank two counters while Ike Hildebrand tallied once.

With the injury jinx no longer dogging them Owen Sound hammered out a 5-1 first period lead, bumped it to 7-2 in the second session before the Redmen rallied in the final frame to outscore Mercurys 2-1. Brantford turned out a better-than-usual exhibition.

Freddy Smith led Owen Sound with three counters which Jack Mason and Jim Boddy each tallied twice. Murray Fife scored the other Mercury goals. Brantford counters came from Lucky Luckman with three while Robin Hewson and Wiacek tallied one each.

Brantford plays a return engagement in Owen Sound tonight in the long senior game schedule. In the junior circuit Toronto St. Michael's Majors visit Galt.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON Jr.

New York, Dec. 2 — (AP) — Dumb Dan Morgan, whose nickname is the greatest understatement of any given year and who always can find an angle favoring the under-dog in any given fight, figures that Jersey Joe Walcott will give champion Joe Louis trouble in their title bout next Friday . . . you'll notice that Dan doesn't say Jersey Joe will win.

Here's how he looks at it: "This feller Walcott has been the best heavyweight for the last two years; he hasn't been out of shape in two years . . . no heavyweight can jab him — he wants to box and he anticipates punches and slips them by moving his head like this." (By this time Morgan was illustrating the moves Walcott would make).

"He feints and shifts better than Billy Conn did in his first fight with Louis. He'll worry Joe." ... Dan collected his thoughts a moment, then continued:

"Louis is easy to hit, remember. I coached Max Schmeling before his first fight with Louis and I told him that Joe tried to jab for a round or two, then when that doesn't work, he tries and begins to hook. That's when Schmeling hit him with a fight — and I tell you nobody can jab this Walcott."

KING DECISIONS TERRY MCGOVERN

Toronto, Dec. 2 — (CP)—Li'l Arthur King took another step along the road to fistic prominence today but Britain's Tommy (Terry) McGovern cautioned him not to take too big a step. So did many witnesses to King's split decision over McGovern here last night who felt the verdict might very easily have gone the other way.

The Toronto Negro lightweight, although winning the eight round match, didn't have too much prancing room on the way to the winner's circle as the 23-year-old English scrapper held him under close rein most of the route. Nevertheless Li'l Arthur turned in a winning performance and showed once again as the "tigerish Mr. King" in getting the nod 2 to 1 over McGovern making his first appearance in a Canadian ring.

Rounds of applause were rolled forth on McGovern's performance and better moments. Many fans figured the way the lone judge did and minced few words in expressing their feelings following the verdict announcement.

Hard-punching Pete Zaduk found a draw the best he could get with Detroit's Mickey Savage who did his best fighting in the late rounds of their eight-round meetings to pull up even with Zaduk after he had taken an early lead.

In the preliminaries Sammy Sauve of Toronto scored a four-round decision over Pat Kelly, of London, Ont., while Danny Martin punched his way to a decision over Teddy Swain of Toronto. Frankie Brancetti of Toronto did not fair so well with Berry Gordy of Detroit who got a roundly-booed decision.

JUST MISUNDERSTANDING

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Dec. 2 — (AP)— A Canadian bus which ran through United States Customs at the Rainbow Bridge without stopping for inspection Saturday night has been released with a comment from a customs official that "the whole thing was a misunderstanding."

The customs service declined to mention the name of the driver or the bus company involved, but said the bus, carrying a group of former service men to a meeting in Buffalo, was picked up when it attempted to recross into Canada several hours later.

Picture Edited Out of Film Says Editor

(By The Canadian Press)

A photographic record which would have settled any doubt as to whether, that third quarter touchdown of Winnipeg Blue Bombers was illegal, as ruled by the officials of Saturday's East-West football final, or legal as many fans thought, has gone up in smoke.

"We had a picture of it but, when the play didn't count in the scoring, I edited it out of our newsreel," said A. Hague, news Editor of Associated Screen News. He explained in Montreal yesterday that had he realized there was to be any controversy over the play he probably would have kept the pictures.

The British Olympic organizing committee raised the window of the box office to local fans yesterday, offering tickets for the game in London nexxt July 29 to Aug. 14 at prices ranging upward from two shillings (40 cents) for standing room.

Paul Mundrick of Houston Huskies, with 14 goals and 21 assists for 35 points, is leading the United States Hockey League scoring race. Two team-mates—George Agar and Ken Mackenzie—follow close behind with 34 and 33 respectively.

Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler reported in Cincinnati yesterday the St. Louis Browns' sale of second baseman John Bernardino to Washington Senators had not been "consummated" so far as his office was concerned and he had returned the Senators' "cheque for purchase" to the Washington club.

The Regina Leader-Post said in a sportspage story yesterday it had been informed by President Bill Tobin of Chicago Black Hawks that Bill Mosienko, star right winger injured in the pre-season N.H.L. All Star game already was on skates and would be playing in about 10 days.

The International League yesterday re-elected President Frank Shaughnessy and Secretary-Treasurer Wm. Manley for three years and named Charles Stoneham of the Jersey City club as Vice-President.

A national Hockey League record for the two fastest goals scored by an individual player was registered last Nov. 22 when Jimmy McFadden of Detroit banged home two within eight seconds in a game against the Chicago Black Hawks.

Officials of the Strathroy Royals Hockey Club, deciding to enter intermediate "B" competition this season, have instructed delegates to a Toronto O.H.A. meeting Saturday to ask that all centres of under 4,000 population—and only these—be eligible for "B" competition.

Stockton defeated Grantham 2-1 in a first round match of the football association cup competition Saturday. In its British football results on that day The Canadian Press erroneously reported that Ferryhill defeated Grantham.

Ferryhill did not participate in Saturday's round, having been eliminated from cup competition Nov. 22 in a replayed match with Stockton. The score was 3-2.

Two Los Angeles sportsmen, Stanley Murphy and William Vaughan, conferred with President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League at Montreal yesterday and discussed the possibility of the westcoast city obtaining a franchise in the league. Campbell said the project advanced by the men, who represent the Greater Los Angeles Plan Incorporation, was 'tremendous."

YANKS PREPARE FOR NEXT YEAR

By JOE REICHLER

Miami, Dec. 2 — (AP) — New York Yankees, disturbed by the sudden turn of events which labelled the bankrolled Boston Red Sox as the team to beat for the 1948 flag, have taken their first direct step toward making a staunch defence of their world baseball championship, it was learned today.

Out of a maze of trade rumors on the eve of the opening of the National Associations Convention, has come the news that the Yankees have completed a deal for pitcher Walter Masterson of Washington Senators who won 12 games and lost 16 last season.

While refusing to discuss the report, manager Bucky Harris of the Yankees admitted that a deal for a starting pitcher was on the fire, but added that no official announcement would be made until the major league conclave which begins next Monday in New York.

Bill De Witt, general manager of St. Louis Browns, who yesterday disclosed that he had placed Jeff Heath and catcher Jake Early on the block, said he had obtained waivers on Heath and was preparing a deal with a National League team for the hard-hitting outfielder.

New York Giants, still searching for a pitcher, were offered southpaw Johnny (double-no-hit) Vandermeer by Johnny Neun, manager of Cincinnati Reds, who demanded a centrefielder in exchange.

Cincinnati also was reported talking a trade with Chicago Cubs involving shortstop Eddie Miller and Harry (Peanuts) Lowry, Cub outfielder. Another deal in the making involved the Cubs and Boston Braves. The Braves were ready to trade Dick Culler to the Cubs for a pitcher.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Some of our best bridge players could stand a douse of good old-fashioned Horse Sense. Many of them win championships. Some of them acquire national fame. But they need bidding improvement.

Their ability at the play of the cards is truly phenomenal. It is such that they overcome much of their bidding errors. All they need is a sounder bidding system to perfect their game.

Time and again they reach the wrong final contracts. Many such go unnoticed because of their superior play or wrong guesses by their opponents. What a record they could make with bids on the button.

With such success in the play they evolve bidding oddities of their own. Occasionally these bring good results. But they fail to reckon the losses in a great number of others.

One expert pair has decided to keep every one bid open for at least one round. So, when south opened with one diamond his partner in north responded with one heart when holding this hand:

♠J 6 3
♣9 7 4 3

Such a system defies all the laws of mathematics upon which the game of bridge is founded. Any purpose it may serve is insufficient. The objections to it are overwhelming.

An opening of one denies enough for an opening of two. Unless an opener has enough for starting with a two bid, the pair lacks enough for a game unless partner has some tricks.

When a player opens with a bid of one he may have the minimum requirements for such a bid. If partner has less than three tricks, even a bid of one may be defeated. Foolish to make it worse.

In answer to any one bid a response other than pass should be a show of some values. Of course, there are always some who like the novelty of doing something futile.

Like whittling in a petrified forest.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Dec. 2 (AP)—Abbott and Costello are filming another movie and their mode of operation reminds oldtimers of the days when picture making was a raucous, practical-joking affair.

The former burlesque comics are making something called "The Noose Hangs High" at Eagle-Lion. When I walked on the set it seemed normal enough, but that was because all hands were concentrating on a rehearsal.

What followed was a typical Abbott-and-Costello ending with:

Bud: "You remember how George Washington threw a dollar across the river?"

Lou: "Yeah, but a dollar would go a lot further in those days."

I was told about the day Lou and a stooge had a tiff on the set and fought a duel—selzer water bottles at five paces. The stooge was the only casualty; his nozzle was plugged.

The Hollywood Scene

The raindrops tap-tapping on the newly-lit (metal) Christmas trees of Hollywood boulevard... production managers of outdoor pictures looking to the skies and cursing audibly.. Vine Street characters being chased indoors from their usual haunts.

A gardener unconsciously sprinkling a studio lawn amid the downpour... Flunkies anxiously holding umbrellas over stars as they walk down studio streets.. Fans huddling outside night clubs and getting their clothing, but not their ardor dampened... A few thousand convertible owners putting up their tops and conceding that perhaps winter is here after all."

Gene Kelly is making good use of the idleness imposed by his leg break. He has written the script for a circus film, to be called "Big Top."

This would be ordinary news except for the fact that MGM announces it has bought the yarn and will star Kelly and June Allyson in it.

Bonus to Dottie

Dorothy Lamour will be gifted with a fat bonus for her work in "Road to Rio." The donation will come from her pals, Crosby and Hope, who own a third of the picture apiece. Paramount, which owns the other third, is not as magnanimous. The film is expected to earn $6,000,000, even in the currently slow market.

Glenn Ford is the most demanded of leading men in the movies today. He was sought by Rita Hayworth for "Carmen," Ginger Rogers for "Wild Calendar" and Bette Davis for "Ethan Frome." Rita won cut and Ginger is doing a burn. He'll do the Rogers picture next.

Red Skelton will go into a confab with MGM executives as soon as he finishes "Fuller Brush Man" at Columbia. He still wants his freedom, but it's doubtful if they will let him go. There's going to be a decided swing back to comedy, and Red will be much needed on the Metro lot.

Greer Misbehaves

Greer Garson finally starts her new picture, "Julia Misbehaves," next week. She hasn't had a good movie in too long.

Dick Haymes' movie company will begin shooting next summer on a film in which he will star. The crooner is working hard in "Up in Central Park" as witness the fact he started the film wearing a girdle and now doesn't need the thing.

SURVIVORS OF WRECKED TRANSPORT

Suffering from immersion and exposure, survivors of the doomed transport Clarksdale Victory are shown after they were brought ashore at Ketchikan, Alaska. The vessel went aground and broke in half on Hippa Island, 140 miles southwest of Ketchikan. Of the 51 crew members aboard the Clarksdale Victory, only four were rescued. Shown above are two of the survivors. They are Carlos Sanabria, top, 23, of Honduras, and Clair E. Driscoll, 31, of Los Angeles. U. S. Coast Guard recovered four bodies.

Three Arrested After Slugging Taxi Driver

Sudbury, Dec. 2 —(CP)—Three men charged with robbery with violence in connection with slugging and robbing Peter Lorenzy, Sault Ste. Marie, taxi driver, will be returned to Sault Ste. Marie for trial, police said today.

The trio — David Calford, 17, Espanola, Ont.; Charles Morlaw, Perth; J. McFarlane, Cornwall—are accused of stealing $100 from Lorenzy after hiring his taxi in Bruce Mines to go to Espanola, a mile east of Walford.

Lorenzy, now in hospital here suffering severe cuts and bruises, was left unconscious in cab, which was abandoned because of a mechanical breakdown. On regaining consciousness, he walked back to Espanola. Morlaw and McFarlane were arrested in Webbwood and Calford in Espanola. The arrests all were made early Sunday.

AT THE CAPITOL

HUMANS SHOT TO MOON IN 2036

The dubious privilege of being shot to the moon from a giant "space gun," 250 feet taller than the Empire State Building, might be yours, if you had been born in the 21st century instead of the 20th.

At least this is one of the amazing experiences enjoyed by two of the young citizens of "Everytown," the huge subterranean city of 2036 predicted in "Things to Come," Alexander Korda's imagination-staggering production of H. G. Wells' startling forecast of the future currently showing at the Capitol Theatre tonight and Wednesday.

Mammoth Set

One of the biggest film sets ever built, the "space gun" is interesting for its novelty of design and conception as well as for its size and for the brilliant manner in which Mr. Wells' imaginative scene has been translated into reality. On the screen it will appear 1500 feet high. The elevator by its side, which raises the huge projectile in which the young passengers ride, is as high as the Eiffel Tower—1,000 feet. Batteries of wind-machines surrounding the set, gave the effect of the gale which would naturally blow about this lofty structure.

Spectacular Scene

This scene, which brings this remarkable film to a thrilling close, is said to be one of the most spectacular ever shot. For while the young adventurers are en route to the "gun," the thousands of citizens of "Everytown," aroused by a fiery orator who considers the experiment inhuman, are seen rushing to the "space gun," determined to destroy it. The young lovers arrive first, however, in an airplane of strange design, and are seen being strapped into the great projectile, lowered into the gun and shot off into space in the most daring and thrilling experiment ever attempted by man.

This plane, incidentally, was made entirely in the studio workshops under the direction of the famous special effects expert, Ned Mann. The design is a logical advance on present-day high-speed aircraft experiments.

"Things To Come" marks the first original script written by H. G. Wells. The great cast is headed by Raymond Massey, Ralph Richardson, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Pearl Argyle, Margaretta Scott, Patricia Hilliard. William Cameron Menzies directed the film, which is released through Film Classics. On the same program H. G. Wells' mystery spectacle a story of mind smashing, eye-amazing 20,000 thrills, Alexander Korda presents "The Man Who Could Work Miracles" with Roland Young, Joan Gardner and Sir Ralph Richardson.

CHAPTER 11.

She began to fidget.

He caught her hand beneath the lace coth and attempted to hold it. She pulled away, crimson with fear and anger.

"Say!" he protested loudly. "You can't do htat! If I wanna hold your hand, I can—you know."

She glanced down at the slice of strawberry ice cream on her plate, tried to pass off his possessiveness in light laughter.

"Sure—we'll be together later," he said, loud enough for all at the table to hear.

Chuck looked at her searchingly across the mound of waxy gardenias centering the table. She dropped her eyes in shame. So soon after what had happened to Henn, what would they all think?

Some one down the table gave an exclamation of delight. It was Mulford Gates, the playwright.

"That's exactly what I wanted!" he declared eagerly. "A title—a title for my new play. That would be superb! 'We'll be together later!'"

Kay's tortured eyes locked with the pained questioning in Chuck's. For a long moment she felt very near him, almost as if she were in his embrace. Then the sensation slid from her like a rarely beautiful dream. And she was alone. She was alone again in this gay crowd—with that doubt of Chuck still lurking in her consciousness.

There was only one ray of hope that she could not cast aside. No matter how guilty Webb insisted Chuck was, Chuck although looking gravely worried, held no expression of a desperately guilty man. Of this she was positive.

After dinner Kay entered the lounge where card tables had been set up. She looked around for Clive Jones, her partner. Webb, close on her heels, said, "We're going on the terrace."

"Indeed not! The wind's blowing a gale. I'm playing contract.!" She sat down quickly at one of the tables.

"There's a table, Adele," said Chuck Nourse, holding back the chair next to Kay. "Shall we play here?"

Adele hesitated. Kay stiffened, jumped up, saying "Sorry—I'm playing with Clive Jones—and Triggs Sheldon and Edna."

She was moving away when Webb roughly clutched her arm.

"Please," she protested. "You're hurting me, Webb."

That was enough for Chuck. He yanked Webb back by the coat collar. "A few more manners, man!" he snapped.

Webb snarled, "It's none of your damned business!" and moved to get free.

Chuck gave the slightly drunk Webb a final shake and released him so unexpectedly that he lost his footing and crumbled to the rug.

He scrambled clumisly to his feet, accompanied by the combined guffaws of the men and laughter of the girls. This wounded his self-esteem and crazed him to the point of indiscretion. He said, dangerously level. "Up to your old tricks—knocking people down, aren't you, Nourse?"

"When it's necessary—yes," curtly responded Chuck, straightening his tie.

"Webb! Webb!" came fearfully from Kay. She hurriedly linked an arm through his and led him quickly from the room.

Significant glances were exchanged behind their retreating backs. It looked as though Kay Millstrom was out to protect her precious Webb.

Chuck, more agitated than he cared to admit, sank into his chair, began shuffling a pack of cards. He was pondering over Kay's odd behavior. Why this sudden interest of hers in a man she knew to be a rotter? It didn't make sense.

Kay presently returned, assuming an unconcerned air. She explained only that Webb had decided to lie down in the gunroom and take a nap.

She breathed a sigh of relief. She would be free of him for a short while. It was like having a perverse child to manage, yet much more wearing, as any fear is wearing.

Chuck sat directly behind her, facing her straight slim back He was able to look over the top of the cards in his hand to the tempting curls of gold hugging the creamy nape of her neck, to the whole exquisite perfection of her. He studied her carefully, thoroughly convinced that she was not the high-spirited Kay of old. Naturally the tragic decease of her intended husband was enough to curb her usual exuberance, yet he was positive this did not account for her present mood. There was another cause which she was valiantly trying to conceal. He couldn't, as yet, lay his finger on it. It might in some way concern Webb Taylor. The way she had gone to Webb this afternoon after having been brought safely to shore by himself, the way she had gone to Webb's rescue a few minutes ago, meant something. But—what?

A dreamy waltz was coming softly from the radio when Kay and Chuck simultaneously were made dummies. This was opportunity for Chuck He had been waiting for just this chance. He sprang up and went to stand beside her chair.

"Dance?" he invited, with his familiar smile.

"I'm—I'm sorry," she said. "I'm tired."

"I must see you for a minute," he whispered quickly in her ear.

Against her better judgment, she rose immediately.

They walked away with Adele calling, "Chuck—tell me how to play this wretched hand!"

Chuck pretended not to hear. His arm encircled Kay's trembling figure and he danced her to the far end of the room.

"Tell me, dear—tell me something. Did you find that letter—the one I wrote you? We haven't much time—and I must know."

She glanced at him apprehensively, her breath quickening.

"You're worried over it?"

"You know I am," he replied seriously.

"Worried over its contents—or where you lost it?" she demanded unsteadily.

"More over where I lost it. The contents might be for all the world to read dear—if you were willing."

Color flooded her face. She hid it against his white flannel coat.

They had danced now into a dim corner of the hall. Half unconsciously, she allowed him to draw her close.

"My darling—are we allowing that letter to come between us—or what—what is it?"

"That—that depends, Chuck," she replied tremulously. Then gently pushed him from her.

"Isn't it," she added, standing grimly accusing before him, "a matter—between you and your conscience?"

He took a step forward, tilted up her chin with his hand. Her great blue eyes in the soft light were agonized.

"What in heaven's name, Kay, is this all about?" he pleaded swiftly.

She choked back a sob. He bent his head toward her quivering lips as Edna Lawton called from the doorway, "Kay—oh, Kay—we've dealt for you—and now it's your bid."

In a few seconds Chuck was back at his own table, bidding so recklessly that Adele protested. He felt keyed to an elation that was nearly suffocating He wondered if Kay were experiencing the same emotion. It was as if he had been reassured that the bond between Kay and him was as strong as ever. Yet she had said no word to confirm this, and before morning he would be calling himself all kinds of a fool.

Webb luckily did not reappear again that night, and Kay could keep the memory of Chuck's words, the tone of his voice, the look in his dear gray eyes to cherish in her dreams. In fact, she was one of the first in the party to plead weariness and go upstairs to bed.

By the middle of the following morning all signs of the night's chilling wind had fled and hot sunshine had dried the tennis courts where the crowd, dressed in shorts and sports shirts, was trying to while away time. Those who did care to play lolled on rustic chairs and benches surrounding the courts, shouting advice to the players.

Kay sat alone on a bench beneath a trellis of fragrant Dorothy Perkins roses. Webb had been with her for the past hour and she had just sent him to the village library for a book. Today he had been all contriteness, anxious to grant her slightest wish. This had not, however had the desired effect upon her. There was still something about Webb that baffled her, that made everything he said or did have a double meaning. She wished that she could get to the bottom of it.

Adele was playing tennis with Clive Jones, and Chuck had gone fishing with some men in a neighboring camp. His absence at least gave Kay opportunity to think soberly. She never could be calm enough to do this when Chuck was around Adele's plump, sun-tanned legs now ran up to Kay. She yanked a silver bracelet off her arm.

"Please, Kay—take care of this darn thing for me, will you? I can't wear it and play. Don't you adore it? The inscription inside is darling. So many girls are having bracelets now—instead of rings. I think it's a quaint."

Surprised, Kay scrutinized Adele's innocent, lovely face.

"Instead—of rings?" she asked, a frown between her eyes.

"Why—er—yes."

Adele appeared to be embarassed. "Engagement rings are too common—I like being different.

She gave a silvery little giggle and darted lightly back to her game.

The bracelet in Kay's lap was an expensive trinket with an artistically set imitation torquoise in its top. Kay moved to turn it over and read the inscription on its under side.

"To dear Adele from C. N." were the words engraved there, words which now etched themselves on Kay's tortured mind. Nothing loverlike in that sentence, but Adele had insinuated there was.

Engagement gift? Adele and Church? Kay wondered about this for a full minute, then was filled with indignation. Only a few hours before, Chuck had been making love to her and she had believed in him. She would be inclined—now to doubt Adele if it were not for this bracelet. Here in her hand was proof of Adele's veracity.

It was impossible for Kay to sleep much that night, she spent hours planning a course of action for herself. She was rapidly growing stronger, feeling more like herself than she had for a long time. She would be far happier if she had a job of some sort to occupy her thoughts. This being a emittance-woman, subsisting on Horace Peek's generosity, even though he was now her stepfather, was not what she wanted. She would go into business. But what business?

In the morning she found Albany newspapers and in them the addresses of employment agencies. She decided to write to one that apparently was able to place any one from cook to executive secretary. She couldn't cook and she'd had no training for a secretaryship. All she had ever done was go to parties. Hostess? Yes, why not? Many women were acting as hostesses these days. With into deep slumber at dawn. this much settled, she dropped

The idea of becoming a hostess seemed excellent to her even after breakfast, which a maid brought to her room at noon. Gloria came in when Kay was creaming her face and asked her to go with the crowd to a nearby county fair. Kay excused herself on the plea of having letters to write.

"If you don't mind, Kay—I'll have to go with the others," said Gloria, plainly hesitant about leaving her.

"Please don't bother about me—I'll be busy," said Kay, running a comb lightly through her hair.

"All right—but I feel worried about deserting you."

Gloria kissed Kay's hot cheek, noted the glint of excitement in her wide eyes.

"I'll wager it's a heavy date you're writing. Who is he?"

"You're getting warm," laughed Kay. "Only—I'm writing to ask for a date. I'll explain later—if I'm not turned down."

"You old meanie! If he's inspiring—do produce him. This party needs a sensation to brace it up."

"That's a bargain," promised Kay. "But I suspect he's fat, middle-aged, and married to a very jealous woman."

Kay pursed her lips thoughtfully. She wondered what Gloria or any other member of this gay, irresponsible house party would say if they suspected Kay Millstrom's depleted financial status. Oh well, it would be time enough for them to discover it after she secured a position.

Men Who Attacked Jews in London Fined Two Pounds

London, Dec. 2 — (Reuters) — Three men who attacked Jews after a meeting of the British League of Ex-Servicemen — which has former members of the British Union of Fascists among its members — were fined £2 ($8) apiece in court Monday.

They were arrested last night at Ridley Road, storm centre for clashes between British League members and their opponents.

A policeman said the men were among a crowd which chased 10 Jews who were shouting "Down with Mosley." Sir Oswald Mosley, fascist leader interned during the war, has announced he is forming a new "union" party.

At another court a man said to have delayed a British League meeting by heckling was fined 10 shillings ($2) for insulting conduct.

Prices Board Clarifies Order

Ottawa, Dec. 2 —(CP)— Clarification of a Prices Board order establishing maximum prices for certain canned fruits and vegetables was made by the board today in a new order amending the regulations announced Nov. 27.

The amendment, effective yesterday, was made necessary when it was found that dealers had paid a wide variety of prices to canners in storing their stocks while the price ceiling was not in effect, requiring some new basis for fixing the re-imposed ceilings. It provides that in no case may goods be sold at higher prices than those which prevailed Nov. 17.

Under the order, retailers and wholesalers may dispose of domestic stocks they have on hand at prices based on their laid-down cost plus the mark-up specified in the order, or their basic period mark-up, whichever is the lower.

For the purpose of establishing the "cost" of the goods on hand, wholesalers and retailers are required to average the prices of all their stocks of each products by quality and size of container.

Separate regulations govern the case of imported canned fruits and vegetables which were in the hands of wholesalers and retailers prior to Nov. 17 when the import controls were imposed.

Cost of such goods in the hands of the trade had been established prior to the imposition of import restrictions and the amending order provides that such goods may be sold at laid-down cost plus a reduced mark-up "not to exceed one-half of the lawful maximum mark-up provided under the order for domestic goods, or their basic mark-up, whichever is the lower."

Russia Anxious On Settlement In Far East

By SYLVAIN MANGEOT
(Reuters Diplomatic Correspondent)

London, Dec. 2 (Reuters)—The tendency of the Soviet delegation at the council of foreign ministers here to link the far eastern peace settlement with discussion of German peace treaty procedure is increasingly attributed by conference observers to Russian anxiety over the prospects of obtaining an effective share in shaping the Far East settlement should the great powers reach a deadlock on the German issue.

If, it is argued, the present session fails over Germany, the whole existence of the council of foreign ministers as the recognized machinery for making peace will be threatened.

If the council were discarded as the machinery of peace-making, then the possibility of Russia's being excluded from the operative phases of drafting a Japanese treaty becomes sufficiently real to be reckoned with by policymakers in Moscow.

To ward off this contingency, observers feel that the Soviet delegation is attempting to establish afresh, and beyond the possibility of future question, a machinery for the Japanese settlement identical with that employed for the satellite and German treaties.

It will attempt to do this before German discussions have reached a point at which the western powers admit a breakdown and proceed to take their own measures to resolve it.

Foreign Minister Molotov has already accused the western powers of deliberately working towards such a break. He has therefore:

1. Proposed a Far Eastern meeting of the council of foreign ministers in January; and,

2. Referred to the urgency of reaching peace settlements throughout the world, including Japan.

SENTENCED TO DEATH. IN DEATH OF BABE-IN-WOOD MURDER

Kingston, Dorset, England, Dec. 2 — (AP) — Frederick Alfred Smith, 21, window cleaner, drew a death sentence after pleading guilty today to the "babes in the wood" murder last July of nine-year-old Leslie John Frederick.

Leslie was killed by a rifle bullet. His seven-year-old sister, Eileen, died of a fractured skull. Smith answered only to the charge of slaying Leslie.

Lumber Exporters Will Benefit From New Regulations

Ottawa, Dec. 2 (CP) — Canada's dollar situation stands to benefit from the release of 290,000,000 feet of soft wood on the world market next year at higher prices for producers in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes.

Relaxation of export restrictions on the eastern Canadian timber was announced by Reconstruction Minister Howe, who explained that the free export quota remained the same as for 1947, but shippers would not be required to sell any of that amount to the United Kingdom in 1948. This year, the bulk of the 290,000,000 feet was earmarked for the U. K.

Since the chief potential market is the United States, where prices are considerably higher than in Britain, the move is expected to help ease the Dominion's dollar shortage.

In addition, Mr. Howe said that as soon as reports of eastern softwood production for 1948 were available, consideration would be given to increasing the overall free export quota. And as before, shippers selling a quantity of lumber in Canada will have the right to export a certain percentage — about 50 per cent in the east — of the domestically-sold footage.

Mr. Howe said Britain's dollar shortage, resulting in delay in receiving orders from that country for softwood, made the change in export policy possible.

Major Foote, VC, Special Speaker At Anniversary

Tweed (Special) — The fifty-sixth Anniversary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was held on Sunday Nov. 30 with Honorary-Major John W. Foote V.C. as special preacher. A large congregation of the Legion, Anglican Church and St. John's United Church was present. The service of song was led by the choir of St. John's United Church assisted by Alfred Hounslow and Graham Mouck of the Anglican Church choir. The anthem "Still, Still with Thee" was given with Mrs. S. H. Connor taking the solo part. Following the prayer of dedication, Mrs. Constance Sharpe sang "Lord, I want to be a Christian." Fred Porter presided at the organ.

CASUALTIES MOUNT AS JEWS, ARABS BATTLE

French Assembly Holds Hot Debate On Strike Bill

Schuman Demands More Power to Stop Disorders

Paris, Dec. 3 — (AP) — Five thousand steel-helmeted police and mobile guards were stationed around the chamber of the National Assembly today while that body continued debate on the government's five-section strike control bill, two sections of which were newly approved.

Official reports that saboteurs caused a fatal train wreck on the Paris-Lille line sped the deputies' endorsement of the first two sections, dealing with sabotage and agitators.

The guards were placed about the Assembly Chamber before today's session opened. It was the first time police had worn helmets during the current wave of disorders.

The Champs Elysee was blocked off at Place Franklin Delano Roosevelt (Rond Point) and in the Place Concorde.

The Assembly had recessed at 9 a.m., after passing the second part of the five-section law demanded by Premier Robert Schuman to give him increased powers for fighting work stoppages.

Old Laws Suspended

The first two Articles passed by the Assembly suspend the old laws concerning sabotage and boost the penalties for sabotage and agitation to a maximum of 500,000 francs ($4,200) fine and five years imprisonment. The offence of sabotage also is defined more broadly. The unofficial vote was 412 to 193. The Communists have opposed the news.

Shortly before the vote, the government accepted an amendment by Socialist Deputy Adrien Mabrut eliminating "false news, knowingly propagated" from the list of punishable methods of encouraging strikes.

During the hot debate on the sabotage measure, Finance Minister Rene Mayer rose dramatically and announced that saboteurs had unbolted sections of track and thus derailed Paris-Arras mail train a short time before. He said seven persons died in the wreck. A railway official later said 13 were dead and 30 in hospital.

Uproar Starts

Mayer's announcement brought a roar from the Communist benches as Communist deputies turned toward the right side of the Chamber and yelled:

"It is you who are the assassins."

Charles Serre, one of Gen. Charles De Gaulle's partisans, shouted back:

"Those who provoked it are on your side."

Communist Deputy Charles Tillon turned on Schuman and cried:

"There is the man who wants to find guilty those who derailed trains when people were being shot for it, when he was in London getting ready to put his business affairs back in order."

This obviously was a reference to the wartime days of the French underground, in which Tillon was head of a resistance organization.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Dec. 3 (CP) —Synopsis: Intermittent light rain is falling this morning over southern Ontario where temperatures are in the mid forties. Snow is falling over Northern Ontario due to a disturbance which is presently centred over the Kirkland Lake region. As the disturbance moves rapidly eastward colder weather will again spread over Ontario from the Prairies. The colder weather is expected to reach the lower lakes region this evening, temporarily ending the present mild spell.

4,050,000 MEN REPORTED UNDER ARMS IN RUSSIA

Committee Wants Prompt Action 'Stop-Communism' Aid to Europe

Washington, Dec. 3 —(AP)— The House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Committee, urging prompt action on $590,000,000 of "Stop-Communism" aid for Europe and China, said today that Russia has 4,050,000 men under arms.

In a formal report to the House, the committee said this estimate on Russian military strength was given it by the War Department during consideration of foreign aid legislation. The United States has 113,000 armed men in Europe and 258,000 at home.

House debate on the committee bill is to begin tomorrow with a vote likely early next week. The Senate has passed a $597,000,000 bill for aid to France, Italy and Austria, as requested by the administration.

"The Soviets," the report said, "have a clear and definite policy of attempting to prevent American aid to Europe or Asia, and a further policy of making such aid as ineffective and expensive as possible."

Must Remain Strong

While the Russian plans "should not deter us from rendering necessary aid," the committee cautioned, "we must not fall into the Soviet trap of bleeding ourselves white economically through extended, expensive and ineffective aid plans. We should plan our aid to other countries so as to remain strong at home, while strengthening free nations for all eventualities."

The committee said the $590,000,000 aid it recommends for Austria, France, Italy and China "is consistent with this policy."

The army report said Russia is believed to have 1,702,000 troops stationed in Western Russia and Soviet-occupied areas of Germany and Austria. Against this number of 2,879,000 soldiers wearing the uniforms of "free European states," including 113,000 American troops.

However, the point the aid bill supporters are seeking to make with their less enthusiastic colleagues is that the Soviet Union has a total force already under arms more than 1,000,000 stronger than all the rest of Europe.

For that reason, they contend the administration should be given what it considers the minimum amount needed to keep France, Italy and Austria from "disintegrating" this winter.

DELAY PROPOSED BY MOLOTOV, THEN HE BACKS DOWN

German Pact Issues Already on Agenda

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

London, Dec. 3 — (AP)—Foreign Minister Molotov of Russia proposed today that the Big Four powers delay consideration of a German peace treaty for two months, but then backed down on the proposal, at least temporarily.

The Russian spokesman suggested at the Foreign Minister Council session that the United States, Russia, Great Britain and France agree that all proposals for preparation of a peace treaty be based upon decisions taken at the Yalta and Potsdam conferences.

He suggested that the four governments submit to the council their proposals for a basis of a German peace treaty within two months.

Foreign Minister Bidault of France, just back from conferences in Paris with top French officials, promptly objected. He told the council it already had on the agenda many of the issues essential to a German treaty; that they had been discussing them; and that if it wished to accept Molotov's proposal, the council "might just as well go home now."

Earlier, it was announced that John Foster Dulles, Republican Party adviser to U. S. State Secretary Marshall, plans to go to Paris tomorrow to consult French leaders on French foreign policy in relation to France's present internal crisis.

Authoritative informants described Dulles' trip as a "personal" fact-finding mission which has the approval of Marshall.

The council, meeting half an hour earlier today, was near the end of its debate on preparation of a German peace treaty, but no nearer an agreement on critical issues than when the discussions started eight days ago.

Lieut. W.J. Spencer Becomes Navy Pilot

Ottawa, Dec. 3. (CP)—Canada has seven newly qualified navy pilots waiting to take up posts in the Royal Canadian Navy, Naval headquarters announced today.

The seven Canadians completed their course in October at Royal Navy and Royal Air Force Stations in the United Kingdom and have returned to Canada. Training was provided in the U.K. because requirements for pilots in the Canadian Navy came at a time when the Canadian Services were in a state of reorganization and facilities were more readily available there.

GLOBE-CIRCLERS IN TEXAS

Marillo, Tex., Dec. 3 —(AP)— Globe-circling fliers Cliff Evans and George Truman plan to end their leisurely light plane tour in Washington in about six days, they reported today.

The two landed here yesterday. The 45th stop on their trip which began at Teterboro, N.J., Aug. 9.

Truck Drivers' Fine Performances Win Championship in 'Roadeo'

Toronto, Dec. 3 — (CP)—Motorists who claim the truck-drivers "hog the road" should have seen 66 expert truck drivers doing their stuff in the championship "roadeo" sponsored by the Ontario Automotive Transport Association, now in convention here.

Frank Bell, 33, of Toronto, who drives a big transport for a brewery and has 200,000 miles without an accident, was acclaimed champion of transport-trailer drivers.

To get their prizes, Bell handled a transport trailer 38 feet long, making it do everything except sit up and beg. He parked it in a space which had only four feet to spare over all, backed it into an enclosure with four inches clearance on every side.

He and Chartrand also sent their trucks through a lane marked by golf balls giving a two-inch clearance — and then brought them back in reverse.

Second and third prize winners in the transport trailer contest were Wallace Miners of Brantford, who received $250, and Arnold Varley of Port Credit whose reward was $125. In the straight truck contest George Filer of Vancouver won second prize of $200 and Joseph H. Fair of Millbrook, Ont., took the $100 third prize. Mr. Filer was the only prize-winner among six British Columbia drivers who flew here for the contest.

AS NEW TORPEDO HIT U-BOAT HULL

Civil Strife in Many Lands Menaces Peace Of World Says King

In a solemn statement issued last night on his return from three weeks in Europe, the prime minister termed the situation in Western Europe "much more serious than most people have begun to realize" and said that current disturbances in France, Italy and Palestine, "unless the greatest caution and wisdom is exercised, may sooner or later menace anew the well-being of mankind."

He saw parallels "between conditions as they were some years ago, and as we know them today, becoming all too apparent."

Nowhere in the 900-word statement did the prime minister mention "war" — in subsequent amplification in an interview he said that no responsible European foresees a third world war. But if the current meeting in London of the Council of Foreign Ministers leads to ill-will among the big powers "it is difficult to say to what pass matters might come at any moment."

The prime minister spent the night aboard ship, the Nieuw Amsterdam, coming to New York today to spend the day visiting friends and to continue work on state papers on which he was engaged throughout the voyage. He leaves tonight for Ottawa, arriving there five weeks to the day on which he set out for London to represent Canada at the wedding of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

Of that "exceedingly fortunate marriage" in Westminster Abbey Nov. 20, Mr. King said it afforded to Britons beset by post-war austerity "a welcome interlude in a long period of monotony and austerity." He added: "for a day at least, it looked as if domestic happiness and national rejoicing was once more the lot of a people who have suffered heroically though terribly over many years. The wedding celebrations seemed almost prophetic of a new dawn about to break at last."

But on a sombre note the Prime Minister went on:

"I could, as I said on leaving Britain, have gone on my way rejoicing at the prospect of all being well in the end had that promise of a brighter day not been overshadowed by the cloud of uncertainty which has been hovering over Europe for some time past, and which, of late, has become charged with ominous portents."

He declared western Europe "is looking to America with a hope only second to that which she manifested during the years of war." Without the aid promised by the United States' projected Marshall Plan, "such have conditions become that the people might despair."

In a subsequent half-hour chat with reporters in his cabin, the 72-year-old Prime Minister, who termed his seven-day Atlantic crossing a "beautiful voyage" was much more cheerful. He seemed unperturbed by the problems facing him with Friday's opening of parliament at which his political opponents are sure to criticize his government's "austerity program" to conserve United States dollars and partial re-imposition of price controls.

The unusual early opening of parliament was "rather fortunate" in that it should enable prorogation next spring before the heat of summer strikes the capital. He looked forward to an "interesting session" — but neatly dodged the questions as to its possibly being his last in nearly 21 years as Prime Minister.

"Everybody," he remarked drily of published comment that he may resign next year, "knows more about what I'm going to do than I do."

Siamese Twins Joined at Skull

Bedford, Ind., Dec. 3. (AP)— A physician who declined to permit use of his name reported yesterday that Siamese twins were born here Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Speer of Bedford. The twins, both boys, are joined at the top of the skull and it was believed to be the first case in medical history of Siamese twins joined at that point.

The twins were reported in good health.

Gifts From U.S. Being Admitted

Windsor, Dec. 3. (CP)—You can still receive gifts from the United States this Christmas despite the rigid customs regulations in effect since Nov. 18, Harold Beardmore, collector of customs, said today.

All parcels entering Canada are subject to customs inspection, but if they're bona fide gifts and not more than $5 in value, and do not contain items on the forbidden or quota lists, they are admissible.

TWENTY KILLED AS PASSENGER TRAIN DERAILED

Govt. Officials Blame Wreck on Saboteurs

Arras, France, Dec. 3 (AP) —A passenger train en route from Paris to Lille was derailed near this city early today in a wreck blamed by some government officials on saboteurs. The Arras hospital estimated 20 persons were killed.

A hospital spokesman said 17 bodies had been removed from the wreckage. Workers at the scene said they belived another three were mangled beneath the debris.

About 40 persons were injured. Of these, 27 were in hospital.

A section of the rails gave way.

The locomotive, tender and 4 coaches left the tracks and overturned.

A railway official said investigation showed that two sections of rail — about 55 yards —had been unbolted.

"There is no doubt that it is sabotage," he added.

The cars were scattered over the right of way, blocking all tracks, and railway officials said traffic would be tied up "for an indefinite period."

The Arras Prefecture, which gave out the figures on the number of bodies recovered, said the accident would have been even worse had not the train been slowing up in preparation to stop at Arras.

Oshawa Aldermen To Receive $500 Mayor $3,000

Oshawa, Dec. 3. (CP)—Salaries of Oshawa's ten aldermen will be raised to $500 from $150 in 1948 and the mayor will receive $3,000 instead of $2,000, the 1947 council decided last night. Mayor F N. McCallum and six of the Aldermen have been re-elected by acclamation.

Sponsor of the increases, Mrs. Evelyn Bateman, the only woman member of city council, said if pay were boosted a better type of representative might be attracted.

"If any man or woman capable of serving Oshawa is not worth $500, then they should not be on the council," she declared.

Michael Denies Story of Engagement To Danish Princess

"There is absolutely nothing in it," the King told an interviewer. "I hear this story everywhere, and everybody knows more about it than I do.'"

Sources close ot the Danish royal family said yesterday in Copenhagen bethrothal of the 26-year-old King and the beauteous Danish princess, who once worked as a salesgirl in New York, would be announced within a month.

Guns, Grenades Used in Riots As 35 Killed

Fires Kindled in Cities, Arabs Continue Strike

Jerusalem, Dec. 3 — (AP) — Arabs and Jews fought with guns, grenades, knives and fire today in the no-man's land between Tel Aviv and Jaffa and the number killed since dawn yesterday in riots over the partition of Palestine was unofficially reported increased to 35.

Hebrew newspapers carried the report:

"Fifteen Arabs were killed by Jewish security forces in three separate attacks on Tel Aviv during today."

The underground Jewish defence Militia, Hagana, announced that a Hagana officer, Moshe Newman, was among the Jews slain in the struggle.

Irgun Zvai Leumi, a Jewish underground organization silent since the partition decision was announced, warned Arabs in a radio broadcast "we shall take action against you" if the Arab attacks continued.

Jerusalem was relatively quiet, although smoke still rose from fires kindled yesterday by Arabs starting a three-day strike throughout Palestine' in protest against the United Nations decision to carve up the Holy Land.

The Associated Press unofficial count showed 12 Jews and eight Arabs killed, although the officially listed casualties showed but eight Jews and five Arabs slain. Police said "We don't know" and will not know for several days the extent of casualties.

Hundreds Wounded

Hundreds were wounded. Forty Jews and 20 Arabs were taken to hospital, with injuries up to noon, but the Arabs took most of their wounded to houses rather than hospitals. Tight curfews were imposed in some areas.

An informant in Tel Aviv said the Arab death toll in the battle between there and Jaffa "will be heavy."

First casualties from the Tel Aviv-Jaffa area were two members of Hagana, the Jewish defence force, killed and four others and a uniformed Jewish policeman wounded. A Jewish physician was reported slain and his companion was wounded.

Arab and Jewish forces surged back and forth across the boundary between all-Jewish Tel Aviv and all-Arab Jaffa in bloody street fighting.

Firing and bomb explosions resounded throughout the day.

Leo Disentchik, Associated Press Reporter at a vantage point overlooking the battle area, said a group of Arab tommygunners broke a cordon of Hagana, the underground Jewish defence force, near Carmel Market and penetrated into the streets of Tel Aviv, wounding 18 Jews.

Arab fire from rooftops in Jaffa covered the charge. The action was visible from the main thoroughfare of Tel Aviv. The reporter said Hagana forces grouped and drove back the Arabs.

Search For Snipers

Jewish sources said veteran Hagana street fighters sifted into Jaffa at 3 p.m. and were attempting to knock out Arab snipers who were endangering lives along the downtown Mea Shearim and Hayarkon Streets.

Hagana informants said they had been told that Arabs dressed in British army uniforms were grouping for attacks on the Jewish industrial area and that "large" Arab concentrations were observed in the Tulkarem and Beit Halevi areas.

The government immediately clamped an around-the-clock curfew on the no-man's-land region in the border between the two cities. A curfew on the Arab districts of Jerusalem, where renewed fighting also broke out this morning, was extended for another 24 hours. The Jerusalem curfew had been scheduled to end at noon.

In Jerusalem, where thousands of persons—both Arab and Jew—fled from the trouble areas, two Arabs were reported shot and wounded by British troops while trying to break out of the old walled section of the Holy City in defiance of government orders.

In Jerusalem bands of Arab youths armed with sticks and stones were reported attacking Jewish houses along the pathway leading to the historic wailing wall.

The main points of evacuation were the slum quarters of Jerusalem, Haifa and the Tel Aviv-Jaffa border area, where hundreds of families loaded their poor belongings on trucks, wagons or pushcarts and fled in search of safety.

Jewish sources expressed fear that the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv might bear the brunt of today's Arab demonstrations.

Something Cooking

One Hagana (Jewish underground army) source said early today "there's something cooking" in Tel Aviv, where two Arabs and one Jew were reported killed in fighting last night. The general belief among Jews was that events there would take a serious turn before the day is over.

The bloody armed clashes which marked the first day of the Arab general strike yesterday began in Jerusalem but quickly spread throughout the land. An unofficial casualty list gave the following totals for the Holy Land: eight Jews and six Arabs killed; 32 Jews and six Arabs wounded; Jerusalem property damage estimated at $1,000,000, with fifty shops burned and damaged and some looted.

Hagana, whose organized armed forces helped British troops regain control of the Jerusalem situation, charged in a communique last nigh tthat Haj Amin El Husseini, exiled Mufti of Jerusalem, was responsible for the riots. The Mufti, spiritual leader of Palestine Arabs, now is in Damascus.

"The hirelings of the Mufti have succeeded in turning the first day of the strike into a day of bloodshed and rowdyism," Hagana said.

Americans are Eating More Meat, It's Season of Sharper Appetites

Washington, Dec. 3 —(AP)— Americans are eating more meat now than they were two months ago when the government called upon them to eat less by observing meatless Tuesday.

This does not necessarily mean, however, that the meatless day campaign is failing to achieve its principal objective — a reduction in the feeding of grain to livestock so that more cereals might be made available for shipment abroad.

This is the season of the year when livestock marketing normally increases and when meat production goes up. It also is the season when appetites for meat tend to grow sharper because of colder weather.

Meat production by federally-inspected slaughterers was running less than 300,000,000 pounds a week when the meatless Tuesday campaign was started. Now it is averaging more than 400,000,000 pounds and probably will go higher before the month is out.

The bulk of this increase is moving directly into consumption. As is the case normally, some of the seasonal increase is going into cold storage for sale later when supplies will be down.

Insofar as the meatless day campaign has influenced the present livestock marketing trend it has contributed to the government's objective of saving grain. Animals sold at light weights consume less grain than those marketed at heavy weights.

TWO-CENTS UP ON CIGARETTES

Results of the price increase announced this week by tobacco firms, all retail outlets in the city will on Friday charge an additional two cents per pack of cigarettes, it was announced by wholesalers today. Thus far the price increase will be only on cigarettes with no word having been received as to the date when pipe tobacco will increase in price.

INTER-SERVICE CLUB APPROVES MIDGET, JUVENILE LEAGUES

At a meeting of the inter-service club council held on Tuesday night, it was decided by the council to operate midget and juvenile hockey teams in a league similar to that operated in the baseball season. There will be five teams in each league, the teams being perated by the Optimists, Rotarians, Kinsmen, Y's Men and Kiwanians.—The city will be zoned as in the baseball loop and each club will have to confine itself to that zone in securing players for their teams.

The league games will be played at the arena as it is not expected that open air rinks will be operated this year due to the lighting restrictions, that have been placed on the Province by Ontario Hydro Power Commission. The council felt this was a move in the fight direction as the younger members of the community would be instructed in the finer points of the pastime and at the same time help to eliminate juvenile deliquency. These boys who graduate from this can find their place in the senior and junior teams of the future. Many municipalities have taken a keen interest in this type of hockey and the service clubs of the city are to be complimented on their initiative.

178 WORKERS REPORT AT CORBIN LOCK

One hundred and seventy-eight workers reported for work at the Corbin Lock Company plant this morning as the second day of plant operation started following the eight weeks period in which the plant was closed owing to strike action. On Tuesday morning 178 workers were called to the plant with approximately 170 showing up for work.

Italy and People Subject of Talk By Dr. Walters

Political and domestic conditions existing today in Italy were the topic of an address heard by members of the Kinsmen Club at their regular meeting, Tuesday night as they were addressed by a former member, Dr. Austin Walters.

Pointing out that geography has much to do with the racial characteristics of a people, the speaker declared that nowhere was this more evident than in Italy with its mountainous terrain and river valleys.

Recounting experiences while serving as a medical officer with the Canadian army in Italy, Dr. Walters stated that 20 per cent of the Italian population was illiterate and with poverty among the peasants acute, was thus fertile ground for the preaching of the Communism doctrine which is fast spreading in the country.

Peasant Class Largest

The peasant class were stated to be the largest in Italy and were living in conditions similar to that existing during the heyday of the Roman Empire. The typical Italian was described as a man with a large family who didn't like to plug too much and who loved a holiday.

Heavy industry was handicapped in Italy because of the lack of the needed materials, such as iron, coal and oil.

Communism was stated to be the only really organized party in the country and in a strongly religious country the Communistic opposition to the Church was played down. However they control the labor unions and almost everything else which makes a country run.

Communism on Increase

Although Communism was stated to be on the increase the aristocracy of Italy still opposed the movement. These people were those with Papal titles, or other distinction handed down from Roman Empire times.

President Art Cruji presided over the meeting which saw entertainment by Hamie MacDonald who rendered several piano selections much to the approval of the members.

During the meeting a cash collection was taken up for a needy local family, while other members donated groceries and canned goods.

New Water Main To be Constructed Across Moira R.

The new water main across the Moira River will soon be started it was announced at the meeting of the Public Utilities Commission held in the Board Room on Tuesday afternoon. Three tenders have been received and these have been sent to Toronto for inspection and recommendation by the consulting engineers, Gore and Storrie. The pipe line will run just south of the Lower Bridge and through a gangway to McAnnany Street. This addition to the system was recommended in a lengthy report given some time ago by the consulting engineers.

It was also decided at the meeting that the committee appointed by the council with respect to the closing of the Gas Plant would meet the Commission in a special meeting at the same time that the tenders would be considered. Mr. Scott, manager, stated that the council and commission would have to make an early decision with respect to the plant or else more coal and other equipment would have to be ordered in order to keep the plant in operation. Commissioner M. P. Duff and Mayor Frank Follwell complimented the chairman, F. Russell Wotten, on his re-election to the Commission.

Charles N. Sulman, Former Mayor Of City, Dies

Charles N. Sulman, former mayor and prominent in the business life of this city for many years, died Tuesday evening in the Belleville General Hospital, after an illness of three and a half years' duration. He was a patient in the hospital for the past fourteen weeks.

The late Charles Nelson Sulman, who was in his 79th. year, was born at Burford, Ontario, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. William Sulman. He attended school at Brantford and later was employed in a wholesale house in Toronto. Having gained some knowledge of merchandise and desiring to enter business on his own account, he came to Belleville in the year 1885, the time of the North West Rebellion, and at the age of sixteen years he opened a smallwares and novelty business in a store which stood at that time on the present site of the Canadian Bank of Commerce at the corner of Front and Campbell Streets. His venture was successful and later he bought the stock of the Dalton Fair and moved to the store now occupied by the A. & P. Company. Eventually he leased the large store now occupied by the Lattimer Drug Store and carried on an extensive business there for forty-five years. For the past nineteen years he lived retired.

A Good Citizen

Charles N. Sulman was a good citizen and throughout the many years he lived in his adopted city he was held in high regard and was popular with many friends. He took a keen interest in municipal affairs and during the years 1902, 1903 and 1904 he served as a member of the city council. In 1905 he was elected Mayor and he filled the office with much ability for three years.

In religion Mr. Sulman was a member of Bridge Street United Church and for many years he was a member of the Official Board; and also served as Chairman of the Property Committee and Chairman of the Library Board. In the management of the Public Library he took much interest and served as Chairman of the Board for forty years.

He also served on the City Board of Health and gave his support to all worthy undertakings for the betterment of the city. In politics he was a staunch Conservative and a member of the Conservative Association.

Fraternally Mr. Sulman was Past Master of Eureka Lodge No. 283 A. F. & A. M., having occupied the chair for four years; also a member of Moira Chapter No. 7 R. A. M. In 1946 Mr. Sulman was presented with the fifty-year Masonic Jewel.

Charles Sulman took an active interest in sport in his younger days. For many years he was identified with the Lawn Bowling Club when the greens were on George Street, near Victoria Avenue, William Street and at the present location. He was a past president of this organization and won many trophies throughout the district. Mr. Sulman was also connected with the old Curling Club and served as president.

Twice Married

Mr. Sulman was twice married, his first wife was Miss Effie Belle Garrett. She died in 1897 leaving one daughter, Miss Helen Sulman. His second wife was Miss Clara Isabel Pringle, who died in 1926, leaving one daughter, the late Mrs. Alice Bateman, who died in 1940.

He was the last of his family and is survived by one daughter, Miss Helen Sulman; two grandsons, Charles Robert Bateman, now attending Trinity College School, Port Hope, and John Douglas Bateman at his home here.

Resting at the Pinkston Funeral Home, Church Street at Victoria Avenue, until Wednesday evening, then at his late residence, 154 Bridge Street east; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

Co-operative Marketing Would Reduce Surplus Milk Problem Convention Told

The various branches of the dairy industry should work co-operatively with only one organization or pool, members of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association were told at their annual convention when at the opening session this morning they were addressed by Frank Robinson, Kemptville, Chief Dairy Instructor for Eastern Ontario.

With the various milk outlets controlled by the one organization surplus milk could be diverted to the necessary channels thereby eliminating to a great extent the surplus milk problem.

Price Balance Needed

Cheese is an exportable product and thus milk for cheese factories has long been considered an ideal channel for surplus milk but the speaker declared it was neither reasonable nor fair to expect the cheese producers to go on producing at low prices in order that the price for other milk channels be protected.

"Unless some measure of price balance is established, either one of two things will happen," stated Mr. Robinson. "Either there will be a disastrous decrease in milk production due to the rise in feed costs or there will be a serious decline in the manufacture of cheese, thereby diverting milk production into other channels and automatically forcing many factories to close."

Surplus Milk Often Inferior

Mr. Robinson stated that in the Ottawa region city dairies look on the cheese factories as an outlet for their surplus milk and in many cases this milk which is received at factories is vastly inferior to that which is received from regular patrons. The dairy regulations were being amended to require a higher standard of milk for all channels of manufacture.

Agricultural Representative for Hastings, Mr. A. O. Dalrymple spoke briefly on the advantages of artificial insemination.

Too Many Scrub Bulls

Mr. Dalrymple stated the average production of a dairy cow in the province was approximately 6,000 pounds per year, this being far below that of some top ranking herds which produce 13 to 14 thousand pounds per cow. The cheapest way to increase herd production was by the use of a good herd sire. "There are too many scrub bulls in the province," he stated.

Outlining the procedure taken in artificial insemination Mr. Dalrymple related the experience of a group of farmers in York County. Each farmer was charged a membership fee of $40 with an additional charge of $5 per service per cow. This, he said, might seem expensive, but not so when feed costs in keeping a herd sire was taken into consideration.

Mac Remington, cheese makers' association president, welcomed delegates to the convention, as did J. L. Irwin, honorary president of the association.

Seven Citizenship Applications Approved at General Sessions

One certificate of citizenship was received, and seven applications for Canadian citizenship were approved by Judge J. C. Anderson at the General Sessions of the Peace held in the county court house on Monday.

Kostantinos "Gus" Poulos, co-proprietor of the Belmont Cafe received his certificate of citizenship, while Judge Anderson approved of seven other applications.

Applying for citizenship were Mrs. Annie Brisley Anderson, Belleville Club and Mrs. Elna Pekar, of Batawa. Both the above are Canadian born but lost their Canadian citizenship through marriage.

Paul Haggis Pays Election Bet To K. Onderdonk

Late afternoon shoppers had a good laugh on Tuesday as they witnessed along Front Street the pay-off of an election bet on the local mayoralty contest. Not only did the election pay-off attract the attention of shoppers but completely tied up vehicular traffic as well.

Winner of the election bet was J. Keith Onderdonk, proprietor of the local Canadian Tire Store on lower Front Street, who was wheeled in a wheel barrow the length of Front Street by Paul Haggis, Crystal Hotel proprietor. Preceding the parade was Jamie Clarke and his Highland pipes.

It was a warm afternoon and Mr. Haggis, dressed in his north-woods hunting outfit, perspired freely as he wheeled Mr. Onderdonk in the barrow. Sweat poured from the Haggis brow and he was forced to call a halt at frequent intervals to regain his breath. During the rest period his "second" mopped the Haggis brow and fanned him with his hat.

But Mr. Onderdonk thoroughly enjoyed the ride. Dressed in top hat and coat tails, he wielded the baton to the tune of Jamie Clarke's pipes and at the end of the ride was dumped ceremoniously off at the Onderdonk store.

Huntingdon Tp. Council Back

Personnel of the Huntingdon Township Council for 1948 will be the same as this year, ratepayers decided at their municipal elections on Monday. Reeve Arthur Jones received acclamation for another term, while all councillors were also returned. Elected were Cecil Geen, 320; Arthur Hagerman, 320; Morley Haggerty, 285; Elmer Wood, 369. The defeated candidate was Alfred Herrington, 179.

FREED OF NECESSITY

Toronto, Dec. 3 — (CP)—A former Royal Canadian Air Force pilot and engineering student at Queen's University, Arthur Joseph Mullen, Jr., of Hamilton, in court yesterday was freed of the necessity of supporting his wife, Gloria Frozell, 22, of Hamilton.

Under a final court order the 26-year-old son of a Hamilton industrialist, was required to pay his estranged wife, now studying nursing at Baltimore, $8 a week.

Some Merchants Using too Many Bulbs for Lighting

Belleville merchants are not co-operating with the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission in the reduction of power consumption for store lighting purposes, it was stated here today by Mr. Harold C. Seldon, chairman of the Retail Merchants' Division of the Chamber of Commerce, who warned that unless the order was complied with store lighting privileges would be rescinded.

As a measure to conserve electric power the Commission some weeks ago stated that store windows and outdoor lighting would not be permitted. However, to expedite the Christmas trade, a modification of the order permitted the use of one 100-watt electric light bulb in each display window from four in the afternoon until nine o'clock.

"Local merchants are taking advantage of the modification and are burning up to three and four bulbs in each window," stated Mr. Seldon. "Hydro officials have checked on this practice and unless it is discontinued the window lighting permission will be rescinded, in addition to the offending parties being called upon to pay a substantial fine."

Deer Killed by Car Disappears From Scene

Brantford, Dec. 3 —Robert E. Lawrence of Schenectady, N. Y., spent two weeks and a lot of money in the Michigan woods this year hunting deer. He didn't get any. Yesterday on Highway No. 2 about seven miles west of Paris, he got two with his automobile and killed one of them. Both animals leaped across the road in front of him. Approximately $200 damage was done to the car with no injuries to any one.

Lawrence was accompanied by his wife and infant daughter. The deer killed was a doe. Lawrence and his family were taken to Paris by a transport. When he returned with a tow truck to the scene of the accident, the deer, although obviously very dead, had disappeared. Somebody will eat venison this week.

The second annual Junior Farmer get-together was held in the Madoc Armouries, when county officials and parents were the guests of the Junior Farmers. Guest speaker for the evening was A. H. Martin, director of extension from the Ontario Department of Agriculture, who complimented the Juniors on their extensive program.

Trophies won during the year were presented at the get-together, including the Fred Wilson and Roscoe Robson trophy for softball teams winning at the Hastings County field day. Other trophies were the J. W. Haggerty trophy which was presented to Wesley Finch; the H. R. Thompkins silver trophy win by Bud Heath; the A. O. Dalrymple silver medal won by Earl Badgley; the Warden's trophy won by Bob Burkitt and the P. C. McGuire trophy won by Gerald Eggfeton.

Mr. W. J. Davis complimented the winners of the U.S.A. and Chicago trips, Miss Joan McCurdy and Carl Bateman, and expressed the hope that these two juniors would continue to give outstanding leadership to the county.

Home Economist Miss E. M. Irvine presented a provincial honor pin to Mrs. Rex Rollins and at the same time presented county honor pins to a number of girls who had completed the necessary number of projects. On behalf of the Association she presented 145 spoons to girls who had completed projects while recognition was also given to those who had taken part in the Field Day events, the home plowing competition and the Boys' Club Work.

Attending the gathering were T. R. Hilliard, junior farmer extension fieldman, Miss Jean Scott, former home economist for this district, and Miss Mary Carmichael, Middlesex Junior Institute member. This group has been touring the province giving leadership at executive training schools. The Cooper-Remington girls served lunch to conclude the program.

LOSING HIS WIND

Thorpe reported to police that thieves had taken $500 worth of clothing from his parked automobile. The desk sergeant asked the famous grid star of former years if he would have given chase had he caught the thieves in the act.

"I couldn't have done anything but yell," replied the 61-year-old Thorpe.

Traders Keep Eye On Wage-Price Spiral

(By The Canadian Press)

Market trends were irregular and price range narrow on the major North American exchanges yesterday as investors clung to the sidelines awaiting clarification of domestic and international problems. Traders kept an eye on the wage-price spiral and ignored the flow of pleasing dividends and reports of continued high business activity.

C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.), announced in Toronto yesterday that his union is discussing wage increases with the basic steel industry. In Washington, Labor Secretary Schwellenbach warned that another postwar round of wage boosts is in prospect unless Congress acts to cut living costs.

Reports of interest, normally of bullish influence, included review of construction awards in Canada for 11 months of 1947, up almost $20,000,000 over the whole of 1946 and expected to go above $700,000,000, highest on record.

International Milling Co., reported new all-time high earning levels and an increase over last year by 88.7 per cent. Companies disbursing bonuses above regular dividends included Traders Finance Corp., G. Tamblyn Ltd., Canadian Celanese Ltd., East Washing Machine Co.

From England came word of possible resumption of Anglo-Soviet trade negotiations broken off last July, and in the United States, a bill authorizing $597,000,000 in emergency aid to France, Italy and Austria was passed by the Senate.

Stocks in Toronto were lower in dull trade with golds leading the downward drift while Montreal industrials were irregular and in New York a few individual stocks advanced moderately although many leaders faltered.

Cotton prices eased while grain in Chicago softened and in Winnipeg oats and barley were weak. Livestock prices, however, were firm in active trade in Toronto, Winnipeg and Montreal. Egg trading in Toronto was quiet with lower grades in short supply. butter prints advanced a cent.

MILK STRIKE ENDS

Cornwall, Dec. 3 (CP) —Cornwall's four-day milk strike ended last night, but deliveries are not expected to begin until Friday because of delay in getting plants back in operation.

Officers of Local 478, United Distribution Workers (C.C.L.-C.I.O.) said workers had voted "reluctantly" to return to work in the city's four dairies, pending negotiations for higher wages, holidays with pay and a checkoff system.

HOGS

Toronto, Dec. 3 (CP) —Hog prices remained unchanged at Stratford, $22.75 delivered to farmers, $22.90 to truckers while at Hull unchanged $22.75 delivered and unquoted off truck, in markets reporting early this morning.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Dec. 3 — (CP) — Industrials and golds were about unchanged today in one of the slowest early sessions on the Toronto Stock Exchange in weeks. Base metals were soft but Western oils were mildly firmer on a few narrow gains. Boardrooms were deserted as traders continued cautious, awaiting definite news on problems affecting the business world.

Volume for the first three hours was 289,000 shares, about 55,000 below yesterday's first hour.

Industrials moved fractionally for the most part with newsprints easy, utilities firmer fractionally including more than a point for Consumers Gas. Steels and foods were mixed, foods and oils about even.

Senior golds eased fractions for Bralorne, Hollinger, Kerr Addison and 10 at $2.95 for Wright Hargreaves. Better juniors were Canadian Malartic, Duquesne, Sylvanite, Sullivan and losers included Beaulieu, Conwest, Croinor, Delnite, Giant, Lunward, Madsen, Negus, O'Brien, Paymaster. Base metals were down for Smelters, Nickel, Labrador, MacDonald, Waite Amulet, Silanco, Sherritt, Quemont.

Eggs: Receipts of grade A large and grade A medium are up and prices have declined slightly, other grades firm with unchanged prices; wholesale to retail, A large 51-52, A medium 49-50, A pullet 45, B 45, C 36-37; country shippers quoted graded eggs, cases free, A large 47-47½, A medium 45-45½, A pullet 42, B. 42, C 34.

Butter solids, 1st grade 64 3/4, 2nd grade 60½-62.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Dec. 3 (CP) —Cattle prices remained generally unchanged in the livestock market up to mid-session here today. Calves, hogs, sheep and lambs remained steady. Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: Cattle 500, calves 150, hogs 400, sheep and lambs 400.

Weighty steers were bringing $13-$15.75 a hundredweight with plain to medium butcher steers and heifers at $11-$13.25 with boners down to $8. Butcher cows brought $7.50-$11 with canners down at $5-$6. Bulls were $7.50-$10.50 with fed yearlings $13-$15.75.

Calves were steady at $17-$18 for choice with plain to medium heavys at $10-$13. Grassers for slaughter brought $8-$9.50.

Hogs remained steady at $23 for grade A and $22.60 for B1. Sows were $15 dressed.

Lambs were steady at $15.25 for good ewes and wethers shipped by rail and $15 by truck. Bucks were at a $1 discount and culls were mostly $11 cwt.

Sheep were stronger at $4-$8.25.

Boards of Trade Plan to Root Out And Combat Communist Activities

Ottawa, Dec. 3 —(CP)— The 36th annual meeting of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce concluded today with adoption of a resolution urging "all member organizations to search out and combat at every turn all activities in their respective communities which appear to have Communistic instigation or support."

The resolution was one of several passed as delegates from various parts of Ontario ended two days of discussion on topics including communism and the value of free enterprise. To back up the discussion the delegates went on record as "wholeheartedly supporting the free enterprise system."

They expressed this support in a resolution which said that the rights of free citizenship to work and earn a living could not be delegated to the state without a corresponding loss of personal liberty.

"A government bureaucracy can never possess the dynamic qualities of private enterprise functioning under the constant stimulus of competition," said the resolution.

Prior to passage of the resolutions, C. A. Pollock of Kitchener was re-elected president of the organization. Norman Moore of Brantford was elected vice-president and Alastair Conacher of Hamilton was reappointed secretary-treasurer.

Earlier, the delegates heard three addresses. Dr. E. A. Archibald of Ottawa, director of Dominion Experimental Farm Services, warned of the dangers facing agriculture unless there is a change in crop policies. E. C. Cross of Toronto, director of community programs in the Ontario Department of Education, talked on adult education in a changing world and Gratton O'Leary, associate editor of the Ottawa Journal, spoke on the responsibilities of citizenship.

In connection with plans for reorganization, delegates decided to change the name of their body from the Ontario Associated Board of Trade and Chambers of Commerce to the Ontario Chamber of Commerce.

In Palestine

The United Nations Assembly has taken a momentous step in deciding upon the partition of Palestine as the best possible solution of the problem which has been so much to the fore in recent years. Two independent and separate states are to be set up, one Jewish and the other Arab, bound together in an economic union. Britain has given notice that she will terminate her mandate of the Holy Land. The Holy City of Jerusalem will be placed under trusteeship of the United Nations. Minorities are to be protected and provision for the safeguarding of places of deep spiritual meaning to three religions. It is planned to preserve existing cultures and tongues.

The New York Times says that the decision on partition has been made after a thorough investigation and full and fair debate. It adds, "It has been clear for many months that the present precarious deadlock in Palestine required some new solution. It has been equally clear that the most appropriate forum in which to find such a solution was the General Assembly of the United Nations. The Assembly has now made its choice, and its decision should command the acquiescence, the respect and the loyal support of all nations and all peoples."

Further on its says, "It is the decision of the United Nations; it is the best decision which that great agency of world opinion was able to discover and we trust that it will have the willing compliance of the two peoples whose future it involves."

It is to be hoped that the Holy Land will find in this step the solution to the problems which have vexed that country, especially of late.

Yuletide in Britain

Britain will have an autoless Christmas. Such is the edict even for those who have kept petrol for that happy day. The Montreal Herald however remarks, "Well, Santa has not yet traded in his sleigh for a snowmobile or other mechanized contrivance," and adds that "if Canadian, and other, friends of Britons have been prompt and generous in their despatch of overseas parcels, the latter can still hope for a Merry Christmas, even if the motor horns do not compete with the Christmas bells."

People of Britain have the spirit in them which will make Christmas a real Christmas no matter what the degree of austerity the people of the Isles are asked to meet.

But it is good to know that on the high seas are many parcels going to people in the tight little island, the scene of immemorable Yuletide feasts and gatherings. They will help to make the time seem normal though the economic stringency is tight.

Reports of the remarkable upsurge of production of coal and steel in Britain in recent weeks are the proof of the type of courage which dwells in John Bull. There is no doubt that the Briton has girded himself to the task.

Making a City

Great numbers of Belleville citizens went to the polls on Monday to decide the membership of the representative civic bodies than most people expected would take the time to cast their ballots as all citizens should do. No citizen is there who is not pleased with this fact—the larger number of votes cast.

In choosing the makeup of these bodies the people place the future of the community for the coming year in the hands of those who have been voted into places of responsibility as guardians and representatives of the people's privileges and rights as citizens of a city or town.

Municipal government remains the most intimate government the people have for they can make the community what they together wish to make it. A multitude of local questions calls for solution and the citizens' representatives deal with these—the very life of the city. That is why two communities differ in individuality. No two really are the same for different conditions surround them, opportunities vary, just as they do with two persons who can never be exactly alike in their attitudes.

Looking Forward

Now with the thought of the annual change in civic bodies out of the way and settled for another year, citizens will prepare themselves for the holiday season, the merriest time of all the seasons of the year. One can now begin to count the days to Christmas. With Wednesday of the first week of December gone there is only a brief spell of three weeks or eighteen weekdays until the arrival of Santa Claus and his bags of toys and food.

In that time much remains to be done by a people who enjoy their Christmases and spread the teaching, the lessons and the spirit of that rich time. To the women of the households falls a great share of the task of planning the family reunion, the festivities, purchasing of appropriate gifts and the spread of cheer where cheer might not dwell but for the charitable and loving hearts who see to it that no one they know will be without the holiday viands and cakes.

The nights begin to close in early, the lights come on, the long evenings signify the warmth within the home and the glad preparations are begun, necessarily mostly unknown to the young who are not to know before Christmas morning what lovely gifts may be theirs in their stockings or beneath the evergreen tree.

Preparation for Christmas has a unique attraction for it brings work and labor which no one refuses to do so inspiring is the season.

Outside the home in the busy world of the shops and stores there are those who help to make the season happy. Modern business has achieved many things and one of these is the ability to provide the setting and the cheer and the gifts for the merry days of Yule. There is a natural delight in shopping, surrounded by shelves laden with myriads of gifts of all kinds to make the human heart happy at a time when no one must be left to be unhappy while the people would enjoy Christmas and partake of its joys.

Light Snow

People have again just become familiar with snow and an article in the New York Times gives some lore about the approach of snow which will be enteresting to many persons especially those who find it necescary to keep a close regard on the weather's changes. The Times writer who knows life in the country provides some intriguing information about the marks of the weather as it relates to coming of snow. He says, "Between major assaults the Weather Man cranks his sky-churn and whips up a froth of light dry snow. Then he calls for a moderate breeze, turns the churn upside down and the snow drops casually and unhurriedly on meadows and woodlands. The countryman claims one can tell when the little snows are coming. When cirrus clouds make patterns of mackerel scales and change slowly into light-gray high-riding stratus it's a sign of a minor storm. If the cirrus change to dark stratus, begin to thicken into nimbus and the cloud-veil touches the tops of mountains across the valley then a real storm is on the way.

"It is an axiom in the country that one can expect a bit of snow either side of the full of the moon. If thin high clouds are drifting across the moon and there's a grayish-yellow diffused halo about it he is reasonably certain that snow will fall in the night. Light snow in the night means beauty in the morning.

"The barns, houses, corn cribs and silos wear fresh cloaks. The sumacs, birches and wild cherries above white-topped walls hold ermine-furred arms to the slanting sun rays. The tall, symmetrical elm by the pasture spring looks like a gray and white vase. The pines, hemlocks and spruces are in their formal outfits of green and white. The cattails at the swamp's edge are white exclamation points among the hummocks and high bush blueberries. The mowing fields and sidehill pastures throw jewel glints back to the sun. There is beauty on the countryside after a light snow."

Whoever fails to turn aside the ills of life by prudent forethought, must submit to the course of destiny.—Schiller.

JUST FOLKS

UNSPOKEN THOUGHT

"The baby looks like me!" he said.
  "My eyes and hair,
And shaped like mine his little head,
  They all declare!"

  I thought: "Like yours his chin and nose
  And eyes of blue,
But what if later on he grows
  To be like you?

"Happy and proud you are today!
  Now let him see
In you the man long years away
  You'd have him be."

I didn't speak these thoughts of mine:
  Such things aren't done.
I shook his hand and said: "It's fine
  To have a son."

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS.

20 YEARS AGO

Dec. 3rd., 1927

A profit of $80.00 was realized from the Belleville Tourist Camp this season, which was under the supervision of Ald. Russell Wotten, who was chairman of Tourist and Publicity in this year's council. The total expenditure this season was $200.00 and this was paid out of the receipts. In 1926 there were 478 cars and 1586 people registered, and this season there were 1524 cars and 5,549 people registered.

Mr. Bert Wells has returned to the city from Lindsay where he was connected with the C. N. R. for the past few months.

In a basketball match at the Y. M. C. A. between the "Frenchies" and the "Sammies" the latter team won, the score being 11 to 6. For the "Sammies", Prindle was the star and McCabe and Palmer were the best players for the 'Frenchies'. The following composed the teams: "Frenchies", — T. McCabe, L. Palmer, H. Post, R. Ross and M. French; "Sammies", — J. Mason, H. Hurley, E. Prindle, A. Bongard and W. Hudson. The referee was H. P. Ellis of the Y.M.C.A. staff.

Ed. Thomas Wins Again. The attraction at the roller skating rink last night was a one mile race between Ed. Thomas and Jewell Hickey. The latter has been the undisputed speed king of the city and young Thomas, after gaining a reputation by beating the lesser lights, challenged Hickey to defend his title. The boys went off well together, Hickey having the pole which Thomas, however, gained before the first turn was reached. Hickey trailed him closely for about half a mile, then Thomas, urged on by his friends cut loose and set a whirlwind pace. His long strides carried him along at a remarkable rate and he began to pull away from Hickey. When about nine laps had been covered, Thomas was leading by about a third of a lap, and was going like a scared jack rabbit. Then Hickey slowed up and retired from the race. Thomas finished the mile and made a local record. The time announced was three minutes flat, which is remarkable for a fifteen lap track.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What is the purpose of the monocle?

The monocle, a single eyeglass worn fixed in the eye socket, was originally designed for persons with defective vision in one eye. In theory the monocle not only corrects the vision of the eye in which it is worn but also relieves the strain on the other. It may serve a real purpose when made by an optician to fit a particular eye.

Though sometimes worn by spat-wearing and cane-carrying dandies and "bogus counts" for effect alone, even at the present time the monocle very rarely is worn entirely for ornament.

"Monocle" is a hybrid word of French origin, a fact suggesting that the single eyeglass may have been a French invention. The word was originally formed from Greek "monos," sole, and Latin "oculuh," eye, and literally means "one eye." No use of the term in English earlier than 1856 is listed in the Oxford dictionary.

Monocles may be older than spectacles. It is said that Emperor Nero wore a single eyeglass. The idea of the monocle may have been suggested by the "peering glass," used by watchmakers and connoisseurs of paintings.

The monocle became fashionable in England in the time of Queen Anne. Johann George Keysaler, the European traveller and writer, recorded that in 1740 a diplomat named Philip von Stosch wore a single eyeglass in Rome.

In the United States the monocle is regarded not only as an indispensable part of the outfit of a European fop, but also as the universal attribute of the typical stage Englishmen of the upper classes. The tendency of Americans to ridicule the monocle as the badge of social snobbishness and affectation has led many Englishmen of a practical turn of mind seriously to object to the sending of any monocled diplomat to represent their country in Washington.

As a matter of fact, monocle-wearing is a continental rather than a British custom. Many scholars, statesmen, soldiers and businessmen on the continent have been addicted to the single eyeglass. For generations the monocle was a favorite among German army officers. Armand Calinescu, the Rumanian premier who was assassinated in 1939, lost an eye in childhood and habitually wore a black monocle

Monocles were once common in the British army because spectacles were forbidden while single eyeglasses were not. In 1943 the British Admiralty ruled that an officer might choose between wearing spectacles or a monocle if it did not interfere with the efficient performance of his duties.

NO RACING

Miami, Dec. 3 — (AP)—There will be no racing at Gulfstream Park today for the second straight afternoon, while hope of a settlement in the deadlock that closed the track the day after it opened for the season hung on a meeting between the management and horsemen.

The horsemen voted Sunday for an increase in minimum purses from $2,000 to $2,500 and for daily purses of no less than $22,000, exclusive of stake races.

Letter to the Editor

Re Gas Utility

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

I have for many years advocated closing down our gas plant, so that the loss might be taken off the shoulders of the taxpayer. I have also always felt that to charge the loss on gas to the taxpayer and withhold the profit on the other utilities was absolutely dishonest. This dishonesty I am perfectly aware is upheld by act of parliament. This doesn't make it any the less dishonest, it makes it more so.

When I was Mayor my understanding was that in the event of closing the gas plant, gas users would be recompensed in some way or other. In my opinion the gas utility has had fair treatment by the Utilities Commission but has been quite unable to compete with our cheap electricity.

The electric utility has therefore profited tremendously, so much so that many cuts in rates were given and users also were bonused in cash. It is therefore only logical that those who profited so much on electricity should take care of the loss or part of the loss on gas. Why should the property owner have a pistol put to his head and be told that "you and you alone shall pay all the loss on this gas plant, which for years you didn't want?"

We are still faced with the 1946 gas operational loss of $7,390.37. Why was this not paid? And we are faced with a further operational loss for 1947 of probably $12,000. We have a further loss on gas debentures to take care of amounting to about $13,500 a year until 1952, and when taxes go up so do rents.

Now my ideas are that some provision be made for gas users and at once. The old stoves could be taken in at a fair valuation, be reconditioned and shipped to Toronto for sale. Gas users should have their houses wired for electric stoves at the expense of the utility commission and the commission should float a bond issue while interest rates are still low, of enough to take care of this entire change over plus any capital expenditure needed in the near future.

$100,000 or at the least $50,000 of this sum should be turned over to the city to take care of gas debentures and other sums mentioned above, and I believe if application be made to the municipal board that permission would be given. There is no use of anybody throwing up their hands in holy horror at this suggestion. It is the only decent honest thing to do, and meantime the plant might be kept open till April 1st., 1948, to give everybody a chance to make up their minds.

Lastly the Mayor, whoever he may be from year to year, should remember that he is an active member of the commission and not a figurehead. He must actively "manage" and not be a "reporter to council." He has equal responsibility with the other two members and there is no reason for him to ask council's opinion. The other commissioners don't go asking other people's advice. They are supposed to know what to do. That is what they are there for.

ARE YOU WINTERING IN THE SAHARA?

No matter what method of heating you use it dries out the air, and moisture must be added to the warmed up air to make it comfortable and healthful to live in.

The atmosphere in most homes in the winter time is extremely dry and therefore uncomfortable and unhealthful for young or old alike. Perhaps the young ones show the ill effects of the Sahara-like atmosphere more by irritation and stuffiness and "catarrhal" states of the respiratory mucous membrane and by chapping cracking and eczematous reactions of the skin; the old ones, whose mucous membranes and skin are generally too dry anyway, suffer from chronic winter cough (recurring chronic bronchitis) and abnormal, or if I may speak frankly, peevish sensitivity to trifling changes of temperature, drafts, chilliness and the like. Please, old timers, let's not get emotional about this. I am as fond of comfort as any one but what I'm trying to tell you is that the discomfort you may feel from chilliness, sudden change, draft and the like is merely discomfort and it has nothing whatever to do with your immunity to or your susceptibility to any illness and d.f. pleases to call a "cold."

In the pamphlet on Humidification (mailed on written request if you provide stamped self addressed envelope) I suggest simple, practical ways of maintaining a fair degree of humidity in the indoor air in the winter time. Formerly I named various makes of humidifiers or air-conditioning equipment, but no more. I offer only the reasons why, and leave to you the choice of means. No one has the right to use my name or anything I have said, to promote the sale of his product or humidifying installation; furthermore, no one can get permission to do so.

For many winters in Buffalo on the brink of Niagara Falls I spent most of my spare time lugging water about the house to keep a dozen evaporators filled so we could enjoy the balmy climate of the Bahamas at home. On each radiator (hot water, not steam) there was an open tank or reservoir holding a few gallons of water. Suspended on a wire frame was a strip of wicking or cloth similar to Turkish towel in many folds dipping into the water. Warm air rising from radiator, register or stove evaporates the water from this wick—a gallon or two a day from each such tank.

Toting all that water around the joint was a job and I was generally exhausted by the time spring came — to say nothing of the rest of the family — but we all came through the winter in pretty good condition so far as skin, mucous membranes, tempers, furniture, book bindings and health were concerned.

It is always advisable to evaporate water in the heated atmosphere of the house, office or building, for the sake of comfort and health. I believe it saves fuel to do so, because a room temperature of 68 degrees F. and, say, 30% relative humidity is more comfortable, less "chilly," than a room temperature of 72 degrees F. and only 20% relative humidity.

Try it for yourself and see.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Political School Board

In our city our school board plans to have dispensing machines installed in nine grade schools so bottles of a kola beverage will always be available to the pupils who have the price.
(C. B.)

Answer — And of course the ice cream people, the candy makers, the bakers, the hot dog vendors and others will be invited to set up their stalls and keep their products always available to the pupils who have the price. The school board members probably would not ask the advice of local physicians or nutrition authorities — when politicians get their hands on the running of the schools they neither want nor take advice from anybody. In my opinion it is harmful to the health and development of a child to indulge in such sweetened, carbonated nerve excitant instead of taking needed food.

Yankee Stomach

Claims Picket Tries Hypnotism By Staring

Detroit, Dec. 3 (CP)—The dean of Detroit pickets, John C. Moser, who has been picketing a plant here since August, 1946, was in court Monday with a complaint that the owner tried to stop him from picketing by hypnotism.

Moser complains that Olaf Nilson, operator of Nilson Products, has been trying to "mesmerize or hypnotize" him by staring continously into his eyes for as long as 23 minutes.

Moser says he is a member of Local 157 United Auto Workers (C.I.O.). He also complained of other attempts by Nilson to scare him.

Judge Thomas F. Maher let the hypnotism charge pass but issued a restraining order against Nilson from molesting Moser. He set Dec. 10 as a date for hearing the complaints.

Running from the room to the room to question the Sargent boy about a report that he had told a classmate that he was going to end his life.

Non-Fog Areas Grow Tall Men

Vancouver, Dec. 3 — (CP)— The big-boned men of the Prairies are taller than eastern Canadians, geographer Jaspeh H. Stembridge told the Vancouver Institute at University of British Columbia.

The geographical editor of Oxford University Press said he was greatly impressed by the physique of Prairie farmers.

He believed their physical development was due to lack of fog or dust-bound atmospheric conditions, which allow an extreme amount of ultra-violet rays to penetrate to the earth.

The Prairie-bred strong men were proof of the triumph of environment over heredity. "Man is a creature of his environment," he said. "The mechanical ingenuity of Eskimos is proof of this. Sheer, stark necessity compelled them to depend on the skill of their hands and the quickness of their eyes.

"We are made by geography. It is the science that deals with the earth as the home of man. Geography was a tabulation of facts to our fathers, but they made no attempt to relate the physical to the human.

"Canada, big and large, is a splendid example of how civilized man adapts himself to his environment."

WEDDINGS

MORRISON—COOK

Decorated with white and bronze 'mums against a background of palms and ferns. The Montreal Citadel Corps of the Salvation Army, was the setting Nov. 18, at half past seven o'clock, p.m., for the marriage of Captain Helen Marcia Cook, of Port Hope, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Cook, Sherbrooke, Que., and Captain John Robert Morrison, of Tweed, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Morrison, of Montreal, Que, with Major Frank Moulton as the officiating clergyman, and wedding music supplied by Mr. Norman Audoire.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore the well known navy blue uniform of the Salvation Army, and carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses and white 'mums.

Her only attendant was Captain Doris Fisher, of Toronto, also wearing the Salvation Army uniform, and carrying a bouquet of Talisman roses and bronze 'mums.

The groomsman was Lieut. Don McMillan, of Boston, Mass., and the ushers were Lieut. Stan. Williams, of Tweed, and Mr. Morley Calvert, of Montreal.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the lower hall of the citadel where Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Morrison, Sr., received the guests, both "mothers" wearing Salvation Army uniforms, with corsages of red roses.

Out-of-town guests were present from Sherbrooke, Que., St. Elie de Orford, Que., Toronto, Tweed, Boston, Mass., and Sydney, N.S.

Captain and Mrs. Morrison will reside in Tweed.

The Experts Say . . .

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, (CP)—Now that the "quota" curtain has fallen over oranges, lemons, and other similar imports, more than ever the Canadian housewife will turn to apples as her "fruit-in-need". She will be grateful for the versatility of this fruit which may be used in salad, dessert, or as part of the main course at dinner.

Early Fall apples make light fluffy sauce but most of the varieties now at their best —such as Alexander, Wolf River, Wealthy, King, Spy, and Rome Beauty—hold their shape when baked or coddled, and also retain their coloring.

Glazed apples are the special apple dish which home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, are recommending. Ingredients: 1 1-2 cups granulated sugar; two cups water; six apples.

Make syrup of sugar and water. Core apples and pare about 1 1-2 inches down from the stem end. Place in syrup with pared surface down and simmer for five minutes. Invert and cook until tender—about ten or fifteen minutes. When tender place under hot broiler and baste frequently with syrup until well glazed. Six servings.

Fresh apple sauce with hot gingerbread is a dessert that also is sure to please.

Apple Sauce—Wash, cut in quarters, but do not pare or core, eight tart apples. Add one cup boiling water. Cover and cook until tender. Rub through a coarse sieve and add one-quarter cup sugar. If the apples are under-ripe they may require more sugar.

Ginger Bread (Hot water)—Ingredients: two eggs; one cup white sugar; one-half cup shortening; one-half cup molasses; two cups flour; two teaspoons baking soda; one teaspoon ginger; one teaspoon cinnamon.

Beat together shortening, sugar, eggs. Add flour and salt. Stir in one cup boiling water and start baking in cool oven. Bake 45 minutes.

Now that cold weather days are here again more than ever it's the duty of every mother to see that not a member of her family leaves the house without a breakfast.

Here is a well-balanced menu for that early-morning meal: fruit, fruit juice, or tomato juice; hot cooked or ready-to-eat cereal with top milk; toast, muffins, or rolls; jam, marmalade, honey, or syrup; coffee or tea for adults and milk or cocoa for children. Bacon, eggs, sausages or fish may be added to the above menu for a variety.

A truly economical housewife will plan meals for at least two or three days in advance, says the Consumer Section of the Agriculture department. She will avoid monotony in her meals by varying the ways she cooks and serves food. She will follow up-to-date cooking techniques for good-tasting, attractive-looking meals.

GIA to B of LE Holds Successful Bazaar and Tea

Ladies of the G.I.A. to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers held a very successful bazaar and afternoon tea in the I.O.O.F. hall on Front Street yesterday, when guests were welcomed by Mrs. Harvey Brown, president, by Mrs. Muirhead, Grand Organizer and Instructor, and by Mrs. Wm. Morgan.

For the bazaar, convened by Mrs. L. E. Grey, booths and tables were arranged in the main hall, with Christmas green and red predominating in the color scheme of the decorations.

The apron booth, convened by Mrs. W. Hammett, with Mesdames Orne, Elliott, Fisher and McGee assisting, offered aprons of all styles and shades and sizes, and at this booth Mrs. P. Kerr and Mrs. J. Hart were in charge of an all wool blanket, which was later donated to Mrs. Kathleen White of Albion Street.

Novelties were presented for sale on a table in charge of Mrs. Bunnett and Mrs. Hunter; while the fancy work booth was convened by Mrs. Fairbairn and Mrs. Bolton, assisted by Mesdames Williamson and Buck. The table displaying children's wearables was convened by Mrs. Callaghan with Mesdames Graham, Taylor and Leavitt assisting. Here the pillow was won by Mrs. L. M. Bishop, Queen Street.

The home-cooking table, convened by Mrs. N. Robb, with Mrs. E. Kerr and Mrs. Welsh as sales-ladies, was a very popular resort for ladies in search of a delicacy to take home for the evening meal; and the cakes, pastries and home made candies were in great demand.

A table holding several baskets of groceries was in charge of Mrs. R. Wensley and Mrs. "Bert" Robinson. These were won by Mrs. Hunter, Miss Margaret Fairbairn and Mrs. Gardiner.

Convening the tea room on the second floor was Mrs. E. Pigden, with Mrs. G. Wilson as co-convener. Here baskets of evergreen branches, draped with silvery decorations were placed at intervals among the dozen small tables along the walls, where small, attractively arranged floral centres matched the decorations on the larger tea table, covered with a lovely ecru lace cloth, and centred by an antique silver flower vase holding deep pink carnations. Triple silver candelabra held matching pink and green tapers, shedding a rosy glow to be reflected in the silver tea services.

Pouring tea were Mrs. Williamson with Mrs. Brown for the first period; Mrs. Barlow with Mrs. Quincey for the second, and for the final hour, Mrs. Reid with Mrs. Fitzgerald.

Ladies serving the guests at the small tables were Mesdames Clark, Maxwell, Baldwin, Boyd, Pettie, Ferris and Batchelor; while Mrs. Parsons and Mrs. Collier superintended the replenishing of the plates and tea pots.

The kitchen committe was composed of Mesdames Spring, Henley, Muir and Cathers.

Tea room treasurer was Mrs. Gymer.

In spite of the dampness and chill outside, the cheer and brightness of the tea room, with the spirit of good comradeship, added much to the success of this worthwhile venture, the proceeds of which are very satisfactory to the ladies sponsoring it; and Mrs. Grey and Mrs. Pigden are very grateful to all who in any way furthered the success of this project.

Mrs. A. Mitchell Named Director of Federated W.I.

Toronto, Dec. 3 — (CP)—Mrs. J. R. Futcher of St. Thomas has been elected president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario succeeding Mrs. Hugh Summers of Fonthill, the Federation announced today.

Other officers elected: Regional Vice-president, Mrs. Ben James Almonte, Mrs. William McClure, Brampton, Mrs. Milton Fisher, Emo; Secretary-treasurer, Mrs. J. H. McCulloch, Brampton.

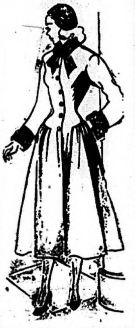
One of the directors is Mrs. Arnold Mitchell of 2nd Concession of Thurlow.

Fashion Flashes

NEVER better is the word on the blouse situation. Those favoring the long overblouses will find their favorite well represented. Metal-shot rayon jersey is used for a long torso overblouse, its deep, draped neckline marked by silver bead trimming that gives the effect of ball fringe. Side shirring shapes the blouse through the waist.

BREAD AND BUTTER dresses, those dresses that are the wardrobe mainstay, since they are right all through the day, every day, are back in abundance. Smartly unobtrusive is a dress of black alpaca crepe that has a two-piece look. The simulated overblouse is done in deep tucks and is trimmed with silver buttons and a silver mesh belt. Skirt is knife-pleated all around.

Youthful Coat



Brown fitted topper with fur trim

By VERA WINSTON

Women's Activities

BAY OF QUINTE W.I.

An all day meeting of the Bay of Quinte Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Frank Sandercock on Friday, Nov. 28th with a pot-luck dinner served at noon. An Institute Department speaker, Miss Kidd, of Toronto, spoke on the "Care of Clothing" which was much enjoyed by all present.

The nominating committee of the Bayside W.M.S. met at the home of Mrs. C. Rush to draw up a slate of officers for the coming year.

The Y.P.U. met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley on Friday evening for their annual meeting and Mr. Donald Sandercock was re-elected president for the coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Jeffery of Tweed spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Jeffery.

HOLLOWAY ST. UNITED W.M.S.

Members of Holloway St. United W.M.S. met Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 2nd., in the church parlors for a pot luck dinner at one o'clock, followed by the December meeting proper, with the president, Mrs. R. Kilbank, in charge.

The program was in charge of Mrs. E. Hubbs, assisted by Mesdames Weese, Wilson, Stewart, Wagar, Scott and Cordes. This took the form of a candle-lighting ceremony, with solos by Mrs. Jeffries and Mrs. Daniels, and with carol singing by the audience.

The offering was accepted by Mrs. Hitchon and Mrs. Cordes.

Mrs. Fred H. Wilson presented the fifth chapter of the study book, and a very profitable and enjoyable meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

ST. THOMAS G.A. OF W.A.

The Girls' Auxiliary of St. Thomas Anglican Church, met in the parish house, East Bridge St., last evening for the monthly meeting, with the vice-president, Dianne Lewis, in the chair and conducting opening exercises.

A complete report of the purchasing, packing and shipping of two Christmas parcels holding gifts and food for a family of six in England, and for Miss Grace Gillard, Moose Factory, Ont.

A successful sale of home made candies by the girls enabled them to do this.

Members wishing to earn Dorcas badges started to make Red Cross garments, "perfectly", and the last half of the meeting was devoted to a discussion of, and preparation for the program planned by the leader of the diocese, Mrs. C. Read, for the Spring Festival.

Prayer closed the meeting.

WESLEY W.A.

The regular monthly meeting of Wesley Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. Fred Denyes, Wednesday evening with a splendid attendance. Devotional exercises were conducted by the President, Mrs. Denyes, assisted by Mrs. Mooney. Reports from the visiting, work and social committees indicated another year of faithful effort. The Treasurer, Mrs. Charles Wilson, pointed out in the financial report that the Association exceeded all previous records in the matter of raising money. The actual receipts amounted to more than $500. This money was raised by rummage sales, quilting, teas, and free-will offerings.

The Rev. A. C. McCallum presided for the election of officers for 1948. He heartily commended the ladies upon their splendid effort and referred to the marked interest being manifested in every department of the churchwork.

The following officers were duly elected and installed—

President, Mrs. Fred Denyes

Vice President, Mrs. Warner Wood.

Secretary, Mrs. H. M. Rutter

Treasurer, Mrs. Charles Wilson.

Assistant, Mrs. Walter Denyes.

Sewing Committee, Mrs. J. Stewart and Mrs. Arthur Saylor.

Flower Committee, Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Gunn.

Devotional Committee, Mrs. W. Rutter and Mrs. T. Irwin.

Following the brief Service of Installation by the minister, a social hour was enjoyed. The hostess and her assistants were thanked for their kind hospitality.

ST. ANDREW'S WEST HUNTINGDON

The November meeting of the St. Andrew's Presbyterian W.M.S. and Ladies Aid, of West Huntingdon, was held jointly in the church, Nov. 30th., taking the form of a congregational supper.

Following the supper, the W.M.S. meeting was in charge of a fine program, with Mrs. Walker at the piano, playing quiet music, and the president, Mrs. Milton Shaw conducting the devotional period. Rev. H.W.V. Walker led in prayer, and Mrs. Harold Thompson read the 20th. psalm as the scripture lesson.

"Remember" was the subject of a splendid paper given by the president; Miss Joyce Wallace contributed a delightful solo and Mrs. C. Sills read a list of the names of missionaries sent by the Presbyterian Church to foreign fields.

Miss Bessie Fleming introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. John Craig, who gave an inspiring address on the four very important words, "Pray, Study, Give, Go," expressed briefly the W.M.S creed of helpfulness.

The appreciation of the congregation was expressed by Mrs. John Wallace, and after a short reading by Mrs. John McIlroy telling the story of the origin of the hymn "Tell Me the Old, Old Story," the meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Unselfishness or Self-Dramatization?

Sometimes when we humans think we are acting nobly, all we are doing is dramatizing our actions and getting considerable satisfaction out of doing so.

This sort of thing is usually prompted by our subconscious selves, which help us dodge the hard way out of a situation by making the easy way seem high-minded.

I have a letter from a young unmarried girl who is about to have a child out of wedlock. The young man responsible, she says does not know what has happened and she doesn't intend to tell him. She doesn't intend, either, to let her family know anything about the matter, but, instead, wants to go away and see the thing through alone.

With this in mind, she writes to ask me about hospitals which, as she puts it, "would admit single girls". She also wants to know whether or not it would be advisable for her to take a fictitious married name for the baby's sake; whether or not she would have to give the baby up for adoption; and asks whether or not insurance pay claims will hold in her type of case, which I do not quite understand, although I imagine she refers to some sort of hospital insurance which she thinks might possibly became void if she had an illegitimate child.

Now this case is an example of what I meant when I said people often mistakenly dramatize themselves to make things earler, rather than follow a course which might be harder, but perhaps more sensible. It sounds noble and unselfish for a girl to say that she will not tell the father of her unborn child about its coming and that she will go through the baby's birth alone in order to spare her family the hurt it would cause them to know of the mistake she made. But I doubt if unselfishness would be the real motive for this girl's choosing such a course.

It would certainly be easier to go away and avoid family reproaches, neighbors' lifted eyebrows, and the unpleasantness that might follow disclosure of the situation to the man who is responsible. To avoid having anybody in the world know that we have made a serious mistake is infinitely preferable to facing people who are aware of it.

There is no sense, of course, in telling people what you have done for no better reason than merely to make a clean breast of things. But there might be other reasons why it would be fairer and wiser to tell those most intimately concerned.

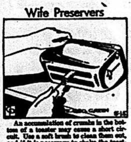
For example, it seems to be definitely unfair to the young man in question to give him no opportunity to accept a responsibility which he might well wish to assume. Why should this girl not give the other party to the affair a chance to be noble, too? Isn't she perhaps overlooking the fact that he may have even been in love with her and be glad to marry her? Again, which does she think would hurt her parents more—to learn that their daughter had made a mistake for which she is truly sorry, or to discover some day, as they well might, that she didn't have faith enough in them to trust them to stand by her?

Since this girl has asked me certain questions, I will answer them by saying that any hospital will admit a girl, whether married or single, for obstetrical care; that she would not need to take a fictitious married name; that if she has hospital insurance, I assume it would cover her case, but she should check this with the company under which she carries her insurance; and that she would, by no means, have to give up the baby for adoption if she didn't wish to. But I hope she will reconsider her decision in the light of what I have just said.

FAGS UP, SNUFF DOWN

Stockholm — (CP) — It was announced recently that the consumption of cigarets in Sweden has risen 50 per cent since 1939. Consumption of cigars has gone up to a lesser extent, snuff has decreased in popularity.

Wife Preservers



An accumulation of crumbs in the bottom of a toaster may cause a short circuit. Use a soft brush to clean them out, and if it is necessary to shake the toaster, do it very gently. Warped slices of bread may stick to the wires, so use even slices for best results.

Hurry-up Date? Hair a Mess? Try a Witch Hazel Treatment

After a hurry-up shampoo with a good quality witch hazel, set pin curls while hair is still moist

By HELEN FOLLETT

IT IS nearly always like that! The phone rings, you listen with pleasure, you exclaim "I'll be delighted! Sweet of you! Of course I'll come!"

At once you think of your hair. It is a mess. Ringlets seem to have strung out over night. You make a grab at the telephone, call your beauty operator and your heart sinks. She hasn't time for an appointment.

Despair not. Though you haven't the time or the heart to give your precious wool a soaping and rinsing, there is an emergency method that will tide you through. You can put your glorious crown in lustrous form and you can do it in a hurry.

A Good Brushing

Give your hair a rousing brushing, strand by strand, holding each one away from the head, using the brush with a rolling motion. This grooming will remove surface dust.

Part in several places, apply good quality witch hazel with a pad of gauze, rubbing the scalp briskly. Work carefully along the temples, the forward hair line and the nape. The flesh will glow, showing that the circulatory streams are awakening.

With a fresh pad of gauze, dipped in witch hazel, wipe a small portion of the hair at a time, sweeping down to the ends.

Make Pin Curls

All this shouldn't take more than five or six minutes. While the hair is still damp, get out your invisible hair pins, make pin curls.

The smaller each curl, the more quickly the hair will dry. Incidentally, witch hazel dries much more quickly than water. You can go about your usual activities and, within an hour or so, you can take down your curls, be all set, looking pretty.

If you prefer metal curlers, do not roll them too far up the strand of hair. The less rolling, the sooner the drying.

How a Newlywed May Sign "Their" Christmas Cards

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

I would deeply appreciate your help in a special problem concerning my Christmas cards. We are planning to be married a few days before Christmas, and many friends of mine, who were in the service with me overseas for two years, have not met my husband-to-be. How should our names be signed when sending cards to these friends? And should both of our names be signed on the cards regardless of the fact that they do not know both of us? Since I am not sending marriage announcements to most of these friends, is there any way I could include my maiden name in the signature?

Francesca

Under these special circumstances when your signature must be for both identification and information. I suggest that you sign the Christmas cards you are sending to friends who were not sent your marriage announcements, like this,

Francesca Smith Johnson
and
Arthur Paul Johnson

Then the cards to those who have been informed, by the announcements, of your new name, may be signed as is customary: Francesco and Arthur Johnson, or to relatives and intimate friends, Francesca and Arthur.

Yes, you should sign both your own and your husband's name on the cards, whether or not the person to whom you are sending a card knows both you and your husband.

Another suggestion: you might, if you wish, add a note of greeting to some of the friends who aren't to receive announcements, for example, "To send you 'our' Christmas greetings, and to tell you that we were married on December 19th. I'll write you a newsy letter soon. Happy New Year!"

A wise procedure also is to write your married name and your new address on the back of your Christmas card envelopes.

Groom's Gifts to His Attendants

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

My son is to be married soon, and we both thank you for answering in your column a few days ago the several questions that were perplexing him as to his part in the wedding procedure You told us exactly what we wanted to know. And now will you please answer one more question for him: What would you suggest as his gifts to his best man and ushers?

J. S.

Suggestions: cuff links, silver or gold; wallet; gold collar pin and/or tie clip; silver or gold key chain; pen and pencil set; silver or gold pencil short silver or gold keychain with initialled tag; initialled bill clip; pocket watch or wrist watch, gold knife and pencil combination; cigarette case or lighter; fitted dressing case or travelling case. (Very often the groom gives a more consequential gift to his best man than to his ushers.)

Problem of Dining Out

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

To settle a discussion, will you please answer this question: Is it or isn't it correct to ask the headwaiter, or a table waiter, the "composition" of a dish when you don't understand what the name given on the menu means?

Daye

It is correct . . .people who "know their way round" have no hesitation about asking for this information from the headwaiter or captain, or if they are not available, the table-waiter. There never need be any embarrassment about asking for such information.

Fashion Flashes

NOT ALL FEATHER trimmed hats are trimmed with real feathers. From abroad—Paris, to be specific—comes a special grass, specially dyed and processed to absolutely simulate Bird of Paradise fronds. Small hats trimmed with double sweeps of these grass feathers are designed for smart dinner wear.

A GOOD THOUGHT is that of designers who make clothes for evening wear that are warm as well as pretty. A bolero, coupled with a long, full skirt is of bright red woollen quilted in all-over daisy design. With it a strapless blouse and cummerbund of black jersey to match the jacket lining.

DAINTY DRESSES for after-dark wear abound in the shops. Black velvet, set with alternating bands of shirred black crepe, is used for a pretty dress that has a deep oval neckline, short sleeves, snug waistline and a moderately long, flared skirt.

Originality is happily rife in the coat world. A beautifully cut coat, nice when worn as a wrap-around, or loosely hanging, is of black woolen lined with pink wool jersey—which shows on the high collar and cuffs when turned back.

BEAUTY By HELEN JAMESON

Artificial Fingernails

There are women who welcome every beauty frenzy with shouts of joy. They find them exciting. They try them out, see what they do to the ever-present companion, the lady in the looking glass. They were the ones who rushed to beautytoriums when demountable eyelashes were the talk of the town. They astonished their friends with new, heavy growths of winkers. Some 'fessed up to the employment of artifice, some just said nothing. It was fun. Then, like other passing fads, the subject was forgotten.

If you break a nail, don't sit down and bawl

Along come counterfeit fingernails. Beauty shops are selling them; some women are wearing them. Beauticians explain that women who have stuffy, flat nails consider them more or less revolting, so resort to makeshifts.

The pulchritude client can buy a single one to cover a broken or deformed nail, or she can order a set of ten. The shops buy them in wholesale lots, consisting of various sizes. There must be a fitting for each individual nail, of course. The material of these spares is thin, delicately colored, very pliable and can be handled conveniently.

The home-grown nails are filed short, the cuticle is treated and lifted. The flesh must be free because the false sheath must slip under it.

It is interesting to hear that artificial nails are fireproof; also, they will stand up under a certain amount of dishwashing and wrestling with pots and pans. Like those that are naturally attached, they aren't helped any by coming in contact with dust and grime. Liquid polish stays put for a fortnight or longer, depending upon how much wear and tear the nails get.

We are told that they are surprisingly practical. Of course, scoffers and sneerers will pooh-pooh that statement. Let them send their memories back through the years when the permanent wave set the world on its ear! They claimed that a permanent undulation was impossible, that hair would be ruined; that only foolish women would submit to the process. Huh! There are millions of curly girls who wouldn't be that way were it not for this grand invention! Curly hair means more to some women than the vote.

Artificial fingernails are trimmed to fit the natural nail. They are slipped under the cuticle, attached with a liquid adhesive. There seems to be no set fee for this treatment, but we hear that the average charge is around five dollars. The time necessary for the fitting and installation is close to an hour. That includes putting on the polish.

If you break a nail before some important social event, do not sit down and bawl. Trot to the beauty shop and get a substitute.

Staker of more successful mining properties than most men still in the business, Mabel Fetterly of Swastika is looking forward to next spring, when she'll load a packsack and start for tall timber and rocks. Back in 1915, Miss Fetterly operated a stagecoach route for men and mail between Swastika and Kirkland Lake.

Canadians Win Hay Grain Awards At Chicago Show

Chicago, Dec. 3 —(CP)— Entries from four Canadian provinces swept many of the prizes in the hay and grain contests Tuesday at the 48th International Livestock Exposition.

Two Canadian exhibitors won the championship and reserve championship for field peas. The top award went to J. Decker of Pemberton, B.C., for his large yellow variety, and the reserve was won by A. C. Douglas of Chipawa, Ont., who showed a small yellow variety.

Albert Robins of Laura, Sask., was second in the large yellow peas judging and John Hass of Renfrew, Ont., third.

Canadians also made it one-two-three in the small yellow peas and yellow or greenish yellow soybeans contests.

W. L. Ross of Cobden, Ont., was second in the small yellow variety with W. H. C. Ruthen of Alliston, Ont., third.

William R. Beattie of Staples, Ont., who was named reserve champion in the soybean contest, was awarded first prize for his yellow or greenish yellow soybeans, regions one and two. R. H. Peck of River Canard, Ont., was second.

Tuesday's Canadian victories added to the top livestock prizes won Monday by entries from Manitoba and Ontario.

Charge Taximan Unlawfully Slaughtered Horse

Taking a twisted, iron reinforced rubber horseshoe from a paper bag, Horkan told the court the nine-year-old horse had caught his foot in his stall and twisted a leg painfully.

"I have witnesses to prove the horse was in pain and I felt I had an obligation to the horse and that I had a right to do with my own horse as I pleased," he said.

When Horkan was arrested Sunday he said he was butchering the horse to furnish meat for Europe. Told after his hearing that the Department of Sanitation had taken the carcass, Horkan lamented that "it was wonderful meat and I hate to think it was wasted."

Magistrate McGee adjourned the hearing until Friday.

FIVE YOUTHS ABSOLVED AFTER QUESTIONING

Toronto, Dec. 3 —(CP)— Five youths held for questioning in the Remembrance Day slaying of taxi-driver Ralph Margenson have been absolved because they were in the north at the time of Margeson's death, police said Tuesday.

However, four are still held on charges of carrying offensive weapons. They are: Douglas Pollock, 18, Windsor, Walter Stockdale, 19, of Burlington, Basil Faulkner, 19, of Kirkland Lake and Patrick Nichols.

Wet Country Dry Throats

Greymouth, N.Z., Dec. 3—(CP) Driest place in New Zealand recently has been Westland Province, in the South Island, where the rainfall is about 200 inches a year, easily the heaviest in the country.

Traditionally hearty drinkers, the West Coasters have been grimly observing a beer boycott as a protest against an increase in price of two cents a glass. The boycott was declared by the Trades Council, controlling trade union body in the district and has been observed by most unionists, though tempers have become frayed as a result and there have been several clashes.

One sawmill had to close down for a time. A bushman felling trees for the mill refused to observe the boycott and continued to buy his beer after work. Envious members of his gang stood it for awhile and then refused to work with him. It was several days before they could be persuaded to return to work to enable the mill to resume.

Fort Erie, Ont., Dec. 3 — (CP) —George Bond, called "Pop" by most people in the Peace River Bridge area, thinks there's nothing like steady work, but as he prepared to take his 80th job he indicated he likes a bit of variety too.

His last job — ticket taker at the women's bathing beach at Crystal Beach — was the best, he thinks, but now he has gone to work at the chemical plant here.

George has kept a record of every job he has done and they range from printer's devil, steel worker and railway man to streetcar conductor. He was content to leave the list at 79 and spend the winter at ease, but when his friends told him he could not run the count to an even 80, he said he begged to differ.

Now he's a pill mixer.

SEAMEN'S SPREE

Would Establish Fishing Industry on Lonely Isle

By A. P. STANDFORD
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Cape Town, Dec. 3—(CP)—An expedition will leave Cape Town in January to investigate the possibilities of establishing a fishing industry on the lonely South Atlantic island of Tristan da Cunha.

The expedition will be led by the Rev. C. P. Lawrence, subwarden of the St. John's Hostel, Cape Town, who lived on the island during 1924-25. He has special qualifications when it comes to an enterprise which will completely transform the future economy and social uplift of the world's loneliest isle. Mr. Lawrence has received special dispensation and licence from the Bishop of St. Helena, in whose diocese the island lies, to undertake the work and if his report is favorable, he will become the manager of the fishing establishment on the island.

Tristan da Cunha lies about 1,700 miles southeast of Cape Town, almost midway between South Africa and the South American Continent.

The promoters of the expedition, South-West Africa Fishing Industries," Ltd., realize that the success or failure of the venture largely depends on the co-operation and uplift of the island people who are no longer self-supporting.

Except for potatoes and fish the whole island population of 240 is dependent on stores sent periodically in response to charitable appeals to the outside world, sponsored mainly by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

The men of the island are the finest boatmen in the world and are quick to learn to do things with their hands. Up to recently their only occcupation has been fishing or agriculture on a small scale. During the war years, some men working under engineers of South Africa's Defence Force showed great aptitude in many branches of engineering and construction work.

Seek Crawfish Beds

The primary interest of the expedition will be in the rich crawfish (Cape spiny lobster) beds round the island and the neighboring islands of Inaccessible and Nightingale. These beds teem with crawfish and are attractive to industry with the possibility of the South African crawfish grounds being fully exploited, or perhaps depleted. In addition, the waters around Tristan are rich in fish, but very little is known scientifically or commercially about them.

There is also the possibility that the seas round the island carry the "vaalhaai" shark whose livers are rich in vitamins.

Difficulties facing the establishment of a modern fishing enterprise on Tristan are considerable. The island is a volcanic peak rising 7,000 feet. The little plateau, on which the present settlement is situated, is on the weather side of the island where fishing is only practicable for a few months of the year.

On the other side, however, there are two other inhabitable areas protected from the weather, but at present only accessible from the settlement by a long and arduous climb over steep mountain slopes. The principal aim of the exploring party will be to see if it is practicable to establish communication between the settlement and these areas on the protected side of the island.

Veteran Protests Letter Societies

Vancouver, Dec. 3 —(CP)— A letter to the editor published in "Ubyssey" University of British Columbia student paper, protests discrimination by fraternity and Greek letter organizations on the campus.

Signed by a veteran, the letter objects "to their method of operating in cliques, making life miserable for those who are not privileged to be numbered among them."

He asks: "How can a university which has been for years recognized as a centre of culture, progress and tolerance allow such an attitude to prevail?"

He referred particularly to reserving of tables in the cafeteria, leaving little space for non-fraternity members.

"Did we go overseas to come back to the same kind of unfair discrimination that we were fighting against?" he asked. "And did we go overseas to protect the young people of our community so they could grow up, go to varsity and sit at their special reserved tables?"

Examine Samples of Handwriting Of All Residents of St. Martine 21 and Over to Clear up Death

Montreal, Dec. 3 —(CP)— Expert examination of 800 samples of handwriting — samples from every resident 21 years or older in the nearby village of St. Martine — was completed Tuesday in the suspected slaying of a 37-year-old Irish immigrant.

Forged letters received by the Quebec Attorney-General's Department claimed Martin Hoolihan, an Irish businessman whose death was laid to accidental drowning, was killed because of an inheritance.

Hoolihan, living in St. Martine since his arrival in Canada several years ago, was found drowned July 10 in the Chateaguay River. The next day Coroner E. A. Williams ruled the death accidental.

Last Sept. 23 the Attorney-General's Department in Quebec received a letter, later established a forgery, claiming Hollihan was strangled and his body thrown into the river. The name of the alleged slayer was given.

Detectives questioned the man whose name was signed to the letter and examined a sample of his handwriting. He was not the letter-writer, they said.

Only police comment was "we are still at the investigation stage."

76 U.K. Doctors Said Drug Addicts

London, Dec. 3 —(CP)—There were 369 drug addicts in the United Kingdom in 1946, a government report to United Nations authorities dealing with illicit drug trafficking stated. All these obtained their drugs from legitimate sources on prescription.

Of the total 225 were women. The 144 male addicts included 76 doctors, one dentist and two druggists. Of 103 prosecutions undertaken during the year, 55 were against seamen, nearly all of whom were Chinese nationals.

During 1946, 11 men and five women were reported cured of addiction to drugs.

Morphine, its derivatives and opium remained the principal drugs of addiction.

PEER CHARGED WITH IMPROPRIETY

London, Dec. — (Reuters) — Lord Colwyn, 33, has been arrested and charged with gross impropriety, it was learned at the War Office last night. He will appear at a court-martial Thursday.

No details of the nature of the alleged offense were available, but it was announced in the House of Lords, of which he is a member, that he will be charged under Section 41 of the Army Act, which deals with civilian, as distinct from military, offences.

Monument Houses Modern Radar Men

Montreal, Dec. 3 —(CP)— A group of British radar research experts has set up shop in a London building built before 1670 and which the British government has designated as an "ancient monument."

Sir Robert Watson-Watt, radar pioneer, told this story in an interview during a recent visit to Montreal.

He says he has started private practice as a scientific adviser to manufacturers on research and development problems, his partners being young men who were associated with him in radar development during the war.

They have their offices in a building in Westminster which is to be preserved because of its architectural and historical interest.

District Meeting Of Kiwanis Club Held at Centre

Due to the meeting of presidents, secretary and officials of Kiwanis Club throughout the district with Lieutenant-Governor-elect Bruce Lattimer to map out the details for the year's work, a number of distinguished visitors attended the noonday luncheon of the local club held at Kiwanis Centre on Tuesday. Present were Ken Greenaway of Guelph, Governor-elect for the Ontario-Quebec-Maritime district and Vice President of International, Charles Hulse, of Ottawa, besides many lesser lights in the work of Kiwanis through the Province. Mr. Hulse gave the principal address which was followed by a Kiwanis picture, it being the first showing of the film in Canada. President Jack White presided with Harold Carruthers as song leader and Gordon Rattray collecting the fines. Phil Huddleston was at the piano.

It was announced from the Director's meeting that Rev. Norman Rawson of Hamilton will be the principal speaker at the installation night which will take place again at Albert College. Ald. Claude Tice and School Trustee Harold Seldon, who were successful at the polls on Monday were asked to rise and take a bow. The membership merit plan; that was discussed at a previous meeting was read to the members for the first time. It will be read a second time and then passed on to International for their approval and if adopted will be voted on by the club members. The plan is so arranged that every member who gives of his time and service will be awarded certain points but all have to obtain a certain goal with respect to service. Five new members were accepted and another placed on the reserve list as the classification at the present time is filled.

Thanked Club

Governor-Elect Ken Greenaway thanked the local club for the kind hospitality afforded to the visiting Kiwanians and congratulated the club on the facilities that are provided through the Kiwanis Centre. "I am sure that the visitors are going home with a view of trying to set up such a centre in their own community," said the speaker. The International Vice President was introduced by Key Club president Jack Kuntze, who told in detail the many accomplishments of Mr. Hulse in Kiwanis during his many years of service. The speaker addressed the members and visitors on the "Ideals of Kiwanis" with special reference to the duties of Kiwanis International, a group, the speaker declared, the members generally knew very little about. He traced the growth of Kiwanis from 1915 with their motto "We Trade" until 1917 when the motto was changed to "We Build" and how much the Canadians have contributed in that time. He named the Canadians who have become International presidents and the work they have accomplished. He showed that there were 2,700 clubs in International at the present time with 180,000 members and every member has given service to his community" "Service" said the speaker "is the price paid for the space occupied."

He announced that Kiwanis International had banned lotteries and other gambling games in and believed that clubs could raise the necessary money to carry out their projects without recourse to this type of work. In closing he also announced the theme of Kiwanis for the coming year as "Citizenship responsibility the price of Freedom." Kiwanis appreciation was expressed by former Lieutenant-Governor Cliff Baragar.

LOUIS CLOSES HARD TRAINING FOR TITLE BOUT

"I Will Win" Says Bomber As He Prepares for Final Workout

New York, Dec. 3 — (AP) — Coldly confident, Joe Louis closes hard training today for his world heavyweight title defence against Jersey Joe Walcott in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

"I will win," said Joe as he prepared to do a final four rounds publicly at Pompton Lakes, N.J., and then rest up for his 24th fight as champion. Walcott, hopeful but silent, had his last workout at Grenloch Park, N.J.

"He mixed it hard," said manager John Roxborough, "to get ready for a smaller, faster man." Roxborough smiled slightly when he said "faster."

Louis will weigh 212 pounds, heaviest by a few ounces of his entire career, compared to Walcott's 192, for the 15-round fight.

"I feel stronger at that weight — it doesn't slow me," said Joe.

The fight between the two 33-year-old Negroes could draw a gate of $261,000 at the Garden, of which Louis gets 45 per cent and Walcott 15. It is Louis' first fight since he knocked out Tami Mauriello in one round at Yankee Stadium Sept. 18, 1946. The odds are 6-5 that Walcott will not come out for the fourth round.

Regina, Dec. 3 —(CP)— The bloke between the hockey pipes is, at times, a much-abused individual.

Pucks can fly thick and fast in his direction with nary a defenceman in sight, and the poor character is supposed to kick them all out. The forwards may back-check like wooden Indians, his blue-line brigade may be draped all over the boards, but let one puck get past the goaltender and the crowd starts screaming for his scalp.

Rookie Doug Jackson, fresh up to Chicago Black Hawks, took quite a ribbing when 17 goals were scored on him by Detroit Red Wings one weekend — although even their best friends don't claim Chicago is the toughest defensive club in the league.

Scotty (Regina Leader-Post) Melville took a dim view of all this and awarded the Chicago Sun sports department the Order of the Frozen Turnip for "the murder of Young Doug Jackson."

The Chicago chappies ran a picture of Jackson — captioned "Hawk goal still open" — showing him in a posed action shot—with his eyes shut and half-a-dozen drawn-in pucks flying past him from all angles. The cutlines read: "Charge of the puck brigade. Seventeen goals in two games — That's the story of Doug Jackson, new Hawk goalie."

"When flash-bulk action pictures are taken of posed athletes, quite a lot of them turn out showing the subject with his eyes closed," writes Scotty. "The usual custom is to toss them in the waste basket. The Sun, apparently, saves the things for great occasions. Like the murder of young Doug Jackson.

"The kid, remember, was playing in the big circuit for the first time. No one expects a rookie to be a miracle man."

Per Ardua etc.

Still bestowing frozen turnips, Scotty comes across a piece by Bill (Ottawa Journal) Walshe who reports that R.C.A.F. authorities told him there was no rank discrimination among airmen playing on the Olympic-bound R.C.A.F. hockey team — which included three officers and one A.C. 2. They wore the same uniform and ate at the same training table, Walshe said he was told.

"That A.C. 2," snorted Scotty, "must be a crackerjack hockey player to deserve it all."

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON Jr.

New York, Dec. 3—(AP)—The other day Branch Rickey remarked that he never had seen the baseball player market as "jumpy" as it is now . . . but reports coming up from the Miami meetings don't support that statement . . . Maybe everyone is ready to jump at a trade with the Dodgers, who have so much promising minor league material that they may have to stage bargain sales, but among the other clubs it seems to be all talk and little action.

Sports Before Your Eyes

Rumor kicking around in fight circles is that Joe Louis will risk (?) his title against Turkey Thompson at the Los Angeles Coliseum in March . . . The fight will be for the Lou Costello Foundation and comedian Lou promises that movie folk will buy all the high-priced seats . . . that Dodger junket to Miami via Ciudad Trujillo didn't work out so well. The plane was grounded in Haiti by engine trouble . . . Eddie Dyer points out to scribes that the Dodgers under Burt Shotton did better against the Cards than the Dodgers under Leo Durocher . . . But didn't everybody do better against the Cards last season.

Oats Sew Wild Men

One of the better stunts perpetrated by college students during the 1947 football season came when some Louisiana State boys sneaked into the Tulane Stadium and planted some oats in the grass . . . About a week ago they began to sprout, giving the fans who were looking ahead to this week's Tulane-L.S.U. game the sight of a bright green L. S. U. in midfield . . . the oats weren't wild, but the groundkeepers who had to crawl around the field, pulling each one by hand certainly were.

Please Weigh Baby But Don't Mail Him

Capetown, South Africa, Dec. 3 —(CP)— There was a long queue at the parcels counter in a Cape Peninsula post office the other day. The clerk was working energetically and looked up at the next person in the line. It was a woman with a baby in her arms.

She beamed at him. "Weigh my baby, please," she said.

The clerk was almost bowled over and in a slight daze put the baby on the scale — "17 pounds two ounces," he said.

MERCURYS CLIMB INTO 2ND PLACE OF SENIOR RACE

Galt Rockets Also Advance to Fourth Spot in Junior "A" Scrap

(By The Canadian Press)

Two "dark horses" loomed up as bids for provincial group honors last night when Owen Sound Mercurys chalked their sixth straight victory to climb into second place in the Ontario Hockey Association senior A race and Galt Rockets took over fourth position in the junior A circuit.

The Mercurys walloped the winless Brantford Redmen 8-1 at the Georgian Bay arena and the Rockets decisioned last season's Memorial Cup champions, Toronto St. Michael's Majors 3-2 at Galt. The Owen Sound squad moved to within seven points of the league-leading Toronto Marlboros, the Alfie Moore's Galt crew now is five points behind the top-place Windsor Spitfires—who they defeated 4-2 last weekend.

Brantford Redmen extended their unenvied record of defeats to 11 straight although they put up a spirited struggle against Owen Sound. The Mercurys sewed up the decision with four first-period goals after Fred Denneny opened the game's scoring for Brantford in the first 25 seconds of play. They boosted their lead to 7-1 in the second session and counted the only third-period tally.

Gillespie Leads Marksmen

Doug Gillespie led Owen Sound marksmen with two counters. Mercurys' other counters came from Tod Miller, Murray Fife, Bruce Small, Jim Boddy, Bun White and Fred Smith.

Young Tommy Shea in St. Michael's net kept the count down for the Irish and took a puck over his eye in the third frame to leave a gash requiring a couple of stitches, for his efforts. Galt outshot St. Mike's 39 to 18.

Joe Primeau's Collegians took a first-period one-goal lead but in the second stanza Galt clinched the game with three counters by Ken McNally, Harry Pidherny and George Bercham. Joe DeCourcy tallied the lone third-period goal, for the Irish. Brian McAllister scored the first period counter.

Hamilton Patricias visit Toronto Marlboros at Maple Leaf Gardens and Stratford Indians meet Hamilton Tigers in the mountain city, in tonight's scheduled senior tilts. In the junior loop Stratford Kroehlers face Toronto Marlboros at Maple Leaf Gardens and Oshawa Generals visit Barrie Flyers.

PHILADELPHIA ROCKETS DEFEAT HORNETS BY 3-2

Phil Hergesheimer Scores Two Goals and Kraiger the Other

(By The Canadian Press)

Philadelphia Rockets today are the toast of the American Hockey League but not because they are in fifth place in the loop's eastern division.

Last night in Philadelphia, the Rockets did what only two other teams—St. Louis Flyers and Providence Reds—have been able to do this season—they knocked off the high-flying Pittsburgh Hornets.

Veteran Phil Hergesheimer who captured the league scoring title last year sparked Rockets to their 3-2 upset with two goals. Chuck Kraiger tallied the other counter. Pete Backor and rookie Fleming Mackell bulged the twine for the Wasps.

In the only other fixture played last night, St. Louis edged New Haven 8-6 for the second upset of the evening. Ernie Trigg, clever wingman from Calgary, sparked the St. Louis attack with three goals. Don (Count) Grosso, former National Hockey Leaguer with Chicago Black Hawks and Detroit Red Wings, notched two and Ed Olson, Bill McComb and Bob Black one each.

Eddie Slowinski paced New Haven with three goals while Angus Juckes, Bill Robinson and Ian Mackintosh snared one goal each.

Rumor Crashed Plane Sighted Near Bitche

Frankfurt, Dec. 3 — (AP) — United States Air Force officials said today they had "an unconfirmed report" that planes searching for a missing United States transport had sighted a crashed aircraft near Bitche, France.

These officials, who stressed the fact that their reports were fragmentary, said they believed the information pertained to a Dakota transport missing since Friday on a flight from Italy to Frankfurt with 20 persons aboard.

An Agence France-Presse dispatch in Strasbourg, France, however, said an American transport plane had crashed Tuesday near Bitche.

The authorities said they are trying to determine definitely whether two planes were down, or only the C-47 which disappeared Friday.

Toronto Leafs Should Beat N.Y. Rangers

(By The Canadian Press)

By all the records, Toronto Maple Leafs should beat the Rangers at New York tonight and thereby climb into the top spot on the National Hockey League parade.

But this game at New York is different. It's Lester Patrick Night at Madison Square Gardens and while all the hockey bigwigs and Ranger stars of years gone by are gathered to honor the Silver Fox, the Rangers of today might make it a perfect Patrick night by walloping the Leafs.

At the moment the second-place Leafs are only a point behind the league-leading Detroit Red Wings. The only other game tonight sees the tail-end Chicago Hawks at Boston, clashing with the third-place Bruins.

The Rangers beat Leafs 3-2 in their last encounter at New York, and the Rangers right now are riding on the crest of a four-game winning streak.

Since Jim Henry replaced the injured Chuck Rayner in the Ranger goal, the New Yorkers have won four out of five. A victory for New York would put them only one point back of the fourth-place Canadiens.

Among the Ranger stars of previous years who will be on hand to honor Patrick are such veterans as Earl Siebert, Muzz and Lynn Patrick, Ott Heller and Cec Dillon.

Barrie of North Dumfries Township holds some newspapers from big stack found in farmhouse attic, including Vol. 1, No. 13, of The Globe of 1844, a first edition of the Quebec Gazette of 1764, an early copy of the Dumfries Courier. Foreshadowing the Boston tea party, the Gazette reports "the American colonies" having trouble with tea and coffee imports.

Discovery was made in sturdy stone home on the William Johnstone farm, inherited by Mr. Barrie. House looks exactly as it did when built in 1871. It cost Scottish owner $1,000; $20,000 is estimated replacement cost today. James Barrie holds hand-woven wicker beehive.

Warren Stevens Organizes New Coaches' Assoc.

(By The Canadian Press)

Warren Stevens, the man whose sure-fire pitching arm first sold the forward pass to Eastern Canada football fans, has set out on another gridiron pioneering task. He is temporary chairman of a committee appointed to inquire into the possibility of organizing a Canadian Football Coaches Association.

Other members of the committee, named at a meeting Monday night, are Bobby Porter, Toronto Balmy Beach, Ted Morris, Toronto Argonauts; and Bob Masterson, associate coach at Varsity. There were suggestions at the meeting in Toronto that it might lead to schools for coaches with senior mentors instructing leaders to minor teams.

The United States Olympic hockey team will play exhibition games with the University of Toronto and McGill University before sailing for Europe Jan. 9, it was announced in Boston last night. Coach John B. Garrison said 20 men will make up the squad from which the United States team will be picked.

British turfmen were criticized by the Earl of Roseberry, senior steward of the Newmarket Jockey Club, yesterday for allegedly inundating English tracks with "second and third class" French horses to get a quick return in "our worst class races and selling races." He told the Thoroughbred Breeders Association that "our horses are still severely rationed as to fodder so I cannot see why we should have to feed these horses in addition."

Windsor's Assumption College Purple Raiders, Eastern Canada senior basketball champions, last night won a 64-27 decision over Port Hope Junior College in the first game of a 22-game exhibition schedule which will bring them against Canadian and American college teams. Freddie Thomas, sensational Negro star who has scored 1,012 points in two years of competition, led the Raiders with 23 points.

Bill Sherry, rugged defence star for Hamilton Tigers, of the Ontario Hockey Association senior A loop for several years, has taken over as coach of the Guelph Biltmores in the Ontario Hockey Association junior A division, it was learned yesterday. Sherry will succeed Bobbie Bauer, former Boston Bruins ace who retired last week.

In Brooklyn, Columbus Council Knights of Columbus, No. 126 has passed a resolution opposing the re-instatement of Leo Durocher as manager of Brooklyn Dodgers team, John B. Fitzgerald, Grand Knight of the Council, said yesterday. Fitzgerald said the action was taken "because Durocher's private and professional life is not the type toward which youngsters can look for inspiration."

Shift of some of Britain's top soccer talent to the Canadian Pacific coast was under discussion today following receipt of applications from 36 British players by Jock Hendry, former secretary of the Pacific Coast Soccer League. The applications were in answer to a request sent by Austin Delaney, publicity director of the P.C.S.L. to Rex Kingsley, sports writer for the Glasgow Daily Mail asking him to canvass British players on their willingness to come to Canada.

10-TEAM MAJOR BASEBALL LOOP MAY BE REVIVED

Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland and Hollywood May be Added

Miami, Dec. 3 — (AP) — The 10-team Major Baseball League, which proved a dud once before, may be revived in the National and American Leagues in the near future.

The executive council has drawn up preliminary plans for such a revolutionary move with the purpose of admitting four Pacific Coast League teams in the majors, the Associated Press learned from a reliable source last night.

The source added that the teams are Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland and Hollywood.

Should the idea become a reality, it would not be the first time the majors expanded. Back in 1890, the National League widened into a 12-team circuit. When this failed to work out, the circuit was cut to 10, then finally reduced to the original eight in 1900.

The latest plan, however, faced determined opposition from the Pacific Coast League itself. President Clarence Rowland admitted he had heard of something brewing "along those lines", but insisted he had never been informed directly of such a plan.

"The Pacific Coast League has only one purpose," he said, "and that is to become a major league in its entirety. We will never consent to have the majors take one, two or four clubs from us. We are all in this together and the stronger clubs have pledged themselves to protect the weaker ones."

Bonarlaw (Special.)—A number from this vicinity attended the bazaar and tea in Orange Hall at Springbrook on Wednesday of last week. The affair was sponsored by the ladies of Springbrook United Church.

Mr. Jesse Barlow Sr., returned home last week and from a visit to relatives in Ameliasburg.

Miss Beth Graham and Chester Baker, of Elmvale, are visiting friends in Belleville and Bonarlaw this week for a few days.

At the last regular meeting of St. Mark's Y.P.S. it was decided to meet each month in St. Mark's' Parish Hall and to hold one meeting per month in the home of some member. Each member was urged to bring in one or more new members.

Picton

Golden Wedding Anniversary Is Celebrated

Picton (Special) —Marking the Golding Wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morrison, a family gathering was held at the home of their daughter, Mrs. C. McLellan. The honored couple were the recipients of many lovely gifts and congratulatory messages. The family presented them with fifty silver dollars and fifty golden chrysanthemums. The presentations were made by Mrs. Charles Daubney who attended the wedding 50 years ago, at Wellington.

Mr. Morrison was born at Deseronto 72 years ago but had spent the greater part of his life in Picton where he was a carpenter, assisting in building many of the fine homes in town. Mrs. Morrison was formerly Edith Daubney and was born in Picton 67 years ago.

They have a family of four daughters, Mrs. C. McLellan and Mrs. Clarence Dulmage, Picton, Mrs. Ernest Williams, Oshawa, and Mrs. Robert Miller, Cressy. There are also 12 grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

Guest Speaker

Rev. A. M. Laverty, chaplain at Queen's University, was guest speaker at the annual meeting of "The 50-50 Club" of Picton United Church at a banquet Monday night. He spoke on the theme "This is the Day—Do it Now." Stressing that things should be done at once and not put off. The speaker mentioned that there are many little things that can be done to bring happiness to others.

President Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Williams presided. Secretary Vernon Lockwood gave reports of activities with $860 raised during the year. A communion table is being purchased for the church. Mrs. Williams reported a sewing group organized to assist the Children's Aid Society. Rev. A.E. McCutcheon introduced the speaker.

Five couples were elected to the ten-couples executive. They are Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gorslin, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Chase, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Palen.

County Council

Members of Prince Edward County Council for 1948 will be as follows:

Ameliasburg, Reeve Norris Whitney; Deputy Reeve, Thomas Walker.

Athol, Reeve Elmer Vader,

Hillier, Reeve Jack Taylor.

South Marysburgh, Reeve D. Thompson.

North Marysburgh, Reeve, Calvin Hughes.

Sophiasburg, Reeve, J. K. Welsh.

Bloomfield, Reeve, H. R. MacDonald.

Hallowell, Reeve D. O. Reynolds and Deputy Reeve Lee Allison.

Wellington, Reeve James Cleminson.

Picton, Reeve J. C. Cooper, Deputy Reeve R. Cockburn.

Retiring from 1947 council are Reeve H. A. Cleave, Reeve Sherman McQuaid. Newcomers are Deputy Reeve Lee Allison and Reeve H. R. MacDonald, along with Reeve J. K. Welsh, a former county warden.

UNDERCOVER STORY of a wonderful ride

HERE you see a beauty, stripped of all its grace of line and lovely finish for a purpose.

Here you see a Buick, unchallenged style leader of the year, bared to its bones, to show the meticulous care for your comfort and safety that goes along with beauty and thrilling power.

Here are not just one or two "comfort features"—but no less than nine important steps Buick engineers take to make your ride smoother, your handling surer, your car-control more perfect.

Buick's are standard-size casings, available anywhere. But here—and only here—they're mounted on Safety-Ride rims which are 20% to 33% wider than usual.

This gives softness by permitting 5-pound-lower tire pressures. It also makes sidewalls vertical, rather than rounded—hence giving a bracing action against side thrust. And it puts more rubber on the road—more traction under all circumstances and measurably greater mileage.

Look at front-end "geometry"—wheels carefully and precisely angled to "give" with the bumps, bank on curves, provide sure control with least effort.

Notice springs — all four of them gentle coils of tempered steel that give each wheel its own cushion of the softest type known.

Eye that frame—big, husky, cross-braced; you can see what a bulwark that is against road shock and jar. And note steering, called Permi-firm because it stays firm, true and easy with minimum adjustment to control play.

There's a rigid torque-tube to take up all driving thrust—and to free springs of any task except cushioning the car.

There's a stout front stabilizer to keep the front end firm against the road's hammering—a radius rod and struts to keep the rear axle in firm T-square alignment and avoid "rear-end steering."

Even shock absorbers are special. Fast-acting to snub jars quickly, they are carefully calibrated to maintain a balance that makes front-seat and rear-set rides equally soft, flat and easy.

These nine features mean full comfort, full control, full ease of handling. And you get them all in Buick.

We're sorry we can't deliver your Buick today . . . so many wise people say "Buick's the only buy," that we're still 'way behind on our orders. While you wait, keep your old car smooth-running and safe—depend on your Buick Dealer's expert service.

Only BUICK has all these Ride and Handling Features

Sound bidding systems are practical. They make the most of the available bidding words. None of the words are wasted. They are used in various combinations to give different types of information.

The word one in combination with a suit means one thing. In combination with the word no-trump the word one means something else.

As an opening bid, the word two in combination with a suit shows nine tricks. In combination with no-trump the word two shows eight high cards or only seven high cards if four are sure tricks.

Maybe I should tip you off to some advance stuff about the deal you see here:

NORTH
♠K 10 5 2
♥A 4 2
♦A Q 3
♣A K Q

WEST
♠9 6 3
♥K 8 6 5

♣10 8 5 3

SOUTH
♠A 7 4
♥Q J 10 9 7 3
♣6 4 2

North shoved south into a heart small slam. West led diamond jack and declarer took his needed 12 tricks. You may not see how.

You see the four west hearts to the king; the three trumps to the ace in dummy. You know that a normal finesse will not pick up the west trump king if he refuses to cover.

You see that a diamond finesse will not work with the king in east. You see there is a probable loser in the third round of spades. It looks like a lot of obstacles to overcome.

But lay out the cards on a table and peel them down to barest essentials. You may discover a play that works into 12 tricks. Fool around with this while I tell others a little about the bidding.

North opened with two no-trump; south responded with three in his heart suit. North went to three no-trump and south said four hearts to show his rebiddable suit. He thus showed four tricks.

With seven in his own hand, north sees no more than 11 tricks in their pair. These are not enough for a slam. At four hearts, a suppose north should have been satisfied.

Some players are never satisfied.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Dec. 3 —(AP)— It's about time for Betty Grable's annual denial that she wants to be a dramatic actress.

The matter came up when I was reporting to Betty on the "This is the Moment" set that musical pictures are in a decline. Soaring costs for that type of film have put it on the unessential list for current production.

"Then I'd better hunt for a new job," said Betty, "because that's my dish."

Betty said she is constantly accused of going dramatic.

"Only this week I heard someone on the radio say 'What does Betty Grable mean by wanting to give up musicals?' That's a lot of nonsense. When I can't do musicals anymore I'll quit."

The St. Louis Siren said she has done only one picture without music, "Hot Spot." She even did a number for that one, a rendition of "Daddy," but it was cut from the final version.

Sights and Sounds

Ava Astaire, five, watching her father start his dances in "Easter Parade," his first in two years . . . Bing Crosby acting as guide to a group of co-eds visiting a Ray Milland set . . .

Veronica Lake showing off her Argyle socks, hidden under her hoopskirt for "Sainted Sisters" . . . Alan Ladd, who has been in every kind of film brawl, donning boxing gloves for the first time, in "Long Grey Line." . . . Jimmy Durante talking (seriously) about "That great Notre Dame coach — Rock K Utne."

Gene Autry explaining why he wears loud cowboy garb: 'If you walk down a street in plain clothes, no one will notice you; but if you're wearing a red shirt, they'll say who the ...... is that guy?"

10-Second Review

"Out of the Past" (RKO) has enough plot for three pictures, but somehow manages to become an exciting film of the "private eye" ilk. It takes a quick mind to follow the vastly complicated plot and the quick switches of locale, but Robert Mitchim, Jane Greet, Kirk Douglas and the others manage to keep things fairly well in hand.

CHAPTER 12.

Alone now, Kay took pains to remain that way. She locked the door and sighed with brave resolve. She sat down at the little ivory desk and began writing a description of herself, her education, her attainments. She could speak French quite fluently, also Italian and German. She could put in benefit shows, give parties, act as chaperon. When she wrote down her age, twenty-two seemed young to be doing any of the things she wished to do; although a hostess in some bright night spot should be fairly young.

The letter finished, she slipped into a cool, pink-flowered, short-sleeved muslin frock, and went out toward the garage, looking for Halcomb, Gloria's chauffeur. It was five miles to the post office and she must go there and mail this letter herself.

Suddenly, she wheeled at the sound of a shrill whistle behind her. Her heart leaped to her throat. Chuck Nourse was sprinting toward her.

He stopped beside her, panting for breath, his white sport shirt open at the throat, his gray slacks hugging his long muscular legs. Never had he looked more desirable.

"Hel-lo!" he exclaimed eagerly. "This is my lucky day! I thought you'd gone with the others."

"I'm trying to find Halcomb—I'm going to town."

It was impossible for her to keep the tender gladness out of her voice and eyes. If he hadn't been so utterly worried about where he stood with her, he would have noticed.

"Let me take you—I've nothing planned. You'll be doing me a real favor."

She immediately thought of the engagement bracelet and wondered how he could be so irresponsible with women. She said, under her breath, "Thanks—I'd rather not," and began walking away.

He kept pace with her as she went toward the garage.

She flushed, tried to be indignant, and failed. Anyway, it would not do to make a scene before the chauffeur, although Chuck thoroughly deserved it.

The afternoon was perfect. Not too warm, not too cool. Chuck at the wheel, drove out to the main highway, his fine blond hair, which never lay quite smoothly on his well-shaped head, now more tousled than ever. The sun made artful outlines of foliage on the gleaming road ahead, swift-moving clouds in the blue sky were like modernistic boats of temperamental gods. There was a mellowness in the air that was nearly sad. It was a day full of elusiveness. One longed to reach out and grasp something real to treasure in memory, but all reality fled with the reaching.

Chuck had very little to say to her. They drove the five miles to the village in a few minutes.

Within the village limits, he inquired, "Did I hear you mention your errand? Where do you wish to go."

She smiled up at him in comradery fashion, in spite of herself. He was so big and strong and, yes—dependable.

"The post office, kind sir," she said, on a happy note.

He quickly drew the car up before the small frame building, jumped out and offered politely, "I'll mail your letter."

A startled look came into her eyes. "Oh, no, no—I'll mail it myself—thank you"

Crimson crept into his tanned cheeks. "Very well," he returned shortly.

He opened the door on her side, not offering to assist her out. It was strange, he thought, but he never knew where or how he stood with her. It was in fact a maddening position to be in.

She mailed her letter and returned to him wearing a self-conscious smile.

When she settled in her seat again, he pushed down the accelerator and drove rapidly through the nearly deserted street.

Finally, he slowed the car down, made a turn into a wooded country road. He suddenly switched off the ignition, pulled the emergency.

He said unexpectedly, "Aren't there a few things, Kay, you and I should iron out?"

"It seems unnecessary—now," she faltered. "Adele showed me the—the bracelet yesterday. You have excellent taste."

He turned to her uncomprehendingly. "Bracelet? What bracelet?"

"The one you gave her."

"Kay—I never gave Adele a bracelet—or any other piece of jewelry—I swear it!"

Kay bit her lower lip and stared at him.

"How can you say that?" she said, after a tense moment. "Why—it's engraved 'C.N.'—an engagement bracelet. And—I wish you all the happiness in the world."

He laughed loudly. "I remember that bracelet now! Cummings Naylor gave it to Adele last Christmas—when they were keen about each other. She told me about him. But it's no engagement bracelet. How did you get that idea?"

It would not do to tell him that Adele had said so, and thus stir up a conflagration in the house party. Anyway, Adele would deny it. Perhaps she herself would be gone from her within a few days.

"Sorry—my error," she said, trying to be flippant.

He laid an arm across the back of the seat.

She said, crisply, "We—we must get back to camp. You see—Webb will be returning any minute—I must be there."

"May I ask—just what is Webb Taylor to you, Kay "

"No—you may not!" she flared, wondering how long she could keep from crying on his shoulder.

He slammed in the gears and jerked the little car to a start. At last, she had pierced the armor of his pride.

He didn't speak to her all the way back to camp, nor she to him. When the car stopped before the door of the big rambling pile of stone and stucco, she said, "Thank you for driving me." Her gaze was directed at the calm blue of the sunlit lake.

He watched her go swiftly up the front steps, her slim ankles in the sheerest of hose, her dainty white shoes flashing beneath them; the poise of her proud little head, making her white felt hat a rarefied crown of glory.

He left the car on the drive and went to the shore of the lake to sulk—as he never had sulked before.

Within a few days, Kay received a letter from the Albany employment agency, together with a questionaire and a request for two dollars. The letter was encouraging. It stated that there should be no difficulty in placing a person of her attainments in a lucrative position.

Kay lost no time in sending the agency her check for enrollment with the filled in form, then waited a whole week in an agony of suspense for something to happen.

Chuck in the meanwhile suddenly left the Sherman camp, and returned to Deweyton to take charge of the newly completed airplane factory. His absence at first was a distinct relief to Kay, but soon she began to feel miserably out of sorts with every one and everything about her. She laid it to Webb Taylor's insistent tagging of her, to the frivolity of the crowd, to the sun, the moon and stars—all but to the actual cause.

"MODEL" MAID UNTIL JEWELRY DISAPPEARED

Ald. A. Lamport Likely to Ask For Explanation

Toronto, Dec. 3 — (CP)—Alderman Allan Lamport said last night he will ask the Board of Control today for an "explanation" of why detectives Alex Deans and Art Keay, are not allowed to work together. Lamport charged that "jealousy" in the police department was behind the move.

Ald. Lamport also said he will demand that while several major crimes in Toronto remain unsolved, the department should concentrate on these cases rather than apprehending bookmakers and petty gamblers.

Keay and Deans as a team have been responsible for solution to many major crimes, said the alderman, and "something's wrong when two of the most able detectives are not permitted to continue working together."

London Letter:

England's Driest Autumn Enjoyed By Londoners but Hard on Gardeners

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Dec. 3 —(CP)— London's driest autumn on record left the city parched and more faded than ever.

In the parks city workmen slowly raked up leaves that had fallen onto grey, hard-baked turf. Gardeners, tending glowing banks of chrysanthemums, shook their heads over the packed soil.

"Trouble is ground's so hard that any rain we get just runs off," grumbled one St. James's Park attendant.

Londoners enjoyed the unusually, mild fall, however, despite an epidemic of colds which nearly everyone blames on the unseasonable weather. But they have the typical Englishmen's approach to life and warned one another that if the days were balmy "we shall pay for it later on."

Make Most of Nice Weather

Meanwhile they stretched their lunch hours to take longer strolls, to watch the ducks cruising about shrunken ponds in the parks, or through the West End, where the occasional cleaned or repainted building stands out in violent contrast to its neighbors.

Looking at the grime of cracked house-fronts, the boarded windows and tumbled walls, and comparing them with the meagre supplies available for repair, onlookers couldn't help feeling that of 10,000 men worked night and day for 10 years, with all the equipment they needed, they still wouldn't have the city tidy.

Grumbling has become a bit more general than heretofore, although some of the loudest grousers would seem to have the least cause. A housewife who spends her morning shifting from queue to queue may dismiss her plight with a resigned sigh and a shrug, but loud complaints against austerity will be heard from the patrons of the snug little West End restaurants, where dinners cost £4 ($16) a couple and up.

Regulations Violated

Limited by law to charging a maximum of 5s ($1) for a meal, the restaurateurs pile it onto the bill with house and service charges. At least one place charges 6d (10 cents) for a serviette. Nearly all of them flagrantly violate the regulation requiring that bread — if served — be the equivalent of one of the three permitted courses. Wines at government ceiling price are seldom served; instead, unregulated vintages are produced at fancy prices.

Narcotic Traffic Grows in Germany

By ALLAN DREYFUSS

Frankfurt, Dec. 3 —(Reuters)— An increasing number of Germans are seeking escape from post-war woes by resort to drugs.

The illicit use of narcotics has been spreading, according to Dr. Dietrich Wolff, Frankfurt's chief city physician, and the head of the narcotics squad of the criminal police division says that only the difficulty of obtaining supplies prevents yet more people from seeking this fleeting panacea for the ills left by Europe's devastating war.

Dr. Wolff confirms that victims are to found among the large segement of the population classed as suffering from various neurosis brought on by the war or post-war privations. A sizeable number of addicts, he claims, are former Wehrmacht soldiers who, having been given narcotics as anodynes for war wounds, find themselves unable to master the incessant craving for them.

Typical of many ex-soldier addicts is the case of a Frankfurt man whose jaw was splintered by shrapnel. He was given morphine during his wartime treatment. It left a latent urge for the drug and under this overwhelming impulse he adopted the ruse of deliberating dislocating his jaw and then pursuading one doctor after another to give him morphine "to ease the terrible pain."

But addicts by no means find it easy to obtain their supplies, for the drug traffic based on international sources has fallen off. Frankfort, for example, which according to police sources was before the war the operating base of no less than 10 known international drug smugglers, has today only three large-scale agents at work: Some of the addicts use forged or stolen prescriptions.

Black Market Prices

The largest source of illicit drugs in Germany is the black market, where minute quantities of narcotics bring higher prices than diamonds, cameras or mink coats. The traffic is at present restricted to morphine, cocaine and pervitin (the trade name for a caffine derivative which prevents sleep.) Cocaine for example, costs 2,000 reichsmarks ($200 at the legal exchange rate) for one gram.

Pervitin, which was produced during the war in a chocolate-coated form for Luftwaffe night pilots, has proved the most popular and easily obtainable of the drugs on the black market. The morphine by-products, eukodal, pantopin, dolantin and dilaudid, which are also sold, are believed to come chiefly from looted and cached army stocks now being siphoned into the open market.

Members of Frankfurt's narcotic squad estimate that 30 per cent of the drugs on the black market come from Wehrmacht stocks, 30 per cent are stolen from laboratories and pharmaceutical houses, while the remaining 40 per cent comes under the general heading "source unknown."

Although the large pre-war international traffic has been disrupted by transportation difficulties, close border surveillance and the uncertain financial picture, minor drug operators manage occasionally to bring in small amounts of narcotics from Italy, Denmark and France.

Focal points of the illicit drug traffic in Germany are Munich and Neurnburg which serve as centres for the distribution of the products.

NO REDUCTION IN SALE OF MILK AT KITCHENER, INCREASE ONE CENT

Kitchener, Dec. 3 —(CP)— No reduction in consumer sale of milk was reported here as a result of the price increasing one cent per quart, effective Tuesday. Distributors say that they held the increase to one cent instead of two cents as approved by the Ontario Milk Board. They said that had they added two cents to the price, consumers would have curtailed their purchases.

Important Documents by Pope Pius Will be Published in Few Months

By JOHN TALBOT

Vatican City, Dec. —(Reuters) —A number of important pontificial documents which Pope Pius has completed during the time he has spent this summer and autumn at the papal summer palace at Castel Gandolfo are to be published during the next few months, it is learned here.

One of these documents, it is believed, will announce an increase in the maximum number of Cardinals from the present 70 to 100.

This would allow for the creation of Cardials in Catholic countries which at the moment have no representation in the Sacred College and at the same time for the replenishment of the ranks of the centre of the church, the Curia Romana, or Papal Court, in which the number of Cardinals has been decreasing for some years.

Another important document, which it is understood will be published shortly, is one on which the congregations of the Holy Office and of Sacraments have been working together and which includes a modification of the rules regarding the Eucharistic fast before the reception of Holy Communion.

This document lays down that it will no longer be necessary for Catholics to fast from midnight, stating that in future a fast of only a few hours will be necessary before communion. This follows a similar concession made to French Catholics recently.

A third document will deal with reforms in the Curia Romana. It will also state the Pope's reasons for not having so far filled the post of Cardinal Secretary of State, left vacant since the death of Cardinal Maglione. Also vacant is the post of one Cardinal Chamberlain of the Holy Roman Church and a Cardinal Chancellor of the Holy Roman Church.

Paper Praises Canadian Price Control Measures

Washington, Dec. 3 —(CP)— The Washington Post, in a half-column editorial describing Canadian price control measures, said yesterday "On the face of the record the honors for efficiency in price control go to Canada."

The editorial said "Canada is turning to a form of selective price control that is, in our opinion, fully warranted by the special circumstances of the case," and added

"Canada does not consider selective controls unworkable. Why should we?"

Senator Robert Taft (Rep. Ohio), a candidate for his party's presidential nomination, has attacked President Truman's request for power to restore selective price controls if necessary on the ground that it wouldn't work — that there must be complete control or none.

PARSIMONIOUS HITLER

Montreal — (CP) — Although he was one of Germany's wealthiest men, "Hitler never paid a bill and tradespeople never dared bill him twice," Baroness Helena de Polenzka, commentator and lecturer, told a Montreal audience. HUNTS FOR 17 YEARS; SEES, SHOOTS FIRST DEER

Pittsfield, Mass., Dec. 3—(AP) — Samuel Pisani has gone hunting every season for 17 years and never even saw a deer until yesterday when he shot a 250-pound buck.

He struggled for half an hour lugging it out of the woods and onto the fender of his automobile.

When he returned he found someone had stolen his deer.

EVANGELS SET FORTH INTO PACIFIC

Ready to sail from Seattle, Wash., in their small craft are Marvin Norstedt, left, and Jack Maier, whose port of destination is atoll-sized Tabiteuea Island, in the Gilbert group. During the war, Maier was shipwrecked on this dot in the South Pacific. Determined to repay the islanders' kindness, Maier, an evangelistic man, will carry to them on the ship, right, a cargo of Bibles so that they may learn the teachings of the Holy Book. When the men left on the trip they had $14 between them.

Milk Producers Want More Money

Producers should receive $3.00 per hundredweight for milk at the present time, due to increased costs of feed, was the opinion expressed at the annual meeting of Prince Edward Milk Producers' Association at their annual convention at Wellington. Present price is about $2.50, much milk going to cheese factories or dairies.

There were 127 in attendance at the banquet. Problems facing producers were touched on by President B. R. Baxter, Assistant Agricultural Representative, Donald Taylor, Morley Williams, President of Prince Edward Federation of Agriculture, and others. The thought was expressed that there would be a further decrease in production unless some action is taken to reduce the cost of grain and feeds.

J. M. Hartwick, manager of Quinte Milk Products stressed the necessity of a "breed, feed and weed" program in dairy herds. He said figures revealed that milk production in this county had increased only 300 pounds per cow in the last fifteen years. Some areas have an average production per cow double that here.

Charles Milton, president of the Provincial Association, gave a report on the work of that body.

Members voted in favor that the deduction from milk producers be raised one-quarter of one per cent, to three-quarters of one per cent, these funds to be used to further the work of the provincial and local associations.

Officers elected were: President, Barton Cronk; Vice President, Sam Dodds; Secretary Treasurer, Frank M. Huff; Directors, Norris Whitney, Ray Ferguson, Herbert Taylor, Howard Dulmage. Herb Kerr, Milton Brooks, Harold Noxon.

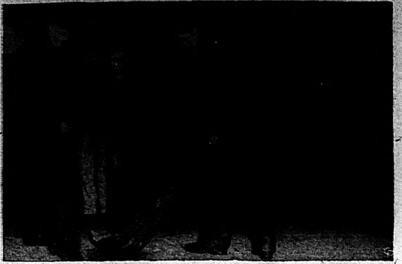
SOLDIER GUARDS FOR NON-STRIKING FRENCHMEN



Non-striking workers clean up a railroad station in Paris, France, under the watchful eye of a soldier who is on hand to see that they are not molested by railroad strikers. The French National Assembly frustrated a Communist filibuster in a riotous session and approved the military action of the government's anti-strike program. Premier Robert Schuman's "public security" government was empowered to call up 80,000 more reservists to reinforce the nation's anti-sabotage guard.

HE'S HERE AGAIN

Sir Oswald Mosley, pre-war leader of the black shirted British Union of Fascists, is shown during the press conference in London at which he announced that 51 independent organizations which believed in his creed will combine early next year into a "union movement" that will attempt to win political power in Great Britain. Sir Oswald, who passed World War II in a British prison under security regulations, said his movement would elect a parliament on an "occupational" basis. He said it would soon place candidates in the field to fight political elections.

DREW BLASTS OTTAWA'S STRONG-ARM METHODS

Street Battle Rages In Palestine Town; Civil War Feared

Mob Violence Occurs In Baghdad and Egypt

By JOSEPH GOODWIN

Jerusalem, Dec. . (AP) — A street battle flared today in the Arab town of Ramle on the Tel Aviv-Jerusalem road as Arab fury mounted against partition of Palestine, provoking fears of a civil war.

"Fighting is raging in the streets," said Associated Press Correspondent Carter L. Davidson in a telephone report from the scene. "The roads are impassable because of road-blocks, stones and damaged cars. All traffic is stopped."

While both Arab and Jewish leaders pleaded for a halt to the wave of violence in the Middle East, other outbursts were reported. In Baghdad, Iraq, a mob of demonstrators set fire to the United States information office. Egypt banned public demonstrations after violence by a mob of 15,000. A bomb exploded in the Jewish quarter of Beyrouth, Lebanon.

34 Dead

An Associated Press compilation for the three days of rioting throughout Palestine showed 34 dead—15 Arabs and 19 Jews—with the Arabs' strike protesting partition in its third and last day. Hundreds have been injured.

Outside battle - torn Ramle, British troops were turning back traffic from Jerusalem. Inside the city, Davidson reported the new rioting was touched off when the Jewish bus convoys, led by armored police cars, were attacked by Arab mobs. Fighters of Hagana, the underground Jewish militia, drove off the attackers, wounding at least four Arabs. Three Jewish passengers in one convoy were injured in an initial attack by the mob. A second wave came soon afterward.

British security forces were placed on the alert for 24-hour duty. The Tel Aviv-Jaffa market area now occupied by troops.

An Arab was killed and several Jews and Arabs were wounded in renewed skirmishing along the border between all-Jewish Tel Aviv and all-Arab Jaffa.

(Reuters News Agency said the estimated 80,000 forces of the Jewish defence organization Hagana will be placed on the alert tomorrow in view of mass meetings called in Arab areas. Jerusalem would be divided into 10 zones, each commanded by a Hagana officer with mobile "patrols" ready to rush to trouble zones).

Pall of Smoke

A pall of smoke hung over Haifa as a result of fires set during the night, including a Jewish lumberyard, garage, planing mill and toy factory. An Arab shop in the Jewish section also was burned. An Arab fireman was electrocuted while fighting the flames at the lumberyard.

GARDINER SAYS FOOD CONTRACTS BEING HELD UP

Currency Problems Hinder Negotiations Between U.K. and Dominion

Ottawa, Dec. 4. (CP)—A frank statement by Agriculture Minister Gardiner that currency problems are hindering the re-negotiation of food contracts between Canada and the United Kingdom was on the record today.

He told the closing session of the three -day Dominion-Provincial conference yesterday that a "very difficult" financial situation has arisen in the negotiations, which have been under way here for more than a week.

There was "great difficulty" as to what Britain was going to "use for money" if she purchased food from Canada in 1948, he said, adding that he still hoped the difficulty would be "overcome".

The 200 delegates, representing farm organizations and provincial departments of agriculture, also heard from Sir Andrew Jones, head of the Permanent British Food Mission here, a statement that if Britain could not buy Canadian farm products it was simply because she could not 'afford to pay for them". He too, expressed hope the problem would be solved.

Faced with the uncertainty over the 1948 food exports, the delegates decided to leave next year's food production targets unchanged from those of 1947.

Thus, wheat acreage will continue at 24,000,000 acres, oats at 14,310,200 acres and barley at 8,000,000 acres. Suggested production of meats, dairy products, poultry, fruits and vegetables also will remain unchanged.

Delegates from Eastern Canada expressed a growing concern over high prices prevailing for feed grains and fertilizer and urged the government to take steps to control the rates.

H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, read a series of federation recommendations for subsidizing of export contracts, partial re-opening of the U.S. market to beef cattle, adjustment of current high prices of feed concentrates and the placing of the marketing of coarse grains under the Canadian Wheat Board.

Canada's Ability To Finance Seaway Raised in U.S.A.

Washington, Dec. 4 — (AP) — The question of Canada's ability to finance its part of the proposed St. Lawrence seaway in event the United States Congress approves the project has been raised by Senator John Overton (Dem.-La.).

Overton, in an article inserted in the Congressional record by another Democrat member of the Louisiana delegation, Representative Henry Larcade, said the British Commonwealth now is facing a serious "economic crisis" and added:

"Can Canada — and will it — discharge its financial responsibility within the Empire and build its portion of the St. Lawrence seaway? I do not propose to know the answer but it is an answer which should be had before this project should be considered by the Congress."

TWO LEAVE GUELPH POLICE FORCE

Guelph, Dec. 4 (CP)—Two members of the Guelph police force, Constables Alex Lorr and Murdock Ross, have resigned, it was announced today by Chief Constable Harold Nash. The men have given up police work to accept other positions.

TWO MEN SEEN WITH SLAIN PAIR NIGHT OF MURDER

Incident Described at Vigus-Scott Hearing

Toronto, Dec. 4 — (CP)—Two young men who argued with a couple identified as George Vigus and Iris Scott in a "lover's lane" section of North York township 24 hours before the bodies of Vigus and Miss Scott were found jammed into the locked luggage compartment of the Vigus car, appeared today as possible suspects in the strangle slayings.

The incident was mentioned for the first time in yesterday's opening session of the inquest into the death of the 39-year-old factory superintendent and his 21-year-old friend, whose bodies were pried out of Vigus' automobile Sept. 12, a few hours after police removed the car from Toronto's west-end High Park.

A patch of white adhesive tape on one of the car windows was one of the links between the incident on lonely York Downs road the night of Sept. 10, and discovery of the bodies in a far distant section of the city.

McKay Clement, a resident of the area, saw the tape on a photograph of the Vigus car and said it definitely was the same auto he saw parked on York Downs Road the night of Sept. 10 and several times previously.

Identified Group

William Muzik, who also lives in the area, was the first witness to mention the argument. Driving along York Downs Road, he was stopped short by an auto parked far from the curb without lights and with the luggage compartment open.

Muzik stopped his car, grazing one of a group of four persons standing behind the other vehicle, he told the coroner's jury. He identified two of the group as Vigus and Miss Scott. The other two were young men, one about 25 and the other 35 years of age.

The group appeared to be engaged in a violent argument, the witness testified.

Hugh Millar told the jury he and his brother were searching for worms on a golf course adjoining York Downs boulevard about midnight Sept. 10 when they heard what sounded like an argument from the street.

The witness said he heard a woman call for help three times, then several car doors slammed and an automobile motor raced "as if someone was trying to get away in an awful hurry."

The inquest is continuing.

$18,000 DAMAGE TO FLOUR MILL

Winnipeg, Dec. 4 (CP)—Damage was estimated today at $18,000 in an explosion and fire which last night rocked the Ogilvie Flour Mills plant in northeast Winnipeg. No one was injured in the blast which sent a portion of the outside wall on the seventh floor of the building hurtling onto the roof of an adjoining structure.

The explosion is believed to have occurred in a suction motor.

Russian Doubts of Soviet Economy Seen in Bank Runs, Panic Buying

Washington, Dec. 4 — (AP)— Soviet Russia's tightly-managed Communist economy is reported in serious trouble at home from a wave of bank runs and panic buying in Moscow and other cities.

Well-based reports, some of them broadcast to the world in 23 languages last night by the United States State Department's official "Voice of America" radio said:

1. Crowds excited by rumors that the ruble was about to be devaluated, have forced many stores to close in the last few days because of frantic efforts to turn paper money into durable goods.

2. A rush to withdraw money from savings bank accounts resulted in an order to limit individual withdrawals to 200 rubles daily.

Moscow's unceasing propaganda against American plans to aid Western Europe has hammered the theme that the capitalist United States is headed for an inevitable depression while the Soviet economy is secure.

Now, however, there appears to be grave doubts among the Russian people themselves.

As received here from sources in a position to know, the information is that Moscow last week was on a phenomenal buyers' spree, with crowds lining up at shops to buy any durable goods regardless of need or intrinsic value.

By week's end one of Moscow's principal department stores, Mostorg, shut its doors and posted signs saying "Store closed for repairs."

Other establishments posted "Closed for inventory."

Those remaining open had many bare shelves but still were being besieged, the reports said.

On the streets scores of peasant women and poorly-dressed workers were seen carrying crockery, Chinese vases and other objects normally beyond their means. Suburban trains were said to be overflowing with men and women loaded with packages.

Minister of Labor Orders Re-instatement of Employee

Minister of Labor Charles Daly has ordered the re-instatement without loss of income of Sydney Denyer, who was fired on Aug. 12th from the Stewart-Warner Alemite Corporation for union activity, Neville Hamblin, district representative of the UE-CIO announced today.

When Denyer was fired the UE-CIO stated that it was for Union activity and applied for an Industrial Disputes Inquiry Commissioner. His Honor Judge J. C. Reynolds of Kingston was appointed and heard testimony by both the Company and the Union.

The Union was represented by Charles Dubin, legal counsel and the Company by Malcom Robb.

The decision of His Honor Judge Reynolds is contained in the following re-instatement order of the Minister of Labor:

"In the matter of the Labor Relations Board Act, 1944, The Labor Relations Board Act, 1947 and the regulations made thereunder,—

"And in the matter of the Industrial Disputes Inquiry Commission to investigate the dismissal of Mr. Sydney Denyer by Stewart-Warner Alemite Corporation of Canada Limited, Belleville, Ont. allegedly for union activity.—

"The report of His Honor, Judge J. C. Reynolds, an Industrial Disputes Inquiry Commissioner, having indicated that the allegation that the above mentioned employee was discharged for union activity is sustained.

"I do hereby order the Stewart-Warner Alemite Corporation of Canada Limited to re-instate Sydney Denyer in its employ and to pay the said Sydney Denyer his wages from the date of his wrongful discharge up to the date that he is re-instated, the amount thereof to be reduced by any amount which he may have received from other sources for work performed during the interval between his dismissal and the date of his re-instatement."

"Dated at Toronto, Ontario, this 2nd day of December, 1947.

"Charles Daly, Minister of Labor."

Must Prove Damage to Plant To Have Injunction Continued

Toronto, Dec. 4 (CP)— With freeze-up time approaching, "it is a very serious thing if pickets refuse entrants to plants, causing hundreds of thousands of dollars in damages," Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay said yesterday during a hearing of a motion by Corbin Lock Company of Belleville, Ont., to continue an injunction restraining striking members of the United Electrical Workers (C.I.O.) from refusing non-striking officials and men access to their plant.

"The law is impotent to restrain peaceful picketing," said Mr. Justice Mackay, who deferred judgment until further evidence is heard Friday. "I am trying to take the common sense viewpoint."

The company seeks to have the injunction continued until the firm's $100,000 action for damages against five alleged Union organizers goes to court.

C.L. Dubin, Union counsel, said the striking workers, out since the alleged dismissal Oct. 3 of 19 employees, "presented a picture of peaceful picketing."

Mr. Dubin expressed surprise at company counsel B. V. Elliot's use in remarks to the court of the expression "Communist-Dominated Union" as applied to the strikers' organization.

"I'm surprised that a man of his (Elliot's) experience could stoop to such tactics to prejudice the court, in spite of his well-known antipathy to trade unions. I'm surprised——"

"You don't need to be surprised," interjected Mr. Elliot. "My statements are common knowledge. The newspapers have mentioned it several times."

Americans May Not Participate In Winter Games

Geneva, Dec. 4—(AP)—American participation in the winter Olympic games at St. Moritz became doubtful today when Marcel Henninger, president of the organizing committee of the games, declared there would be no change in recognition of a hockey team as demanded by the United States committee.

The organizing committee has designated the American Hockey Association, instead of the Amateur Athletic Union, as the group entitled to select an ice hockey team.

Yesterday at Chicago the United States Olympic committee threatened to withdraw all United States teams from the winter games, due to start Jan. 30, if the Swiss committee stood firm in preferring the American Hockey Association.

"If they don't want to come we shall be obliged to hold the games without the United States," said Henninger in asserting that the committee would not reverse its decision.

The argument between the organizing committee and the American Olympic committee centres on the amateur status of the American Hockey Association, termed by members of the American committee as "professional and commercial."

The organizing committee was due to take its final decision on the matter at a meeting in St. Moritz Dec. 13. Henninger predicted the committee "will not change its attitude."

If the American Olympic committee in fact boycotted the winter games, said Henninger, the United States would be represented only by a hockey team of the A.H.A. Other sports in which the Americans have teams ready to sail are skiing, speed and fancy skating, and bobsledding.

George Panter Given Third Term As O.H.A. Pres.

Toronto, Dec. 4 (CP)—George Panter, president of the Ontario Hockey Association and other front-line officers of the organization have been re-elected and will start their third term in office Saturday when the O.H.A. holds its 58th annual meeting here.

J. J. McFadyen of Galt returns as first vice-president; Jack Roxburgh of Simcoe, second vice-president; George S. Dudley of Midland, treasurer, and W. A. Hewitt of Toronto, Secretary. F. W. (Dinty) Moore of Port Colborne is the immediate past president. On Saturday Mr. Hewitt will officially enter his 45th season as O.H.A. secretary.

Coach James Skinner of Windsor Spitfires, automatically suspended for allegedly striking a referee during a Junior "A" game Nov. 29 between Spitfires and Galt Rockets at Galt, has been asked to appear at an O.H.A. executive board meeting Friday night to tell his version of the incident.

Four members will be elected to the O.H.A. executive at Saturday's meeting. Seven candidates for the executive committee posts are: Frank Buckland, Peterborough; S. R. Burrows, Belleville; M. L. (Tory) Gregg, Wingham; Stewart McTavish, Oshawa; Roy Reynolds, Chatham; Rev. B. A. O'Donnell, Grimsby and H. Crellin, Welland.

Msgr. O'Neill Appointed Archbishop of Regina

Ottawa, Dec. 4 — (CP)—Msgr. Michael C. O'Neill of Ottawa, and Edmonton, former principal Roman Catholic Chaplain of the Canadian Army, has been appointed by Pope Pius XII as Archbishop of Regina, it was announced today by Archbishop Antoniutti, apostolic delegate to Canada and Newfoundland.

TEN OF HITLER'S JUSTICE OFFICIALS FOUND GUILTY

Sentences Range From Life to Two Years

By EDWIN SHANKE

Nuernberg, Dec. 4 —(AP)— Ten former state secretaries, prosecutors and judges in Hitler's ministry of justice were convicted today by a United States military tribunal on war crimes charges. Four others were acquitted.

Franz Schlegelberger, former acting minister of state and the main defendant, was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Others convicted:

State Secretary Herbert Klemm, a friend of the missing Martin Bormann, was sentenced to life imprisonment.

State Secretary Kurt Rothenberger, seven years.

Ernst Lautz, chief prosecutor of the notorious People's Court of Berlin which tried treason cases, 10 years.

Wolfgang Mettgenberg, authority on international law, 10 years.

Joseph Altstoetter, once chief of the ministry division of civil law and procedure, five years.

Girl Has Lovely 'Shopping' Spree

Detroit, Dec. 4—(CP)—A "perfectly heavenly" day of shopping all by herself in Detroit's largest department store was described by 17-year-old Mary Fisher, who was captured in the store Sunday night wearing a complete new outfit including five brassieres.

The phantom shopper told police she entered the store about 5:20 p.m. Saturday and went up to the 14th floor. She went into a rest room .

"About 7:30 p.m. (after the store had closed) I came out and took the stairs down to the model homes department on the ninth floor. There I picked out one of those lovely model beds and went to sleep.

"I got up bright and early Sunday and went shopping."

With the whole 14 floors to herself and unhampered by salesladies and cashiers, Miss Fisher accumulated a complete new outfit including the five brassieres, three handbags and two suitcases full of clothes and jewelry.

It was then a watchman noticed her flitting through the store and a half-hour chase resulted in her capture. She will be charged with theft.

TEN PERSONS KILLED

Hong Kong, Dec. 4 — (AP) — Ten persons were killed and 20 shops destroyed in a waterfront fire in Canton, China, last night, it was reported here today.

Method of Healing Decayed Teeth Like Wound Announced by Scientist

Stockholm, Dec. 4 — (AP)— A method of healing decayed teeth like a body wound, whereby the teeth grow new enamel, has been announced by Dr. Sten Forshufvud of Gothenburg, Sweden, after several years of research.

The report on the new method, which shortly will be published in Sweden, has not yet been studied by dental authorities, but Prof. G. Westin of the dental institute said that "if correct, the report is one of the most sensational ever published in the realm of odontology."

Dr. Forshufvud, who began his research on biological dental healing in 1937, said he used "pieces of teeth of oxen, freed from most of their organic substance," as a filling for cavities. "Nature does the rest."

Dr. Forshufvud said that "the mineral bandage" acts as a support or scaffolding, through which reticular fibres grow, thereby restoring nutrition in the wound area. The mineral bandage is gradually resorbed, while at the same time human enamel is built up.

The mineral material from oxen's teeth is retained in its place for the same reason which keeps the edges of a wound together; the blood plasma keeps it there. He does not use any surface support for the filling but this might improve the method.

The method, although still in an experimental stage and lacking practical value since it is not generally available, is of tremendous theoretical interest.

Dr. Forshufvud has treated about 40 cases by his new method, and about 40 or 50 per cent of them have been successfully completed. The oldest case is of 18 months standing and incisions in the healed areas show that enamel has grown in.

Dr. Forshufvud, now 45, worked in research at various periods at the Lund University and the Gothenburg Bacteriological Laboratory.

"We are now standing on firm ground," he said, "and as I cannot afford to continue the research, it is time to make my discoveries public. I hope they will bring dentistry closer to the possibility of creating a biological treatment."

Says Parliament, Provinces Ignored By Federal Govt.

Believes Country Being Placed in Strait-Jacket

Toronto, Dec. 4 — (CP)—Premier Drew, in an attack on the Dominion Government's economic policies, said today he believes "that this country faces the most dangerous challenge to our free system which has ever been faced in the 80 years of Canada's history as a nation."

Economic measures taken by the Dominion in the last two weeks emphasized the need of a Dominion-Provincial Conference to clearly define the powers and obligations of each government in Canada under the Federal system. "What the Dominion government now has done demonstrates beyond all question that unless such a conference is held we are heading for a constitutional crisis which may threaten the structure of this great federation."

Reads Correspondence

In an address delivered before the Progressive Conservative Business Men's Club of Toronto, the Premier read an exchange of correspondence with Acting Prime Minister St. Laurent before the announcement of import restrictions and other dollar conservation measures.

Mr. Drew's letter, dated Nov. 6, mentioned reports that the Dominion planned to set up a new department to deal with the development of resources and said its function might cover subjects now within exclusive jurisdiction of the provinces. The letter urged "a meeting of representatives of all governments to devise an effective plan for continuing co-operation in dealing with . . . . matters in regard to which the Dominion and provincial governments may find it desirable to take joint action."

Mr. St. Laurent's reply said that "reports which may have appeared in the press" about a new department "are without foundation." The Dominion Government would not "contemplate the establishment of any department, the functions of which would involve entry into the constitutional field properly occupied by the provinces without prior arrangement with provincial governments."

Invades Provincial Rights

Premier Drew commented: "You will see that Mr. St. Laurent gave a clear and unqualified undertaking. Nevertheless, it was only a few days later that Mr. Abbott (Finance Minister) and Mr. Howe (Reconstruction Minister) announced decisions by the Dominion Government which can only result in sweeping invasion of provincial jurisdiction. The country is being put in an economic strait-jacket without authority from the Parliament of Canada and without consultation with the Provincial governments whose constitutional rights and responsibilities are being brushed aside with such apparent contempt."

The Premier attributed the nation economic crisis "to the economic lunacy of the Dominion government" when it revalued the Canadian dollar at par in terms of United States funds last year. Instead of admitting its error, the government insisted "upon keeping the Canadian dollar at a false value". This policy still encouraged purchases in the U.S. and deprived Canadian exporters of the 10 per cent advantage they would have in world markets if the Canadian dollar was valued at 90 cents in U.S.

Oversteps Power

"In the long run, perhaps the most serious aspect of what is now taking place is the fact that the Dominion government is exercising sweeping emergency powers in relation to an emergency which is entirely different to the one for which they originally obtained legislative authority to act by Order-in-Council. That power was related to the war emergency and to the continuance of the war emergency through the transitional period. . . "

The present emergency was economic, "brought about almost entirely by the advice of an irresponsible brain trust, to whom the Dominion Government have very largely abdicated."

"If such an emergency is to be used now and on other occasions in the future as a basis for emergency action which disregards the constitutional division of authority by the British North America Act, then for all practical purposes we have no constitution but simply carry on from day to day at the whim of a central government which is not really directing its own affairs."

The address stirred much advance speculation as to its content when Progressive Conservative members of the Ontario legislature and local riding associations were notified by telegram to listen to the broadcast, over radio station CFRB in Toronto.

His subject was the "Road to Dictatorship" and he quoted from two speeches of Prime Minister Mackenzie King to open and close the address.

The opening quotation: "Arbitrary authority helps to breed arbitrary authority. The enjoyment of a certain amount of absolute power creates an appetite for more power in the way of absolute power, and finally absolution knows no bounds."

The closing quotation: "Some day students of political developments in Canada may be interested to see where, in a British country, dictatorships first got their rise."

Premier Drew referred to a recent conference "described by the government officials in Ottawa as a Dominion-Provincial Conference on agriculture." He asserted that nothing of the kind had taken place and added that at a time when the provincial departments of agriculture could have given the Dominion valuable advice "they were not consulted." There was no consultation before removal ceilings on feed grains or on "details of those agreements which are now causing so much difficulty."

HANDFUL OF HAIR BRINGS FINE

Toronto, Dec. 4 (CP)—A handful of hair he pulled from his wife's head brought Boris Tite a $10 fine or 10 days Tuesday. His wife said that her husband's truck helper assaulted her and when she told Tite he slapped her. Tite claimed that his wife tried to damage his truck.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH

A verdict of accidental death was returned Wednesday afternoon by a coroner's jury at the adjourned inquest looking into the death of John David Stewart, Western Ontario aeroplane pilot, who suffered fatal injuries in a plane crash in Thurlow township last June 28th.

Stewart was engaged at the time in dusting peas on a Thurlow township farm when for some reason the plane crashed, fatally injuring the pilot.

FUNERAL DIRECTORS FORM ASSOCIATION

The Bay of Quinte District Funeral 'Directors' Association came into being at an inaugural meeting held in Belleville Wednesday evening during which officers were elected and at which discussion on matters relative to the business was held.

Ralph Weaver of Trenton will act as the president of the new association with Winston Hicks of Picton as vice president. John R. Bush of Belleville, will act as secretary treasurer. Directors are Vernon Lindsay of Kingston and Eldon McFadyen of Cobourg.

The meeting took the form of a supper meeting at the Bar-B-Q restaurant with election of officers and discussion following the dinner.

BAND'S NEW DRUMS TO BE DISPLAYED

It will be remembered that the Salvation Army band suffered the loss of their drums in the fire last January.

In the Christian's Electric and Hardware window on display for Friday and Saturday of this week, are the band's new drums, recently received from the Salvation Army's Musical Factory, London, England.

They are the latest type of rod drum manufactured, and used by the leading bands of the Salvation Army.

GAS DEBENTURE DEBT EXTENDS TO 1962

In a letter to the editor by Jamieson Bone dealing with the proposed closing of the local gas plant which appeared in Wednesday edition of the Ontario Intelligencer, it was stated that an amount of $13,500 was needed until 1952 to take care of gas debentures. It is pointed out today by the writer that this was an error, this amount actually being needed until 1962 when the debentures will be retired.

B.A.D.A. Meeting

At a general meeting of the Belleville Automobile Dealers' Association, embracing Hastings and Prince Edward counties, held at the Hotel Quinte on Tuesday evening, December 2nd, thirty-six members were in attendance. This association formed in 1942 has grown from a nucleus of three members to a membership including some fifty-one dealers of the two counties. After the dinner, President Jack Trudeau welcomed the visiting dealers and then called for reports on the Quebec City convention of the Federation of Automobile Dealers' Associations of which B.A.D.A. forms a part.

Following this, the meeting was thrown open to a discussion of current problems during which concern was expressed over the inflationary increase in the cost of living. Further emphasis was placed on the aim of this association and its members in providing a safe, sane and economical service to the motoring public in the sale of new and used cars and all attendant services.

Newly-Installed Traffic Lights Now In Operation

Traffic lights in the downtown section of the city which have been in course of installation for the past several weeks were placed into operation early this week.

The new lights are at the corner of Bridge and Coleman Streets; at the intersection of Bridge and Pinnacle; at Victoria and Pinnacle, and at the Upper Bridge entrance to Front Street.

The traffic light at the Coleman and Bridge Street intersection in particular will do away with a traffic bottleneck which in the past has caused considerable inconvenience to motorists attempting to enter Bridge Street from Coleman. At times when traffic was heavy on Bridge Street motorists often were forced to wait for minutes before they could enter the street.

Lights on Pinnacle Street at the intersections of Bridge and Victoria Ave., will also serve to regulate traffic and lessen the possibility of accidents, while the lights at the Upper Bridge will serve to lessen the traffic hazard at this intersection.

The new lights were recommended by a special traffic committee appointed by council, working in conjunction with the police commission. The lights were installed by Northern Electric Company technicians.

Parallel Parking Hour-Time Limit Remains in Town

Picton (Special) — Parallel parking with a one hour time limit will remain in force here, Town Council decided at their December meeting Tuesday night. Following a month of investigation and consideration, a two-to-one majority of councillors reversed their decision and voted to throw out the by-law which had been prepared for the purpose of re-introducing angle parking with no time limit.

Last month, a delegation of merchants appeared before council and urged a return to the former system of angle parking and council at that time passed a motion asking that such a by-law be prepared. This by-law was defeated Tuesday. Reeve J. C. Cooper led the attack on the proposed change, declaring that the previous delegation had represented a minority of merchants.

Mayor Opposed

Mayor L. Nethery opposed any change, declaring it would not solve the parking problem. It is a matter of lack of space and of parking lots.

In the vote those favoring a change back to angle parking were councillors William Henley, Nesbitt McKibbon and Oscar Grimmon. Those opposed to change were Mayor Nethery, Reeve Cooper, Deputy Reeve R. Cockburn, Councillors Frank Dunning, Charles McGibbon, Russell Attersley.

Council will investigate the possibility of establishing parking lots.

Several merchants were told by council members that reduction in business was due not to parallel parking, but to high prices and lessened buying power.

Busy Session

Council had a busy session, W. A. Crawford announced that he was resigning as tax collector but was willing to act as assessor.

The Mayor was authorized to proclaim Boxing Day as a holiday.

E. Roberts was granted a permit to erect a bungalow.

Reeve Cooper and W. Henley were appointed to represent council at the Community Centre annual meeting.

Police Blotter

Intruder Nabbed After Pursuit

Attempted break-ins and attempted car thefts caused officers of the local police department a bit of trouble yesterday with three calls of this nature being received.

During the evening Clare Morgan had his car parked on Bridge Street near the Schuster coal office when a man was noticed attempting to start the car. Police were called but on their arrival the would-be car thief had disappeared after breaking a key off in the ignition lock. The owner had to have a locksmith repair the damage before he could get his car started.

Church Street residents noticed two suspicious characters lurking in their backyard and notified police but the suspects had disappeared on their arrival.

Such was not the case at a Victoria Ave. residence, however. The owner noticed two men attempting to gain entrance to the house and called police. Tenants of the house disturbed the two men and they fled with the man of the house in pursuit. One of the party was apprehended when he was unable to elude his pursuer and he was later identified and taken to police headquarters.

Hard Work, Good Liquor are Elixirs Says Woman, 99

Windsor, Dec. 4 (CP) — Hard work and good liquor are the elixirs of long life, Mrs. Vaniah Milligan, 99-year-old resident of Prince Edward Island, said today as she and her 89-year-old husband obtained visas for entry into the United States.

The oldest persons ever to be granted visas in the American Consulate office here, Mr. and Mrs. Milligan are looking forward to living with their daughter on a farm in Richmond, Mich.

It was only a few weeks ago that the couple gave up their home in Summerside, PEI.

Alert and up-to-date on current affairs, Mr. and Mrs. Milligan admit their hearts will always be back in Prince Edward Island despite the fact they are taking out American citizenship.

Mrs. Milligan said long life runs in her family. She was born in PEI, and her mother, also born there, lived to be 104, never leaving their original farm. Mrs. Milligan hopes to live at least as long as her mother.

She said her grandmother, an original United Empire Loyalist, settled in PEI when their Quebec-bound ship was wrecked there.

Mr. Milligan admitted he never tried to keep up with his wife, although he is spry and in good health.

In the consulate office, Mrs. Milligan sported a lively sense of humor, keeping the staff in fits with witty remarks.

She still likes her food and is looking forward to that Christmas turkey. Her appetite, she says, is good as long as there is food on the table.

As a parting shot the aged couple wondered with a smile if the reporter had "a small nip" handy.

Hon. T. Kennedy Guest Speaker At Rotary Club

Picton — Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, was guest speaker at the Rotary Club when Farmers' Night was observed on Tuesday. Mr. Kennedy gave a picture of Ontario designed to engender pride in the native province and to enlarge faith in its future.

Hon. James deC. Hepburn, M.P.P., introduced Mr. Kennedy who was thanked by Gordon Campbell.

Mr. Kennedy spoke of the fact that out of every dollar produced on Canadian farms, Ontario produces 35 cents of it. The province shipped more cattle to more other countries than any other country in the world (19 foreign countries and to many states in the U.S.A.) In 1946, over half a million dollars was received for cattle at an average of $280.

Ontario produces numberless calves, one half of the hogs, 48 per cent of the eggs, produced in Canada, besides poultry, lambs and 84 million pounds of cheese.

60 P. C. Vaccinated

Mr. Kennedy stated 60 per cent of the calves in Ontario are vaccinated. By 1949, it is hoped to make this 100 per cent, and the first abortion-free province, he said.

Artificial breeding plants are being established and will greatly benefit farmers. Mr. Kennedy stressed soil productivity, urging its improvement.

Mr. Kennedy told of observations overseas and in all parts of the province. We are living in a land of plenty and should give thanks, he concluded.

HELD ON CHEQUE CHARGE

London, Ont., Dec. 4 — (CP) — After his release from hospital yesterday, William Hill, 35, no fixed address, was arraigned in court on a charge of passing a worthless cheque. He was remanded without plea to Dec. 10. Police said Hill, taken to hospital shortly after his arrest Tuesday night when he complained of stomach pains, had been sought in the passing of about 40 cheques in three cities, including 10 here and the rest in Windsor and Kitchener.

Trenton

E.R. Cunnell New President Canadian Legion

Trenton, (Special.) — At the annual general meeting of Trenton Branch, No. 110, Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., held in the Legion Hall, Tuesday night, the following slate of officers was elected for the year 1948:

There were three elected executive members and three additional members will be voted at next meeting.

Trustees: Ben Joyce was re-elected to the Board of Trustees with the other two members being O. Alyea and Ross Burtt.

Auditors: Frank W. Sherbert and Earl Kennedy.

The Boy Scouts in Trenton are being re-organized and it was voted that the Legion Hall be made available to any troop of the Boy Scouts, free of charge, for any Scout activities, at anytime.

STREET BATTLE

Reporters who watched the Arabs trying to fight their way out of walled old City of Jerusalem described them as "hopping mad". Police had tear gas equipment ready to use and soldiers, armed with rifles and gun carriers, were in steel helmets.

The fighters of Hagana, the Jewish organized defence force, assembled again in Zion Square, ready for trouble. Hagana leaders appealed to 'dissident groups" to dismantle their organizations and come into the service of Hagana.

Arab leaders earlier said they had refused a personal request by Sir Henry Gurney, chief secretary of the Palestine Government, to call off the last day of the strike. The first two days were marked by at least 33 violent deaths, injuries to hundreds and countless cases of pillage and destruction.

OBITUARY

DANIEL J. DEVINE
(Formerly of Marmora)

Marmora, Dec. 4 (Special) — The death occurred in Our Lady of Mercy Hospital, Toronto, on Saturday, November 22th., of a former well known resident of Marmora in the person of Daniel J. Devine. He was born at Deloro son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Devine. For some years he resided at Winnipeg, and later at Toronto. His wife, formerly Anna O'Connell of Peterborough predeceased him several years ago. He is survived by one son, Rev. C. F. Devine, C.S.S.R., of Woodstock, Ontario and two sisters, Mrs. N. Darling of Toronto and Mrs. Rose Johnston of Deloro. The funeral was held from the Ryan and Odette Funeral Home, 1498 Dundas St. W., Toronto, on Tuesday to St. Patrick's Church for Requiem High Mass at ten a.m. Interment took place at Mount Hope Cemetery.

MRS. G. ELLEN BLACKBURN
(Eldorado)

Madoc, Dec. 4 (Special)—Mrs. Grace Ellen Blackburn, widow of Joseph Blackburn, and who lived at Eldorado for many years, died on Tuesday while visiting her granddaughter, Mrs. Merle Wells in Marmora.

The late Mrs. Blackburn had reached an advanced age, being in her 90th year. She was born in Renfrew County and at one time lived at Coe Hill. She was a member of the Union United Church and when age and health permitted she took part in church work. In the community she was highly esteemed.

Mrs. Blackburn was the last of a family of sixteen and is survived by one son, Arthur Blackburn of Eldorado.

The funeral announcement is made in this edition.

Firemen Walk Up 16 Floors to Find Fire

Boston, Dec. 4 (AP) —Boston firemen fought their highest blaze last night on the 20th floor of the incompleted John Hancock building and they had to walk up 16 floors to find it.

Firemen found they could only get to the blaze by walking up 16 floors with a hose line. On 16th they found an elevator to carry them the remaining distance.

BASKETBALL

In the girls basketball house league, two games were played at the Y.M.C.A. last night. The first game saw the Comets go into undisputed possession of first place when they more than doubled the score on the Yankees 29-13. The loss for the Yanks put them in second place tie with the Flashes who won their game from the Rockets 39-27.

Shirley Marinoff led the Comets to victory, scoring 12 of her team's points. Her sister, Marie Marinoff, was second with 8. Half time score was 12-11 for the Comets.

In the night-cap the Flashes flashed again to win handily from the lowly Rockets. Although the losers tried hard for their first win they couldn't find the basket like the sharp-shooting Flashes.

For the winners Doreen Bell had a total of 17 points while Dorothy Cook was second with 12. Gladys Harquael scored more than half her team's quota getting 14.

Next week sees the Yankees and the Rockets clashing in the first game and the Comets and Flashes meeting in the second game. This will bring the girls house league to a close, and their playoffs probably will take place during the Christmas week.

Yankees — Kikes (5), D. Matthews, Grant, Davidson, Zebedee (4), Tomaso (4). Total 13.

Comets — M. Marinoff (8), P. Neal (6), T. Ruttan (2), J. Newman, A. Hinchcliffe (1), S. Marinoff (12), J. Tilker. Total 29.

Referee, B. Morris. Scorer, B. Scrymgeour.

Dodgers won the final game in the Y.M.C.A. House League Basketball loop and finished in first place when they trounced Monarchs 53-31 last night. Only the one game was played owing to the fact that the All-Stars defaulted their game to the Rough Riders.

It was the Dodgers game all the way as they led 24-13 at the half. Scoring honors went to Ron Button, the captain of the winners, as he piled up a total of 22 points. Rollins was next with 18. For the losers Bill Muirhead had 11.

As mentioned before, last night's game finishes the fall schedule and the playoffs will be held sometime in the last two weeks of the month. The Dodgers finished on top with a total of 16 points in nine games. Next were the Rough Riders with ten. These two teams will meet in the final which is to be the best two out of three to declare a champion. In third place are the Monarchs with six points, and the All-Stars bring up the rear with four.

Monarchs—Muirhead, 11; Rose, 8; Bongard, 6; McClay, 6. Total 31.

Referee—Burrell Morris. Scorer, Al Galbraith.

Business Spotlight

(By The Canadian Press)

Trade on the major exchanges yesterday was dull and offerings light as the investing public held back for decisive news.

Prices, however, dipped with stocks reacting nervously as traders noted warnings from top men in government, business and labor of dangers inherent in rising commodity price levels; heard demands for controls and allocations, and observed preparations for action on wage increase demands.

However, good news also continued to dot the picture.

R. C. Berkinshaw, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, in Toronto said "there is every reason why we should look forward to a period of high production that will test out facilities and keep our people employed and well-paid."

At Halifax, H. D. Burns, president of the Bank of Nova Scotia, expressed confidence in Canada as one of the few fortunate countries whose production is large and whose capacity to produce has been expanded. But he warned against rising prices and unnecessary accumulation of inventories.

At Winnipeg, Col. L. D. M. Baxter, president of Osler, Hammond and Nanton, said plans for a $45,000,000 natural gas pipe line from Alberta to Winnipeg are in the organization stage.

And in the United Kingdom the ministry of fuel and power announced a limited "coal-for-export" program, several months ahead of schedule.

On the wage front C.I.O.'s vice-presidents met in Washington and decided on a new wage drive for an estimated 18 per cent increase for 6,000,000 C.I.O. members in basic industry.

United States business failures in the week ended Nov. 27 fell off from the previous week's 79 to 72 but were three times as great as in the comparable week of 1946.

The flow of dividends was unabated. Dryden Paper Co. reported profits up 140 per cent over last year and Dominion Glass Co., up 63 per cent.

Stock market doldrums were universal. New York prices were lower with leaders in slow decline. Toronto trade was slowest in more than three months with prices easier. Montreal was quiet and lower. London was dull with scarcely sufficient trade to stimulate any interest.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Dec. 4 (CP) — Cattle prices remained unchanged in the livestock market up to mid-session here today. Calves, hogs and lambs all were steady. Receipts: Cattle 200, calves 70, hogs 220, sheep and lambs 400.

Good butcher steers brought $13.50-$14 while heifers were $11-$13.50 a cwt. Boning steers and heifers were $7-$9. A few good butcher cows sold at $7.50-$10.50 cwt. while fed yearlings were $13-$16. Plain to medium quality stockers moved at $9-$11.50.

Calves remained steady at $17-$18 for choice with plain heavies down to $11.

Hogs were steady at $23 for grade A and $22.50 for B1. Sows brought $15 dressed.

Lambs were steady at $15.25 for good ewes and wethers by rail and $15 off truck. Bucks were at a $1 discount.

Sheep ranged $4-$8.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Dec. 4 — (CP)—Lack of support, even in small volume offerings, sent golds back for substantial losses in the Toronto Stock Exchange early session today as industrials weakened with scattered pivotals off fractions to more than a point. Trade was mildly brisker as a few secondary golds turned active.

Volume for the first three hours was 483,000 shares, about 195,000 better than yesterday's similar period.

Newsprints were mixed in a two-way trend with B. C. Pulp up 6 at a new high. Steels weakened although Algoma was active and ahead a fraction and liquors eased in quiet trade.

Producing golds gave way to mild pressure with seniors down for Bralorne, Hollinger, Kerr Addison, Lamaque, Belleterre, Wright Hargreaves, Teck Hughes and Sigma. Weaker juniors were Amalgamated, Buffadison, Chesterville, Donalda, Duquesne, East Malartic, Eldona, Little Long Lac, Louvicourt, Macassa, Sherritt and Pamour.

HOGS

Toronto, Dec. 4 —(CP)— Grade A hog prices remained unchanged at Stratford, $22.75 delivered to farmers, $22.90 to truckers while at Hull unchanged at $22.75 delivered and unquoted off truck, in markets reporting early this morning.

AUSTRALIA BANS SPENDING DOLLARS FOR PERSONAL TRAVEL

Canberra, Dec. 4 (Reuters) — The Australian government has banned the spending of dollars for personal travel owing to the deterioration of the dollar position, Prime Minister Chifley announced today.

An exxception to such dollar exxpenditure would be travel for business purposes important for maintaining essential industry or industrial developments, but even in these cases further cuts would be made in the amount allowed.

Quilts, Layettes, Shawls

Canadian women will be interested in the popularity of a Canadian article among others sent overseas by the Canadian Red Cross as related by Ruth Hamilton of Montreal who is one of the last of Red Cross girls to return from overseas. After referring to many articles she says, "Of all the articles fashioned by Canadian women, nothing has ever proved more popular in Great Britain than the Canadian patchwork quilt. Canadian quilts spread a pattern the length and breadth of England and many European countries. We can never have too many of them. They're wonderful."

If they are popular in Britain they are popular too in these parts and many deft hands willingly work at this task of quilt-making.

Miss Hamilton brings back a report of the work of the Red Cross. Since September of this year she has been working with the overseas commissioner of the society in charge of clothing distribution to hospitals, homes, institutions for the aged, Canadian immigrants, merchant seamen, flood victims and associations for servicemen and women and other families, in London. She says: "I wish I could tell you adequately how much Canadian gifts are appreciated. I used to visit the matrons of small hospitals and children's homes whenever I could to ask what supplies would be most welcome. Some of them simply sat down and cried when they heard we were actually offering help. Their stores had not been replenished for as long as seven to nine years."

Women in every part of Canada may feel a sense of deep satisfaction that their work has been of such great benefit to the people of the British Isles. Those women, who have worked so loyally to help in the war years making articles of clothing for soldiers, sailors and airmen, will be glad to know that not one of their stitches was ever in vain.

Miss Hamilton chose layettes as rating second in popularity to quilts because of the delight each baby garment brings to the austere existence of new mothers overseas, and shawls as third because of the comforts they afford elderly people who feel the fuel shortage particularly. Nightwear for all ages is among other most welcome gifts.

Besides speaking of the distribution of Red Cross supplies overseas the nurse says: "A pair of full-fashioned stockings in Engfiand would cost three precious coupons. With only 20 coupons to cover you from the skin out, it makes you stop and think."

The gratitude of the people of Britain was also emphasibed by Miss Hamilton.

New Dutch Settlers

Their aim the ultimate ownership of farms in this country, 10,000 Dutch agriculturists will emigrate to Canada next year.

To facilitate the passage of the Dutch families, who will pay their way to Canada, the Netherlands Government has chartered two vessels which will make a total of thirteen trips, carrying approximately 770 passengers each time. The first two arrivals will be at Halifax early in March, with the remainder scheduled for St. Lawrence River ports.

Owing to present exchange restrictions, these Dutch families will be unable at first to establish themselves on farms in Canada. They have agreed, however, to accept agricultural employment in all parts of the Dominion with farmers whose applications for their services have been aproved and who will provide living accommodation. Through these arrangements they will acquire an excellent knowledge of Canada and of agricultural conditions and methods in this country.

The close co-operation between the Netherlands and Canadian Governments which had resulted in an independent move by a group of this size is unique in the history of immigration, and speaks well for the excellent relations existing between the two countries.

The plan will eventually afford Dutch parents an opportunity to obtain for their children farm land which is unavailable at home, and will be instrumental in a greater development of Canada's agricultural resources.

Aroma

Mr. Stewart L. Tuckey, professor of dairy manufacturing at the University of Illinois, is a "do-gooder" the world could do without.

He has taken the smell out of Limburger cheese.

This is a dead give-away. Mr. Tuckey is one of those people who go around denaturing our favorite pleasures. And he admits he's proud of it.

In spite of all the jokes about it, the fact remains that discriminating people eat Limburger cheese simply because it does smell like Limburger. Just as epicures eat the tropical durian because it smells like a sewer flooded with kerosene — and tastes like an advance instalment of heaven. From garlic to Scotch whisky to well-hung beefstakes, nothing enhances superlative flavor as much as a good, whiffy aroma hanging around it. — Windsor Star.

Hail and Farewell

The United States has entertained many distinguished guests in recent years, but it is doubtful whether any other visitor has had so profound an influence on American opinion in so short a time as that exerted by a statesman who has just sailed on the Queen Mary, London bound. We refer to Andrei Y. Vishinsky. That the net effect of Mr. Vishinsky's influence was precisely the opposite of what he meant it to be does not detract from the quality of his achievement.

It was Mr. Vishinsky's unintended service to bring home to doubtful sections of the American public, in a more personalized form than any other evidence could possibly have furnished, the reasons why there is a Marshall Plan. The strategy of his violent attacks upon every demonstration of solidarity on the part of the Western democracies, his deliberate distortions of American motives in the matter of relief for Europe and his instanteous decisions to "boycott" anything and everything with which he disagreed could not have been more expertly contrived to achieve a contrary purpose from that which he intended. How many votes he made in Congress for the Marshall Plan during his brief stay, there is no way of knowing. But the number must have been considerable.

We wish that Mr. Vishinsky had come on a different mission. We wish that he had come to seek the basis of a confident understanding between Russia and the United States. But since such a confident understanding is not the present purpose of his Government, it is just as well that Moscow sent to Lake Success its star performer in the field of blitz diplomacy.—New York Times.

Here's An Honest Man

Regardless of all this, however, we will never have anything but pity for anyone who prefers that sort of weather in which one must run himself ragged in order to keep warm at all times when he is outdoors, wade through knee-deep snowdrifts, struggle through a biting, blinding blizzard, slither hazardously over icy streets, muffle himself to the ears in layers of heavy clothing, and shovel coal and dig his car out of the snow. We just can't seem to appreciate it.

When the first snowfalls come we'll accept the winter, but we'll still gingerly climb into our overshoes and sally forth only when it's necessary.

No, we don't want to learn the unquestionably admirable art of skiing. We'll just hibernate by the fire and wait for summer to roll around again so we can once more ride about in a convertible, if we can locate one, and admire the beach fashions.—Owen Sound Sun-Times.

Packages and Plans

The term One World has gone out of fashion, but people are beginning to glimpse the facts which underlie that term. It is dawning on them that hungry neighbors are poor neighbors, that despair in Europe is no help to demorcary in America.

The Friendship Train, the Silent Guest campaign — which is to be continued indefinitely beyond the Thanksgiving season —are more than gestures. They are signs of America's growing awareness of their common cause with humanity everywhere. But it must always be remembered, as Walter Lippmann has said forcefully, that the aim is not relief but recovery, says Christian Science Monitor.

WINTER FAITH

Now the roses all are bare;
  Brown the stems that once were green.
Death appears triumphant there,
  For no sign of life is seen.

And as tenderly we lay
  Over them a covering deep,
None of us can truly say
  Is it death or is it sleep.

By the light of faith that burns
  In the heart and not the brain,
We believe when spring returns
  They will wake to bloom again.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS.

20 YEARS AGO

Dec. 4th., 1927.

Mr. W. C. Percy of Bowmanville has been transferred to the local branch of the Standard Bank.

Mrs. A. H. Allen of Pittsburgh, Pa., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. P. Hunt, Bridge Street East.

Mrs. Clayton Chambers has arrived home from Detroit, Mich., where she visited friends.

Mr. Carl Kennedy, Foster Avenue, left today for Buffalo, N.Y.

Mrs. J. Meagher has returned home after spending Thanksgiving with Mrs. C. Page in Buffalo, N.Y.

Dec. 4th., 1917.

The success of the Victory Loan was beyond the expectations of the most optimistic worker. When the final returns are compiled it is expected that more than $2,250,000 will be reported from Hastings County. The original objective was $805,000 and the City of Belleville has already passed the first objective. No place in Canada has reported a better showing than Belleville for its population. This is without special subscriptions of over $25,000.

During the Victory Loan Campaign the Griffin Amusement Company, through their popular manager here, Mr. George Forhan, has been most generous in supplying publicity by the introduction of slides and the playing of "Miss Canada" film and in allowing the use of the stage for appeals in the way of addresses.

40 YEARS AGO

Dec. 4th., 1907.

The thermometer registered two degrees below zero this morning.

The local stores are taking on a holiday appearance and just take our tip for it, you can get anything you want in the way of Christmas presents right here from your local merchants — it is not necessary to shop out of town.

Mrs. Daniel Ketcheson of Madoc is visiting friends here.

Mr. J. L. Tickell is in the Western part of the Province on business.

At the annual meeting of Oxford Lodge Sons of England the following officers were elected for the next year: President, Fred D. Hulley; Vice President, Thomas Weymark; Past President, W. A. Taylor; Financial Secretary, John Fenn; Treasurer, John W. London; Chaplain, Charles Carter; Committeemen in order given, F. D. Ford, A. A. Sills, A. Jubb and W. J. Oliphant; Inside Guard, Walter Stapley; Outside Guard, James Riggs; Recroding Secretary, George Warham; Surgeon, Dr. R. Tracy; Auditors, J. Vickers, Dr. Tracy and John Neate; Trustees, R. Oliphant, J. Vickers and James Riggs.

50 YEARS AGO

Dec. 4th., 1897.

Wednesday night was really cold — the thermometer registered six degrees below zero.

The predicted snow storm has come in the form of rain. The walks are very slippery and people take to the road.

People who say that Belleville is dead have only to go on the market and on our busy streets during these days and their opinion will soon change.

Mr. R. J. Graham has returned home from Calhoun County, Ill., where he has an evaporator.

Mrs. Charles W. Craig of Tweed is in the city visiting her mother, Mrs. Sulman and her sister-in-law, Miss Craig.

Mr. A. H. Gilbert of New York City is spending a few days in town.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What is the largest county in the United States?

San Bernardina County, California, with an area of 20,174 square miles, is the largest County in the United States. Its area is nearly as great as the combined areas of Massachusetts and Maryland and more than 16 times greater than that of Rhode Island, the smallest State.

Coconino County, Arizona, with an area of 18,623 square miles, and Nye County, Nevada, with an area of 18,294, are the second and third largest counties.

New York County on Manhattan Island is the smallest County in area. In 1914 it was reduced in size by the formation of Bronx County and now has an area of slightly more than 22 square miles.

San Bernardino County is nearly 462 times larger than New York County.

Bristol County, Rhode Island, with an area of 24 square miles, and Arlington County, Virginia, with an area of 31 square miles, are the second and third smallest counties.

Cook County, Illinois, with 4,062,342 inhabitants in 1940, is the largest county in population.

Armstrong County, South Dakota, with only 42 inhabitants in 1940, is the smallest in population. It lies entirely within the Indian country, has no post office, is unorganized and is attached to a neighboring county for judicial, real estate and administrative purposes.

According to the 1940 census, San Bernardino county, the largest in area, had 161,108 inhabitants, while New York County, the smallest in area, had 1,880,924.

TO MY NOMINATOR and SECONDER, FRIENDS and NEIGHBORS . . .

I would like to thank you all for your support in last Monday's election and take this opportunity of wishing all the citizens of Belleville the Season's Greetings !

ANOVIA OR ASPHYXIA

Carbon monoxide is a colorless, tasteless, practically odorless gas that burns with a pale blue flame. Old timers, studying cases of monoxide gassing which were not fatal, observed paralysis in acute cases, psychoneuroses in chronic cases, and inferred that carbon monoxide has a direct destructive action on the cells of the nervous system. Physiologists and physicians know that it is not a poison at all, but that all of the effects of carbon monoxide, from the slightest tightness across the forehead, headache and flushing of the skin to coma, collapse and death, are manifestations of anoxia — lack or want of oxygen — or asphyxia, as it is more commonly known.

Inhalations of even a wee bit of carbon monoxide, for instance that present in each puff of tobacco smoke, for a considerable time every day, or breathing the air in a garage or in room or apartment connected with the garage, frequently causes, well, symptoms — and willy-nilly the symptoms will be another story.

The hemoglobin (iron coloring matter in the red corpuscles that carries oxygen to the cells and carbon dioxide from the cells back to the lungs to be blown off) has an affinity for carbon monoxide, which it takes up instead of oxygen. Thus the carbon monoxide replaces oxygen, crowds it out, and the cells fail to get their regular supply of oxygen, so they fail in their function or cease functioning at all—and that means symptoms, paralysis or death.

Any such damage to the cells of this or that tissue or organ remains long after the carbon monoxide has been excreted and the normal supply of oxygen restored. You can't nearly kill vital cells and expect them to resume normal functioning as soon as you cease abusing them.

I hope this little talk and the one we had earlier this week will give you a fair idea of what carbon monoxide anoxia means.

QUESTIONS & ANSWES

Bed-Wetting Habit

Can you give me advice on wetting the bed?

(Mrs. K. E. H.)

Answer — Just what kind of bed do you ...... send a stamped envelope bearing your address and ask in writing (a clipping will bring you no reply) for the pamphlet The Habit of Bed Wetting.

To Strengthen Heart Muscles

Please tell me what exercises you recommend to strengthen the heart muscles?

(R. E. S.)

Answer — There is only one heart muscle and that is the heart itself. No particular exercise will strengthen the heart, but various kinds of exercise may be required to restore efficiency to the heart, once the heart has become weakened. The best of all exercises for the purpose is walking, I believe. Send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope for the booklet C-V-D, which deals with heart and artery diseases.

Do Your Own Laundering

Last time I sent a dime for a pamphlet it came back to me. I don't see.

(W. S. I.)

Answer — Coins requiring laundering are returned to senders.

Letter to the Editor

Stamp Gift Folder

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

In an effort to make postage stamps available to the public in more convenient form, the Post Office Department has developed a new "Gift Folder."

Priced at $1.00, the folder contains one page of six three cent stamps, one page of six four cent stamps, two pages with a total of eight seven cent air mail stamps, and two full pages of air mail stickers. In addition to giving helpful postal pointers, it also provides air mail rates for Canada and the United States for the information of mailers.

In designing the folder, we have tried to make it as attractive as possible. From the gift standpoint, particularly in the approaching Christmas season, it would undoubtedly be greatly appreciated by members of the family who are away from home, and friends, as an encouragement to more frequent correspondence. Certainly it should help in saving personal correspondence from becoming another one of the lost arts.

W. J. Turnbull,
Deputy Postmaster General.

FRESH FOODS TO BRITAIN by TCA

IMPORTANT NOTICE

We're having trouble about perishable foods in Christmas parcels to the Old Country.

We fly these quickly across the Atlantic, but the mail and parcel delivery services Overseas are having Christmas rush problems; so, some times it takes as long as a week to deliver your parcel from the TCA Aircraft at Glasgow or London to its final destination.

We're doing everything possible to speed up the final stages of parcel delivery. Until the Christmas rush is over, however, we recommend including in your food parcels only such foodstuffs as won't perish quickly. Cooked meats such as hams and bacon are quite safe, but at present we can't guarantee safe deliveries of poultry and fresh meats.

But remember . . . Hundreds and hundreds of parcels are flying across the Atlantic every week via TCA, each carrying happiness and good cheer for Christmas to our friends in the Old Country. We'll keep them flying . . . but until the rush is over, please don't pack perishable foods.

Canadian Loan To U.K. to Last Until Oct., 1948

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Dec. 4 — (CP) — Informed sources said today Britain now has drawn about $930,000,000 from the Canadian loan granted her in 1946 and if the present rate of withdrawals continues her credit should last until October, 1948, as desired by both governments.

Britain's economic difficulties resulted in early drawings being far higher than either country anticipated. In 1946 Britain used $540,000,000 of her total credit of $1,250,000,000 which was intended to last five years.

In 1947 British withdrawals rose to such rates as $80,000,000 in August and $50,000,000 in July. During his September visit to London, Canada's Finance Minister Abbott explained to British officials that this rate could not continue without damaging Canada's economy.

Since then Britain has held withdrawals down to an average of less than $40,000,000 monthly, although use of Britain's United States loan was suspended in September.

"Obviously the hope is to end 1947 with about $300,000,000 left in Canadian credit and with careful use this should last until October," the source said.

Britain hopes to ease demands on the loan by increasing exports to Canada, and thus improve her ability to pay more in cash for Canadian supplies. Her difficulties would be eased if an arrangement could be made to pay for more of her imports in sterling.

This is understood to be among the questions being raised by the food mission now in Ottawa discussing future British food purchases.

$1,440,000 IN FINES

New York, Dec. 4 — (AP)) — Fines totalling $1,440,000 were imposed yesterday upon a war-born textile company and two individuals convicted last week of illegal operations in textiles earmarked for the Manhattan district atom bomb project, Daisart Sports Wear, Int., its president, George Smith, and Albert J. Deeb, a textile broker, were charged with conspiring to sell finished piece goods above price ceilings and of misapplication of priority ratings.

PUPILS TO RECEIVE SHIELD FOR BRINGING OUT VOTE

London, Ont., Dec. 4 (CP)—Pupils of Empress Ave. School will receive a shield for bringing out 68.8 per cent of the vote in their subdivision during the "get-out-the-vote" campaign in Monday's municipal elections. The overall city average—50.8 per cent—was the highest since 1934.

Bazaar and Tea At St. Andrew's Most Attractive

"The Hall" of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was festive in holiday attire for a bazaar and tea, Wednesday afternoon, brightened by the glow of Christmas candles, and gay with effective decorations in the traditional green and red of Yuletide trappings and lighted trees.

Guests were welcomed by Mrs. Norman Mantle and Mrs. J. G. Hornsby.

The long tea table with a beautiful lace cover was centred with a realistic "Santa" in a high-backed-'baroche' drawn by prancing reindeer. Very tall red tapers in silver candelabra, silver salvers of sandwiches and dainties augmented the table appointments, complimenting the silver tea services where Mrs. J. W. Kinnear and Mrs. McCullough poured for the first period; Mrs. D. Fleming and Mrs. R. Graham for the second.

Serving the guests at more than a score of smaller tables with snowy cloths were Mesdames Chadwick, Ketcheson, Smith, Thorne, Weir, Trill, Lancaster, Townsley, Kelly, Ward, McLean, M. McCreary, A. McCreary, Irvine, Fowler, Baldwin, Bower and Miss Barbara Miller. Replenishing the tea urns and plates were Miss J. McLean, Mesdames Robertson, Marshall, McElheney, Chadwick and Miss E. McLean.

Conveners responsible for the hospitable arrangements in the tea room were Mrs. G. Freeman, Mrs. Argue, Mrs. C. Ryan, Mrs. McConnell, Mrs. Duff, Mrs. Hedдleston and Miss J. Hay.

Treasurers were Mrs. J. F. Hill and Mrs. Taylor

Booths Surrounded

Bazaar booths and sales tables surrounded the tea room and every one received its full quota of attention. The home cooking booth convened by Mrs A Hill and Mrs. F. McKeown was a hive of industry, with Mesdames Waldorf, Elliott, McCreary, Taylor and Miss Rheda O'Connor assisting the would-be purchasers in choosing from the great variety of pastries, cakes, muffins, breads and roll offered.

Aprons arranged under a canopy of Christmas colors, vied with them in gaiety of hue ,and were fashioned in all styles and sizes Mesdames G. Shaw, E. Pigden, J. Miller, H. York, A. Taylor and E. Ford were in charge.

Children's wear in a variety of colors included beautiful knitted garments for all ages; dainty dresses and 'shorties' for the lassies and laddies, while cuddly toys and amusing 'cuties' decorated the brightly lighted small Christmas tree. Mesdames Brown, Smith, Paget, Stiver, Mechaud, and Fairbairn were kept busy wrapping pieces of this attractive merchandise.

A large collection of growing plants including decorative greeneries and flowering varieties were being offered for sale by Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Cunningham. Mrs. W. J. Mills, on behalf of the W.M.S. sold boxes of attractive Christmas cards and Scripture calendars.

Fancy work included household articles, both useful and ornamental; which were sold by Mrs. H. L. Scott, assisted by Mrs. P. Thompson, Mrs. S. Wood, Mrs. Kane and Mrs. Williamson

General conveners for the afternoon's activities were Mrs. W. M. Barlow and Mrs. J. Wilson, who report that the results are very gratifying to all concerned, and the ladies sponsoring this pre-Christmas sale are sincerely appreciative of all help received toward making the project one of outstanding success.

C.W. League Sponsors Successful Bazaar and Supper

Under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League, a very successful bazaar and supper was held in St. Michael's auditorium on Tuesday, Dec. 2nd.

Booths were attractive with seasonable decorations, and displayed a great variety of needlework. The knitting and fancy work was in charge of Mrs. E. B. Lally and Mrs. T. J. Flurey, and attracted many buyers, while the booth for aprons and other useful articles, with Mrs. Leo Callaghan and Mrs. V. McIntyre in charge, was well patronized. Mrs. M. Davidson assisted by Mrs. A. Whalen and Mrs. D. Beaton had a large assortment of handkerchiefs for sale.

The candy booth with Santa as its centre attraction was the mecca for many purchasers, old and young, and was in charge of Mrs. Young, Mrs. Morrell and Mrs. Latone. Anglers fished in a new kind of pond, a Santa Claus chimney, with Mrs. Malette and Mrs. Mascara baiting the hooks.

Mrs. W. Graham was in charge of a Christmas cake donated by Mrs. O'Leary, and won by Mrs. A. McMullen, who also won the doll's highchair, while Dr. F. R. Ross won the doll's rocking chair, both of which were donated by Mr. Malette.

Two dolls were in charge of Mrs. Briand, the baby doll and complete layette being won by Annabelle Poole, and a larger doll won by Mrs. K. Varley.. Miss H. Marsh won a crocheted basket made and donated by Mrs. T. Morrell.

A hot supper was served at five-thirty p.m . when St. Michael's ladies lived up to their usual reputation as hostesses, under the able direction of Mrs. Dan Doyle as convener.

Proceeds of the day were very gratifying and the president, Miss McAvoy, wishes to express appreciation to all who assisted in making the project so successful.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vanclief of Consecon, wish to announce the engagement of their second daughter, Faye Elizabeth, to Harold Carson, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Wood of Mountain View, the marriage to take place in Bridge Street United Church in Belleville later in the month of December.

MARRIAGE NOTICE

The marriage is announced of Bernice B. Murphy, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. R. W. Sherman and the late Mrs. Sherman, to Thomas C. Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Lewis, of Belleville, on Wednesday, Dec. 3, 1947, at 12 o'clock noon. The marriage was solemnized by Rev. D. C. Amos at Bridge Street Parsonage.

Dr. Omar Z. Younghusband of Boston, Mass., with his wife, spent the weekend with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. M. Younghusband, Ridley Ave. Other guests at the same time were Miss Anne Smith, Reg.N., of Elgin, Ont., and Miss Yvonne Younghusband, student nurse at Kingston General Hospital.

WEDDINGS

MANSELL—WALSH

Trenton.—At three o'clock on the afternoon of Saturday, Nov. 29, the Salvation Army Citadel, Trenton, was the scene of the marriage of Verna Irene Quinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Walsh, 19 Marcia Street, Trenton, and Stanley Mansell, of Toronto.

Captain Greenwood officiated for the ceremony, and Mrs. Greenwood was the soloist, singing "O Lord of Life" and "The Wedding Prayer", during the signing of the register.

The bride was very charming in a street length gown of blue, with matching accessories, and carried a bouquet of bronze and white 'mums. Her bridesmaid was Miss Rhoda Walsh, gowned in a street length dress of rose with grey accessories, and wearing a corsage of 'mums.

Junior Miss Lynda Cox was the flower girl dressed in mauve and carried a nosegay of mixed blossoms.

The groom was ably supported by Mr. Allan Mansell of Toronto, and the ushers were Messrs. Douglas Walsh and Ronald Baker, both of Trenton.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the parlors of the Citadel, where the bride's mother received in a gown of rose shade with brown accessories, and a corsage of 'mums.

Mr. and Mrs. Mansell left immediately for a wedding trip to Toronto and other Western points, and will later take up residence there.

REID—ALLISON

Trenton.—The chapel of St. George's Anglican Church, Trenton, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on the afternoon of Friday, Nov. 28, when Shirley Kathleen, daughter of Mrs. H. Allison, 68 West Street, and the late Mr. H. Allison, was united in marriage with Lorrison R. Reid, of Glen Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reid, Trenton, Rev. A. S. McConnell, was the officiating clergyman for the ceremony performed in a setting of 'mums and mixed flowers.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Lloyd Allison of Kingston, the bride was becomingly gowned in the traditional white satin, fashioned with a fitted basque, a richly gathered skirt with peplum, and a floor length veil of tulle illusion, crested with a sequin headdress. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

Miss Joan Sharrard, Trenton, made an attractive bridesmaid in a floor length gown of blue chiffon, with matching shoulder length veil and a head bandeau of rosebuds. She carried an arm bouquet of roses.

Mr. Orr, of Glen Miller, supported the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the "Dutch Mill Inn", where the bride's mother received the guests in a maroon gown with black accessories and wearing a corsage of rosebuds.

For travelling to Toronto and other western cities the bride chose a costume of brown with matching accessories.

Following their return Mr. and Mrs. Reid will take up residence in Trenton.

Health and Food Conditions In Europe Alarming Speaker Tells Women's Canadian Club

"We have won the war,—but we cannot build peace on suffering and ruins; as long as there are cold, sick and hungry people in Europe, we have not won the peace." These were the challenging closing sentences of Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, executive director of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, as she closed a stirring address to the Women's Canadian Club last evening, in the Sunday School hall of Bridge Street United Church.

Dr. Hitschmanova, a native of Prague, is a graduate from Prague University with a Doctor of Philosophy degree, and from a German university with a Doctor of Science degree. A newspaper woman before the war, she knows through personal experiences the terrors of German occupation, of concentration camps of Nazi persecution. In 1942 she was rescued from Nazi domination and the Czechoslovakian Government requested her temporary admittance to Canada, which was granted. Later she travelled from coast to coast in both the United States and Canada lecturing on conditions in Europe.

Making Progress

Speaking of reconstruction Dr. Hitschmanova said that during a recent three months' stay in Europe she was amazed at the progress made since 1946. In her native land of Czechoslovakia, the Bata Shoe industry is now producing on an 85 per cent basis of pre-war production standards, and it is estimated that by another year production will equal the 1937 standard.

"Reconstruction," she said, "is being accomplished through co-operation of young people from other countries who have come to Europe to help." In Poland the doctor met two Canadian students at Warsaw University, who were helping to reconstruct the building, and who, when the second floor was completed, raised the Canadian flag.

The repatriation of displaced children is a huge task, for one-quarter million of Polish children, alone, are in camps; and 200,000 have not yet been found. This project was begun by UNRRA ,and is now being continued by many individual service organizations.

"To Czechoslovakia Canada has loaned $19,000,000 to purchase wheat for starving men, women and children. The Danish Red Cross is battling against the spread of T.B. in Europe, sending mobile units through Poland, Belgium, Greece, Czechoslovakia and France with inoculations.

Culture and Religion Being Revived

"In spite of hardships the cultural life of music, drama, literature and the opera is being revived, after complete suppression by the Nazis", continued the speaker. "There is now a re-birth of culture, and the theatres are crowded. In Poland, especially, there is also a re-birth of religion. In Warsaw, where there are only two churches still standing, the sidewalks are crowded with people waiting for Masses at different hours.

"There is tension in Europe, greater tension than last year; but there is no hint that they are on the verge of another war. People are more concerned with rebuilding. Because 85 per cent of the beautiful city of Warsaw was systematically destroyed, there is still much debris to be seen, and there is no light, no water, no glass in the windows, and only one baker to supply bread. It will take 20 years to rebuild the city, but the people are full of hope and eagerness, although in Poland 1,300,000 people are without shelter".

Lack of Food

"I am often asked by Canadians, —'What is the greatest enemy in Europe now?' I answer, lack of food. Millions of people in Europe are so hungry they go to bed and try to sleep in order to forget. Why are they hungry? Because of an enormous crop failure; rain in the Spring, drought in the Summer, and the cattle lack fodder.

"After standing in a line for three or four hours the housewife receives from her grocer: two eggs for one month; a very small slice of meat; two ounces of butter per child, for one month; (adults have no butter): 3-8 of a pint of milk per child, and three small slices of bread for each member of a family, each day.

Lack Clothing

"Have you ever been really hungry?" asked the speaker. "Have you ever been really cold? Thousands overseas have no coal, and are in rags. Even in Holland, where the food situation is better, textiles are scarce. A woman may obtain one dress in three years; and a man one suit in four years."

Dr. Hitschmanova told of personal contacts with people in Prague and with students in schools, who were in great need of clothing. There is now a clothing collection centre in Toronto, sponsored by the Unitarian Service Committee, from where any good clean, used clothing contributed will be distributed to Europe's needy people.

Alarming Health Conditions

"Health conditions in Europe are alarming, with 40 per cent of the medical personnel having been killed during the war. In one hospital for 100 patients the nursing staff consists of two day-time and two night-time nurses. Only 3 per cent of European children are normal in size. Summer health camps were set up where children were allowed to eat as much and as often as they wished. Many of these children were born in concentration camps and have no knowledge of their parents. Some were taken to Germany to be Nazified at a very early age, even as young as three weeks, so they have no remembrance of parents, and no knowledge of affection. They are afraid when addressed, they cry or run away to hide. Some of these children were secret messengers to the underground forces, and learned to lie. Some of 15 and 16 years have done German slave labor, having only 1 slice of black bread and 1 cup of black coffee, morning and night, while doing ten hours work. When these children are repatriated they are housed in beautiful homes for war-shocked children; for the children who are afraid, who cry, who hide when spoken to and who crave affection."

"On my last trip," continued the Doctor, I saw some of these frightened little ones in groups, playing games in the grounds of one of these homes. When asked what they would like from Canada they asked for books, pictures, dolls, toys, and one wee girl wanted a 'mommy.'

Save the Children Projects

"The Swiss project was started by boys and girls of school age who collected trees and sold them to raise money for the erection of these homes, of which there are now eight in Belgium. Austria, Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, France and Greece. Different groups in America are now sponsoring projects for the saving of these children. After Munich, the Unitarian Church in America decided to do something at once, and are working now in ten overseas countries. In 1945 a Canadian branch was founded, which organization has two outstanding functions, —first, to collect good used clothing and to send it twice a month to Europe; second, to collect funds for food and medicine. To these has been added a very special effort,—the Foster Parent Scheme. A Canadian may become a foster parent to a child in any of the 26 homes in Czechoslovakia or in any of the 3 homes in France, supplying them with necessary clothing, food and any other things the parent wishes to send. In convalescent homes, through the efforts of this committee, war orphans and war victims are given three months free medical care, and more if needed."

Help Being Given

Help is being given by groups in churches, schools, clubs and by individuals in Canada. "Can you imagine my feelings?" asked the speaker, "when in one of these homes I saw children dressed warmly in Canadian garments, when on the beds I saw Canadian quilts and linen, when in the pantry I saw Canadian dry milk, eggs and canned products?"

"Have you ever been really hungry, or uncomfortably cold? How fortunate for Canada to be on the giving end, instead of on the receiving end of these projects! This is a challenge, and an opportunity for Canadians to lead the way toward a better tomorrow, and toward world peace."

Mrs. E. May, president of the Club, expressed appreciation for a very heart searching, thought provoking address, and the committee in charge served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

Women's Activities

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

Women of the Moose No. 435 held their regular meeting Monday evening, Dec. 1, with Sr. Regent Gladys M. Ritch, in the chair.

Two new members, Mrs. Martha Freeman and Mrs. Frances Burtt, were initiated. The Sunshine Prize was won by Co-worker Florence Careful. The Chapter donated a layette to a worthy family. A cushion was won by Mrs. M. Asseltine.

Guests of the evening were Mr Vincent Freeman, governor of L.O.M. No. 1004, and Mr. Gerald Vance, Chairman of Activities. Mr. Vance gave an interesting talk on Christmas festivities.

TRY THIS WONDERFUL
CHRISTMAS CAKE RECIPE

4½ lbs. Fruit as follows:
½ lb. dates pitted and cut up in pieces
½ lb. prunes pitted and cut up in pieces
½ lb. mixed peel cut up in pieces
1 lb. currants
1 lb. Muscat raisins
½ lb. Sultana raisins
½ lb. glace cherries
If impossible to get above variety the following may be substituted:
2 lbs. raisins
2 lbs. currants
½ lb. mixed peel

Batter Mixture:
1 cup (½ lb.) butter
½ cup sugar or honey
½ cup molasses
6 eggs
½ cup coffee or ¼ cup coffee, ¼ cup wine
4 cups (1 lb.) BRODIE'S Self-Raising flour.
1 tablespoon cinnamon
½ tablespoon allspice
1 teaspoon nutmeg
½ tablespoon cloves

METHOD:-
Dredge the fruit with a small amount of the flour. Cream butter thoroughly, slowly adding either sugar or honey. Add well beaten eggs gradually. Then the molasses. Sift balance of flour with the spices and add alternately with the coffee. Combine batter mixture with fruit and mix well. Put in deep cake tins ¾ full which have been lined with well greased, heavy brown paper. Bake in slow oven 250°-300°, about two hours or longer depending on depth and size of cakes. This recipe makes two large cakes which improve with age if kept well covered in metal tin.

Flavour...
A FAMILY AFFAIR

Happy, healthy faces at the table enjoying cooking and baking with the extra flavour

Baking with that special extra flavour that's tops with every member of the family is more than just a matter of chance. Quality ingredients must take first place in a wise homemaker's recipes for, aside from their health value, they do away with costly kitchen failures.

That is why Canadian housewives prefer Crown Brand Corn Syrup—famous for its quality and delicious flavour for nearly fifty years.

Crown Brand Syrup is a favourite in so many ways:—as a spread on bread or toast—on waffles or pancakes—in a glass of milk—as a topping for puddings and ice cream—as a sweetener that gives your baking that extra flavour to delight the tastes of the whole family.

"We appreciate your loyalty to Quality."

CROWN BRAND CORN SYRUP...

SPICE LAYER CAKE

1 cup Crown Brand Corn Syrup
⅓ cup milk
½ cup butter or shortening
2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon allspice
½ cup sugar
2 eggs, unbeaten

Have all ingredients at room temperature. Combine Crown Brand Corn Syrup and milk. Place shortening in a bowl and stir with spoon to soften. Sift dry ingredients over shortening. Add unbeaten eggs and half of liquid. Mix to combine all ingredients, then beat 1 minute. Add remaining liquid and beat again for 2 minutes. Bake in 2 greased and floured 9-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375°F.) 25 minutes. Frost with your favourite frosting.

If you use an electric mixer, follow directions above; setting mixer at low to medium speed. Watch beating time and be sure to scrape batter from sides and bottom of bowl during beating.

BBC's Canuck Nets $50,000 Annual Wage

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Dec. 4 — (CP)— Fast-talking Stewart MacPherson, probably the most popular figure in British radio, doesn't "do too badly for a Canadian who came over here on a cattle-boat in 1930 without a nickel in his pants."

The sleek-haired, 38-year-old Winnipegger who hesitates to estimate his annual income from broadcasting and theatre engagements but reckons it can't be much under $50,000 says, "I've been lucky—and I've worked like a dog."

The work's paid off in a big way. MacPherson's machine-gun voice — with a broad Canadian accent which Broadcasting House hasn't rubbed off — is known to millions of listeners as the BBC's top "special events" commentator, sports announcer and quiz-show master of ceremonies. He frequently tops vaudeville bills in the West End. And the money piles up at an eyebrow-elevating rate.

MacPherson is eager to tell his success story. "I'm hanging around Winnipeg in the depression, not working much," he related. "I do the odd story for the newspapers here and I borrow two bucks there. I'm a bum and the trouble is I'm getting to think like a bum.

"I hear about an £8-a-week job over there as a hockey referee and I come over on a cattle-boat. Then I talk the BBC into letting me broadcast a period of a hockey game — hockey's just catching on here then — and I've never looked back."

Versatility Wins

Sports are MacPherson's radio speciality, especially hockey and boxing, but he'll talk about anything into a microphone.

"Versatility is what gets me ahead" is his slogan as he broadcast running commentaries on ship-launchings, prize fights, royal occasions, street scenes and the efforts of "experts" to solve the problems presented by "20 Questions," the BBC's most popular quiz show.

Between times he dashes back and forth to stage engagements—"I've put 17,000 miles on my car this year" — writes a weekly newspaper column, and fills in at short notice on occasion when an announcer "with a name" is needed for special broadcasts.

MacPherson is a one-man company owned by MacPherson whose relations with the BBC are a mixture of contracts-and-free-lancing. They have first call on his services for radio and television but his stage and other commitments are arranged independently.

He's sailing Jan. 11 for a short holiday in Winnipeg and would like to return permanently to Canada in a few years and "get into the administrative end of broadcasting."

But there's one difficulty: "I just can't afford to leave this place," says MacPherson.

FLOW OF FOOD TO U.K. UPPED BY N. ZEALAND

Low Production Cost Allows Dominion to Sell Produce to Old Country at Cheaper Prices

BY J.C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspdent

Auckland, New ealand — (CP) —As New Zealand's aid for Britain campaign develops it is becoming clear that the Dominion's greatest contribution will be in increased food shipments.

New Zealand is co-operating to the maximum over import policy, dollar saving, sterling reserves and in other ways, but with a population of only 1,750,000 her share in any of these schemes can only be a minor one. It is only as food producer th New Zealand can really play an important part.

It is little realized that last year New Zealand shipped more butter, cheese and meat to Britain than any other country. She supplied Britain with almost half her imported butter—2,000,000 out of a total importation of 4,200,000 hundredweight, over a third of her imported meat—6,300,000 out of a total of 17,700,000 hunderweight, and over a third of her imported cheese—1,600,000 out of 4,200,000 hundred weight.

New Zealand's importance, especially as a supplier of butter and meat, has increased greatly since the war. In the years 1935 to 1938 New Zealand supplied Britain on the average with less than a third of her imported butter and onl, one fifth of her imported meat.

Value Grows

Her value to Britain as a food supplier is continuing to grow. With Danish supplies in doubt it is impossible that in the present year she may supply as much as 60 per cent of all Britain's imported butter. Shipments of all the main food exports are thousands of tons higher so far this year than last.

Farmers are aiming at increasing their output by a further 10 per cent, Such an increase on top of the concentrated wartime efforts will take a good deal of organizing and the Aid for Britain National Council, in conjunction with the government and farmers' organizations, is investigating means of securing extra fertilizer supplies and farm machinery needed and other details required to make the new drive a success.

An important aspect, from Britain's point of view, is that New Zealands sells her produce at much lower prices than any other country except Australia; which charges about the same. Cost of production is lower in the southern Dominions than in most places because there is no need to winter stock inside and most feed is produced on farms. Also New Zealand seeks from Britain only sufficient for a fair return to producers.

BEGINS REFORMATORY TERM

Laconia, N. H., Dec. 4—(AP)—Barbara Roberts, 21-year-old woolen mill worker, Wednesday began serving a three-to-five-year reformatory sentence for manslaughter in the 1946 Christmas season slaying of her father. Barbara and her brother, William 17, pleaded guilty to manslaughter after the charge had been reduced from second degree murder. William was placed on four years probation.

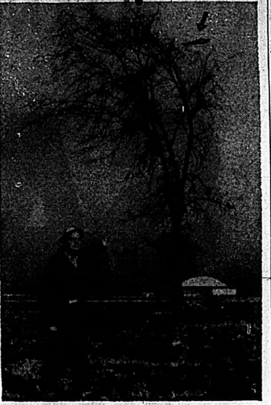
AIRMEN, SPARE THAT TREE!



Airliner (arrow) approaching Cleveland airport is framed by branches of the 80-foot elm, which is holding up use of the terminal's new bad-weather landing equipment. Karl Olsen (foreground), owner of the six-acre plot on which the tree stands, has hung a $40,000 price tag on the tree, which C.A.A. says must be removed from the airplanes' glide path. City of Cleveland appraises land at $25,900, but Olsen claims he will lose $5,000 annually from parking fees during air races.

U.S. Women Knit Warm Shawls For British Sisters

New Bradford, Mass., (CP) — Some shivering Britons soon will be cosier because of a "share-a-shawl" plan devised by a Cape Cod woman.

Mrs. Francis Crane of Woods Hole has started a community knitting bee in New Bradford which she hopes will spread through the country.

Her rallying cry is —"Let's start knitting again. Shawls this time, tens of thousands of them, to keep our British friends warm.

A tireless war worker, she credits the idea to a letter that came to her a few months ago when she was ill in a Boston hospital.

The letter was from the Dowager Marchioness of Reading, head of the Women's Voluntary Services of Great Britain, Mrs. Crane's hostess during a two-month visit to England last year.

Reading Lady Reading's description of a housewife preparing a scant meal over a candle flame —the only means of light and heat in the house — Mrs. Crane thought:

"If only we could put a shawl over the shoulders or across the knees of all the people who are living like that in Britain."

She talked over the idea with an old friend, Miss Pauline Fenno of Boston, long a zealous liason worker between W.V.S. in Britain and this country.

Within two months, Miss Fenno had discussed the shawl project personally with Lady Reading and her associates, and won their enthusiastic approval.

Campaign Under Way

Now the New Bradford Standard Times has volunteered to serve as headquarters for a national "share-a-shawl" campaign. Already the city's British Relief Society has revived its wartime knitting group and members are busy with needles and crochet hooks.

Other friends of Mrs. Crane, in New York, St. Louis and her home town, Chicago, have forwarded several hundred shawls to Britain, she reports.

Through arrangements made by the W.V.S., shawl shipments are admitted duty free when addressed to W.V.S. headquarters, 41 Tothill Street, London, S.W. 1, England.

The Church World Service Centre, Long Island, N.Y., has volunteered to ship the shawls to England without charge for individuals or groups unable to afford the overseas shipping cost.

Daughter of the late Charles R. Crane of Chicago, former United States minister to China, Mrs. Crane formerly resided in London.

The reason she picked shawls to help Britons through a fuelless winter?

"They're easily made," she said "Because they are not made to size, they can be passed around among all members of a household."

And she has set a hoped-for quota—"One shawl for every woman in the U.S.A."

BONANZA CAMP JUST REFUSES TO BE GHOST

Larder Lake Makes Comeback by Discarding Gold Mining for Small Town Enterprises

Larder Lake, Ont., Dec. 4 — (CP)—A little gold mining camp in Ontario's northland, squeezed between Ontario's Kirkland Lake and Quebec's Noranda, centres of mining wealth, is a ghost town that refuses to die.

Larder Lake, one of the oldest mining settlements in Ontario, ducked ghost town status by discarding the thing that gave it life — gold mining — as a major industry and concentrating on commercial projects. Today it is a thriving community of 3,700 citizens — more than at any time in its past history.

Back in 1907 when pioneers of Canada's northland searched for silver in the forest region between the railhead and the Quebec boundary, the mining camp sprang up on the shores of Larder Lake. It boomed for a while and several mining companies pushed headframes toward the sky.

When the Canadian government decided to bring about parity — $3.50 per ounce reduction in the price of gold — the mines were forced to close. When war came the population decreased from 2,200 in 1940 to 1,100 in 1943, and the town looked more like a ghost town than at any time in its history.

Now a Township

By 1945, town council — it had attained the status of muncipal maturity in 1938 — decided the town was not faring so well and went back to the status of a township.

Eight miles away the expanding Kerr-Addison and Chesterville mines were creating a major housing problem. Larder Lake jumped to fill the breach and arranged for construction of wartime houses for 855 new families.

This stroke of initiative was followed with another. An equipment company began to grow and fill orders for nuts, bolts, steam-shovels and bulldozers for purchasers as far distant as North Bay and Val D'or.

It next built its own private highway which completely ignored Kirkland Lake — long known as the big trading centre of the north — and marked the town as an important market centre of the future.

Changing government gold policy, unstable world conditions, the unprecedented antics of the stock market, and the disappointments of nature have all teamed to rob Larder Lake of major industries, but it is forging ahead on small enterprises and her geographical good fortune in a country being recombed for traces of valuable minerals.

Eight-Day Stay Of Execution Granted Chambers

Toronto, Dec. 4 — (CP) — An eight-day stay of execution has been granted Sydney George Chambers, 35, of St. Catharines, who was to have been hanged Dec. 8 for the Christmas week strangle-slaying of nine-year-old Marian Rusnak. An appeal for the reprieve was made jointly before Chief Justice R. S. Robertson by defence counsel E. A. Maloney and Crown counsel C. P. Hope.

Mr. Maloney said he intended to make application immediately for leave to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Ontario Court of Appeal this week rejected the former canning plant watchman's second appeal against conviction for murder in the death of the child he is alleged to have lured to his living quarters in a St. Catharines canning plant. The girl's body never was found and police said they believed Chambers burned it in the canning plant furnace.

It was not necessary for the body to be found to warrant conviction, Chief Justice Robertson said yesterday in written reasons for dismissal of the appeal. The five-judge appeal court was unanimous in its dismissal.

"The whole of the evidence is sufficient to warrant the conclusion that the little girl was murdered and that her body was disposed of in the furnace by the appellant, and to dispense with other proof of the corpus delicti," the Chief Justice said.

Concerning the defence submission that a statement police said Chambers gave them was improperly admitted as evidence, the Chief Justice said:

"The appellant was warned before this statement was taken and it is in evidence that no threats or promises were made to obtain it."

Said Mr. Justice R. G. Fisher, who agreed with the reasons of the Chief Justice:

"This is the most diabolical murder I have had to deal with in my judicial experience. The evidence establishes beyond any doubt in my mind that the accused may be described as a lecherous libertine and a self-confessed cold-blooded murderer."

BABY'S CONSTIPATION SERIOUS IF NEGLECTED

BABY'S daily movements are something of which absolutely accurate track must be kept. When he misses, something must be done at once. Constipation is serious for baby.

Mrs. John T. Reid of Hespeler, Ont., has this to say: "Having had seven children and having used Baby's Own Tablets for all seven can say they are the best and gentlest regulator for children. During teething Baby's Own Tablets were a boon to me as they cleared up at once any digestive disturbance or fretfulness."

Equally effective for simple fever, teething troubles, upset stomach and other minor ailments of babyhood.

NewZealandBacks Big Game Fishing

By J. C. GRAHAM
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Auckland, N.Z., Dec. 4 — (CP) —After a lapse during the war big game fishing is reaching new heights of popularity in New Zealand. So great is the demand for facilities that the supply of suitable launches and experienced boatmen falls far short of requirements.

Before the war big game fishing off the New Zealand coast was followed chiefly by overseas visitors. They came from all parts of the world to try the sport which was brought to world attention by Zane Grey who spent several seasons fishing here.

The sport has now been taken up with enthusiasm by New Zealanders and when improved transport makes it possible for fishermen from the United States and elsewhere to return in prewar numbers many more launches will be needed to meet the demand.

It had been proposed to hold a world's deep-sea angling championship in New Zealand this year but it was judged that neither the facilities available nor transport from abroad was yet back to normal so the project has been postponed.

Big game fish caught off the northern New Zealand coast are chiefly swordfish, both black and striped marlin varieties and mako shark. These are among the largest and finest of all game fish and put up a magnificent fight. The world record black marlin weighing 976 pounds was caught off the New Zealand coast 20 years ago but several others of over 900 pounds have been caught in recent years and catches of over 600 pounds are common.

Hammerhead and thrasher shark and kingfish are also frequently caught on the big game fishing grounds, but tuna, one of the prized fish in American waters, are found only occasionally.

It is not generally known that swordfish is very tasty to eat and a sideline to the sport has grown up with the establishment of a swordfish canning factory at Tauranga, one of the main big-game fishing centres. Last season the factory canned 126,000 pounds of fish caught by deep-sea anglers and its product has met with an eager demand.

Radio, Telephone Modernizes North

Flin Flon, Man., Dec. 4 —(CP) —The Manitoba government is going to modernize its northern towns — in the not too distant future — with an automatic telephone service and radio transmission stations.

Peter Miller, commissioner of telephones, in outlining the plan, says it will depend on growth of the towns and increase in population.

Present plans call for installation of an automatic telephone service at Flin Flon and Daughin and for radio transmitters at Snow Lake, Lynn Lake, and other outlying northern mining areas—when development warrants. The Pas will be the central radio link between the northern outposts and will be connected with a Winnipeg radio station.

Miller says such companies as the Hudson's Bay will install transmitters in their outposts and in the larger settled areas the government will install necessary equipment.

Marmora

I.O.D.E. MEETING

Marmora — The November meeting of Marmora Chapter I.O.D.E. was held at the home of Mrs. M. Borland, Deloro, with the regent, Mrs. J. Reynolds in the chair. Mrs. Hugh Brady recorded the minutes in the absence of the regular secretary.

Discussions followed the announcement that money in the post-war account must be disbursed on or before December 15th 1947. It was finally decided that it should be spent for food parcels for Britain. Miss Miriam Savage and Mrs. A. M. Jones agreed to take charge of purchasing the supplies for these parcels.

Mrs. P. Eamer read Bulletin No. 1 on nominations in municipalities, then gave a summary of the next section of the text on India, and conducted a short quiz contest on India.

A letter was read from Provincial headquarters regarding a gift to Princess Elizabeth from Canada's I.O.D.E.

Mrs. Hugh Brady gave a comprehensive report of the semi-annual I.O.D.E. Convention held in Ottawa in October.

Following routine reports from conveners the meeting closed with the presentation of the flag and singing of the National Anthem.

The next meeting will be held on December 11th., at the home of Mrs. Hugh Brady, with hostesses Mrs. A. M. Jones, Mrs. Herbert English and Mrs. F. R. Loveless.

Wartime "Eyes" To Locate Fish

Nanaimo, B. C., Dec. 4 —(CP) —Location of herring schools by means of direction-finding instruments is being experimented with off the coast of Vancouver Island.

Dr. R. E. Foerester, director of the Pacific Biological Station, Fisheries Research Board of Canada, announced that the 86-foot MS Enkoll, now is seeking fish by use of the finder.

The instruments are reported to be capable of locating schools of fish anywhere within a one-mile range — forward, aft, abeam or straight down.

The horizontal beams are being tested. In confined waters there has been some confusion as to whether contact is being made with fish schools, kelp beds or submerged reefs. Next tests will be on the Island's west coast where these conditions are not expected to be encountered.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1947

Deletion of Certain Section As County Road Strenuously Opposed in County Council

A recommendation that a portion of county road number six, commencing at the intersection of road number 15 on the Lonsdale ridge, thence northerly on the Lonsdale side road and thence west and northerly to the second concession of Tyendinaga be deleted from the county roads system met with strenuous objection on the part of Reeve Bartley Walsh of Tyendinaga at the Wednesday session of Hastings County Council.

The recommendation was placed in front of the council by the Road and Bridge Committee which stated that a petition had been received from residents of the Roslin-Marlbank area asking also that the second concession of Hungerford as far west as Chisholm's Mills be made a county road.

The petition read "that this Roads and Bridges Committee, after receiving a petition from the residents of the Roslin-Marlbank areas, which requested the second concession of Hungerford as far west as Chisholm's Mills be made a county road, and after inspecting it in a body, both this road and the existing county road to Marlbank from the southwest, we recommend to the December session of County Council the following:

That the portion of County Road Number Six commencing at the intersection of County Road No. 15 (on the Lonsdale Ridge Road) and County Road Number 6 on what is known as the 6th concession of Tyendinaga, thence northerly on the Lonsdale side road, thence west and north easterly and ending where it meets on the road on the second concession of Hungerford Township (being approximately 7½ miles long), be deleted from the county roads system, and if this is done, we further recommend that the township road along what is known as the second concession of Hungerford, commencing where the existing county road No. Six leaves the second concession, thence westerly along the second concession to where the road bears south and westerly and connects with county road number seven at Chisholm's Mills (being approximately nine miles long) be assumed as a county road."

Matter Laid Over

Following lengthy discussion on the part of Reeve Walsh who was supported by Reeve P. J. Kirby of Deseronto, the recommendation was laid over until the January session. Reeve Walsh told the County Council that his township has only two main arteries leading to Highway No. 2, one being the Shannonville "gravel" and the other the road in question.

Council heard a written appeal from the Hastings County Tuberculosis Association requesting financial support. Reeve P. J. Kirby, Deseronto, strongly endorsed the request before it was sent to the Committee on Ways and Means, pointing out what the association has done in his village during the past year. "Over 600 residents," he said, "had taken advantage of the free surveys conducted by the association, and a $15,000 X-ray machine had been brought in for the purpose."

Council concurred with an Elgin County Council resolution requesting the Federal Government to legalize national hospital sweepstakes.

Speaking on the resolution, members felt that 90 per cent of the residents of Canada were in favor of sweepstakes and as such were deserving of consideration. Huge sums were going out of the country every year and council was of the opinion that these monies could be kept in Canada and spent on hospitals instead of going overseas.

A northern reeve quipped during the discussion, "I never bought a ticket in my life. Will someone please offer me one when they come around?"

The Roads and Bridges Committee also recommended to council that a by-law should be passed which demanded permits to be secured from the county before any building could be moved over a county road. All conditions as laid down by the committee and by council must be complied with before such a permit would be issued, the recommendation stated. The matter was laid over to the committee on by-laws.

Lengthy Discussion

Lengthy discussion followed a request from the township of Dungannon asking that it be allowed to conduct its own tax sales and not have the business done in the regular manner by the county. Reeve G. Sprackett asked for an opinion on the matter.

Reeve Clarke Rollins, Wollaston, speaking on the question told council that in his experience the county system was the better. He had found trouble with deeds not being properly made out, and in the end the matter had to be turned back to the county for adjustment.

Reeve Neal of Marmora village felt the idea of municipalities conducting their own sales of land for taxes was the better way. "Communities," he said, "had their own idea of what was going on and the business could be conducted to the betterment of not only the municipality but to residents as well. Arrears in taxes could be paid under the local set-up. In any event, he pointed out, there were very few parcels of land offered for sale because of taxes.

Council also concurred in a Perth County Council resolution asking the Dominion Government to change valuation of grade cattle under the inspection act from $40 to $60 to $60 and a maximum of $100.

The Department of Highways notified council through County Clerk Erle Denyes that a request for an additional $12,000 for roads and bridges had been approved. This brings the amount to be expended on the county roads system to $172,000.

Dairy School Superintendent Deals With Nutritive Value Of Cheese at Convention

If farmers were paid for the nutritional value of cheese on the same basis as that of milk, cheese would sell for 55 cents per pound when milk was 18 cents, members of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers Association were told Wednesday afternoon by Dr. A. L. Gibson, Superintendent of Kemptville Dairy School.

Dr. Gibson gave an enlightening address on the nutritional value of cheese as compared with that of milk showing that the price of cheese was much below that which its nutritional value would indicate it is worth.

Dr. Gibson pointed out that the nutritive value of cheese was quite equal to the original sources of milk and unless these constituents sell at a price at least equal to what they sell in milk then it was obvious that milk for cheese must be produced at a loss.

"Since 1939 no food has been produced on such a meagre profit as has cheese, notwithstanding government bonuses and premiums," he said. "With the removal of government subsidies the industry cannot continue in unprofitable lines. The largest cheese manufacturing companies in Canada are ceasing to make export cheese because factories are operating at a loss."

Shortage of Makers

Mr. Gibson also decried the shortage of good cheesemakers, stating that this was due to the fact that the industry does not pay sufficient wages to keep the good men. "During the past 12 years the dairy schools have graduated enough men to keep the factories supplied but today there is a shortage of makers. This is due entirely to the low pay and to the factory living accommodations which makers and their families are furnished."

T. J. Hicks, Montreal, Senior Dairy Produce Grader, in commenting on the cheese show, stated that the quality of cheese today was much better than when the local show started ten years ago. As well as showing an improvement in quality the show was a splendid means of advertising the industry, he said.

Of the 206 cheese in the show 70 of these had received 43 points or over for flavor; 30 score a total of 98 points or over, while 37 had full points for finish. The loss of one fifth of one per cent in finish put a cheese out of the running for the high prizes, he said.

Quality Splendid

Although the quality of the show cheese was splendid insofar as finish was concerned, the senior grader stated he had noticed throughout the year what appeared to be carelessness on the part of the maker in bandaging and finishing cheese. Makers could not afford to manufacture a poorly finished article when such carelessness might mean the loss of one cent per pound. "The makers in many cases just do not take the time to do the job properly," he said.

Mr. McKergow, representing the Montreal Provisions Trade, urged for more co-operation among the various branches of the cheese industry. Farmers, cheesemakers and government officials should show a greater spirit of co-operation.

Pay Subsidy to Farmer

President of the Ontario Cheese Producers Association John I. Ballantyne, told the meeting that in his own opinion the provincial subsidy on cheese should be paid to farmers on the quality of milk sent to the factory and not on quality cheese.

"After all," he said, "the only thing which the farmer produces on his farm is the milk and it would seem only right that any cheese milk subsidy should be paid on the quality of milk produced."

Continuing he said that during the war years approximately $13 millions was paid out in cheese subsidy and in the words of a prominent government official "We have nothing to show for it."

Mr. Ballantyne admitted that subsidy payment on quality milk production may not be the correct answer to the problem but he stated that if they waited to see if it was right they would never start. "The government" he said, "had asked that the producers come to them with a clear cut policy of subsidy payment for 1948."

The speaker mentioned briefly the agitation afoot for the handling of all milk by a milk pool and thus afford the cheese milk producers more profitable returns for his product. He also mentioned commercial spraying of dairy herds for fly control which he stated had proven satisfactory. He suggested the same procedure might be used at factories as a fly control measure.

Deer Forests and Grouse Moors May be Stocked With Sheep Or Cattle if in Food Interest

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Dec. 4 —(CP)— Canada received thousands of Scottish settlers when their Highland crofts were taken from them to make room for deer forests.

Now, by parliamentary edict, the deer may be ejected and cattle and sheep take their place, whether the deer forest owner likes it or not.

The agriculture (Scotland) bill, now before parliament, provides that the secretary of state for Scotland may order deer forests and grouse moors to be stocked with sheep or cattle if it appears in the interests of food production.

The secretary of state will simply inform the land-owner of the government plans. The owner may make an appeal to a land court which will hear his objection and give a ruling.

If the owner refuses to obey a government direction the secretary of state will have power to purchase the land or any part of it by compulsion.

Memories of the "clearings" still burn Scottish memories. They began soon after the 1745 rebellion, when Prince Charlie was defeated after a bid for restoration of the Stuart kings. The Highland chiefs who helped him sometimes were dispossessed and their land went to unsympathetic stranger owners.

Some chiefs who held their land found their feudal powers gone and hastened to turn their possessions into revenue-producers, with ruthless treatment of their lesser kinfolk who had occupied the small farms since time immemorial.

During the war the deer forests were neglected and the high fences which confined the deer collapsed. Many a Highland home tasted venison when crofters protected their turnip fields against the invaders who appeared in droves in territories where they had not been seen within the memory of man.

Few British residents now can afford to maintain a deer forest and they have depended on leasing their properties for the late fall stalking season. Only a limited part of the rockey deer forests — they usually have few trees — is suitable for agriculture or grazing. In time, it is anticipated many of them will become national parks where the deer and other game will be protected but hikers will be able to travel at will.

Captain's 4 Ships "Fished" in 2 Years

Montreal, Dec. 4 —(CP)— As a mark of unity between Britain's army and marine services, the cargo liner Manchester Regiment carries on her bulkhead a bronze plaque presented recently by the famous fighting unit of her home port.

The ship, newest in the Manchester Line's fleet, was launched a year ago to replace wartime losses. The army requested she be named Manchester Regiment, the same name borne by a convoy ship sunk in 1940.

The plaque, facing the main companionway, was unveiled at a ceremony during the ship's last visit to Manchester.

The ship is commanded by the fleet's commodore, Capt. Frederick D. Struss, 40 years in the company's services, who had four Manchester liners blown up under him in two world wars.

Ship Desertion Aussie Problem

By LESLIE BRODIE
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Sydney, Australia, Dec. 4 —(CP)— Population-hungry Australia is getting a steady trickle of immigrants in an unexpected way.

Many seamen on European ships are deserting on reaching Australia and taking a chance on being caught as illegal immigrants rather than go back to the rigors of life in their homelands.

Some of them are allowed to sign off at Australian ports, providing they can get men to replace them and are granted a three months probation period by the immigration department. If they prove themselves to be satisfactory citizens they are allowed to stay.

Greatest number of deserters come from British ships. Last year more than 1,000 men deserted and, so far, this year there have been more than 2,000 cases reported of men leaving their ships.

The British government had appealed to Australian authorities to help get the men back to their ships but very little is accomplished owing to the difficulty of tracking down men who had time to make acquaintances and get to know the country after long spells in Australian ports.

Prosecutions Ordered

Before the war nothing was done about British seamen deserting, but today the number has grown to such proportions that it is seriously affecting the efficient handling of ships on the Australian run. When a seaman is caught now he is prosecuted.

Replacement of deserters is difficult. Most captains prefer to delay their ships a day or two at high costs in the hope of their man being caught rather than take on an Australian no matter how well he is trained. When they are forced to take an Australian seaman they are obliged to pay his fare back to his home port on completion of the voyage, under a two-way agreement between the British and Australian's seamen's unions.

Police seeking deserters find that the call of the sea helps them catch up with many who either make a bid to get a ship or give themselves up after a few months ashore.

The secretary of the seamen's union in Sydney says that foreign seamen have been seeking work on Australian coastal trading vessels lately, although there is barely enough work to occupy Australian seamen.

MONTREAL FIREMEN FIGHT $200,000 BLAZE AT CLOSE RANGE

Firemen play 10 streams on this Montreal blaze from short range despite the possibility of an explosion. Fifteen families were helped to safety from the two-alarm fire in the downtown district which swept through three buildings with damage estimated at $200,000. Twenty-two other streams of water were played on the flames from different angles to keep the fire from spreading. A restaurant and a silk manufacturing firm were demolished.

Taught Painting as War Prisoner in German Mine

Calgary, Dec. 4 —(CP)— It wasn't so very long ago that Maxwell Bates, instructor in figure-drawing and painting at the evening art classes of the Alberta provincial institute of technology and art, was practicing his profession in far different circumstances —teaching art to prisoners of war working in salt mines.

Bates went to England in 1931 to study. At the outbreak of war he joined the British Army, went overseas, was taken prisoner at St. Valery after Dunkerque.

In 1944, as a member of working camp 137, he was sent to a German salt mine. There he found most of his fellow-prisoners were Scottish coal miners. About 15 of the men, who worked in shifts, were interested in drawing.

The prisoners could obtain no materials for their studies — until cigarets saved the day.

Bribed Guards

"We managed to bribe the guards with Canadian cigarets to bring us pencils and crayons," said Bates. There was no shortage of paper. The Germans used heavy wrapping paper to line the inside of freight cars which took the salt away from the mines. This, Bates said, proved "fine for sketching."

The art classes continued for nearly a year. They were finally broken up by the marches which came with the advance of the Allied forces.

"One man would pose and the others would sketch," Bates said. "Some of them showed real promise, but I've lost touch with most of them, so I don't know whether they're doing anything along that line now or not."

He eventually was liberated near the Austrian Alps, and received his discharge in 1945.

He went to school here and graduated from technical school. Before going to England he exhibited work at a show of Canadian paintings at the National Gallery in Ottawa and at New York. He was also represented in various exhibitions in Britain.

Book Links Ontario With Heroines Of Heroic Paris Underground

By PERCY GHENT
(Contributed)
(To Toronto Evening Telegram)

Here is a story which, in a curious chain of circumstances, links a pleasant Ontario town with the gallant lovers of freedom who in peril by night and by day, engineered the Underground activities of Paris, during the late war. It brings, too, an intimate glimpse of rural life in postwar France . A book, "Trails of Truth," which is an impressive record of psychic phenomena, is the first link in that chain. It was written by a friend of ours, Jenny O'Hara Pincock, now of Madoc, Ontario, at a time of grevious personal bereavement and brought light and solace not only to its author, but to many sorrowing souls. But whether the published results of psychical research leave readers convinced or coldly incredulous, has no immediate bearing on this brief narrative. What does concern it is the fact that this book was carefully studied by a French woman, as brilliant mentally as her personality is charming. Her name is Madame Simone Saint Clair, author, loyalist and lecture. She was in Toronto some months ago , but of that visit we shall speak later.

In Concentration Camp

One of Madame Saint Clair's books "Ravensbruck," published in French in both Paris and Montreal, tells of the horrors, and of her own sufferings in that notorious camp of extermination. She had been taken to Ravensbruck following her arrest as a leading organizer of the Paris Underground Movement. For eighteen months she was kept there, and though reduced through mental and physical suffering to the semblance of a living skelton, her life was spared while Nazi secret service men and women tried to pry incriminating evidence about her confreres of the Underground out of her. Madame's memory, of course was utterly blank. Released when the victorious Allies overran Germany, she arrived in Paris amid the acclaim of crowds. Acclaim with an undertone of sadness, for she learned that during her enforced stay within the concentration camp, her son had died on active service. Alaine was his name, his age eighteen, and his underage enlistment had been inspired by the desire to avenge his mother. It was this culminating grief that shattered the joyous hopes of Madame Saint Clair. and the liberation of France, toward which she worked and suffered, seemed an empty triumph.

Madame In Toronto

It was in this hour of despair that the book, Trails of Truth, was handed to her. From the gentle hands of a Polish girl it came, an educated, aristocratic girl who, like Madame herself had a fluent command of English. Her own heart had found comfort therein, and the woman to whom she gave it was also restored to brightening hope; a renewal of strength and courage that inspired a deep affection for the author. And when, about a year ago, Madame Saint Clair came to Canada to deliver a series of lectures under the auspices of the Alliance de France, she sought out Mrs. Pincock and spent some happy hours with her at "Millbrook Meadows," Madoc. It was when Madame was in Toronto and lectured at the Royal Conservatory of Music that we met her. At the mere mention of our mutual friend's name she simply radiated smiles, and told with the most obvious warmth and sincerity, of the deep joy she had experienced in meeting her return to France this vivacious Frenchwoman whose authorship covers a range from children's stories to the grim record of Ravensbruck, has served as witness in the trials to determine the guilt and punishment of the tyrants who made that camp so infamous.

Flight From Poland

That Polish girl we mentioned escaped from her native land when it was occupied by the Nazi armies. But a little past twenty she trudged by devious ways all across Germany to reach friends in Paris. There she became the sweetheart of a bitterly anti-Nazi soldier, a university graduate, who, in momentary danger of losing his life, gave precious aid to Madame Saint Clair in her underground crusade against oppression. Now the Polish heroine and the soldier are married. There is a letter from that young wife before us now, a letter borrowed from Mrs. Pincock. It is dated the 17th October, 1947, at a remote corner of the French countryside. How are they faring after the long turmoil of war and exile? We transcribe part of the neatly written pages.

Life In Rural France

Warm thanks for a gift open the letter. Then: "Since nearly six months we are in country, a tiny spot far away from trains and big cities. We have bought a peasant house, not in a very good condition, and have started a poultry farm. The beginning was very difficult and more than once I thought I would be to weak to continue, but now the worst is over. We have two goat children and one grown male. Every afternoon I take them for a walk in the country. We are thankful to be far away from the quarrels and noise of men. It is terrible how much people speak about another war. Even in France life is not easy: the hard winter destroyed many things, and the summer has passed without a drop of rain. There are no vegetables, a few little potatoes, bread rations are shortened, and no milk for the children. A neighbor with 70 cows gets but one litter of milk and the cows and calves die of starvation." And the letter concludes with a desire to learn more about life in Canada. Like so many others in war-torn lands, who in the cause of freedom gave so much and suffered so grieviously, this Polish girl and her husband must struggle along with an austerity beyond the ken of fortunate Canadians.

Nurses Hear Lecture on Operative Care

The last lecture in connection with the Refresher Course for graduate nurses was held at the Ritchie Memorial Residence of the Belleville General Hospital A large audience was present to hear Dr. E. G. Kennedy, the speaker, as he outlined, Pre and Post operative care.

Dr. Kennedy stressed that a nurse was most valuable in watching for complications following surgery. He gave in detail the signs and symptoms and treatment of the following complications: Pulmonary collapse, bronchitis, broncho - pneumonia, post operative hemorrhage, acidosis, alkalosis, retention, and bedsores in the aged.

The value of the Miller-Abbott and Gastric tube, Wagensteen and Levine suction apparatus was explained with their relation to reducing surgical obstruction and post-operative vomiting.

Knowledge of blood therapy has played an important role in lessening the mortality rate due to hemorrhage. Plasma is most helpful for shock following severe trauma where there is considerable blood loss, also in treating severe burns. Whole blood transfusion is used to best advantage after massive hemorrhage in obstetrics, chronic anaemia, hematemesis, and before operation to improve the patients general condition.

Dr. Kennedy spoke of the newer drugs which are on the market for use in pulmonary and coronary thrombosis, and toxic thyroid, also the extensive use of sulfas and penicillin.

Mrs. A. C. Miller, Reg. N., expressed the appreciation of all present to Dr. Kennedy, mentioning especially the value the lecture had been to the non-active nurses, who would be again pressed into service should need arise.

The complete series of lectures sponsored by the educational committee of the Belleville Community Nursing Registry have been well received by a large number of active as well as non-active nurses. The proceeds are to be used to increase a circulating library of reference, books.

Leafs Spoil Lester Patrick Night, Beating Rangers 4-1, Boston Bruins and Hawks Tie

Joe Klukay Scores Two Goals but Has Yet to Gain an Assist

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto Maple Leafs (Boo!) had to go out and spoil Lester Patrick Night.

Here it was, an evening supposedly devoted to bring cheer and tribute to hockey's Silver Fox. Madison Square Garden echoed to the huzzahs both for Patrick and the old-time Rangers who came from near and far to take part in the festivities.

But the Maple Leafs (another boo!) were in no mood to co-operate in making the night a complete success from the standpoint of Patrick and his New York Rangers. They walloped Rangers 4-1 to snap New York's victory string at four games. Leafs used the triumph to take over first place in the National Hockey League standing.

At the same time, Boston Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks battled to a 4-4 draw that had no effect on the standing.

Leafs have 23 points, Wings are a point behind. Bruins have 20 points while Montreal Canadiens have 17. Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks are drawn up in the rear, Rangers with 14 points and Hawks with 10.

The Toronto - New York clash served to bring out one point. For a hired hand who is supposed to be essentially a back checker, Joe Klukay is getting a fair share of goals. The tireless Klukay whacked home goals No. 8 and No. 9 and now is second only to captain Syl Apps in Toronto goal production. An oddity about Klukay's record is that he still has to pick up his first assist of the season.

Barilko Given Major

Apps came in on the goal-getting with a tally only a short time before the end of the game. His 12th.

Along with Klukay's two goals and that by Apps, Leafs also marked up a counter by Howie Meeker. Eddie Kullman provided the only Rangers' score. The game produced 29 minutes in penalties, including a misconduct to defenceman Bill Barilko of Leafs for protesting a minor for high-sticking.

In Boston, Hawks built up a 3-2 lead, went behind 4-3 and then came through with a goal a little more than two minutes from the end to gain a draw. Once again Hawks were led by men they obtained in the big 'five-for-two' deal of some weeks back.

Gaye Stewart, giving every indication of rounding into the form that made him the rookie award winner of 1942-43, slammed in two goals in the first period. Another former Leaf, Bud Poile, whipped home the goal that gave Hawks the tie. Doug Bentley picked up Chicago's other tally.

Pete Babando kept company with Stewart and Klukay by picking up two goals in his evening work. Clare Martin and Pat Egan were the other Boston scorers. Bruins played without Milt Schmidt, their centre ace, and defenceman Murray Henderson.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York, Dec. 4 (AP) —In the Madison Square Garden ring where Joe Louis will defend his heavyweight title against Jersey Joe Walcott Friday, the late Jimmy Johnston once staged a card consisting of these bouts: Hans Birkie vs. Andre Lenglet; Charley Massare vs. Eddie Sims, Bob 'Pastor vs. Alex Borchuk, George Brescia vs. Frank Connelly and Lou Nova vs. Ralph Barbara.

The interesting point to Joe is that at one time or another Louis knocked out all those guys except Lenglet, Connelly and Barbara . . apparently they didn't qualify even as bums of the month.

One Minute Sports Page

Gossip in local radio circles says the Giants will announce a $1,000,000 deal with a big cigaret company for broadcasting ball games ... White Sox manager Ted Lyons spent part of his time in Chicago before the minor league huddle telling the boys that Vern Stephens is a better all-around shortstop than Johnny Pesky.

And, speaking of the Sox, have they come out yet with the news that Johnny Rigney, retired pitcher and son-in-law of owner Grace Comiskey, has been given the newly created post as head of the club's farm system.

Mickey Owen has launched a new career as a livestock auctioneer. Suppose Branch Rickey could find a job for his ineligible catcher helping to dispose of surplus rookies?

OSHAWA GENS MISS A CHANCE TO LEAD LOOP

Defeated 5-1 by Sixth Place Barrie Flyers in Rugged Game

(By The Canadian Press)

Tommy Anderson's Oshawa Generals muffed their big chance to break the top-place knot with Windsor Spitfires when they fell under a 5-1 onslaught last night by the sixth-place Barrie Flyers in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior "A" fixture at Barrie.

It was a tough night for other top O.H.A. squads. The first-place Toronto Marlboros barely managed to eke out a 5-4 overtime victory over the fourth-place Hamilton Patricias in a Senior A fixture at Maple Leaf Gardens. Stratford Indians in sixth place, decisioned the third-place Hamilton Tigers 5-3 and in a junior A game at Maple Leaf Gardens the Stratford Kroehlers moved up to fourth position when they defeated the third-place Toronto Marlboros, 5-2.

At Barrie, Sid Mcnabney and Red Favero led the Flyers with two goals, and Rusty Alkins was the other marksman. Oshawa's tally came from Dick Gamble.

Marlboros notched their 11th victory in 14 starts at Toronto.

Al Buchanan tallied twice to lead Marlboros marksmen. Ike Hildebrand, Leo Curik and Ray Hannigan scored the others. Hamilton scorers were Nick Philippe, Doug Runions, Murray Comfort and Harvey Jacklin.

Stratford goalie Maxie Haunn outstone Hamilton netminder Art Childs to back Indians' victory at Hamilton.

Indians were led by Jim Eady with two goals while George Blake, Mickey Roth and Billy Flick were other Stratford marksmen and Clarence Shillington, Frankie Liscombe and Tommy Smelle tallied for Tigers.

In Toronto's junior game a strong Stratford crew held the play.

Stratford marksmen were Dinny Flannigan with two counters, Frank McCardle, Matt Mesich and Elwood Small. Ray Timgren and Frank Kent tallied Marlboros' goals.

Toronto Young Rangers will be seeking their first victory when they visit Guelph Biltmores in the one junior game scheduled for tonight. There are no senior games slated.

LAST NIGHT'S STARS

(By The Canadian Press)

Pete Babando, Boston, rookie whose two goals helped Bruins gain a 4-4 tie with Chicago Black Hawks.

Gaye Stewart, Chicago, who tallied twice against Boston.

Joe Klukay, Toronto, whose two goals paved a 4-1 victory for Leafs over New York Rangers.

Paper States Durocher Has Signed Contract

(By The Canadian Press)

The New York Daily Mirror said in a copyrighted story last night that Leo Durocher has signed a contract to manage the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1948. The story said that Durocher flew from the west coast to Dodger president Branch Rickey's farm at Chestertown, Md., and there penned the contract yesterday.

Rickey made his decision to rehire Durocher, who was under suspension during the 1947 season, after getting the green light from Commissioner A. B. Chandler earlier this week, the Mirror said.

The Texas Interscholastic Football League is meeting today to discuss passing a rule that will forbid the gals from moving into the grid game. Seems that when Frankie Groves, the pretty little Stinet, Tex., Miss, played a football game for her high school recently she really started something. Several other girls have expressed the desire to get into the lineup next fall and league officials think it is a publicity stunt.

Australia has invited Vancouver's St. Andrew's, Dominion soccer champions, to participate in a series of games next year, but Vancouver's soccer commission will recommend that an all-star Canadian team be chosen for the tour, it was announced last night.

The game in which Hamilton junior Tigers defeated London in a junior Ontario Rugby Union playoff last Saturday was voided last night by the executive of the O.R.F.U. and a replay was ordered for Saturday at London. However, both clubs said they would play no further rugby this season and as a result there will be no playoffs in Ontario junior rugby this year.

The meeting found that certain players on Hamilton clubs were ineligible, but said that no blame attached to the Hamilton club.

Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday swapped two infielders, Jimmy Bloodworth and Vic Barnhart, to Montreal Royals of the International League for second baseman Romanus Basgall who played at Fort Worth in the Texas League last season.

LESTER PATRICK NOW MEMBER HALL OF FAME

Honored by Associates Who Showered Him With Many Gifts

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Dec. 4 — (CP) — It finally happened to Lester Patrick — he found himself too "overwhelmed" to talk.

The man who admits he can get any three guys in a corner and "talk 'em to death" reached the speechless stage early today, climax of a "Lester Patrick Night" he called the "most wonderful moment of my life."

The 63-year-old vice-president of Madison Square Garden, long the "Silver Fox" of New York Rangers, fumbled for words as his past and present associates in hockey gathered at a supper party to present him with a television set, a movie camera, a cigaret case and lighter, several gifts that weren't even unwrapped — and $1,500.

The money came as $300 gifts from each team in the National League except Rangers, which presented the movie camera.

The supper party at a midtown restaurant, attended by almost 100 hockey celebrities including President Clarence Campbell of the N. H. L., representatives of five league clubs and by Ranger stars of past and present generations, capped a tribute to Patrick which started last night with a scheduled game between Rangers and Toronto Maple Leafs.

Mayor J. Stuart Crawford of Kingston presented Patrick with his scroll of membership in the International Hockey Hall of Fame. Nobody bothered to say why Patrick had been selected for the hall. His record in more than 40 years of hockey made it obvious.

Vancouver, Dec. 4 (CP)— The Boyd-Quaich golf tournament at St. Andrews, Scotland, better known as the World University championship, will have a Canadian team among its contestants next year if enough money is forthcoming to finance the jaunt.

Eric (Vancouver Province) Whitehead reports that the University of British Columbia has received an invitation to take part in the famous tourney and all that stands in the way of acceptance is the currency problem.

"Although little is known of the past history of the affair in these parts," Whitehead writes, "it is known that universities from South Africa, India, Australia, New Zealand United States and of course the British Isles, have participated but never a squad from Canada."

Clancy (Vancouver News Herald) Loranger has come up with another nomination for Canada's "strongman."

He recounts a friendly meeting recently in which Alex Shibicky, ex-New York Ranger now coaching New Westminster Royals of the Pacific Coast Hockey League, held the floor.

The name of Art Coulter, teammate of Shibicky's on Rangers, came up as contender for strongman honors.

Coulter "was not only the strongest man who ever played hockey," Shibicky said, but also the "playful" type.

He once "saw Coulter grab Lionel Conacher, who had been a wrestler, football player ... and who was regarded as Canada's greatest athlete, by his jersey and shake him, but good. Conacher did not press the issue."

"Another time Coulter won a bet by picking up Davie Kerr, Ranger goalie, in the lobby of a hotel, placing him on his shoulders and carrying him safely up to his room on the 18th floor."

"When things got dull in their hotel, Rangers used to play a little game. Shibicky would sit on Ott Heller's shoulders, Coulter would pick up Kerr, and the top men would wrestle a bit. And I do mean bit, for it wouldn't take long for Coulter to trample his opponents. After they'd been bounced, Shib and Hiller would attempt to dislodge Kerr, but they never made it."

HERSHEY BEARS AGAIN ON TOP

(By The Canadian Press)

Hershey Bears today are back in their old familiar berth at the top of the eastern division of the American Hockey League, and from their record to date, other teams may have a tough time dislodging the defending champions.

In Hershey last night, the Bears pounded out a 6-3 victory over Washington Lions to move two points ahead of the idle Providence Reds. At Springfield, Pittsburgh Hornets returned to the win column with a resounding 7-2 triumph over the Indians while in Buffalo, the Bisons kept six points back of the western leaders by repulsing Indianapolis Capitals 3-2.

Herbie Cain and Gordie Bruce paced the Bears with a pair of goals. Frank Mario notched the other Hershey goal. Frank Porters, Ken Shultz and Red Raney scored for Lions.

Tod Sloan led Hornets to their easy conquest with two first period tallies. Stan Kemp, Fleming Mackell, Pete Langelle, Syd Smith and Les Costello scored one each. Paul Courteau and Harry Frost were the Springfield marksmen.

Bisons, by virtue of their win, increased their hold on second place to four points. Tom Cooper, Tod Campeau and Les Douglas hit the mark for Buffalo while Enio Solisizzi and Cliff Simpson scored for Caps.

The Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Syl Apps, Toronto, moved into a three-way tie for the National Hockey League scoring leadership last night via a one goal pickup. He shares the top rung of the ladder with Maurice Richard, Montreal, and Jimmy McFadden, Detroit — all with 21 points. Richard and McFadden were idle. Chicago's Doug Bentley earned a goal to move into a three - way split for third place with 17.

The leaders:	G	A	Pts
Apps, Toronto	12	9	21
Richard, Montreal ..	10	11	21
McFadden, Detroit ..	9	12	21
Lindsay, Detroit ...	12	8	20

BIGGEST BATTLE IN BASEBALL'S HISTORY SHAPING

Four Coast League Clubs Seeking Entry Into Major Loops

By JOE REICHLER

Miami, Fla., Dec. 4 (AP) — One of the biggest battles in the history of baseball appeared to be shaping up today as rumors of dissension among Pacific Coast League owners leaked out to dwarf all other activity at the minor league's 46th annual convention here.

Despite League President Clarence Rowland's insistance that all was serene among the coast's moguls, it was learned that Paul I. Fagan, vice-president of San Francisco Seals, and generally referred to as the "strong man" of the league, had confided to friends that he was determined to bring major league baseball to San Francisco.

Fagan added he did not care whether the Seals entered the big league as part of the eight-club Pacific Coast circuit or as a four-team group composed of themselves, Los Angeles, Oakland and Hollywood. That was in reference to the report that the executive council was contemplating adding the "Big Four" coast teams to the major league in two or three years.

"All I care about," Fagan was quoted as saying, "is that San Francisco gets the best available."

It also was learned that the "Big Four" coast teams, with the exception of the Chicago Cubs—owned Los Angeles club, had held a "secret" meeting several weeks ago to consider what steps would be necessary if the big leagues refuse the coast's request for major league status.

It appears almost a certainty that the American and National Leagues will not grant such a request. It is almost equally certain that the minors here will by-pass this matter, pending action by the majors next week.

Kansas City Pla-Mors Plaster Millers by 2-0

(By The Associated Press)

Kansas City Pla-Mors are in the cellar of the United States Hockey League's Northern Division, but as far as Minneapolis Millers are concerned—the Pla-Mors have the toughest club in the loop.

Kansas City pasted a 2-0 defeat on the Millers last night at Minneapolis, first shutout the league leaders have suffered at home this year.

Kansas City triumph also cut a victory string the Millers had run to six straight. Earlier in the season Minneapolis also bowed to the Pla-Mors after winning eight straight.

Despite the loss the Millers' first-place margin today is six points over second place St. Paul, Kansas City, with only five victories in addition to the two achieved over Minneapolis, is two points behind third-place Omaha.

Hank Blade and Bert Olmstead did all of Kansas City's scoring in the first period last night. Goalie Emile Francis turned back 34 Miller shots at the Pla-Mor goal.

In the night's only other contest Dallas went into second place in the Southern Division with a 2-1 victory over Fort Worth. Johnny Horeck and Joe Medynski took care of the Dallas scoring in the first period. Fort Worth's Len Mutcheson scored in the third period.

Tulsa is at Houston, Dallas at Fort Worth and Kansas City at St. Paul tonight.

U.S. COMMITTEE AWAITS DECISION OF SWITZERLAND

Organizers Want A. H. A. Team to Represent States at Olympic Games

Chicago, Dec. 4 (CP) — The United States Olympic Committee today awaited the decision of the Swiss organizing committee at St. Moritz concerning the "hot potato" status of who will make up the United States ice hockey team in the 1948 winter games.

Yesterday the United States committee, headed by Avery Brundage, threatened to withdraw all the United States' teams from the winter contests if the Swiss committee sticks to its preference for the ice hockey entry of the "professional and commercial" Amateur Hockey Association.

In London, however, John Ahearne, General Secretary of the International Ice Hockey Federation, termed the Chicago action "a bluff." He added:

"Avery Brundage can do whatever he pleases but he will not sabotage hockey at the Olympics . . . He won't play against a team of his committee's choice, and that's final."

The I.I.H.F. last year cancelled the membership of the Amateur Athletic Union and replaced it with the A.H.A.

Meanwhile in London, International Olympic Committee senior officials are saying nothing.

Efforts by The Canadian Press in London to clarify the situation have been of no avail.

A letter Nov. 12 to Albert Mayer, member of the Swiss organizing committee asked what his committee intended to do in the event they received an A.A.U. entry form as well as one from the A.H.A. of the United States.

This has not been answered.

The United States committee's action left the Swiss committee with the sole choice of approving the ice hockey team selected by United States Hockey Committee, backed by the United States Olympic group, which claims the A.H.A. is "commercial and professional."

At St. Moritz, where the winter games are scheduled Jan. 30-Feb. 8, Carl Nater, General Commissioner of the Swiss organizing committee, said "we cannot risk not to have the Americans here." He called a meeting of the 20 members of the Swiss Olympic Committee for Dec. 13 in St. Moritz to take formal action.

LOUIS, WALCOTT READY FOR BOUT

New York, Dec. 4 — (AP) — Joe Louis and Jersey Joe Walcott, both 33 which is aged as prize fighters go, took well-earned rest today to get in top mental and physical shape for tomorrow night's world heavyweight championship fight.

Odds ran as high as 10 to 1 Louis will retain the title he has held 10 years but there was comparatively little betting.

Last word from the champion's camp was the unanimous verdict of his sparring partners that he is better than ever.

The challenger's associates made similar claims for their man and also hinted they would rather see some other referee than Arthur Donovan in the Madison Square Garden ring for the 15-round fight. Louis said he didn't care.

Louis at 212 pounds will hold an 18-pound advantage over Walcott; his reach is 76 inches, two more than Walcott's; and at six feet two he is two inches taller.

In punching, speed, and ring craftsmanship the margin in favor of Louis is much greater.

Walcott broke his silence briefly enough last night to say "I'm going to hit him and I think I can win."

Beyond that he was strictly dead pan.

Only a museum piece?

The spectacular Whooping Crane was once common in Canada and the United States, but in the last thirty-five years it has become the rarest of North American birds. After scientific investigations, conducted from Texas to Saskatchewan, it has been estimated that there are less than thirty "Whoopers" in the world! Existing legal protection strengthened by public sentiment is essential to the survival of the species. To increase Canadians' appreciation of the need for conservation, The Carling Conservation Club issues free, authoritative literature on the many aspects of conservation to all its members, as well as colourful reprints of wildlife pictures.

In 1852, the last Great Auk was killed, as had been thousands upon thousands in the preceding years. This aquatic bird provides another example of the inevitable results of wholesale slaughter of wildlife.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Advices propitious to players slambitious pour out of me as if from buckets. Despite all these scoldings some still stretch their holdings for partners unskilled with the ducats.

Many players barely take the tricks that can come in from plays that are normal. In difficult contracts they may even lose some easy tricks. For such it is a poor policy to overbid any values.

An expert, on the other hand, knows how to manufacture an extra trick when it is possible. Only for such a partner is it worth the gamble of pushing a contract beyond the known trick count.

Interest yourself in this deal:

NORTH
♠K 10 5 2
♥A 4 2
♦A Q 3
♣A K Q

WEST
♠9 6 3
♥K 8 6 5

♦K 8 7 5 4 2
♣10 8 5 3

SOUTH
♠A 7 4
♥Q J 10 9 7 3
♣6 4 2

The bidding went like this:

South	North
Pass	2 NT
3 H	3 NT
4 H	4 NT
5 D	6 H

At no time did north see 12 tricks. Before starting for slam information, north had discovered only four tricks in north. With his own seven, north learned of only 11 tricks in their pair.

In answer to four no-trump, five diamonds is Kibitzer convention reply for showing one ace and no kings. Two kings in opponent hands make a slam look dangerous in many cases.

South will play the contract with hearts as trumps. If south was a poor player of the cards, a slam contract should not be bid. He would not be expected to figure out means of taking the 12th trick.

But south was an expert and north pushed it to a slam in hearts. West led a diamond. You can see what south is up against in the red suits and spades. Nevertheless, he made it. Could you?

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Dec. 4 —(AP)— Madeleine Carroll is here to stay, at least during next year. The English beauty, as radiant as ever says the situation looks too stormy in France and she has again rented her old house at Malibu. She starts talks with Paramount next week about her first post-war picture. Maybe another with Bob Hope? . . .

Charles Boyer, who was with Madeleine on a radio broadcast, said his picture for Enterprise, "The Passion of Eugene Aram," has been called off. Being an English costume drama, it was considered too costly for these thrifty times. Besides, the British lotes can do that sort of thing better. Boyer's next will be for Enterprise, but the story hasn't been selected yet . . .

Cornel Wilde hid some narration for a revised version of "Forever Amber," and 20th-Fox hopes the added wordage will please the censors. It carries the theme that "the wages of sin is death." . . . Another editing job was ordered for "The Gangster" after preview critics appeared confused about the plot . . .

Occupational Hazard

Rita Hayworth's neuralgia is troubling her back again. She has been absent from "Carmen" because of it. Rita got the ailment while standing scantily clad on a bleak hilltop during a location scene . . .

Gregory Peck and Laraine Day were greeted with a stellar turnout for their local legit debuts in "Angel Street" at the Biltmore. Joseph Cotten, Dorothy McGuire, Glen Ford, Sylvia Sidney, Cornel Wilde, Charles Korvin and even Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom were among the wellwishers. The coughing and tardy audience is one which Peck and Day will surely not want to face again.

Around the Lots

Joan Crawford is enlarging a wing of her house to accommodate two more children she plans to adopt . . . Esther Williams is heading to Soda Springs, Calif., to learn to ski for "The Duchess of Idaho" . . . Amos 'N' Andy celebrate their 20th anniversary on the air next February . . . Bette Davis has postponed her daughter's christening until after "Winter Meeting" . . . A big girl now, Diana Lynn is getting an apartment all her own.

AT THE BELLE — Gorgeous Martha Vickers is co-starred with Dane Clark and Sydney Greenstreet in Warner Bros. new comedy drama, "That Way With Women." "Danger Street" is the second new feature attraction on the same program.

X-Ray Pictures Of Siamese Twins To be Taken

Indianapolis, Dec. 4 — (AP) — Physicians at the Indiana University Medical Centre planned today to make x-ray pictures of the brains of the Speer babies, five-day-old Siamese twins who are joined at the tops of their heads.

The babies are joined by a bone three inches in diameter located at normal "soft spots" of their heads. Dr. Donald Casely said they apparently have a common brain tissue. Physicians have expressed hope that a separation operation will be possible.

The babies, who were brought here after their birth at Bedford, Ind., last Saturday, were "reasonably active and took nourishment without difficulty" yesterday, hospital attendants said.

AT THE McCARTHY — Deborah Kerr featured with David Farrar, Sabu and Flora Robson in the Technicolor hit, "Black Narcissus," starting at the McCarthy Theatre on Friday.

DANISH PRINCESS TO MARRY KING MICHAEL?

This exclusive photo of King Michael of Romania and Princess Anne, daughter of Prince Rene of Bourbon-Parma was made when the two attended a theatre performance in London recently. They witnessed the wedding of Princess Elizabeth and Philip, Duke of Edinburgh. A source close to the Danish royal family reported they will probably announce their engagement within a month. The couple are now together in Switzerland.

AT THE CAPITOL — Turhan Bey and Maria Montez in a scene from the brilliant Technicolor attraction "Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves," with Jon Hall and Andy Devine. The big attraction opens tonight at the Capitol Theatre with the added western "Pioneer Justice," starring Lash LaRue and Al Fuzzy St. John.

CHAMPION LAMB

Chicago, Dec. 4 — (CP) — The entry of Terence Beardmore of Mono Mills, Ont., last night was named champion breeding Suffolk lamb in the sheep division of the 48th International Livestock Show. The champion breeding Suffolk ewe was chown by the Elmcraft farm of Oshawa.

CHAPTER 12.

Deep in her heart, however, she knew what ailed her dsposition, why she had so pessimistic an outlook upon life. It was Chuck's fault. He had left the camp without seeking her out, without bidding her good-bye. Yet why she should have expected him to do otherwise after the way she had treated him, she could not explain.

She only knew he should be here with her, that his road was her road, and that nothing but Chuck would ever be important to her. In shielding him from dishonor, she was being heroic, nearly unbearably so, but her love for him was beyond her control. It had come to her unbidden, it had remained with her it would remain—always.

Webb was now a bigger nuisance than ever. He tried to be masterful and was only ridiculous; he criticized her every action, he was boastful. Two months! If she could only be lucky enough to find something to do in the business world during that period!

Desperate, Kay entered deeper and deeper into ceaseless carousal of gayety at the lake. She danced, she swam, she rode surf boards, took trips in speeding motorboats over rough waters, she loved being in a sailboat during a squall. She tried to flirt but had no zest for it, she tried to read, but her mind refused to fasten on the printed words. The story people always came out so right in the end and she was feeling more and more now that her life could never come right in any end.

She at length received a letter from the agency, asking her to come immediately to Albany to meet a clinent who was looking for a hostess. Nothing further than that was explained in the letter, but it appealed to Kay as a heaven-sent opportunity.

She was sparkling that night at dinner and announced her departure in the morning.

Webb Taylor glowered at her from across the table. For a worried second she thought he was going to say something unpleasant, but he only remarked, with a quiet mockery, "A heavy date at Deweyton, I presume."

Her old spirit flared up to meet his challenge. She had had enought of his jealous meddling.

If it's important for you to know—I'm hoping to fill a business position."

Ohs and ahs came from arouna the table.

"Business?" Webb laughed but his eyes snapped. "What do you profess to know about business?"

He dashed out his cigarette and rose without excusing himself. Generally he was rude when angry.

Kay allowed him to leave the room without answering him, although she was slightly perturbed by the way he was acting.

Gloria urged Kay to change her plans about leaving, but when Kay insisted that she must get into the business of making her own living, Gloria accepted the decision as final, was all sympathy, and sent her maid to Kay's room to pack her trunks.

Kay was going to Albany on the early morning train. It was so satisfying to have a constructive plan to act upon that she began to be nearly happy. Her business outlook, she thought, was entirely hopeful. She was confident that the agency would not have sent for her unless there were a possibility of her being acceptable as a hostess. Where she was supposed to act in this capacity, she had no idea, but at least she could look over what the position offered in the way of congenial employment and remuneration. If she didn't care for the set-up, she need not accept the offer.

Her relief, unfortunately, was decidedly brief, for Webb accompanied her to the station in the morning, her luggage piled with hers in the station truck. It was maddening, but she dared not make a scene and get rid of him now.

There was nothing but a dirty, stuffy day coach on this early train into the city. This was the last straw. With Webb beside her on the uncomfortable red plush seat, she attempted, as the train pulled away, a nonchalant wave of farewell to Gloria and the other members of the camp crowd who had come down to see her off.

For a long time, she did not trust herself to speak to the man at her side. She was storming within herself like a hurricane in full blast.

Webb sat smiling down at her in veiled amusement.

"You can't get away with it, Kay. Making this move without consulting me—your promised husband," he said, at last.

She dropped her eyes, twisted the clasp of the blue linen handbag in her lap. She drew her short blue linen jacket tighter about her rigid figure, making herself too busy to reply.

He offered sourly, "Are you listening to me?"

She finally got out, "I—I suppose so."

"You're not taking a position—anywhere. It's entirely preposterous! If you need a trousseau—if that's worrying you—I'll arrange a most eleborate one. You should know that."

She drew herself up quickly, her eyes filled with loathing. She smiled up at him a little crookedly.

"How long will you continue to run my affairs?"

He moistened his lips with his tongue. He gave her an angry glance. His ugly expression fairly startled her.

"We're done with al the tomfoolery! I think we'd better get married—no sense in waiting out the two months. Let people gossip if they like."

Back Hurt; Limbs Ached Felt Tired And Rundown

Stomach Out of Order; Nerves on Edge, Couldn't Sleep — Tells of Grand Results He Got by Taking Syntona.

"During recent years, in addition to long working hours, I have had sickness and death in my family, which placed me under a very severe physical strain," said Mr. Delbert W. Ostertag, Welland Street, Chippawa, Ontario, in a recent report.

"As a result I became badly rundown. Loss of sleep, poor appetite, constant nerve tension brought on many other symptoms that made me feel sick and miserable. I suffered from indigestion, gas and sour stomach after my meals; I got dizzy spells and frequent headaches, my back and limbs ached all over and I felt tired and wornout.

"Several friends were talking to me about Syntona, and when I read in the paper how it was helping other people, I decided to get some. Now, this medicine has surely proved a blessing to me and I don't know how I could have carried on without it. Appetite is improved so that I can once again eat and relish my meals. It helped to steady my nerves and since then I sleep soundly and have regained my lost strength and energy. Also, I am free of headaches and dizzy spells and the aches and pains are gone away."

MR. D. W. OSTERTAG

Many, many people who have used Syntona have said, "this medicine helped me when I needed it most." Made from 12 Herbs and Roots, Syntona promotes better digestion and assimilation of food for increased strength and energy, drives excess acids and impurities from the system — makes you feel better.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST.

WHAT'S MINING?

The term "mining" covers all processes whereby minerals are recovered from the earth, including surface workings, underground workings and borings.

Adapts Synthetic Sausage Skin For Artificial Kidney

Stockholm, Dec. — (AP)—Synthetic sausage skin is used by a Swedish scientist, Prof. Nils Alwall, of lund, to make an artificial kidney, which he describes in Acta Medica- Scandanavica.

There have been other artificial kidneys, but this is probably the simplest one.

A tube is made of sausage skin. Each end of the tube is attached to a vien. Blood coming from the body enters one end of the tube and passes back into the body through the other.

During this detour outside the body, the tube conducts the blood through a can filled with salts in solution, a water-coloured liquid. The blood does not leave the sausage tube during this passage, but some of the impurities get out into canned solution. Heparin prevents the blood from clotting while in the sausage.

The salts have an attraction for the contents of the blood in the tube. The skin is slightly porous, but the openings are too small to permit the red blood corpuscles and most of the other parts of the bloodstream to penetrate.

Some of the poisons in the blood, being very small particles, pass through the sausage walls into the salt solution. The substances removed are nitrogens, uric acid and phenols and some other impurities that normally would be removed by the kidneys.

Constant Circulation

The salt solution in the can is kept in constant circulation and is changed from time to time as it fills with the impurities from the detoured blood.

In this process the artificial sausage does some of the filtering job that is performed by a normal, healthy kidney.

Prof. Alwall's purpose is an emergency use of the outside sausage tube when the kidney is not functioning. He designed the artificial kidney especially for use in uremic poisoning. This condition, due to kidneys stopping their work can be fatal in a short time.

But the primary disease may be elsewhere than in the kidney. If the primary disease can be relieved quickly, such as in a couple of weeks, the patient might be saved because the kidneys would begin to function again.

In using the artificial kidney the blood from the veins has to be run through the sausage 20 to 25 times. This requires about 12 hours.

Born in Coop, Baby Boy Cared For in Hospital

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 4 — (CP)— A 19-year-old mother and her seven-pound son — born in a chicken coop because the father could find no other home for his family — were given shelter in hospital yesterday. Both are doing well.

Charles Sawyer, 19, said he and has wife had lived in the coop since they were evicted two months ago from an overcrowded house. He had been hunting for a proper home ever since.

Finds Law Study More Attractive Than Journalism

By MARILYN LAMBORN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto (CP) — Taking the legal wind out opposition sails is much more exciting than scoring the "scoop" of the year—anyway that's one reason why 18 year-old Bernice Evans forgot about being a reporter and enrolled in law school at Osgoode Hall here.

Now the Weston Ont. brunette who had journalistic ambitions, is neck deep in torts suits and contracts, youngest of 17 first-year women struggling for recognition with 300 male law students

Instead of yearnings to follow the footsteps of filmland's Lana Turner or sportsdom's Mrs. Mildred (Babe) Didrickson Zaharias the budding female barristers will tell you they worship at the feet of modern Portias now practicing across the Dominion.

"Nothing embarrasses us any more" said the reserved Miss Evans. "We girls don't feel uncomfortable with all those men, but if they would only get used to having us around everything would be fine." Lurid bits of crime recounted in class don't bother her.

Unlike Bernice who wants to be a criminal lawyer when she finishes her five-year course red-headed Janet Lang of Kitchener, Ont., is interested in political theory and aspires to the diplomatic service or industrial law.

Interesting Career

Both girls uphold the legal profession for women. They say it offers one of the most interesting careers to be found in Canada.

"Some lawyers have risen to be judges," said 22-year-old Janet, letting her deep-blue eyes look far into the future.

Both think it possible to combine marriage with a law career, but studies and not boy friends occupy their minds at the moment.

Bernice has become an accomplished singer but she is not allowing music lessons to interfere with her legal studies. All her attention for the next few years will be centred on the 25 odd subjects she will have to master before receiving her degree.

The girls realize they are in a profession comparatively new for women and therefore must work harder to reap its rewards.

First women lawyer admitted to the bar in Canada was Miss Clara Brett Martin of Toronto, who graduated from Osgoode Hall in 1896. Since then women have entered the profession in ever increasing numbers. In Quebec they have to wait longer for recognition than in any other province, with three women admitted to the bar for the first time in 1942.

Horse Problem Worries Committee

Washington, Dec. 4 —(AP)— The United States Senate is ready to start horsing around, literally.

An armed services sub-committee was to meet Wednesday to decide what to do with 234 European-born horses which were captured by the U. S. Army and shipped to this country.

It's odd that one result of a mechanized war should be an argument over horses. But these are extra special beasts.

They are from famed stud farms, and some of them had ancestors which were well-known before the U. S. Senate opened for business.

Here are the questions to be answered:

1. Are these horses legitimate booty? Are they true prizes of war? Or,
2. Should they be sent back to where they came from?

The answer may affect more than horses. It also may apply to art treasures, Hohenzollern silver and various bits of historic hardware picked up by an acquisitive army.

The horses originally lived in Austria, Hungary, Poland or Yugoslavia. But with the German conquest, they were, of course, promptly moved to German stud farms. That's where they were when the Americans came.

Drew Calls on Labor to Rid its Ranks of Reds

Ottawa, Dec. 4 (CP)—Warning that the ultimate aim of Communists in Canada, as elsewhere, was revolution with "bayonets and guns" Premier Drew called on Canadian labor yesterday to rid its ranks of "the treacherous fifth column" of Communism.

The Premier spoke after he was presented with an Honorary Doctor of Laws Degree by the University of Ottawa, the first time in the centennial history of the institution that such a degree has been presented to a Premier of the province.

Mr. Drew said Communism definitely was a threat to freedom but he believed the vast majority of industrial workers in Canada "have no use whatever for Communism and its vile, anti-Christian doctrines." Canadian workers could do a great service to their country by ousting Communists from their ranks.

Institutions such as the university could also do much to assist in the fight against Communism by stressing formation of character among students.

Canadians should take warning from what was happening in France and Italy where Communist-directed strikes were paralyzing services and seriously threatening the securities of both countries.

Canadians should also read the Communist platform outlined by Tim Buck of Toronto, leader of the Labor-Progressive party, Mr. Drew said. In that platform Mr. Buck said the communistic aim was to obtain control of labor unions as a first step toward revolution. And by revolution, the Communists meant the minority forcing their will on the majority by use of "bayonets, guns and rifles."

THRONE SPEECH STRESSES EXCHANGE PROBLEM

Blizzard Sweeps Across Province, Roads Hazardous

St. Catharines Resident Collapses, Dies on Street

(By The Canadian Press)

One death resulted today as a blizzard-like snow storm, turning to freezing rain, swept across Southern Ontario, forcing suspension of navigation through the Welland Canal and making driving hazardous on highways where two to eight inches of snow piled into drifts much deeper.

The storm death occurred at St. Catharines where John Andrew Frizzel collapsed and died on the street. He is thought to have suffered a heart attack while trudging through the snow.

At Toronto about 800 persons were stranded on Toronto Island, a mile across Toronto Bay, when the Toronto Transportation Commission suspended ferry operations because of low visibility. Traffic tie-ups, including derailment of street-cars, caused thousands of others to be late for work.

At Oshawa spring-like flood conditions were caused at the harbor by huge waves bursting over a breakwater.

The Ontario Department of Highways, advising motorists to postpone trips, said the storm raged heaviest over an area south of Georgian Bay and east of Lake Huron with the greatest snowfall from around Orangeville north. In this section roads were heavy but open. Galt reported a northeast gale.

Roads Slippery

South of there all roads were slippery because of freezing rain and there would be no improvement in driving conditions all day the Department said. Northern Ontario road conditions were good because the storm did not extend north of Muskoka.

The weather man generally did not offer much encouragement for improvement of conditions with predictions of snowflurries or intermittent rain or snow for the southern part of that province.

Navigation on the Welland Canal was suspended at 8.15 a.m. for two hours until conditions created by freezing rain improved. The ice made it almost impossible to raise and lower bridges. Several vessels were held up at various points along the canal.

Six Trolleys Derailed

In Toronto at least six trolley cars were derailed and numerous minor accidents caused heavy traffic jams. The storm even affected trading on the Stock Exchange with few traders appearing because of transportation tie-ups.

Whipped by 25-mile-an-hour gusts, Lake Ontario roared over a breakwater at Oshawa and a number of summer-cottage-type homes on a sand bar were surrounded by nearly two feet of water. The bar forms part of Oshawa harbor and the cottages have tenants because of the Housing shortage. A truck took one girl out to work this morning and other residents were forced to don hip-high waders.

The storm extended eastward as far as Kingston where light snow began at 8 a.m. It was expected to reach the Ottawa area later today.

Planes Grounded

Visibility of about 500 yards at Malton airport near Toronto grounded the 8.30 a.m. Montreal-Ottawa flight of Trans-Canada Air Lines and the 9 a.m. New York flight. Decision on later flights awaited abatement of the storm.

About 800 persons living on Toronto Island, a mile across Toronto Bay, were unable to go to work this morning when the Toronto Transportation Commission suspended ferry operations, because of weather conditions.

Many of those stranded on the island were able to go to work later when two tugs took up the task of the ferries.

Hamilton — An alert engineer, who brought his slowly-crawling freight train to a stop within 10 feet, was credited today with saving the lives of three workmen who were shaken up when the train telescoped their car against an iron pole. The car had skidded on ice into the train's path.

PRE-CHRISTMAS PARLIAMENTARY SESSION OPENS

Control of Prices, Commodities, to Rank High in Legislative Slate

Ottawa, Dec. 5 (CP)— Parliament meets today for a pre-Christmas session dominated by the country's economic ills.

Meeting two months ahead of the normal time, members of the Commons will troop into the high-ceilinged Senate Chamber shortly after 3 p.m. to hear the traditional Speech from The Throne outline the government plans to cope with Canada's shortage of foreign currency and the rising domestic price structure.

The broad outlines already have been made public in the program of moderate austerity announced and put into effect two weeks ago but there may be other legislative action aimed at bringing speedier improvement to the situation.

Control, both of prices and commodities, also will rank high in the legislative slate since the government now must seek the extension of wartime powers under which it is continuing what is left of the once-far-reaching stabilization program. These emergency powers are due to lapse Dec. 31.

Will Read Speech

The Parliamentary opening, though premature will follow customary procedure. The Governor General, Viscount Alexander will read the Speech in the Senate, after which the Commoners will return to their own chamber.

However, there may be one departure. While the House normally adjourns immediately the opening formalities are completed it is understood the mover and seconder of the address may speak today to open the way for opposition party leaders to take the floor when the House settles down to business Monday.

J. A. Dion, Liberal member for Lake St. Jean-Roberval, will move the address and J. H. Dickey, newly-elected Liberal from Halifax will second it.

Sit Until Dec. 19

Present plans call for the House to sit until Dec. 19, when it would adjourn until late in January.

Fiery debate is expected to develop almost from the opening. Opposition party leaders have indicated they and their supporters plan to take the government to task for the way in which it has handled the control and currency programs. They will have ample opportunity since most of the bills to be debated are expected to deal with those subjects.

PARIS CRIPPLED AS STRIKE CHOKES ELECTRIC POWER

Govt. Employees Begin Walking Off the Job

Paris, Dec. 5. (AP) — The French government, harried by crippling, Communist-furthered work stoppages for higher wages, ran head on into another strike today when Government employees began walking off the job.

The first immediate effect was to choke off electric power, halting factories, stopping the subways and blocking communications. Sailors and mobile guards moved into the power houses at once and got some of the generators going again, but Paris remained badly crippled.

The Council of the Republic, Upper Chamber of France's Legislature, was summoned to ratify the drastic anti-strike, anti-sabotage legislation passed yesterday by the National Assembly, the Lower House.

The new law is aimed at breaking strikes which have rendered idle more than 2,000,000 workers for almost three weeks.

Police opened an investigation of a bombing late last night at the home of Communist Leader Maurice Thorez in suburban Choisy-le-Roi. A grenade exploded beside the house but Thorez was out of the city and there was only slight damage.

Today's power failure was the second in Paris this week. Police cleared sitdown strikers from six power plants Tuesday morning and got power on after a blackout of several hours caused by a strike of electrical workers.

Major Factories Closed

This morning, the power failed at 8 a.m., but lights came back on in 45 minutes in some parts of the city in top priority buildings such as radio, telegraph and news wire relay centres. Power lines to major factories apparently remained down, however.

The strike call to State and Public workers is for a "token walkout" which is to end Tuesday night. Some Public workers were called out for five days, beginning today, others for two days starting Monday.

The joint Board of Public Service Unions voted the strike to back up their demands for a raise from the present 8,500 franc monthly minimum wage to 10,800 francs. The government has offered 10,000 francs.

Offer Slight Raise

In terms of official dollar equivalents, this would mean the government has offered to raise the minimum wage from $71 to $84 a month, while the Union wants $7 a month more.

Approximately 1,200,000 government employees are expected to be left idle by this "warning strike".

Electric power production—80 per cent of normal.

Railroad traffic—80 per cent of normal.

In the great Lille coal region, the ministry said, only 37,000 of 120,000 miners remained on strike.

On the other hand, Marseille, France's second largest city and greatest port, remained paralyzed. A general strike was called at Nice. At Lyon parachute troops forced strikers to replace paving stones they had torn up to use in barricades.

Discount Idea Economic Crisis In Soviet Union

(By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER)

London, Dec. 5 —(AP)— Citizens of the Soviet Union may be on a buying spree, as American reports say, but any idea of an economic crisis in the Soviet Union is discounted by diplomatic informants here.

The United States State Department's "Voice of America Radio" broadcast in 23 languages from Washington said Wednesday night that a wave of "panic buying" in Russia had been touched off by widespread rumors of prospective price increases and devaluation of the Russian ruble.

Reports reaching London from sources familiar with conditions inside the Soviet Union bear out the Washington report that a buying spree is under way.

According to the best information available here, however, a buying splurge would not necessarily indicate a state of panic of an economic crisis, although it might reflect popular nervousness and an unsteady public confidence.

Among authorities familiar with the Soviet economy, the money problem of the Russians is said to be one of currency surplus. People have more rubles than there are goods to buy. It is this fact which has given at least a tinge of validity to the rumors. A currency change would be one way of draining off the excess from millions of pocket books and to some extent of levelling out as well as reducing available buying power.

Conservatives Retain Epsom Seat in Commons

Epsom, Surrey, England, Dec. 5 (Reuters)—The Conservatives retained their Epsom House of Commons seat in yesterday's by-election when the Conservative candidate, Malcolm McCorquodale was returned with a majority of 12,173 over Labor and Liberal opponents, results showed today.

The victory was much more decisive than when the Conservative candidate was elected in the 1945 general elections that brought Labor to power.

McCorquodale polled 33,635 votes to 17,339 for the Labor candidate, R. Bishop, and 4,121 for D. A. Scott Cairns, Liberal.

In 1945 the Conservatives polled 27,081 against Labor's 20,533 and the Liberal candidates 6,643.

The by-election was caused by the resignation through ill health of Sir Archibald Southby, who had held the seat for the Conservatives for nearly 20 years.

Epsom was the fourth contest in the current "little general election." In the three previous by-elections of the present series Labor retained two seats—Gravesend and East Edinburgh—while the Conservatives held Howdenshire constituency in Yorkshire.

Today's results followed the pattern of all by-elections held since the Labor government was elected. In each case Labor has retained the seat held by the party after the general election and the Conservatives have done the same.

Two further by-elections will be fought early in the new year—at Camlachie, Glasgow, and Wigan, Lancashire, both left vacant by the deaths of Labor members.

Today's increase in the Conservative vote was hailed by Conservatives as underlining the swing towards the right demonstrated in the recent municipal elections throughout Britain and to a somewhat lesser extent in the other parliamentary by-elections. The Epsom contest showed the greatest gain for the Conservatives in these contests.

Safecrackers Raid Three Offices

Toronto, Dec. 5 (CP)—Safecrackers, raiding three offices in Central and West Toronto last night, made off with more than $3,000.

A hardwood store was missing $2,000, an abattoir $1,000 and a wholesale fruit office $100.

Police Inspector Miller Watson said the thieves were: "Strictly amateurs." They did far more work than was needed in opening the safes.

Holland, Canada, U.S. Agree on Plan Over Nazi Assets

Washington, Dec. 5 (AP)—The United States, Canada and The Netherlands have agreed on a system to settle conflicting claims to $500,000,000 in Nazi assets in 18 countries, the State Department announced today.

The agreement, which must be approved by the United States Congress, pledges each government to accept the verdict of a conciliator in all such arguments.

Representatives of seven Allied countries negotiated the agreement after 18 months of discussion Acting State Secretary Robert Lovett said.

State Department officials said Yugoslavia refused to sign the accord because that country disagreed with the definition of Nazi assets. Belgium has promised to sign Jan. 3, and these officials said they hope Britain and France, the other two negotiating powers, will sign later.

The accord also is open to 11 other European countries which are members of the Inter-Allied Reparations Agency, plus neutrals and South American countries.

Officials said the agreement should eliminate the lengthy delays and legal wrangles over enemy assets which followed the First World War. Some such cases still are pending before the courts.

Russia is not a member of the Inter-Allied Agency on reparations and thus did not participate in the talks although it is eligible to join in the agreement.

Assets in Austria, one of the main disputes holding up an Austrian peace treaty, are not covered because the accord involves only Nazi assets in Allied, neutral and South American countries.

Now Subject To Civil Suits For Damages

Frankfurt, Dec. 5 (AP) —Germans who denounced fellow Germans to the Nazis now are subject to civil damage suits under a recent ruling of the Supreme Court of the United States-occupied State of Hesse.

The ruling is expected to produce a flood of damage suits by Germans who were thrown into prison or concentration camps because some acquaintance "squealed" to the Nazis about their anti-Nazi views.

In upholding the right of a Nazi victim to claim damages from his denunciator, the German court declared:

"A person who denounced another individual for a political offence during the Nazi regime had to consider the possibility that the offender wuld not be dealt with by a regular law court, but in an arbitrary manner, possibly by secret police."

What happened to people opposing the Nazis was common knowledge in Germany, the court said.

Consequently, the court held, one can not apply to Nazi informers the usual legal sanction given persons who reveal criminals to public authorities.

FIRES OUT OF CONTROL

Jerusalem —(AP)—Fires swept out of control in an Arab attack on all-Jewish Tel Aviv tonight as the week's deaths in communal fighting in the Middle East passed the 100 mark.

WILL FIRE ON MOBS

Paris —(AP)— The Minister of Interior announced to the National Assembly tonight he had authorized French police to fire on mobs. Communist deputies shouted "assassin!"

New Name Suggested

Oshawa, Dec. 5 (CP) — "The Princess Elizabeth Way" was suggested Wednesday as a name for the Toronto-Oshawa two-lane highway officially opened Tuesday. Hon. Gordon D. Conant, former Ontario Premier who was a Liberal member of the legislature for Ontario riding when construction of the road was started, made the suggestion at a Chamber of Commerce dinner celebrating its opening. It has been temporarily numbered 2A.

JOSEPH SCOTT, VICTIM'S BROTHER DENIES SLAYING

Iris Did Not Live At Home Says Father

Toronto, Dec. 5 — (CP) — Joseph Scott, a partly-bald young man who limped on an artificial leg, told a coroner's jury yesterday that he did not kill his 21-year-old sister Iris, or her friend, George Vigus, 39, and that he had no idea who might have killed them.

Hesitant and slow of speech during most of his testimony, Scott gave clear, firm answers to the point-blank questioning of Crown Counsel Henry Bull:

"Did you kill Iris?"

"No sir."

"Did you kill George Vigus?"

"No sir."

"Do you know who did?"

"No sir."

The hour-long questioning of Scott highlighted the second day of the inquest into the strangle-slaying of the couple, whose bodies were found jammed into the trunk of Vigus's automobile Sept. 12 in Toronto's west-end High Park.

The inquest was tentatively scheduled to end today, but a dozen witnesses remained to be heard, including Mrs. Olive Vigus, widow of the dead man. His son, 19-year-old George Vigus, Jr., was also expected to be recalled after a brief appearance on the stand Wednesday.

Knew Little of Killing

Peter Scott, the slain girl's father, testified yesterday that Iris had lived away from home for the last year, since the family had been forced to move to smaller accommodations. He did not know of anyone who could have been responsible for her death.

The witness had met Vigus only once and had not known of any close relationship between Vigus and his daughter.

Joseph Scott said he had known Vigus and had once told him to stay away from Iris. Scott said his own relations with his sister were generally friendly but admitted they had occasionally quarrelled.

The witness said he had "definitely not" had improper relations with his sister. Earlier testimony had quoted "gossip" at the office where Iris worked as hinting at the possibility.

Under questioning, Scott admitted he had had "a discussion" with Iris over improper conduct about two years before she died.

KILLS YOUNG FAWN WITH AXE

Barrie, Dec. 5 —(CP)— Mrs. Royce Richardson, R. R. 2, opened the first deer season in Simcoe county in several years by killing a young fawn with an axe. Mrs. Richardson found her collie dog tearing at the fawn's side after the fawn had tripped going over a fence.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Dec. 5 — (CP)—Synopsis: A storm over Southern Michigan will move eastward across Southern Ontario during the day. Snow and rain precede the storm centre by about 400 miles and will be followed by scattered snowflurries. Snowfalls in Ontario during the night were from two to four inches.

Lasting Solution Needed to Preserve Future Well-Being

Continuation of Certain Wartime Controls Sought

By GEORGE KITCHEN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Dec. 5 —(CP)— A permanent solution to Canada's exchange problems and her future well-being rests upon the revival of world trade, Parliament was told today in the Speech from the Throne read at the opening of the pre-Christmas sitting of the fourth session of the 20th Parliament.

The Speech, read by the Governor-General in the Senate Chamber, traced the "complicated" foreign exchange position to the inability of Canada's customers to increase their exports in sufficient measure to pay for their imports from the Dominion.

It noted that "temporary" measures — the Government's recently announced program of moderate austerity — have been put into effect to conserve and supplement the country's reserves of U. S. dollars and said they will be submitted for Parliamentary approval.

Program Outlined

It also announced:

1. The shortage of U. S. currency will "necessarily limit" Canada's capacity to give further economic aid to other countries.

2. Nevertheless, Canada will continue, as far as possible, to apply the principal of mutual assistance.

3. The government plans to seek the continuation of certain wartime controls due to expire Dec. 31.

4. Government departments immediately concerned have been directed "to keep under constant supervision conditions of production and supply which tend to raise the level of consumer prices."

The speech also forecast the introduction of legislation relating to a proposed increase in the initial wheat payment, plans for low-rental housing project for veterans and consolidation of all statutes pertaining to the armed services.

Revise Income Tax Law

The government also plans to re-introduce bills dealing with a federal labor code, revision of the income tax law and simplification of the Dominions Elections Act — measures which came before the House last session but were not acted upon.

There will be miscellaneous bills relating to veterans and one to amend the Canada Shipping Act.

The joint parliamentary committees charged with drafting a bill of human rights and fundamental freedoms and revising the out-dated Indian Act will be re-established.

Of the domestic situation the Speech said there is a "continuing need" for some controls and forecast that the parliamentarians will be asked to approve an address for the continuation of "certain orders and regulations" due to expire Dec. 31, "for a further period."

It noted, too that price ceilings have been restored in cases where increases were felt to have been "unjustified," and added:

Supervise Production

"Officials of the departments of government most immediately concerned have been directed to keep under constant supervision conditions of production and supply which tend to raise the level of consumer prices."

The Speech gave no indication of the increase planned in the initial price paid to wheat producers but it has been suggested that the advance will be $1.55 from the present $1.35-a-bushel rate.

It said demand for primary products generally continues to remain "at high levels" and reported that greater number of houses are being completed this year than in any previous year, despite the continuing scarcity of supplies and high building costs.

The Speech noted the marriage of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip and said the people of Canada "extend all good wishes for their future happiness."

Highlights From Throne Speech

Ottawa, Dec. 5. (CP)—Following are highlights of the Throne Speech read at the opening of Parliament by the Governor-General, Viscount Alexander:

Measures aimed at meeting Canada's shortage of American dollars will be submitted to parliament for approval.

Parliament will be asked to ratify the trade agreements reached at the International Trade Conference in Geneva.

Further Canadian assistance to European recovery will have to take into account the exchange difficulties which have arisen.

Government officials have been directed to keep under constant supervision conditions of production and supply which tend to raise the level of consumer prices.

Parliament will be asked to consider plans for a low rental homes project for veterans.

A Federal Labor Code and Bill amending the Income Tax Act, the Dominions Election Act and the Canada Shipping Act, all introduced at the last session but not considered, will be re-introduced.

The speech said that a Bill to consolidate all statutes relative to defence will be placed before parliament.

Measures relating to war veterans also will be introduced.

The select joint committee on Human Right and Fundamental Freedoms and on revision of the Indian Act will be re-established.

Duke of Windsor Taught to Crochet By Mother, Improved Skill in Army

New York, Dec. 5 (AP) —The Duke of Windsor, writing a frank account of his upbringing as a Prince, reveals that he learned to crochet as a boy and that his pastime later served him well when he was in the army.

In the first of a series of three articles on his childhood being published in Life Magazine, the Duke wrote of his proficiency with the crochet needle and said that he and his brother, "Bertie" now King George VI, and his sister Mary, were taught the art by their mother, Queen Mary.

The Duke explained he increased his skill with the needle "many years later, during an enforced period in bed while recovering from a riding accident."

"At the beginning of the last war, when attached to a British mission with the French Army, I was obliged to make long motor trips back and forth to the combat zone. I returned once more to my gentle diversion, as a means of killing time."

The Duke, who has seven given names but said he was always "David" to his family, wrote he was born at "a wonderful time." His birth date was June 23, 1894.

"Especially for Britons of the Upper and Middle classes, this was Britain's golden hour," he wrote. "Income tax was measured in the pence on pound sterling. Socialism was scarcely more than a theory. It was hard to imagine that anything could shake the structure of the Englishman's world."

Amendment to Cut Peers' Veto to One Month Scored by Morrison

London, Dec. 5 (CP) — Deputy Prime Minister Morrison said in the Commons last night that the work of the lower house would be impeded if there were no upper chamber like the House of Lords and called "Bolshevism gone mad" an amendment by Emrys Hughes, Labor member of the Commons for South Ayrshire to reduce the period of the peers' veto powers to one month.

Morrison spoke in committee debate on the parliamentary bill to cut from two years to one the period for which the Lords can delay Commons legislation. He was the leading sponsor of the bill when it recently passed second reading.

On another member's suggestion that the veto period should be cut to six months, he said it should "be taken notice of in quarters, including the Lords."

Both amendments were withdrawn.

Morrison said it would be stretching the doctrine of the Commons mandate "very far" to assume it had a case for virtual abolition of the House of Lords. He doubted if the parliamentary system could work without a second chamber which was needed for revisions and amendments while the Commons proceeded with legislation.

CHARLES EDEN STEPS IN FRONT OF CAR, BOTH LEGS BROKEN

Stepping unexpectedly in front of a moving auto which was slowing to a stop near the Crystal Hotel, 87-year-old Charles Eden, former upholsterer, suffered fractures of both legs when he was knocked to the pavement shortly before the supper hour last evening.

Driver of the car, Herbert Carter, Purdy Street, stated that he had been proceeding north on Front Street when as he was slowing up behind a bus which had stopped to take on passengers, Mr. Eden had stepped out from behind a parked car in front of his moving auto. The bumper and headlight struck the aged man knocking him to the pavement. He was later rushed to Belleville Hospital in Bush's ambulance where he is under the care of Dr. R. S. Gibson.

Regional Director Guest Speaker At Y's Men's Club

Gord Henry, Regional Director of the Ontario Region, was guest speaker at the regular Y's men's Dinner meeting on Thursday evening, when he brought greetings from Y's Men International, explained the set-up of the International organization and spoke of the work being carried on by the various Y's Men's clubs which are active in 28 countries of the world. The Y's Men's Clubs could be a vital part in bringing the world peace sought by all. There are so many different faiths, languages and customs and this along with the distrust of nations and peoples present a problem which the Y's Men could help solve.

The speaker also dealt with the value of youth organizations, and urged that the Belleville Y's Men's club consider more of this type of work.

The speaker was introduced by District Governor Bud Trill and thanked by Les Reid. Don Amos was Sgt.-at-Arms and Roy Wilcox song leader. Guests at the meeting included: Frank Leslie of Ingersoll, Rev. Mel Buttars, Max Dowsett, and the new Y. M. C. A. General Secretary Mr. Al J. Davis of Montreal Central "Y". Mr. Davis who was introduced to the meeting by Joe Shortt, the retiring General Secretary, spoke briefly expressing pleasure at being present and hearty thanks for the hospitality shown him by the Y's Men's Club.

Plans were made for a Christmas Family Party for members of the club, their wives and children to be held before Christmas.

What City Council Did in Committee

City council will ask the Public Utilities Commission to pay the additional expense in refilling the Purdy Street sewer trench after frost conditions had set in last autumn, it was decided by council members in committee on Thursday evening.

The H. J. McFarland Construction Company of Picton had been awarded the sewer contract and it was stated this firm had been held up in refilling the trench because of delay in the watermains being laid. This had caused the construction firm, running into frost conditions with result that the trench had to be refilled with the use of a bulldozer, thus causing additional expense. The amount of the extra cost was $780.

Council voted that the amount of the bill be paid to the McFarland Construction Company and that the city solicitor write the Utilities Commission advising that the delay in completion of the Purdy Street watermain had caused the additional expense above the contract price. Council was of the opinion that additional charge should be paid by the Commission.

The public works chairman, the city comptroller and city engineer were named a committee to inspect the Diamond Construction Company tender re the Sidney Street sewer.

Authority was given to sell the old city-owned roller at a price of $150 unless a higher price could be obtained.

The Public Utilities were given authority to cut down trees on Albion Street at their own expense. These trees were stated to be obstructing the erection of a power line.

Reflectors on the overhead railway bridge on North Front Street were recommended replaced, while Station Street between Front and Pinnacle will be marked for a two-way traffic lane and no parking signs to be placed on the north side.

J. Roblin Dulmage was given an extension of his building covenant at his lot on McDonald Ave. Miss Marjorie Aston will be employed as a stenographer at the city clerk's office.

SAFE CRACKERS ROB HOMES

Detroit, Dec. 5 — (CP) — Safe crackers escaped with more than $19,000 in money, bonds and jewelry in thefts from two Detroit homes here last night. Charles Gross lost $12,000 in bonds and $650 in cash, while Harry Anderson lost $50 in jewelry and a 200-pound safe containing $6,125 in government bonds and $200 in cash.

Frankford Mourns As Last Rites Held For Jean Badgley

Residents from the entire Frankford district as well as friends in Belleville joined in mourning with members of the Badgley family at Frankford yesterday afternoon as funeral services were held for one of the district's most popular young women.

Miss Jean Badgley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Badgley, Frankford, met tragic death at her parents' home Sunday evening. A friend, Harold Hagerman, of Rawdon township, found the girl dead with a .22 rifle lying at her side. The girl had been alone while her parents had gone to church.

The 25-year-old private secretary who worked in Belleville had gone home to spend the weekend with her parents and apparently had been preparing to return to Belleville when death overtook her.

Provincial police are still investigating the case with the investigation being in charge of Inspector Wilfred Franks, of the Criminal Investigation Branch.

The Badgley home at Frankford as well as the Rowe Funeral Parlors failed to accommodate the large crowd of friends and district residents who came to pay their last respects. Attesting to the high esteem in which the dead girl was held by all who knew her, the floral tributes were profuse in number.

Rev. H. H. Lackey, United Church minister at Frankford, was in charge of the funeral service, the sermon being given by Rev. Chas. A. Perkins, Holloway Street Church, Belleville, with whom Miss Badgley had been closely associated in young people's work in the United Church. Also assisting at the service were Rev. Lloyd Shorten of Foxboro, and Rev. H. H. Hillis of Belleville.

Bearers were all close neighbors of the Badgley family, and included Keith Fox, Harry Faul, Grenville Sine, Edison Sine, Carl Sine and Morris Dafoe. Interment was at Frankford Cemetery.

Mayor-Elect Storey Lights Legion Tree

One of the first functions of Mayor-Elect D. L. Storey before he assumes the Mayoralty chair was to light the Canadian Legion Christmas tree placed in the Canadian Department Store. Present at the short function were Ald. Angus Duffy, president of the Canadian Legion, Comrade Ernie Dainard in charge of the tree. Ald Claude Tice, members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Legion and other members. Mr. Dainard explained to the gathering the purpose of the tree stating that presents would be placed underneath and at Christmas time distributed to veterans in hospitals in this district. President Duffy told the gathering there were many veterans in hospital since the ending of hostilities and this was only a means of showing that they were being remembered at Christmas. Mr. Duffy thanked Mr. Art Francis for his kindness in allowing the tree to be placed within the store.

After being introduced by Ald. Duffy, Mr. Storey, the Mayor-Elect placed the first parcel underneath the tree and thanked the committee for being invited to take part in the ceremony. "I would like to congratulate the veterans of the Canadian Legion in their efforts to remember their comrades at Christmas and I would request the citizens to assist in this good work so that all veterans wherever they are in hospital will know they are not forgotten," said Mr. Storey. Pictures were taken of Mr. Storey placing the first parcel and also one of the President, Comrade Dainard and the Mayor-Elect, who spoke at the function.

Number of Reeves Level Criticism at Educational Committee of the Council

Refusal of the Ontario Department of Education to approve of the establishment of a high school area in Central Hastings was due to the fact that the villages of Marmora and Deloro and the township of Marmora did not apply directly to the minister, a communication from the Department revealed yesterday at the afternoon session of the County Council.

It is not the policy of the Department to approve of a high school district that will have a school population of less than 300, the letter stated. Where districts smaller than this are being proposed, it is considered to be in the best interests of all concerned to defer action until the Royal Commission on education makes its report.

Criticism of the Educational Committee of the council was levelled by a number of reeves. Reeve Charles Buskard felt that if the committee was not accomplishing anything, and thus far no report had been submitted to council, then it should be discharged and another put in its place.

Grand Success

Northern reeves pointed out that the Bancroft High School was a grand success which is expected to take care of 350 pupils next year. It will be one of the finest high schools in Ontario, stated Reeve Clarke Rollins of Wollaston, who added that he felt Centre Hastings should make proper application so that children could enjoy the privileges of a similar school.

Reeve William West, Stirling felt that trend of the day was to centralize too much. "We are asking the government for too much in this case and I feel that this council is out of order in discussing the situation."

Reeve Ben Bleecker felt that the high school district was a serious matter and an expensive one. "We should give this question close and serious consideration before we make any decision," he said.

Reeve Neal, of Marmora village spoke at some length on the question and stated that things were in a bad way along educational lines in his district. Some children were going as far as Havelock to school. If this committee is wrong, then tell us what to do, he said. "If we are going to let the children suffer for the next ten years, then there is something radically wrong."

Badly Need School

"There had definitely been slackness on the part of the Educational Committee," he said. "If it is definitely decided not to establish a high school area in Central Hastings then we are simply out of luck. We are badly in need of it and this council has done nothing about it."

County Clerk Erle Denyes pointed out that the council could do nothing about it until a by-law to establish the high school district had been approved by the government. The municipalities involved had not applied for approval and there the matter stood.

Reeve Charles Rush, Hungerford, stated that there were nothing but public schools in the centre of the county and he felt it was a shame that the children of that district could not have the opportunity to get a high school education.

Hastings TB Association Given $800 Grant For Work

Hastings County Council showed tangible appreciation of the fine work being done in the county by the Hastings Tuberculosis Association at the closing session today when they voted the organization a grant of $800.00 an increase of $200 over the amount given last year.

Mayor-elect D. L. Storey of Belleville, president of the Belleville Shrine Club and chairman of the Tuberculosis Association received a warm reception when he briefly addressed the body in an appeal for financial aid. He pointed out that seven towns and villages had been visited by the mobile X-ray unit of Department of Health, and his association and hundreds of people given the benefit of X-ray examination.

The average cost per person was approximately fifty cents, the speaker pointed out. Every cent derived from thesale of Christmas seals and other sources goes into the work. The Belleville Shrine Club, the speaker asserted, did not use one cent of the funds for expenses.

Speak in Favor

Several reeves spoke in favor of the grant. Deputy Reeve Wilfred Spencer, Rawdon township felt that if only one person derived benefit, it would be money well spent. Reeve William West, of Stirling told the council that there was no question in his mind of the X-ray surveys being of benefit to the council, and he moved that a grant of $800 be given the Tuberculosis Association.

Reeve P. J. Kirby, Deseronto, outlined work done along similar lines by the Lions Club of that town. He was of the opinion that the survey idea should be made a federal law to compel all to undergo the examinations.

Orders Grants

Council also ordered the annual grants for snow removal purposes paid to several northern municipalities. Some discussion took place after the reeve of Faraday moved that a grant of $25 be paid his township for the purposes of repairing an old cemetery. The church, a former Anglican edifice had been torn down years ago and the cemetery was in a sad state of neglect.

Deputy Reeve Spencer of Rawdon, felt that the council might "be sticking its neck out and establishing a precedent by allowing the grant." There were a lot of cemeteries needing repairs in the county and he felt that other municipalities would want financial aid.

Motion Carried

Reeve Ross Neal, Marmora, pointing out that it was up to the municipality to repair their own cemeteries if no other body would do it, stated that Marmora had looked after its own and he felt it should be the responsibility of the community.

Reeve Charles Rush, said that the sum of $25 was negligible and he felt the money should be paid. "After all," he said, "we owe some respect to the men who pioneered this county." The motion carried.

Council also authorized an additional grant of $50, making $350 all told, to the County Agricultural Association for junior farmers extension work.

It also authorized the Reforestation Committee to meet to consider the purchase of 80 acres of land adjacent to the county reforestation project near Actinolite.

Makers Honor Senior Dairy Producer Grader

Senior Dairy Produce Grader for the Dominion, T. J. Hicks of Montreal was honored by members of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association and district cheese factory instructors when at the closing banquet of the Association convention held in the Armouries he was presented with a handsome smoking set.

Former dairy produce grader for the Central Ontario district Mr. J. L. Irwin read an address to Mr. Hicks assuring that when he entered retirement in the near future he would be missed in the central district. Mr. Hicks started with the service in 1922 and two years later was appointed senior dairy produce grader.

Mac Remington, president of the Association, made the presentation on behalf of the members and instructors.

As the wife of the maker from Central Ontario showing the highest scoring cheese at the dairy show, Mrs. Horace Palmer was also tendered a presentation.

New Lighting System Needed Says Delegation

Suggestion that the Hastings County Law Library be given a new lighting system was made to County Council by Judge C. A. Anderson during the Thursday session. Judge Anderson's plea was supported by City Solicitor A. B. Collins, K.C., and Mr. John D. O'Flynn representing the Hastings County Bar Association.

It was further suggested that the courtrooms in the county buildings be equipped with a new wiring system as the lighting at present is far from satisfactory. Facilities at present, council was told, were totally inadequate and consideration of the matter was urged.

Reeve Clarke Rollins, Wollaston, chairman of the Wollaston Township Tornado Relief Fund expressed appreciation of the generous assistance given his committee with regards to relief for stricken families. The financial support had been more than adequate to re-establish the families who were deprived of their homes by the storm.

Several by-laws were given their second reading during the afternoon session.

Tweed

Workman Burned At Chemical Plant

Tweed — (Special) — While engaged at his work in the burner building at the Nichols Chemical Company plant at Sulphide, Mr. Donald Cassibo was severely burned about his neck, ears and wrists when falling clinkers caused a sheet of flame which set fire to his clothing.

The fire was smothered by fellow workmen who happened to be near at the time of the accident.

He was rushed to Dr. M. G. Dales' office in Tweed for treatment, after which he returned to his home.

Slippery Streets, Traffic Lights Cause of Crashes

Slippery streets and lack of familiarity of motorists with the number of new traffic lights recently installed at various intersections in the city this morning were given as the cause of a number of minor accidents which resulted in bumped fenders.

Police stated that motorists apparently were not noticing the traffic lights until almost upon them, then with suddenly applied brakes their vehicles went into a skid resulting in their bumping into other cars.

The traffic lights at the corner of Victoria Ave. and Pinnacle St. caused several minor clashes as motorists were unable to stop on the downgrade because of snow covered pavement, while at the intersection of Pinnacle and Bridge Streets there were also minor accidents reported. However the city sander was soon on the scene spreading sand to provide better traction.

Motorists stopping for the red light at the Bridge Street approach to the Lower Bridge also were experiencing difficulty in negotiating the grade, the sander also being required here and at the various hills in the city.

Former Secret Agent Tells Story Of His Experiences

One of the largest gatherings in the history of The Belleville Lodge No. 123 was held at the Masonic Temple on Thursday night, when the members at the fourth degree were addressed by Bro. J. Littner of Lindsay and former agent for the British Intelligence Service in the Second Great War. He gave a graphic account of his experiences in the middle east, far east and other theatres of war. The speaker took an hour and a half to tell his story and the members were loath to have him complete his talk. Many questions were asked and freely answered. Mr. Littner was severely wounded by the Germans and left to die but was finally rescued and brought safely to England.

Wor. Bro. Harry Bates, master of the lodge was in the chair for the banquet, while past masters of the visiting lodges conferred the degree on the candidate presented for initiation. The thanks of the members present for the fine address given by Mr. Littner was expressed by Very Wor. Bro. Carl Crosby and the toast to the visitors was proposed by Wor. Bro. Everett Smith and responded to by Rt. Wor. Bro. S. A. McCarey, D.D.G.M. of Prince Edward district and Reeve of Tweed village, who is in the city attending County Council. The toast to the candidate was proposed by Rt. Wor. Bro. Arthur Hill, P.D.D.G.M. At the close of the meeting and banquet a social hour was spent in the clubrooms.

Dead Girl's Brother Testifies at Hearing

Toronto, Dec. 5 — (CP) — A brother of 18-year-old Mary Morrison, who died in hospital Oct. 6, a few hours after she was found bleeding from a head wound in her rooming house, testified Thursday at the preliminary hearing of Ivan Cowden on a murder charge.

Christopher Morrison, 15, said Mary got along well with Cowden, 32-year-old co-proprietor of the rooming house with the girl's mother, for the first six months after the Morrison family moved into the house in 1946, but "after that Mary didn't talk to him."

The girl was found unconscious at the foot of Cowden's bed. The preliminary hearing was Cowden's second. Mr. Justice J. C. Genest ruled earlier that insufficient evidence had been produced at the first hearing to warrant committing him for trial.

Weekly Livestock Review

Toronto, Dec. 5 (CP)—Cattle prices gained 25 cents on all slaughter types in the livestock market here this week. Calves were $1 a hundredweight higher and lambs added 25 cents. Hogs held steady while sheep gained 50 cents.

A cattle run of some 8,200 head was added to a holdover of 600 head from last week's close bringing fresh receipts to about 2,300 more than for the same week a year ago. Included in the supply were 2,500 stockers. Choice to medium quality slaughter cattle were in keen demand.

Choice weighty steers brought $15.50-6 with two loads of heavies going for $16.25 cwt. Butcher steers sold at $11-13.75 with tops at $14. Heifers brought $10-13.50 with a few at $14. Butcher cows were mostly $7.75-11.25 with canners selling downward to $5. Bulls brought $7.50-9.50 for light bolognas and up to $10.75 for good butchers. Fed yearlings ranged from $13-16.

Store cattle moved slowly with sizeable holdover. Good stockers brought $12.25-12.75 with calves up to $13. Ordinary kinds were $9.-11.75. Plain to medium quality milkers and springers sold at $84-140 each.

Hogs had a light run of some 3,100 head and cleared steady at $23 for grade A and $22.60 for B1. Sows brought $15 dressed.

Sheep and lamb receipts totalled 5,000 head. Lambs were strong to 25 cents higher at $15.25 for good ewes and wethers by rail and at $15 by trucks. Bucks were at a $1 discount and culls sold from $11-12.50.

Sheep closed at $4-8.25 according to quality.

Weekly summary of receipts:

				Cattle
		Calves	Hogs	Lambs
This week	8,686	2,351	3,922	5,910

Five Years Ago

The atom age was five years old on Tuesday, says an AP story dealing with the anniversary of the day when science made its most important discovery of the ages.

On Tuesday Chairman Lilienthal of the Atomic Energy Commission said that new atomic weapons being made from both uranium and plutonium are in current production and under design by American designers and engineers. The United States has spent some $2,500,000,000 and expenditures will rise to $5,000,000,000 within the next few years if the United States "really means business," he forecast.

That mighty discovery has perhaps changed the course of history. It was the most significant event of modern times considering its possible effects, it was indicated at the fifth anniversary dinner.

Announcement in 1945 of the discovery and invention was a mark in the history of mankind. Ever since then it has cast its influence upon the thought of the world.

Chancellor Robert Hutchins of the University of Chicago, ventured to prophesy that if man uses the atom for science rather than suicide, "we may now hope to unlock the secrets of nature, to fulfil the dreams of the alchemists, to cure incurable diseases and to have at our disposal leisure and abundance beyond the wildest ambitions of mankind."

Atomic discovery has made history fast and it will make succeeding history fast. A glance back at the progress of the implements and products of man's hands from the time of Caesar less than two thousand years ago to the present is enough to fill man with wonder. The multiplicity of inventions by the application of newly discovered laws is an indication of what is before humanity while the discovery of the atomic secret has the power to intensify discovery and progress and make the world a place for myriads of human beings all living in harmony.

Unconquered Britain

"Britain has been 'ruined' many times before. The British character has carried her through. It probably will do so again."

So says the New York Times which has been represented in Britain recently by one of the Times staff surveying conditions in the midst of Britain's economic crisis.

It is Mr. Matthews' view that Britain will come through. In spite of the present situation brought on by two Great Wars in which Britain gave of her wealth of men and resources for the sake of liberty and the democracy she has developed not only for herself but for the world, the Times correspondent finds that "in all groups the British humor, optimism, zest for living and stoicism in the face of hardship and danger' survive."

The Times editorial says:

"What Mr. Matthews judges they do know well is that they will not give up their democracy and their individual liberties; even the Tories stand left of centre by American standards, and even the Labor Party will put liberty ahead of socialism."

The Times says that "two great victories—one in 1918 and one in 1945 — have nearly beaten it (the British Empire) down. But they haven't." It notes that to a Britisher today the feeling is expressed by the question "Where is the crisis?" which each Britisher is likely to ask.

Canadian Reindeer

Reindeer like the traditional means of Santa Claus' tour of the world on Christmas Eve, live in Canada. During the ice age when glaciers covered this part of the world Arctic reindeer roamed through the southern part of Canada. With the mastodon, woolly mammoth and musk-ox they existed along the bleak, barren borders of the great ice sheet. Today reindeer rove in the Arctic in Northern Europe, Northern Asia and Northern North America. That is their home. In Arctic America the wild reindeer is called caribou.

With the great reduction of Canada's caribou herds domestic reindeer have been brought in to take their place. Eskimos are now being trained to look after herds in Canada's northern lands.

That Santa Claus would have no difficulty in replacing his deer is seen in the fact that in 1938 there were 700,000 reindeer in Alaska. The Canadian herds in the Arctic are of great size. In the winter the reindeer move southward to the wooded belt where they meet the woodland caribou but do not mix with the woodland race and in the spring return to the Arctic Ocean's shores.

Sometimes short news dispatches in a corner of one's newspaper serve as flashes of light enabling the mind to visualize for a moment, in clear and concentrated form, the incredible changes wrought through the centuries by the march of progress.

Of such was the item printed to the effect that a combined goodwill and flight-training mission had taken off from Argentina to its motherland, Spain, aboard three DC-4 airliners named Santa Maria, Pinta and Nina, after the three tiny sailing vessels which made up the flotilla of Christopher Columbus on the hazardous voyage that resulted in his discovery of America four hundred and fifty-five years ago.

That modest little item spanned the centuries with a vengeance. Containing barely thirty words, almost invisible amid longer items of more importance, it provided food for the imagination as could few of those others, for all their greater prominence and size. Implicit in those few words was the whole dazzling record of the development of transportation from the day when the original Santa Maria, Pinta and Nina started on the history-making voyage that was to keep them on the seas for months to the day when the new Santa Maria, Pinta and Nina, starting on an aerial trip over a like course in reverse, were to be wafted through the air over those same seas in a matter of hours.

That item made history visible. In its thirty words, time was annihilated and distance eliminated, and 1492 seemed to rub elbows with 1947. —New York Times.

"When I Was Your Age . . ."

Many young people consider that today's most persistent irrelevancy is the thinly-veiled advice which opens up with "When I was your age . . . " and seems as if it will never stop. The scowling expression on the listener's face usually reflects the opinion that what happeened then is of no significance now, and not even interesting. The expansive look of the one who ladles out the advice shows clearly what he thinks of the good old days and particularly of his stout-hearted and altogether commendable part in it all.

Comparisons are odious, and anyone who thinks of the enormous changes of the last forty years or so knows that comparisons between then and now are almost useless, or only approximate at best, whether you're delving into wages, morals, transportation or what-have-you. So, if he accepts the probably laughable assumption that wisdom always comes with age, the listener is forced to the conclusion that the sally into the past actually stems from a desire to talk about oneself — one of the most often denied and frequently felt urges of man.

This has been going on for centuries, satisfying the talker, nettling the talkee. People, however, persist in disliking advice unless they are giving it, which is probably why the young scowl at it, and eventually wind up saying, "When I was your age . . . " —The Printed Word.

Irish Linens

Ulster linen manufacturers are now preparing for the spring. New manufactures include some fine linen crepes. The quantity of linen exported during the first half of 1947 reached 90 per cent of pre-war. In 1944 exports were less than one-tenth of the pre-war volume, but recovered to one-sixth in 1945. Last year the value of linen exports was nearly three times as much as in 1938. Of special importance is the high proportion of shipment going to hard currency countries.

At least the foreign ministers now in London to frame a peace for Germany have agreed on the points on which they can reach a deadlock, remarks Hamilton Spectator.

THE SUCCESSFUL LIFE

His little girl, who wished a dress,
Thought her father a success.
Though he wasn't known to fame,
And to fortune had no claim,
To the child upon his knee
None seemed greater than was he.

She who knew his every whim
Down the years was proud of him.
Safe the little home they kept;
Never needlessly she wept;
Sharing all that had to be;
None to her meant more than he.

Neighbors, watching day by day,
Had no ill of him to say.
Ask of him, and they'd reply
They were glad he lived nearby.
Though the scornful think them small,
These are triumphs after all.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

What are fairy crosses?

Fairy crosses are twinned crystals of "staurolite," a dark aluminum-iron silicate.

The scientific name is from Greek "stauros," cross, and "lite," a suffix formed from Greek "lithos," stone.

Superstitious people say these stone crosses, like the rabbit's foot, will bring good luck to those who carry them as charms. Both Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson carried fairy crosses for luck pieces.

Fairy crosses are found in limited numbers in many parts of the world, but the greatest number of good specimens are found in Patrick County, Virginia, and Fannin County, Georgia. In one area of about 50 acres on Bull Mountain in Patrick County they occur in abundance at a depth of 10 or 12 feet. Fairy Stone State Park, comprising 5,000 acres near Bassetts in Henry County, Virginia, takes its name from these stones.

The crystals occur in at least three distinct types — Roman, Maltese and St. Andrew crosses. Like Indian relics, they are often found by farmers while plowing and are picked up after hard rains. In that part of Virginia fairy crosses are gathered in large numbers, cut into shape and mounted in metal of some kind for the tourist trade.

Although nearly perfect natural crosses are sometimes found, most of the fairy stones sold as souvenirs have been trimmed more or less. Staurolite crystals are especially suitable for watch charms, scarf pins and similar jewelry. When cut and polished they have a reddish, rusty tinge. Imitation fairy crosses are made of talcose rock. The natural ones will scratch glass while the softer imitations will not.

Virginia mountaineers have several legends concerning the origin of these "crystal tears of the Blue Ridge." Long ago, according to one legend, when the Indians were still supreme on the continent, the Great Spirit showered these crosses upon the earth as a sign of coming salvation to the savage race.

Another legend — the one that gives the fairy crosses their name—says that when Jesus was crucified angelic messengers carried the news to all parts of the world, and when the tidings reached the fairies and elks in the Blue Ridge they at once ceased their merry pranks and began to weep, and as they wept their tears fell upon the earth and solidified in the form of the crosses.

FINDS SKUNK WINKING AT HIM

Highland Creek, Dec. 5 — (CP) — You can kill a skunk but you can't kill its odor. Deputy Reeve Oliver Crockford thought he heard a knock at his back door and when he answered found a skunk winking at him. He got his gun and killed the skunk, but alas, not the odor.

Farm Situation in Hastings County Favorable Members Of County Council Informed

The general farm picture in Hastings County during the past year has been quite favorable, despite the fact that there have been a few Dominion and Provincial changes in the picture which have directly influenced the income of farmer here. A. O. Dalrymple, county agricultural representative, said to council in his annual report yesterday.

The nation-wide packing houses strike was a severe blow to many farmers in the county as it necessitated holding of hogs and other livestock which were already for market until in many cases the animals put on gains which lowered their value as far as grade was concerned.

The continued shortage of farm help, the representative said in his report, and the rather prohibitive wages have added an increased burden to the farmers of the county.

"The Spring seeding," he said, "due to continued wet weather, was held back and in many cases not completed, resulting in an over-all yield in coarse grains of approximately 45 per cent of the normal average."

Continued warm weather, he went on, during the latter part of the summer helped the silage situation and aided in the growing of corn in general. The yield of hay was perhaps above average in quantity, but again, due to excessive wet weather was of poor quality in many cases.

Due to the local shortage of coarse grain a considerably larger volume will be needed from Western Canada if livestock production is to be maintained, the report stated. However due to the recent increase in the price of concentrates, which in some cases have more than doubled since the ceiling was lifted, as well as the increased prices in western grains, farmers are in many sections of the county disposing of brood sows and limiting their dairy herds.

Poultry Population Up

The county poultry population has again set an all time high, the representative said, as most hatcheries again reported an increase in the number of baby chicks sold during the past spring

Sales of both grade and pure bred dairy cattle have been continuing with a large percentage being exported to the U.S. The T.B. test for a T.B. free area has been started in the county and approximately 10,400 head have been tested to date. Of this number there has been only .63 per cent reactors. This is pleasing to all livestock men in the county as it indicates that Hastings has undoubtedly one of the lowest rates of reactors of any of the areas in the province.

In the junior extension field, the report said with the help of an assistant representative until the middle of September, the junior activities have continued to expand, resulting in a membership in the Hastings County Junior Farmers Association of over 500. Two new phases of junior leadership have been started during the past year, namely the Public Speaking and Amateur Entertainment Contest and the Junior Farmer Church Services.

The agricultural representative expressed his appreciation of the assistance given him by county and township officials, junior farmers, institutes and farmers generally throughout the county.

Sheep population has shown a downward trend of approximately 2,000 head due, in the belief of the representative to heavy losses through wolves and dogs. The fact that the sum of $6,638.80 was spent on valuation and payment for losses indicates the seriousness of the situation.

The Federal Provincial Hog Policy which came into effect in 1938 has done much to improve the quality of hogs marketed in Hastings. There has been a gradual raise in the number of boars in the county and it is hoped that with the new policy which will be coming into effect, even more farmers will become interested in high quality sires. The subsidy on the quality has tended to improve the grade. It is the feeling of many, however, that the subsidy on "B" hogs should not be paid as this is a reward for an inferior grade. The number of sows being kept on many farms is being reduced due to to shortage of farm grain and labor. However, weanling pigs have been averaging from $9 to $10 depending on the quality and breeding.

Approximately five million young trees were planted in the spring by members of the County Council, Junior Farmers and interested business men and indications are that there is a much lower mortality rate than on previous occasions.

The authorization of the Moira River watershed has been completed and set into action by the Ontario Department of Planning and Development. It is definitely expected that the survey will be made commencing early in the spring of 1948.

PLANT MEDICINES

In medieval times few plants were without their supposed medicinal value, but the progress of medicine has limited them to a very small number.

CHIANG VOTES

Wearing his familiar military cloak over civilian clothing, President Chiang Kai-Shek is shown as he marked his ballot at the Ta Hsing Kung public school in Nanking in China's first nationwide democratic elections on November 23. Other voters crowded about the generalissimo as he began to mark the ballot, but he explained to them that the ballot was secret. It was revealed later, however, that he voted for Cheng Yu Kuang, the Kuomintang candidate.

Address Dr William Brady, care of this newspaper.)

THIS DAMP CLIMATE

When a living room heated to 68 degrees F. is not comfortable for a person in ordinary health the trouble is not the heat but the humidity. This applies as well to the infant and child as it does to grandma and Uncle Joe.

Outdoor air at a temperature of zero F. with a relative humidity of 50 per cent will have a relative humidity of only 3 per cent when heated up to 70 degrees F. The relative humidity in the driest climate known is seldom lower than 25 per cent. Fifty per cent relative humidity means that the atmosphere holds one-half of the water vapor it is capable of holding.

The relative humidity of the ideally comfortable, healthful atmosphere is generally somewhere between 40 and 60 per cent—say on a perfect autumn day. Not that the comparative dryness or dampness of the air alone makes it comfortable and healthful, for other factors are concerned too, particularly motion, temperature and, in an indirect way, light. Of course your personal feeling about it depends also upon your habits—clothing, diet, physical activity.

On the bowling green in midwinter, where I conduct research projects for your health's sake, it is remarkable, and to me discouraging, how promptly all the mollycoddles put on sweaters, coats or windbreakers the moment the sun ducks behind a cloud or their playing position happens to be in the shade of tree or building if the day is not very warm. To be sure, one does feel a bit cold or chilly for a moment in the circumstances, but only for a moment, since natural reaction of the circulation and of body tone adjusts the body temperature and warmth promptly if these physiological reactions are not interferred with. In another few moments the sun shines again or the mollycoddle has moved out of the shade, and off come the wraps.

It is absurd to put on an overcoat when going out for a walk (said Leonard Hill, English physiologist, and Doc. Brady concurs). It is good to go out and be braced by feeling cold and so be impelled to take vigorous exercise.

It is a mistake to assume that "steaming" of cold windows, walls or other surfaces in a room is from dampness or high humidity. As Rosenau's Preventive Medicine and Hygiene says: Cold walls, cold windows and cold surfaces generally condense the moisture from the air so rapidly that great difficulty is experienced in raising the relative humidity of the air of a room under these circumstances.

Storm sash, providing air space between outside and inside of the room, or double panes with a thin air space between, will generally stop such "steaming" of windows. To correct such condensation of water on the walls an inner lining of wood, paper or other material, applied on stringers or strips of lath to provide a thin air space between wall and lining.

Radiant heating, whether by coils or pipes buried in floor of walls or by a stove or heating element rendered glowing or incandescent by burning fuel or by electricity, prevents steaming and frosting of windows or walls, because heat waves radiated or broadcast from such sources heat or warm objects or surfaces they reach, just as the sun does. Radiant heat keeps persons in the room comfortable even though the air temperature, if measured by thermometer, gives your Aunt Felicity chills and conniptions just to think of it.

Cheese Production During First Ten Months of Year Shows Decrease of 18.7 P.C.

A practical and well balanced improvement program for both farm and factory as a measure to increase the quality of cheese was urged by Jack M. Bain of London, chief dairy instructor for Central and Western Ontario as he addressed the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Convention at its closing session on Thursday.

In the opinion of Mr. Bain agriculture in Ontario was at the crossroads. Many of the barns and factories were built many years ago and lack light, ventilation and stabling that are so essential to sanitary milk production. Cheese factories in many cases need sanitary equipment and closed off boiler rooms.

"If our cheese industry is going to play the important part in our dairy industry of the future that it has in the past we should begin an improvement program for both farm and factory," he said. Producers and makers should resolve to incorporate into their daily program those "little things" which are so often overlooked.

Production Shows Decrease

W. C. Cameron, Chief, Dairy Products, Grading and Inspection Services, told the convention that cheese production in Ontario during the first ten months of the year had shown a decrease 18.7 per cent as compared with that of last year. "Approximately one million cheese had been graded for the period," he said. This had been the first decrease since 1942. The decrease in Ontario where approximately three quarters of the entire Dominion make was made was ten per cent.

The speaker went on to say there had been a decrease also in the number of premium cheese manufactured and suggested that this may be due to the retirement of older and more experienced cheese makers and dairy instructors.

Boxes to Increase

Mr. Cameron urged makers to make certain that cheese boxes used came up to standard specifications as the thinner veneer adopted as a wartime measure had resulted in vastly increased breakage. Box veneer should at least be the required one-sixth of an inch, while headings must be at least one-half inch.

President of the Association Mac Remington later told the meeting that he had learned that there would be an increase in the price of cheese boxes another season. He stated there would be a seven cent increase to 55 cents.

He suggested that this matter should be brought to the attention of the Ontario Cheese producers as many of the cheesemakers had already hired and the increase in the price of boxes would come out of their pockets.

Ronald Camirand, General Inspector of Dairy Products for the Province of Quebec stated that cheese makers from his province welcomed the opportunity of showing cheese at the Belleville cheese show in that they learned much in the fine points of finishing their cheese.

More Co-operation Needed

He expressed the opinion that there should be more co-operation between the two provinces in the matter of agriculture. Differences in religion should be no bar to co-operation in the dairy industry, he said.

Wallace Havelock Robb, naturalist of "Abbey Dawn," Kingston, gave a humorous address in which he declared that the dairy business was badly in need of a Moses or Einstein. Heavy feeding of cows during the winter merely to establish a high R.O.P. rating was but magnificent nonsense and completely against that which nature intended. He said there was need of a campaign to bring the city man to closer comprehension of the farmers' problems.

Other Addresses

During the convention addresses were heard from C. E. Lackner, Director of Dairying, Province of Ontario; W. H. Sproule, Professor of Dairying, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, and E. G. Hood, Chief, Dairy Research Science Service, Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Greetings were brought by G. M. Eckmier, of Ripley, Western Ontario representative, and by J. C. Peck of Lansdowne, Eastern Ontario representative.

J. L. Irwin expressed appreciation to the Montreal Provisions Trade for their interest in the Belleville cheese show by giving a cash grant for prizes and expressed disappointment in the apparent lack of interest in the beginners' class.

The nominating committee brought in the same slate of officers as last year. These were unanimously approved by the association members. Following are the executive: Mac Remington, Thos. Heath, Doug Rowe, Horace Palmer, B. Jones, H. Atherton and E. McNeil.

250 at Banquet

Approximately 250 persons, including cheese makers and their wives, county officials and officials of the dairy industry attended the closing banquet held in the Armouries.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Rev. A. M. Laverty, Chaplain at Queen's University, who spoke on the importance of "time," stressing that yesterday cannot be recalled and there was no guarantee of tomorrow, next week or next month.

"You haven't got yesterday and you cannot depend on tomorrow . . . all you have is the present," he said. "You must come to realize that the present is all the time there is. It is the decisions which you make today that count."

Erie Denyes, county clerk, acted as chairman, with C. G. Morgan introducing the speaker and Col. R. Vanderwater expressing appreciation. Entertainment during the evening included comedy acts by comedian Ernie Bruce; an act by Rod Roddick, the magician; vocal numbers by Helen Booth and a ventriloquist act by Ted Rust, all of Toronto.

The Generals Talk it Over — The above photo, released yesterday by the Canadian Army, shows General H. D. G. Crerar in close conversation with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and members of his staff. The meeting took place during General Crerar's recent visit to the Far East. The Generalissimo was deeply interested as the Canadian military leader explained the campaign in Northwest Europe. Otonabee Lodge, Peterborough, Confers Degree

Bonarlaw — On Tuesday evening of this week the Second Degree team of Otonabee Oddfellows Lodge No. 13 of Peterborough paid a fraternal visit to Springbrook Lodge I.O.O.F. No. 429 and conferred the second degree of Oddfellowship on six candidates.

The team consisted of Jos. Embury, Degree Captain; Jas. McKenzie, Noble Grand; John Sage, Past Grand; Geo. Boreham, Vice Grand; J. M. Sine, Pianist; Dick Wellman, Soloist; and the following, viz. Roy Juby, W. Albury, Walter Hargrave, Herb Stenton, Carl Milhern, Geo. Houghton, Olaf Williamson, Wilfred Wood, C. Gardner, Thos. Parker, Dick Ford, B. Devolin, Ken Rollins, Harold Bannon, Albert McCaw and Harold Blondin.

Splendid Lunch

After the business of the evening was completed and the degree conferred, a splendid lunch was served by the luncheon committee, after which the Noble Grand of Springbrook Lodge requested Past D.D.G.M. J. F. Baker to act as chairman.

Bro. Baker complimented the visiting team on their splendid work and called upon Noble Grand Earl Cranston to address the gathering, who in a few well chosen words welcomed the visitors from Peterborough and Stirling and thanked the visiting team on behalf of Springbrook Lodge for coming from Peterborough to confer the degree on the Springbrook candidates and expressed his pleasure at the manner in which the work was done. The hearty handclasp which followed these remarks assured the visitors of their welcome and the appreciation of all the Springbrook brethren.

The chairman then called upon District Deputy Grand Master Gratton Harris, D.D.G.M. of District No. 44 and a member of Otonabee Lodge to speak. Bro. Harris complimented Springbrook Lodge upon the class of candidates they are receiving and recited a beautiful poem entitled "Version of Oddfellowship."

Short addresses were also made by Past Noble Grand of Stirling Lodge Earl Fox who is a Past D.D.G.M. of District No. 45 and by the sitting Noble Grand of Otonabee Lodge John Sage and Degree Captain Jos. Embury.

The National Anthem closed a very pleasant evening.

CAPT. JOE BEACH DIES

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Dec. 5 — (CP) — Capt. Joe Beach, 60, known to thousands of tourists as skipper of the "Toonerville Trolley" and for his boat rides to scenic Tahquamenon Falls, died Tuesday at his home in Newberry of a heart attack. He had operated the service for 20 years and owned a fleet of four boats capable of transporting more than 1,000 tourists a day.

Mr., Mrs. H. Pitcher Honored by Several Stirling Friends

Stirling. (Special.)—Last Friday evening about fifty Stirling friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pitcher, in Frankford, for a social evening and to present them with presents from the "charivari gang". Previously a charivari and reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs H. C. Pitcher.

Mr. Percy Utman acted as chairman for the evening and opened the program with a few suitable remarks followed by a sing-song. Several others present were called upon and spoke briefly.

Readings were given by Mrs. C. Vance, Mrs Roy Eggleton and Mrs Percy Utman. Mr. Frank Harding favored with several guitar selections which were much enjoyed.

An address of appreciation was read by Mrs. Mel Tanner and Mrs. C. Vance presented the young couple with an Axminster rug and a colored picture.

The bride and groom graciously thanked their friends for the lovely gifts and extended them a cordial welcome to their home and a warm invitation to visit them in the future.

Games were played under the direction of Mrs. Don McIntosh. Delicious refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

Bridge Party

Mrs. C. I. Hatton entertained a number of friends at bridge on Tuesday evening in honor of Mrs. G. L. Johnstone, who is leaving Stirling, to reside in Tweed. During the evening the hostess presented Mrs. Johnstone with a cup and saucer. The bridge prize went to Miss Ida Muirhead.

DORIS SULLIVAN
A Lens Packer in the AO Belleville Plant

In this advertisement, ninth in a series to give you a few facts about American Optical Company Canada Limited and its employees, we'd like you to meet Doris Sullivan, one of our valued employees, who is shown above packaging ophthalmic lenses prior to shipment.

Doris has been associated with AO for the past six years and during that time has decisively proven her worth to the company. Her work includes lens packing, gauging and stamping, tasks she performs with speed and efficiency. In fact, we never worry about the quality of her work.

Six years of efficient work. That sums up Doris' career with AO, a career we hope she continues for a long time to come. Truth to tell, we're selfish in this respect. We want our employees to be happy and satisfied on the job, to grow with AO. Frankly, optical skill and knowledge can never be learned over night, neither can it be developed if workers come and go.

Doris enjoys company activities. She is a member of the AO Service and Social Club and the Club's bowling team. Her hobbies include dancing, swimming, skating and attending movies.

We're also glad to report that Doris' sister Mildred and her cousin Dorothy Winters are likewise employed by AO. When three members of a family are employed in one concern, it indicates they like their work, the company and its policies. We appreciate such approval, particularly because we do try to operate the AO Belleville plant in the best interests of its employees.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Meyers, Trent Road, Belleville, wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Doris Marguerite, to James Franklin Crosbie, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. William Crosbie of Powassan, Ont., the marriage to take place on December 20, at 3.00 p.m.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Howard Henry, 176 Charles Street announce the engagement of their daughter Evelyn Jeane, to Henry Arthur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thomas Lloyd, Toronto, the marriage to take place at Bridge Street United Church December twenty-seventh.

WEDDINGS

BELL—DOYLE

The rectory of the Church of St. Michael the Archangel was the scene of a very pretty wedding on the afternoon of Nov. 22, when Marie Veronica Doyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Doyle, Boswell Street, became the bride of George Ross Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Bell 29 1-2 West Bridge Street, with Monsignor J. F. Nicholson performing the ceremony.

The bride wore a becoming suit of neutral wool, with black accessories, and a corsage of American Beauty roses. Her only attendant was Miss Thelma O'Brien, in a suit of chocolate brown, with lime green accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

Mr. Douglas Burley ably performed the duties of groomsman.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the restaurant, "Chez Henri", where white and pink baby 'mums were used for decoration and the bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake.

The bride's mother received in a gown of grey crepe, with black accessories and wore a corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the mother of the groom in a black crepe ensemble with a corsage of yellow roses.

The groom's gift to the bride was a three piece dresser set, to the groomsman, a silver cigarette case. The bride's gift to the groom was a gold pocket knife, with chain and to the bridesmaid, a rhinestone bracelet.

For travelling to Detroit, Mich., the bride chose a costume of light blue wool, with black accessories.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. N. Kelly, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. A. Reid, of Port Credit; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cavanagh, of Toronto; Miss Dorothy Bell and Mr. Glen McMaster, both of Kingston.

Following their return Mr. and Mrs. Bell will reside in Belleville.

V.O.N. NEWS

Did you know that patients who have been in hospital, and are returning home with surgical dressings to be changed, need not worry about this care. All they need to do is to ask the doctor if they might have a V.O.N. call to do the dressing.

The nurses will be glad to call and do the dressing as often as the doctor feels it is necessary. They will also teach the family how to make and sterilize dressings in the home.

This service often shortens the stay in hospital, and helps both the patient who is fretting to be at home, and the hospital who need the bed for more acutely ill patients.

Your V.O. Nurse is a graduate registered nurse, who is especially trained in the techniques of home care. Why not avail yourselves of the privilege which is yours, when you have a community service such as this?

Miss Zelda Carter Honored by Friends At Allisonville Hall

Burr's —Miss Zelda Carter, bride-elect, who has been in the employ of the Sprague Telephone Systems at Mountain View, for the past two years, has discontinued her services there prior to her marriage returning to her home here on Saturday. On Tuesday evening a miscellaneous shower in her honor was given by friends of Burr's and Mountain View at Allisonville Hall. Among the gifts was a silver tea service from her associates at Mountain View Mrs. Douglas Harns read an appropriate address, after which the presentation was made with Mrs. Eric Edward, Mrs. D. Harns and Mr. Goldie Carter assisting with the unwrapping of the many lovely gifts. Zelda graciously thanked all her friends for their expressions of friendship and goodwill. Music, dancing and refreshments added to the evening's pleasure.

St. Mark's W.A. Sponsor For Bazaar and Dinner

Bonarlaw (Special.)—The annual bazaar and dinner of the St. Mark's Woman's Auxiliary was held on Tuesday evening of this week in the Parish Hall and proved a very successful event, the gross receipts being $143.

Bazaar tables displayed brightly patterned aprons, fancy work, knitted goods, and novelties.

The lucky ticket on the quilt was drawn by little Diane Edwards.

The prize winners at euchre were Mrs. Geo. Mumby and Clinton Robbins.

Women's Activities

JUBILEE EVENING AUXILIARY

The Jubilee Evening Auxiliary gathered for its final meeting in 1947 on Tuesday afternoon in the Sunday School room of Bridge Street United Church. After a supper which was served by Mrs. Emery's group, the program was taken over by Mrs. C. Earle's group.

As Scripture reading, Mrs. N. Anderson selected "And there were Shepherds. . ." to introduce the topic of the program "The Old and New Carols". Seven well-known favorite Christmas carols formed the basis of the program, each carol being introduced by a short account of the origin of the carol, and this was followed by a tableau in keeping with the subject matter and accompanied by the singing of the carol itself. The stage was set with a miniature church in the background, with open doors and lighted windows. Mrs. G. E. Currie, the pianist, accompanied the soloists,

The following program was presented—

"Away in a Manger", solo, Miss Mary Howie.

"O, Come All Ye Faithful", trio, Mrs. C. Templer, Mrs. H. Robbins, Miss H. Cook.

"We, Three Kings of Orient Are", solo, Mrs. Templer.

"Good King Wenceslas", solo, Mrs. H. Robbins.

"God Rest Ye, Merry Gentlemen", solo, Miss Helen Cook.

"O, Little Town of Bethlehem", solo, Miss Suzanne Cavers.

"I Hear the Bells on Christmas Day", violin solo by Mrs. G. E. Currie, accompanied by Mrs. T. Franklin.

The members of the Auxiliary were especially pleased to welcome the two winsome little guest soloists, Misses Mary Howie and Suzanne Cavers, who delighted those present with their charming rendition of the carols.

During the business meeting the nominating committee presented the slate of officers for the coming year and their report was adopted. The following officers were elected for 1948—

Past President, Mrs. R. Morden

President, Miss Irene Grills

Getting Ready For Christmas

Santa Claus has been seen on street corners and in store windows, busy with his preparations for Christmas. It will not be long until the spirit of Christmas will be in every home.

The homemaker, who has her cakes, puddings and other Christmas treats ready ahead of time, has two advantages. These delectable mixtures of fruit and spice improve on standing as the ingredients blend. The preparation requires some time as fruits, nuts and peel must be cleaned and cut and the putting together and baking is a slow procedure. It is well therefore, to have them ready before the last rush as there are so many little jobs that must be left almost to the days just before Christmas.

Much of the joy of Christmas is in recapturing the spirit of former years. It may be great grandmother's special cake, grandmother's mince meat or the pudding sauce that mother always made, that revives these memories. Perhaps these old recipes do not quite fit the modern scheme and a newer or revised version will meet today's needs just as well.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture have their own favorite recipes for light fruit cake and mince meat.

Light fruit cake is seldom iced but may be decorated with a holly wreath or spray made with pieces of citron peel and glace cherries. This design is arranged

Dark fruit cakes are usually iced with almond icing. This may be made at home or purchased ready made. Before placing almond paste on the cake, it should be rolled out on a board to the desired size and thickness, anywhere from 1-3 inch to 1 inch. If the top of the cake is brushed with egg white before putting the icing in place, the egg white acts as a cement to hold the almond paste in place. The almond paste should be covered thinly with a simple white icing-sugar frosting. The sides of a Christmas cake are seldom iced. This is just another of those traditions the origin of which seems to be lost.

LIGHT CHRISTMAS CAKE

1 1-2 cups butter
2 cups fine granulated sugar
6 eggs
2 cups bleached sultana raisins
3-4 cup chopped citron peel
2 cups chopped red glace cherries
4 cups pastry flour
Or 3 1-2 cups all-purpose flour
1-2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon of baking powder

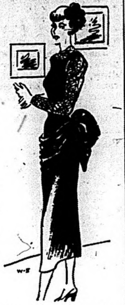
Cream butter well, add sugar gradually and cream thoroughly. Add unbeaten eggs one at a time, beating well between each addition. Dredge the prepared fruits with part of the flour. Sift salt and baking powder with the rest of the flour and add to the creamed mixture. Add fruit. Line a 9 by 9 inch fruit cake tin or 2 four pound honey pails with two thicknesses of greased paper, bake in a slow oven 300 oF. for approximately 2 hours. Butter may be replaced by shortening and salt increased to 1 teaspoon.

MINCEMEAT

2 cups apples, chopped
2 cups raisins, chopped
3 tablespoons lemon or other fruit juice
1-4 cup water or cider
1-4 cup mixed peel (cut)
1-2 cup sugar
1-2 teaspoon ground cloves
1-2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1-2 cup chopped suet or 1-4 cup mild flavored fat, melted.

Combine ingredients and heat together slowly. Simmer about 10 minutes. Bottle and store in refrigerator until used. Approximate yield, 4 cups.

The New Old Look



Attractive afternoon frock

By VERA WINSTON

IT'S A MATTER for marveling how a dress can derive its inspiration, and indeed, much of its design and line from fashions of yesteryear, and yet look newer than ever. Well, here's a very up-to-the-minute dress of undoubted Gay Nineties derivation. Brown lace makes yoke and the gathered shoulder sleeve with brown crepe satin used for the body of the dress. Basque drapery works up into a bustle bow in back.

HUNTINGDON EAST W.I.

Moira.—Mrs. Don Holbert was hostess to the Institute on Thursday evening.

Business was discussed. Plans were made for some entertainment in January, also for the next meeting in Christmas week.

Roll call was answered by "Do and Don't for the Sick Room".

A solo "In The Valley of the Moon", by Pauline Holbert was much enjoyed.

The topic "Health and Happiness" presented by Mrs. Wallace McInroy proved very interesting.

A reading on "Penicillin" by Miss W. Huffman, was very instructive.

Readings "Country Life", by Mrs. Don McInroy; "Food-Waster", by Miss Bessie Holbert were also given.

Community singing was enjoyed by all present.

Mrs Geo Foster's report on the annual convention at Belleville was very comprehensive.

Prizes given for Health posters, as put on by the Moira Public School pupils, were won by Lily Dunlay and Jerome Collins in the Senior room; and by Melville Thompson and Carol Welsh in the Junior room.

The meeting closed with National Anthem and the Mizpah benediction. Refreshments were then served.

MOIRA W.A.

Moira.—The November meeting of Moira Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. Donald McInroy. After a pot-luck dinner. The President, Mrs. George Foster, called the meeting to order and conducted opening exercises. It was decided to send cards to all shut-ins. Mrs. Donald Holbert sang "God Will Take Care of You". A reading on the work of Dr. Clarence Salisbury was given by Mrs. Milton Vanderwater. Mrs. Burton Foster and Mrs. Arthur Emerson contributed a delightful duet. Readings were given by Mrs. Nelson Welsh and Mrs. Gilbert Thompson. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

CHILDREN OF MARY

On Monday, December 1st., the monthly meeting of the Children of Mary was held in the St. Michael's High School, with Miss Mary McDougall presiding.

Members who visited the hospital during November reported that they had provided magazines and candy for several patients. The President urged all members to bring gifts for the customary Christmas baskets.

Miss Lenore Bradden, chairman of the social committee announced that an entertainment will be held sometime during the month and at which a doll would be raffled.

Plans were made for the annual spiritual bouquet for the Holy Father.

In the absence of Miss Mary Grant, Miss Mary Hudon gave a paper on the "Immaculate Conception."

It was decided that each year five sodality pins would be awarded for attendance.

After adjournment, the members retired to the Assembly room for a social hour under the convenership of Miss Rita Chapelle. Miss Mary Dooley was winner of the spelling contest, and Monica Murphy won the door prize.

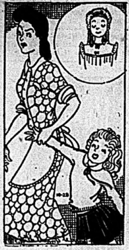
BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Starting little girls on the beauty road



Shampoo her hair every week.

In the funny old days when good-looks were under suspicion, mothers used to say, "Mary is a plain little girl, and that is all for the best." The idea prevailed that to be beautiful was to be selfish, vain or haughty. Homeliness was synonymous with saintliness. What a lot of hooey passed for wisdom!

The mother of today realizes that good appearance is a passport, that it makes life easier and happier for a girl. Also, beauty is not just the reflection in the mirror. It is what goes on inside the head. It is good manners, good health, vitality, a pleasing disposition.

There is many an old girl living today whose childhood was made miserable because she was told that she was plain. She had to fight shyness. She felt inferior to her companions. Such a condition can affect one's whole existence.

Little girls today have wonderful advantages over the little girls of yesterday. Their mothers are health-and-beauty wise, start the youngsters out properly.

Diet is important. Look at the huskies who were vitamin babies! A balanced diet means well-developed bones, good musculature, luxuriant hair, fair complexions.

During the early years, bowed legs are straightened by means of corrective shoes and special exercises. Dentists treat the baby teeth so that the second ones will be stronger.

On one matter a mother is adamant; she insists upon care of the teeth. Twice a day the teeth must be brushed—willy-nilly, whether little daughter likes to do it or not. She is taught to brush them away from the gums, to rinse her mouth afterward to rid the mouth of foreign particles that the bristles have removed. Every six months the dentist takes a look-see. If the teeth are crowded or uneven, braces are put on. But that comes along later, in the teen years.

Doctor and mother keep a watchful eye on daughter. If she is a mouth-breather, she is taken to a nose and throat specialist. If she is overweight, that is a matter to be taken care of. Good posture is stressed. Think what that will mean to little daughter when she is a high school lassie. She will have a straight, fine figure, wear clothes with chic and distinction.

Hair is shampooed every week, let the yells be as loud as they may. Mother puts a shampoo ring on the little one's head, fluffs up a rousing lather.

Fingernails must be kept clean; germs may lurk beneath the eaves to imperil health. Shoes are fitted carefully. Coming generations should have fewer beauty griefs.

Vivid Tropical Print

By PRUNELLA WOOD

A SOFT, lush modern spun fabric is used for this dress with the sarong effect, and for once it's not designed for Dorothy Lamour on the road to here or there, but for you, and you. . . to wear for dancing, or for cooling off on a sultry evening, or sunning on a sunny teatime terrace.

The print is Hindu and colorful; the bodice strapless, the skirt wrapped narrowly and with a hip drape.

Advice to the Lovelorn

A Girl Who Wants to Help Herself

There is nothing more encouraging than to find a person who admits that the chief cause of his troubles is himself. It is encouraging because when one knows the cause of something, he has taken the first big step toward its cure.

Here is a young woman who has told of the right end of the string to begin unraveling the tangle of her life. She starts her letter with the flat statement that "There is one thing wrong with my life. Me!"

She is married, she says, "to the world's best man"; he is "kind, loving, ambitious, generous, and deserving of something better than what I dish out to him." What she "dishes out" to him is constant nagging, hysterical outbursts, arguments, temper tantrums, and tears.

"My husband never answers back," she says, "and that seems to goad me into saying harsher things that have no truth just to see if I can't sting him into getting him as mad as myself."

She has a baby who was born with a sweet and happy disposition, but who has reacted to the disturbing atmosphere created by her mother by turning into a fussy, crying child.

Having been honest, and possessed of sufficient insight to put her finger on the core of her problem, "Sylvia", as she signs herself, then goes on to show equal insight in recognizing, and no doubt entirely correctly, the reason for her emotional instability. She was, she says, "brought up in an unhappy, unhealthy atmosphere where my parents were always arguing. As a child I lay awake nights praying that tomorrow would bring no arguments in my house." "Now her parents live in the same building as herself and her husband, and she is still constantly exposed to their bitter quarrels and continuous abuse of each other.

Fully realizing that her attitude is hurting and harming the two people she loves most—her husband and her baby—she is doubly anxious to find a way of straightening herself out. Pathetically, she begs: "Before I lose my mind—honestly, it goes that deep at times—tell me, please, is there hope for a 28-year-old wreck like me?"

First of all, I want to assure this distressed and suffering girl that there certainly is hope for her. There is hope for anyone, no matter how deeply caught in the complexities of life, who is as honest and sincere and eager to help herself as she ise.

Her first step should be to move out of the building where she now lives in close proximity to her quarreling parents and thus get away from the tension they create in her. This, of course, may be easier to say than to do in these days of housing shortages, but it is something she should be planning for at the first possible opportunity.

Second, she should get expert psychological help from someone who can guide her out of the conflicts set up in her by her unfortunate childhood and show her the way to a happier and more serene future. She says she has been to doctors, but always has been brushed off with a sedative and an admonition to stop being so nervous,—futile treatment and advice in a case of this kind, where it isn't a medical man that is needed, but one trained in healing hurt hearts and damaged emotions; in other words, a psychiatrist.

While consultations with a good psychiatrist are expensive, there are clinics which make exper psychiatric advice available to those who cannot afford it otherwise.

Waltzing Outdated Says 101-Year-Old

Auckland, N. Z., Dec. 4—(CP)—"Don't call me old or I'll knock your head off," declared New Zealand's most vigorous centenarian, Mrs. O. E. Nielson, in a speech to the guests at her 101st birthday party at Auckland.

She proceeded to prove that she is old in years only by waltzing with Mayor J. A. C. Allum, and then demanded a modern dance — "because waltzing is too old-fashioned."

Mrs. Nielson, who goes to church every Sunday, received a message of congratulations on her birthday from the King and Queen.

Now It,s Fur In 27 Colors

Vancouver, Dec. 4 — (CP) — — Women, tired of the drab browns and blacks in their fur coats, have something new in store — pastel mink — currently being raised in British Columbia.

Members of the B. C. Mink Breeders' Association are raising pink, blue, white, mauve, orchid, and silver mink on farms throughout the lower mainland and growers say that when they reach the market, dark fur coats will be a thing of the past.

Experimentation has produced 27 different colors including two-tone effects that cannot be limited. The two-tone varieties have a longer, dark guard hair and shorter pastel underfur that ranges from pale blue to pink and orchid.

The first non-brown mink coat, a "silverblue" mutation, appeared in the United States five years ago and despite its $18,000 price, the scramble was so great that furriers realized they had something women wanted.

Brush Your Hair Every Night

A good hair brushing is part of Actress Evelyn Keys' daily beauty routine

By HELEN FOLLETT

DO YOU brush your hair every night? You know perfectly well that you do not do that little thing. Maybe you think it is an old dodo idea anyhow, since Grannie is forever telling how, when she was a girl, she gave her glorious crown 100 sweeps of the brush every night. The idea is old stuff, it is true, but good old stuff that would bring to life many a thatch that looks all tired out, dull and stringy.

You manage to cream your sacred complexion, put cuticle cream on your finger nails, lotion on your hands. You know you have to do that if complexion, hands and finger sheaths are to look pretty. But your poor tresses! You may wake up some day to find that the hair is thinning just because you didn't take care of it.

Won't Imperil Permanent

Brushing won't imperil your permanent; it will make it stronger and better. Grooming with a narrow brush with good stiff bristle will stimulate the scalp's glandular and circulatory functions. It will give your head a daily housecleaning, removing atmospheric dust and plucking out dead shafts so that cute little soft new ones can come forth to carry on.

Treat your tresses strand by strand, going through them with a rolling motion of the bristles. In course of time your hair will have lustre. Every hair will be apart from its neighbor so the growth will appear more abundant.

GOOD MANNERS

French Fiancee Arrives Groom's Mother Issues Wedding Invitations

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

A friend of mine is getting married soon to a girl who has just arrived from France. None of her family will be at the ceremony so the groom's family will have to do all the planning for the wedding. Would you please tell us how the wedding invitations should read? Should the groom's family invite the guests, or should the invitations read in the name of the bride's family, although they are in France? I think it should be the groom's family as no one knows the bride's family. Since we were not sure just when the bride-to-be would arrive, we could not plan the invitations.

Anxious Reader

Since this wedding, I judge, is to be an informal one, the invitations would not be formal, engraved invitations. Under these circumstances, the practical thing is for the groom's mother, who is to be hostess at the wedding, to give the invitations by telephone or by notes.

She Needn't Have Bridesmaids

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

We are planning to have a large church wedding and so must have at least six, probably eight, ushers. But I have never been interested in having the so-called "bevy of bridesmaids", and what I would really like to have is my married sister, whom I love dearly, as my matron of honor, and my only other sister, a lovely and decorative "sweet sixteen" miss, as a junior bridesmaid. But I am wondering if this arrangement of the wedding party would look unbalanced in either the processional or recessional. What do you think? And, if you approve of my idea, what do you suggest for the formation of the processional and recessional?

Helena B.

For your bridal attendants you should have just the ones you want to have, anad just the number. . . . I entirely approve of your having your little 'family group" of sisters, and don't be at all fearful that the processional or recessional will give an unbalanced appearance. The processional: first, the ushers, in pairs; next, the "sweet sixteen" sister, junior bridesmaid, walking alone; the matron of honor; and last, you and your father. The recessional: bride and groom; matron of honor (either alone, or with best man; junior bridesmaid, alone; last, ushers, two by two.

Singing Christmas Cards When Mother and Daughter Have Same Name

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

How should a Christmas card be signed, when the mother and daughter have the same first names? For example, should our cards be signed "John, Mary, Philip, and Mary"? My husband and I have not sent out family Christmas cards previously, and several firends of ours have suggested that we use, "John, Mary, Philip, and Mary, Jr.". Is this correct?

Mother

No, "Jr." is a masculine suffix. It should not be used after a girl's name.

Since your Christmas greeting cards would be sent to relatives and friends, I should think it wouldn't be necessary to 'explain' the second 'Mary'. Wouldn't it be understood that the Mary mentioned last is the daughter? However, since you say that this is the first time you and your husband have sent out "family" Christmas cards, it may be possible that "Mary" is a baby whose arrival is being announced by adding her name on the Christmas cards. If so, the names may be written, John, Mary, Philip, and the new daughter Mary".

The Experts Say . . .

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, (CP)—Pleased as you may be with that newly-acquired painting, if you want the neighbors to admire it, make sure the frame is right.

"A picture may be good, but if poorly framed it never will be fairly appreciated," said an official of the National Art Gallery. "The frame should not draw attention to itself. . .the painting . . . whether scene or portrait . . . is what should first confront the observer's eye."

He warned against putting modern frames on old pictures which was "something like clothing an old man, or an old woman, in the dress of a child."

Clumsy, as they appeared, the heavy ornate frames of the Victorian era suited the paintings of that period just as well as simple wooden frames suit the pictures of today.

As for oil paintings, the expert warned against hiding these behind glass as a protective measure against dust.

"Glass casts such terrible reflections," he said. "The observer never gets the opportunity of seeing the picture from the proper angle".

Once the hard-to-get apartment has been found the new housewife will have furnishing problems on her hands. If she's looking for furniture she'll play wise and choose from the plain, unornamented styles. Not only are they easier to match, but they don't present such a difficult dusting problem.

In the simple styles, maple and bleached mahogany harmonize well. Walnut goes with dark oak, maple or cherry. Because it can be painted to harmonize with a surrounding color scheme, many Canadian householders nowadays are buying unfinished furniture. This may be bleached, stained, or varnished, but for painting the piece should be made of birch or maple to bring out the best results.

With reasonable care good furniture will last a lifetime. Expensive wood should not be kept near hot-air registers, or in front of open windows.

Perhaps a piano is about the most expensive piece of furniture in the average Canadian household. Aside from caring for its appearance, the homemaker should remember its delicate mechanism. She should take care never to put a piano against an outside wall which is more susceptible to temperature changes than the inside walls of a house. She should also keep a sharp eye out for moths which are all too anxious to eat their way through the felt hammers inside the instrument.

Household Hints — Hardwood floors are cleaned and waxed at the same time if scrubbed with steel wool dipped in wax. The wax removes the strains and leaves the floor ready for polishing. . .If there's a hand-painted shade to be cleaned apply wallpaper cleaner in the same way as you would on paper. Window shades also may be cleaned by this method. . . An iodine stain on cotton cloth will disappear if it is wet with cold water and held before an open fire.

Fashion Flashes

JUST CLEAR of the ankles is a length that is liked for informal dance dresses. Mignonette green faille is used for a demure dress made with a deeply curved sweetheart neckline above a snug bodice that fastens with tiny self buttons. The rounded hips are trimmed with a double row of cording above a widely flared skirt.

BRIGHT STREAKS of color, particularly of red, enliven the late Fall scene. Bright red hats top off deep black and taupe outfits, and here and there a girl is seen wearing a greatcoat of geranium red fleece—hooded—with a modified backflare.

MAGNIFICENCE keynotes dresses designed for gala evening events. Frost-white slipper satin is used for a simply beautiful dress with a full seven paneled skirt flaring from a tiny waistline. Smoky gray and black chiffon drapes the deep, strapless, heart-shaped bodice over which is worn jacket of the frost-white satin, jet-embroidered in a flower design.

INTERESTING ARE the novel accessories designed to add beauty and glitter to evening costumes. One house shows a large chiffon square hankie attached to a double row of rhinestones that forms a glittering wristband. The square extends to the ankles.

THE NEAT LOOK is very much evident in good bags now in the shops. The luxury look is well evidenced in bags made for late afternoon and evening wear. Black suede is the medium for an elongated narrow pouch-shaped bag that widens in a sharp oblique angle to form a broad base, with units of shirring following the widening lines. The top gilt frame slants forward to reveal a gold link bracelet handle set with multi-colored stones.

SOMETHING NEW in the way of hosiery is the nylon stocking detailed with black heels and fine seams. Berries, flowers, birds and other designs in brilliant colors, are hand-painted on the dark heel sections of the shadowy sheer hose, made to be worn with open back heels.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A smother in bridge is not like what you make with a steak. Any player who does it, however, must know his onions. As is expected of an expert in this deal:

♣10 8 5 3

SOUTH
♠A 7 4
♥Q J 10 9 7 3
♣6 4 2

South was pushed into a six heart contract by his north partner. The opening lead from west was the diamond jack. Look at what this declarer is up against and you will say his job is not easy.

With west holding the king and three more trumps, a finesse in that suit will not work. West will refuse to play the king. On the third round, dummy ace must go and west will have the king left.

With east holding the king and other diamonds, a finesse in that suit will not work. Therefore, this play will not give south a chance to sluff a third spade on diamonds.

This declarer refused to take the diamond finesse. Dummy won the first trick with sparkler ace and led back the trey of that suit. This was ruffed in south with a small heart.

Trump queen was led and stood up when west and dummy ducked. The dangerous trump situation was disclosed when east showed out. Only a smother play can overcome such a condition.

So, south heart jack won another ducked trump trick. Then dummy won a club, south ruffed diamond queen, two more top clubs and two top spades came in. Now a third round of spades lost to east whose return must be a diamond or a club.

This happens when south and west have nothing but two trumps apiece; dummy has trump ace and a spade. South ruffs the return from east with heart nine. ~~What will west play on this?~~

Not the king. It loses to dummy ace. Should west duck with the eightspot? If he does, dummy throws the spade and trump ace takes the last trick. Against a smother there is no 'druther.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Dec. 5 (AP)—Independent movie producers are realizing it's going to be a cold winter in Hollywood and they are seeking the shelter of major studios.

The independent field, which flourished in the lush war years, is getting tighter, now that bank loans are more scarce and the movie business generally off. Every day brings word of independents seeking major studio attachments. Liberty Films (Capra-Wyler-Stevens) and Leo McCarey's Rainbow left their independent status at RKO to become integrated into Paramount.

Alfred Hitchcock and the Cagneys are heading for Warner Brothers, as May Howard Hawks. Hal Roach has expressed a desire to return to MGM.

The major studios are welcoming the "indies" for two reasons: 1. They need the producing talent; 2. The units supply their own staffs and permit the studios to make much-needed cuts in overhead.

Celluloid Roundup

June Allyson and Van Heflin will be a team in "Bedeviled." Lana Turner is out of the film because she'll go into "Three Musketeers." The Dumas yarn is being mentioned for a large section of the MGM star list, including Van Johnson and Greer Garson.

Lloyd C. Douglas is reported two-thirds through with his next big novel, "The Big Fisherman," the story of St. Peter. The best-selling ex-minister has said that the novel will not be sold to films. Reason: He doesn't think Christ, who appears in the book, should be portrayed on the screen. Incidentally, with conditions being as they are it's doubtful if Douglas' "The Robe" will be filmed for years and years.

Full Treatment

Winnipeg's Deanna Durbin gets the full romantic treatment with Dick Haymes in "Up in Central Park." One of their kisses is said to run 17.8 seconds, which is considered racy in the movies. Remember her first peck from Robert Stack in "First Love?"

Overhead: Marie McDonald observing another actress in the Metro commissary, "that's the oldest new look I've seen yet."

No One Injured As Two C.N.R. Freights Collide

Copetown, Ont., Dec. 5—(CP)—One engine was turned over on its side Thursday in a collision of two Canadian National Railways freight trains in this Wentworth county town 15 miles east of Hamilton. There were no injuries and no cars were derailed, although both main tracks were blocked, causing slight delay of a few passenger trains which were re-routed on a siding.

One of the freights pulled on to a passing track to allow the other one to clear but the movement had not been completed when the second train struck the "helper" engine at the rear of the first train, causing it to topple.

Two auxiliary crews were summoned, one from Hamilton and the other from London. Cause of the crash is under investigation.

SAY BOMB OUTRAGE RING BROKEN

Bombay, Dec. 5 (AP) — Police last night said they had smashed a terrorist ring, specializing in bomb outrages, by arresting 37 Hindus and Sikhs. The arrests followed a series of explosions in Bombay, the worst being at a movie house where seven were killed and 68 injured in August.

MAIDEN VOYAGE TO EAST

Southampton, Eng., Dec. 5 — (Reuters)—The 21,500-ton Dutch liner Willem Ruys, named after a director of the Rotterdam Lloyd line shot by the Germans in 1942, left yesterday with 860 passengers on her maiden voyage to Singapore and Batavia.

OFFICIALS AGHAST AT "ROUGH STUFF" IN HOCKEY GAMES

Several British Players Are Called Before Board for Disciplinary Action

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Saff Writer)

London, Dec. 5. (CP)—Maybe Canadian hockey players in Britain are hearing too much about the "bad man" exploits of the National Hockey Leaguers, because games here have pepped up in the last couple of weeks and Britain's straight-laced officials are aghast at the spate of rough stuff.

Officials of the British Ice Hockey Association warned the referees to crack down on the culprits and one or two players were threatened with suspension —but the fights still went on.

The lid blew off last Saturday with ten fights in three games. The B.I.H.A. stepped in and summoned 11 players to appear at the Association's offices for a meeting Tuesday of the disciplinary committee.

The result: ten players "severely reprimanded" and warned that a 'repetition of their offences would probably result in suspension." But the 11th man, Eddie Daoust, 22-year-old Montreal goalkeeper who plays with Wembley Lions, was suspended until Dec. 15.

Daoust was still "hot" following the game at Wembley when he showed disgust at the allowance of a goal by shooting the puck into the crowd. He was given a 10-minute misconduct and after the game, according to the referee, "Wanted to fight".

Four of the eleven players were from Wembley and a couple of the fight occurred on the Wembley ice in plain view of Sir Arthur Elvin, the arena's manager who frowns on rough stuff on any ice surface. It is recalled that Sir Arthur warned players on his teams last year that if they could-not play clean hockey he would send them back to Canada.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma wanted pop to take her to the movies after supper, but the streets were slippery as anything, and ma said, Oh well, mutch as I'd like to see the picture, I'm not going to be so silly as to risk life and limb for a temporary pleasure that mite end in a permanent injury.

I agree with you hartily, my dear, pop said, and ma said, Oh naturelly you're proverbially reddy to seize any excuse to stay home. Oh well, thank goodness we've got a nice warm safe home to stay out of the elements in. In fact, William, it's a simbol of the safety of this whole hemisphere. I mean as long as we're in control of the atomic bomb we needn't have any feer of forrin dictaters and war mongers, she said.

I wish I was sure of that pop said. According to what I've been reeding, there are one or 2 countries making rapid headway in the fine art of extinguishing the human race. They're said to be werking like beavers at biological and chemical warfare, so one of these fine days we're all libel to be down with the black plague or the shaking scurvy before we can even reach for the ferst atomic bomb, he said, and ma said, William, how gassly. Really, William, I mean really, if stuch a probability is even a remote possibility, with the whole werld on the outside brink of extinction, it seems rediculiss to miss a good picture just because of a mild threat like a slippery sidewalk, she said.

Quite rite, my dear, it does seem like a short sighted policy, pop said. Gather yee rosebuds while yee may, and I'll slide along with you, he said.

And they both put their rubbers on and went, and I went to bed and woke up long enough to hear them coming home again talking naturel.

Proving they were safe.

L.C.B. Announces Holiday Hours

Toronto, Dec. 5 — (CP)—The Liquor Licence Board of Ontario announced Thursday that sale of beer, wine and spirits in all hotels, taverns, public houses, restaurants and clubs must cease at 6 p.m., Dec. 24, Christmas Eve.

Normal hours of sale will resume Dec. 26.

Although sale of liquor ceases at 6 p.m., patrons of dining rooms and dining lounges may continue to order meals — without "hard" refreshments — throughout the evening.

Normal hours of sale will be observed Dec. 31, New Year's Eve.

AT THE BELLE — They're that way about each other in "That Way With Women." Martha Vickers and Dane Clark are co-starred with Sydney Greenstreet in Warner's latest funfest of sparkling humor and delicious romance. Old Home Week In Toronto As Leafs Welcome Back Hawks In One of Saturday's 3 Games

Members of Leafs Return From New York Carrying a Few Scars

(By The Canadian Press)

It will be like old home week in Toronto Saturday when the Chicago Black Hawks meet Toronto Maple Leafs in one of the three Saturday night N.H.L. games. Chicago is carrying five players traded from Toronto, and on the Toronto roster are ex-Hawks Max Bentley and Cy Thomas.

The exchange of personal greetings won't be carried too far, however, Leafs are intent on protecting their present one-point lead over Detroit Red Wings.

The Wings will be playing at Montreal, and the third encounter has New York Rangers at Boston Bruins.

Leafs are riding high after their scoreless tie at Boston and their 4-1 victory over Rangers at New York which dimmed Lester Patrick night in Madison Square Gardens, Wednesday. The Leafian stalwarts returned home yesterday with mutterings about the ungentlemanly conduct of the Rangers. Defenceman Jim Thomson had a cut on top of his head and forward Ted Kennedy had a swollen eye.

In fact, the hockey employees are taking their tasks so seriously of late that Bill Grimes, dean of Boston hockey writers, suggests the Lady Byng Trophy for the most gentlemanly player might just possibly be won by Bill Ezinicki.

And that's no reflection on Wild Bill who came back to Toronto with a fair-sized cut over his eye, received from Cal Gardner in the New York game. When it happened, Ezinicki didn't start any war or any argument. He didn't even wipe the blood off his face.

But he undoubtedly has a special check mark against Gardner's name in his little black book.

Kiwanis Junior Football Club Seeks Inquiry

(By The Canadian Press)

London Kiwanis Junior Football Club have asked Athletic Commissioner Sylvanus Apps for a "full investigation" in the Ontario Rugby Football Union's handling of a protest about Hamilton's junior Wildcats using five over-age players in last Saturday's semi-final.

The O. R. F. U., after finding that certain players were ineligible, ordered a replay of the sudden-death game at London next Saturday. Both teams declined, London on the grounds that the Hamilton club are not legal champions of their group.

Officials at London last night said they wouldn't allow the O.R.F.U. to "shelve" the protest. Said Coach Murray Griffin, "We've only started and if necessary we will take the case to the highest authorities."

* * *

Apps yesterday announced that all monies collected from provincial senior football clubs as a result of a two per cent levied by the Commission this fall, will be returned on the advice of the Attorney General. Apps applied the tax this fall on the grounds that senior football could be classed as professional.

Nippy Jones Batting Champ Of Int. League

New York, Dec. 5 — (AP) — Vernal (Nippy) Jones, Rochester's slugging infielder, won the 1947 International League batting championship with a mark of .337 — official averages, released today, giving him a one-point edge over Henry Sauer, Syracuse outfielder, who had been named unofficial winner of the honor.

Sauer, whose .336 average gave him runner-up laurels, led in five offensive departments. He collected the most runs, 130, the most hits, 182, and the most total bases, 362. The Syracuse star also had the most runs batted in, 141, and was hit by pitchers more than any other performer—12 times.

Philadelphia Rockets Defeat Hershey Bears

(By The Canadian Press)

Philadelphia Rockets lived up to their "giant killer" role last night as they upset the eastern leaders of the American Hockey League, Hershey Bears, 3-2. On Tuesday they pulled the same trick on the high-flying Pittsburgh Hornets. In the only other contest on the card last night, New Haven Ramblers downed Indianapolis Capitals 4-3.

A full-blooded Iroquois Indian, Wendell Jamieson, a former National Hockey Leaguer, Steve Wochy and a veteran, Eddie Bush scored for Rockets. Frank Mario and Bobby Schnurr scored for Bears.

At Indianapolis, Jean Paul Dennis sparked the New Haven drive with two goals while singletons were picked up by Buck Davies and George Robinson. Indianapolis goal-getters were Tony Licari, Don Morrison and Martin Pavelich.-

YOUNG RANGERS WIN FIRST GAME AFTER 12 LOSSES

Defeat Guelph Biltmores 4-3 in One of Best Games of Season

(By The Canadian Press)

Even the ill-luck omens run from the loop's "original" bad-luck team, Ed Wildey's Toronto Young Rangers. The "cursed" Rangers played their 13th game last night and by all rights it should have been an all-around flopper. But no . . .

The boys broke their record of 12 straight losses when they notched their first victory this season by defeating Guelph Biltmores 4-3 in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A tilt at Galt. No senior games were scheduled.

There were no cries of "fluke" in the cellar-dwellers' win. They commanded the situation for the first 40 minutes of play and then put up a stone wall before a desperate Guelph rally in the third session with a well-organized defence.

Minus any apparent defeat complex, Rangers took but 51 seconds to open scoring on Red Stephens' tally. He repeated himself seven minutes later to give Toronto a 2-0 first-period lead.

Billy Ringer and Red Spragge tallied two more in the middle frame for Rangers but these were answered by Glen Sonmor and Frank Bathgate for Biltmores. Guelph's Gordie Miller scored the only third-stanza counter.

The Rangers are still in the league cellar and Guelph is in 9th position in the 10-team loop.

Stratford Kroehlers visit St. Catharines Teepees in tonight's only scheduled junior game.

In the senior circuit Owen Sound Mercurys will try to extend their six-game winning streak when they meet the league-leading Toronto Marlboros at Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens. Hamilton Tigers face Hamilton Patricias in the mountain city and Stratford Indians visit Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen.

Windsor, Dec. 5 — (CP)—All the world loves a winner, and as long as he keeps winning, it continues to show its affection by small tokens which add up to juicy gate receipts.

That seems to be the trouble with Canada's oldest football body, the Ontario Rugby Football Union. Only once in the last eight seasons has the O. R. F. U. won the Eastern Canada championship.

The Big Four, on the other hand, has won it three years running, and the fans have shown they prefer to watch the Argos, Allouettes, the Roughriders and Tigers shove each other around on the gridiron.

Irvin (Butch) Taylor, secretary of the Toronto Indians O. R. F. U. club, pointed up the sad situation last week when he suggested that the six-team O. R. F. U. give up the ghost. His idea was that Toronto Indians and Balmy Beach unite and enter the Big Four along with Hamilton Wildcats. That would make it the big six.

But them were fightin' words as far as football fans in Windsor were concerned.

"Apparently he doesn't give a darn what happens to Windsor Rockets, Sarnia Imperials or Ottawa Trojans," steamed Doug (Windsor Star) Vaughan.

"You say, Mr. Taylor, that neither Windsor nor Sarnia spent money this past season to make their clubs a drawing card on the road. All that needs to be said to that, from your own financial statement, the Indians were a drawing card neither at home nor on the road. The Windsor club at least broke even and has paid all its bills."

Tradition-buster

Around Detroit they're acclaiming Leonard Patrick Kelly, Red Wings rookie defenceman, as the coolest - tempered red - headed Irishman ever to wear skates in the N.H.L.

Paul (Detroit News) Chandler tells about how Kelly became frightfully angry the other night when a shot of his at an open net hit a post and bounced out.

Teammates asked Kelly what happened and he replied:

"Ding, darn it, it just hit the pipe . . . that's all."

Sports Roundup

New York, Dec. 5 (AP)—The other day Joe Louis received a cheque for $1,500 for a one-minute stint as guest on a radio program . . . Tonight he will be paid off at a considerably higher rate for some work that likely won't be much harder—a title defence against Jersey Joe Walcott . The bout figures to gross about $225,000 at the gate, breaking the Madison Square Garden record of $201,613 made back in 1927 by Jack Delaney and Jimmy Maloney . . . Of this the champ will get the usual 40 per cent of the net, plus a share of radio and television receipts. He'll have to shell out his manager's cut and considerable training expenses, but if he's trying to break the by-the-minute record, he won't have to work long. This department figures that, in spite of bold predictions from the Walcott camp, Jersey Joe will last about five rounds. Louis isn't in any hurry.

EXPERTS EXPECT LOUIS TO WIN OVER WALCOTT

Match May Draw 19,000 and Produce Highest Gate at the Gardens

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Dec. 5 — (CP) — Around Madison Square Garden the wise word is that Joe Louis will "curdle the cream" tonight in the 24th defence of his heavyweight boxing crown. And hardly anyone doubts it.

So ill-assorted are the principals that the betting is 8 to 1 on Louis to dispose summarily of Arnold Raymond Cream, a pugilistic figure now known as Jersey Joe Walcott. But this will be boxing's first bigtime bout since Louis extinguished Tami Mauriello 14 months ago, and the Garden will be packed.

Simply because the champion will be in action again, the 15-round title match will draw close to 19,000 fans. It wouldn't be surprising, even, if the gross gate exceeded $230,000, shattering the Garden record of $201,613 set by Jack Delaney and Jim Maloney Feb. 18, 1927.

On all available figures, Louis should handle Walcott with the aplomb and finality that marked his last 14 fights, all knockouts. Now in his 11th year as ruler of the ring, the Brown Bomber is as trim and tough as ever, as poised and powerful as on the June night he wrested the title from Jimmy Braddock.

"I'll go after him; he won't have to hunt me," was the champion's eve-of-battle cry.

PACIFIC COAST LOOP REBUFFED IN ITS FIGHT

Jeff Heath of St. Louis Browns Sold to Boston Braves

Miami, Dec. 5. (AP)—The Pacific Coast League, rebuffed in its fight to become a third major baseball circuit, may yet receive the blessing of the National Association of minor leagues as it resumes its all-out effort for higher classification today with a modified resolution for big-league status.

Although minor league presidents voted 32 to 17 in favor of the coast loop's request yesterday, it failed to pass since it did not get the necessary three-fourths vote.

National Association President George Trautman, who presided over the executive session which highlighted the three-day convention, put the clamps on the coast circuit when he ruled that the resolution affected a change in the major-minor agreement.

The Pacific Coast announced it would redraft its resolution, eliminating any reference to clauses which would affect the major-minor agreement, and present it again at the executive session which winds up the convention today.

Regardless of what the Minors do today, final decision rests with the major leagues who meet next week in New York.

Main opposition to the plan was the six-year requirement for the draft. The opponents also contended that it would constitute an infringement of property rights.

One one major league trade was made during the day. Boston Braves purchased outfielder Jeff Heath from St. Louis Browns for an unnounced sum. Heath, who hit 27 home runs and batted in 82 runs despite a .251 batting average, had to be waived out of the American League.

Dallas Texans Cut Nine-Game Loss Streak

(By The Associated Press)

Fort Worth Rangers knocked off the Dallas Texans 4-2 last night to cut a nine-game losing streak and pull back into a tie with the losers for second place in the United States Hockey League's southern division.

Three goals in the second period by Len Mutcheson, Jack Hewson and Russ Kopak did the trick last night, after each team had scored once in the opening stanza.

Houston's downed Tulsa 4-2 in another game when Paul Mundrick and George Agar, Houston's high scoring duo, tallied in the final 20 minutes for the decision.

At St. Paul, Kansas City Pla-Mors rallied from a 2-2 tie to win 5-2 in a northern division contest. Jack Miller scored two of the three goals.

No games are scheduled tonight. Saturday night's schedule has Minneapolis at Dallas, Fort Worth at Tulsa and Kansas City at Omaha.

Given 3 Months For Poaching in Algonquin Park

Pembroke, Dec. 5 —(CP) — James LaTour yesterday was sentenced to three months in county jail and in addition fined $500 when he appeared in Magistrate's court to answer six charges in connection with alleged poaching of game in Algonquin Park.

The jail sentence was given when he pleaded guilty to resisting a peace officer, Game Overseer Nelson Jones of Bissets Ont. He pleaded guilty to four of the five additional charges, and on the fifth was convicted. On the latter count, of pointing a firearm at a game overseer, LaTour was fined $100 or one month, consecutive.

The other charges and penalties were $50 fine or one month for being in possession of firearms in Algonquin Park; $100 or one month for destroying Beaver houses in the park; $50 or one month for possessing firearms in the park.

If the fines are not paid the jail sentences will run consecutively, a total of seven months.

Game Overseer Jones told Magistrate W. K. MacGregor that he fought LaTour for 45 minutes on an ice-covered lake inside the vast park before effecting the arrest. He said he was struck with a gun and threatened with an axe before he subdued the accused.

He caught up with LaTour after following tracks in the snow for six miles, when he found a cabin which contained beaver pelts. After LaTour submitted to arrest the two walked another eight miles to the officer's car.

Oliver Recommends Return of Subsidies On Feed Grains

Shelburne, Ont., Dec. 5 — (CP) — Farquhar Oliver, Ontario Liberal party leader, in an address to the Dufferin County Federation of Agriculture last night recommended restoration by the Federal Government of subsidies on feed grains.

Bringing back the subsidies, he said, would rectify the present situation of uncertainty and keep prices "level across the board."

Farmers should realize, he said "that the day is coming when Canada will not be shipping as much dairy and bacon products to Britain as she does today. Britain's greatness during the past has been dependent on trade with the whole world and Britain must buy again from Argentina, Denmark and Australia and the rest of the world so she can sell her manufactured products. We in Canada are either unable or unwilling to buy the manufactured products she must sell."

Britons Hopeful Coming Winter Will Pass Without Fuel Crisis

London, Dec. 5 — (Reuters) — Cheered by a succession of good coal production returns and rising stocks, Britons now are hopeful that the coming winter will pass without another fuel crisis, and that exports may be resumed early next year.

In spite of many favorable signs, however, Britain's fuel economy is still operating on narrow margins. Three major uncertain factors — labor relations, domestic consumption and the weather — may each produce a serious threat to the government's plans.

Trends of Britain's coal industry this winter will be watched all over the world for an indication that she is regaining her economic balance and may soon be able to help other countries to do so.

Britons who still shudder at the mention of last winter's fuel crisis were glad to learn from the government that the country in better prepared than last year for the test of winter.

This year, distributed coal stocks at the end of October stood at more than 16,000,000 tons, 5,000,000 tons higher than at the same time last year. Output was recently run above the target of 4,000,000 tons a week and is expected to increase still further as longer working hours come into general operation.

The increase in stocks, it was stated officially, was due mainly to two factors — the almost complete elimination of exports which saved 2,000,000 tons, and the unexpectedly low internal consumption due to a bright summer and mild autumn. In addition, 700,000 tons of coal were imported.

To Help Industry

Under the government's "winter coal budget" which came into force Nov. 1 and covers the six months ending April 30, industry will receive the full benefit of the higher stocks for its all-out production for export.

Supplies of household coal are not increased, and indeed the government hopes domestic users will reduce their consumption by 10 per cent. But there will be no rationing of gas and electricity. Experts consider that "armies of bureaucrats" would be needed to work out a fair ration for widely differing household needs, and to enforce control. It has therefore been decided to rely on the discipline and voluntary co-operation of the private consumer.

After winning a five-day week last May, the miners now have agreed to work again six days every second week or lengthen the existing working shift by half an hour a day to boost production.

Major disputes or a rash of scattered small strikes could upset the applecart. In September and October "unofficial strikes"—stoppages not approved by the unions,— spread like wildfire and lost the nation some 750,000 tons of coal.

Observers believe that Fuel Minister Gaitskell, who recently succeeded Emanuel Shinwell, will have to face his greatest test in his relations with the miners, one of whose leading spokesmen is Arthur Horner, general secretary of the Miners' Union and a communist. Horner has expressed open displeasure at the transfer of Shinwell and the communists have condemned the recent reshuffle in the Labor government as a "turn to the right."

GUESS ON DATE

London, Dec. 5 — (Reuters) — Informed London quarters today were quoted as predicting May 1, 1948, as the possible date on which Britain will surrender her Palestine mandate and begin withdrawal of her forces.

A decision about the date was believed imminent.

Cost-of-Living Index Climbs Another 1.4 pts.

Ottawa, Dec. 5 — (CP)— On the eve of opening of parliament for a pre-Christmas session which may take further steps to deal with rising prices, Canadians were told that the Dominion's cost-of-living index had climbed another 1.4 points during October with foods leading the upward trend.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics, keeper of the Canadian economic pulse, reported yesterday that its index, calculated on the basis 1935-39 equals 100, reached 143.6 at Nov. 1, compared with 142.2 at Oct. 1 and 127.1 at Nov. 1 last year, or a 16-point gain in the last 12 months. On the basis of August, 1939, equalling 100, the index stood at 142.5 at Nov. 1.

Thus the index was fast approaching the level of 145 at which Finance Minister Abbott has predicted it might settle. He told a press conference two months ago — when the index was below 140 — that if it settled somewhere between 140 and 145, he would consider the situation "pretty good."

However, Canadians, looking at the food group index which rose 2.3 points to 173.6 on higher prices for eggs, fluid milk, certain meats and canned vegetables, could find some consolation that the overall rise in the cost of living was showing signs of slackening off.

During August and September the jump in the cost of living index was 2.8 points in each of those two months, though the advance for September could be traced to the major government decontrol action taken that month.

CHAPTER 13.

She paled, stirred uncomfortably on the seat. In sheer panic, she tried to think of a way out.

"You've forgotten—the murder hasn't been solved," she reminded him, now.

"Oh, well—you've been pretty decent about that. Every one knows you intended to marry Blare for his fortune. They won't censure you for marrying me —for love." He laughed mirthlessly.

"You're—why, you're impossible!" she gasped. "I can't marry you—I won't!"

"Oh, yes, you will," he returned confidently, "Just as soon as soon as this train pulls into Albany."

The train slowed down ana crept smoothly into the Albany station. Furiously, Kay hunted in her mind for an immediate, clever solution to this cobweb of circumstances in which she found herself. Webb held a cruel, insidious power over her. She was powerless to defend herself against him and he knew it. She must move cautiously, perhaps tfeat his arrogance altogether differently from the way she had ever treated it before. She must have her way. yet at the same time pacify him as she would a dangerous animal about to spring.

When they were gathering their belongings preparatory to leaving the train, she said sweetly, "You know, Webb, how very sentimental I am. I agreed to marry you—and I'll keep the bargain. Why shouldn't I? We've grown up together—it's natural that we should be fond of each other. But let's go home—be married there—invite a few close friends to our wedding. Your father and mother—my mother and stepfather—they'd be hurt if we eloped. Honestly, I don't like to do it. It might look as if in some way we hustled Henn off—in order to marry each other. Of course, if the murderer had been found—we wouldn't have to worry."

Webb swallowed hard, got to his feet, beckoned a porter to come for their bags. His bearing was that of a man playing for time. He snapped at her, "We'll talk in. the taxi," and led the way down the aisle.

For some inexplicable reason, a sense of release surged through her. She felt as if she had won a battle. But she never could be sure which way Webb would jump, so she held herself in readiness for anything he might do or say. She wondered how she could put him off if he still insisted upon marrying her today. Wild plans of running away from him dashed through her mind, only to be rejected as futile. The only weapon that apparently kept him in line was fear—fear of becoming involved in the mystery of Hennington Blare's murder. This was particular, she thought. And the more she considered it, the more she wondered about a great many things.

Sh got into the taxi, praying to be able to exercise every wit she possessed.

He slumped. down beside her, heaved a sigh, and said moodily, "You win, Kay. We can't have our marriage looking—messy."

She felt nearly happy, tried to speak calmly.

"I'm glad you're seeing it my way," she murmured, a trifle unsteadily.

"But you'll hunt no job here. I think there's a train for Deweyton this evening. We'll get some lunch and I'll do some inquiring."

"I'd be so much better off if I were busy—for two months" she insisted, bravely defiant, when they were riding through the hub-bub of the city streets.

He whirled on her angrily.

"It looks to me like a plan to avoid keeping your agreement to marry me! How do I know you're not meeting Nourse here—even marrying him?"

"Chuck Nourse and I are not on speaking terms," she declared truculently.

He brightened, tried to take her hand.

"Atta girl!" he exclaimed. "Now we're getting somewhere!"

He took her into a crowded air-conditioned restaurant where a well-known orchestra was pouring lilting strains through an ornately decorated, low room. Tables for two were set at an intimate angle under subdued lighting. They followed the head waiter to one and sat down.

"The sea food here is marvelous," Webb said with his old confidence.

The waiter gave him the bill of fare. He made quick selections and ordered without consulting her. She wondered how she was to endure his deliberate rudeness the remainder of her life. "But then," she thought grasping at slim hope, "I'm not married to him yet."

In the next instant, however, her spirits drooped again. She was certain that fate was irrevocably closing down on her. She picked distinterestedly at the choice bits of lobster on her plate, watched Webb drink old-fashioned cocktails one after the other. Half exolantly, she managed to drink two glasses of iced coffee. It might clear her brain. If Webb drank himself into stupidity and she could leave him here asleep in his chair, oblivious to her going, how swiftly she would disappear!

Yet apparently no such escape was to be her lot. Webb was slightly unsteady on his feet, but he managed to telephone for train reservations. Then they went to a movie, had dinner in a Chinese restaurant, after which he escorted her to her drawing-room on the train with elaborate deference.

She pleaded a headache, bade him a curt good night, and managed to escape his kissing her. After the door closed upon him, she turned the bolt, feeling as if she had won some sort of victory. It was good to be rid of him until morning, at least.

The snowy whiteness of the bed linen looked tempting, and she undressed wearily, cleansed her flushed face with cream, and got between the agreeably starched smoothness of the sheets. She switched off the overhead light, a complexity of emotion enveloping her with dreadful insistence. Her dream of being an independent wage earner was not to be fulfilled. The die was cast. She must marry Webb Taylor to prove her love for another man. This didn't make sense. It would sound too melodramatic if put into words. Well, she wouldn't put in into words, although talking to herself might bring a certain release from all her pent-up rebellion.

Deep in her heart there nestled a slim ray of sunshine. She was returning to Deweyton! She would be near Chuck, within call if he needed her. Yet why should he actually need her? He had shown her plainly enough that he didn't and she had shown him that she didn't need him. Their ways were parted for all time.

She tossed and fretted on the bed for several hours, finally settling into heavy slumber, too deep for dreaming.

She was awakened at dawn by a streak of lightning zigzagging across the heavens. Its flare made the hills leap out clearly and recede into shadow again as the train dashed across the country. She sat up in bed, her jangled nerves atune with the banging battle of mighty clouds overhead.

Orinarily an electric storm frightened her, but now she was frightened so much more by her personal problems that this terrific unheaval in the sky was negligible. She watched it in avid fascination, this battle in which apparently, no foe was vanquished.

Morning proper was ushered in to the accompaniment of a steady rain, filling her with foreboding. She finally got out of bed and dressed, too nervous to lie brooding any longer.

She managed to close the heavy window beside the bed without calling the porter. She would hide in here as long as possible. The rumble of the swiftly revolving wheels over steel rails somehow lulled her despair into reconciliation. If she married Webb, it would be for the sake of the one big love of her life, Chuck! What greater sacrifice could she make for him?

Another hour dragged by and gradually the heavy veil of clo lifted , revealing the broad beauty of the blue sky, lifted by a jolly, squinting sun.

Chin on hand, Kay leaned hard against the window—sill, and watched the landscape fly by. The summer was rapidily dying—and with it her heart. Here and there in a wooded lot were touches of fall color among the green foilage, many fields had been parched by long hot spells, and others showed only stubble left by the reapers. Little streams had already given up the ghost and showed sandy, branch—strewn bottoms. All nature was slowing down to winter repose.

And she—she was getting married! It seemed so unreal it was terrifying.

Even Safety Goes On Black Market During Riots

New Delhi, Dec. 5 (AP)—Pipe dreams and personal safety have been added to the myriad commodities in the black markets of India and Pakistan, to which lush new fields were opened by communal rioting and the troubles in Kashmir.

The eruption of fierce communal fighting caused acute shortages of food and other necessities in various sections, and to those complaints were added the voices of opium smokers, who said their normal supply sources had been upset and that black marketeers took advantage of the situation. Opium smoking is illegal in both dominions but there are many addicts.

Safety and access to safety have become recognized black market commodities. Statisticians of the the industrial empire in India recently made pointed comment that a governmental crackdown was in order.

"Smart money" bought large numbers of airplane tickets, with bookings far in advance, wherever communal troubles erupted. These tickets were resold at fantastic prices, sometimes more than 100 times the face value of the ticket, and wealthy refugees in terror of their lives were glad to pay.

Some private pilots reaped rich harvest for the transports of wealthy refugees and their precious possessions to areas of safety.

Automobile owners fleeing from trouble centres had to drive their automobiles to airports, and leave them behind. Bargain hunters haunted the airfields, bought these cars at distress prices, and they are now re-appearing at the usual black market prices.

Some black marketeers operate in reverse, however. In Lahore, Pakistan, Mohammedan looters of Sikh and Hindu shops set up business on curbstones. Many of them had not the vaguest idea of true values of the things they had stolen. Scotch whisky sold three rupees (less than a dollar) a bottle, and one man told of having bought a case of gin for one rupee because the seller thought it was bottled water. This situation did not last long, however.

HOLY THURSDAY

Maunday-Thursday, the Thursday of Holy Week, was a day for pilgrims to wash the feet and is derived from "mandatum," first word of the service chanted at the ceremony.

JERUSALEM SCENE OF MOB VIOLENCE AS ARABS PROTEST PARTITION

Dr. Husseini Khaldi

Grand Mufti

Celebrating the formation of the new Jewish state in the Holy Land, these young Jews sing their joy in New York. Meanwhile Arab threats of violence continued. Haj Amin El Husseini, former Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, has been granted leadership over all Palestine Arabs. He has issued no final orders for Arab action. Dr. Hussein Khaldi is chairman of the Arab higher committee which ordered a three-day general strike of Palestine Arabs. Jerusalem reports several incidents of mob violence and murder.

SEVEN YEARS FOR ATTACK

St. Catharines, Dec. 5—(CP)—Alexander Hugh McDonald, 24, yesterday was sentenced to seven years in penitentiary on a charge of robbery with violence arising from an attack last April on an elderly St. Catharines widow. On charges of indecent assault and assault occasioning bodily harm, he was given concurrent sentences of two years.

TOM LONGBOAT TO MOVE

Brantford, Dec. 5—(CP)—Tom Longboat, famous Indian marathon runner of a bygone generation who is still hale and hearty, has at last decided to move into the house with which he was presented by a group of Canadian sportsmen nearly 40 years ago. The large frame dwelling, still in good repair, is situated on the Six Nations Indian Reservation near here.

Emphasize Moral And Spiritual In Social Work

Saint John, N.B., Dec. 5—(CP)—Avoidance of "crassly naturalistic emphasis" in social work, with greater emphasis on moral and spiritual contributions, was urged in an interview here yesterday by Most Rev. George Frederick Kingston, Primate of the Church of England in Canada and Archbishop of Nova Scotia.

The Primate said too few people were aware the church was interested in "wrestling with the many problems of human living which exist today." Part of the church's task was to try to relate itself to human needs.

On the subject of church union, he said that although "conversations" were being held with the United Church of Canada, there was "no immediate concrete scheme for union. The conversations are leading to understanding and a more charitable outlook on our existing differences."

Developments Likely in Polish Treasure Mystery

Ottawa, Dec. 5 (CP)—The Canadian government has been in touch with the Polish legation here concerning the long-missing Polish state treasures and new developments in the mystery will likely be disclosed next week, it was learned today.

It is understood that External Affairs Minister St. Laurent is personally handling these new negotiations.

Earlier the Poles, representing the present Warsaw government, requested the Canadian government for further assistance in locating the war-stored treasures which vanished more than a year ago from several churches in Ontario and Quebec, where they were stored.

The Poles contend the treasures were stolen from the churches by supporters of the now-defunct London Polish government-in-exile.

Report Cracking Ring of Forgers

Berlin, Dec. 5 — (AP)—Agents of the United States Army's Criminal Investigation Division said today they had cracked a ring of forgers, led by a Berlin university professor, which had worked up a lucrative trade in faked Swiss passports.

The agents said 30 persons were under arrest, 29 of whom were Germans and the other a Romanian woman.

They said 20 passports had been sold here at 50,000 marks ($5,000) apiece, and "only to the best people, apparently all well-to-do intellectuals," but none of them had been able to leave Germany yet.

SOURCE OF MINERALS

Dry beans are an excellent sourse of iron, phosphorous and calcium.

ACCUSED GIVEN LASHES

Peterborough, Dec. 5 — (CP)—Found guilty earlier this week of assaulting his wife, Thomas Hughes, 47-year-old auto wrecker, last night was sentenced to 12 months in reformatory with six strokes of the lash.

GRUESOME MAKE-UP

Melbourne, Australia — (CP)—A new theatrical make-up oil has been invented by two students here. It is applied on the hands and faces of the players and ultra violet lights in the wings are played on them. The effect is gruesome and was effectively used in a production of "Macbeth."

FUNERAL GODDESS

Libitine was the Roman goddess of funerals.

Body of Hamilton Woman Found; Victim of Assault

Investigators Not Sure Yet As to Cause of Death

Hamilton, Dec. 6 (CP)—Police announced shortly before noon today they were satisfied a body found behind Dundurn Castle was that of Mrs. Julia Kabas, 54, of Hamilton. They said the manner of death had not yet definitely determined but it appeared the woman, who was raped, had been strangled.

The Polish-born Mrs. Kabas was last seen alive as she set out for home about 11 p.m. after visiting a neighbor, Mrs. Mary Kunzir. Her mud-stained, partly-clad body was found a quarter of a mile from her home.

Hamilton, Dec. 6 (CP).—Body of a middle-aged woman was found today at the rear of Dundurn Castle, a building now used as a museum, near the western entrance to the city and police said she had been criminally assaulted. Investigators said they could not determine immediately what caused her death.

Police said they had tentatively identified the woman as Mrs. Julia Kabas, 54, who lived on Crooks street a short distance from Dundurn Castle. They and Mrs. Kabas' daughter reported her mother missing and gave them a description which they said corresponded to that of the dead woman. Mrs. Kabas, when last seen, wore a black dress and a soldier's battle dress tunic.

In Lonely Section

Roy Fox, 610 York street, caretaker of Dundurn Castle, said that he was called at about 9 o'clock this morning by a man, identified as Blair Gautreau, who told him that a woman was lying at the back of the castle, and that she was either hurt or dead. Accompanied by Roy Reid, maintenance man at Dundurn Castle, they went round to the back of the castle to look at the woman.

Mr. Fox said that he then decided to call the police immediately; this was at about 10 minutes after 9 o'clock and they arrived a few minutes later.

He said he usually made his last visit to the castle at about 10 o'clock at night to check the furnaces and turn out the lights and, yesterday evening, went there from his residence close by between 10 to 10 and 10 o'clock.

Saw Police Cruiser

He said that he saw a police cruiser standing by the castle about that time but saw nothing at all suspicious. He believed that the visit of the cruiser was quite a regular thing and he identified it by the large aerial at the rear of the car.

Blair Gautheau said that he was walking through Dundurn Park on his way to York Street to get a ride or a bus to his work at about 9 a.m. today.

As he passed the back of Dundurn Castle, he said that he noticed a woman lying face down on the patio at the back. Mr. Gautheau said that he decided not to approach too closely until he had called some one and so went around the front of the castle where he knew there would be some of the maintenance staff. He called them and Roy Fox, caretaker, and Roy Reid, maintenance man, came out.

Clothing Disheveled

He told them that he had seen a woman either hurt or dead and they went around the back together. Mr. Gautreau said that this time he went up onto the verandah and had a look at the woman who was lying face down with her clothes pulled up above her waist. He said that he did not touch her but the three men decided that she was dead and Mr. Fox went to his house and called the police.

The body of Mrs. Kabas was found lying at the eastern end of the verandah and was covered with mud and dirt. Signs of a struggle were found by police officers investigating the affair in a hollow west of and below the castle and part way up the path to the castle from the hollow. Near the second spot, a shoe belonging to Mrs. Kabas was found lying in the snow and police officers stated that the marks in the snow indicated that a criminal offence had taken place at this point.

WIDOW OF VIGUS GIVES TESTIMONY AT DOUBLE PROBE

Says She Did Not Know Her Husband Was Keeping Company With Iris Scott

Toronto, Dec. 6. (CP)—The widow of George Vigus told a coroner's jury yesterday she had no idea her husband was keeping company with Iris Scott before the bodies of Vigus and the pretty 21-year-old stenographer were found Sept. 12 in the locked trunk of an automobile.

Frail and ailing, Mrs. Vigus gave her evidence in low tones at the inquest into the strangle-slaying of the couple. Suffering from a thyroid condition, she was permitted to sit during her testimony but Crown Counsel Henry Bull questioned her for more than an hour concerning the last few days of her husband's life and his relationship with his family.

The slight, pale-faced woman kept her composure throughout her appearance in the witness box, but was overcome shortly after she left the courtroom and was taken home after being treated by Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson, who later adjourned the inquest until Monday.

Mrs. Vigus told of a six-hour wait on the unlit verandah of her home as she waited for her husband to return from work on the night of Sept. 10. Vigus had told her days before that he would be working late, but she waited "in a nervous state", as he failed to appear.

'What brought on that nervous state, something you suspected," asked Mr. Bull.

Mrs. Vigus said she thought he might have been hurt—a man at the box factory where he was employed had lost two fingers in a machine two weeks before.

"Did you not suspect he was with Iris Scott?"

"No Sir, I thought perhaps something was wrong with the car."

Mrs. Vigus said she had known Iris when the girl did stenographic work for her husband a year before. Miss Scott had occasionally been at the Vigus home to help him in his work and had spent a Summer with the family at Lake Simcoe.

The witness had not known her husband was seeing Iris regularly during the last year of his life although he had purchased canvas for the girl, who was studying art.

Asked about the movements of her son, 19-year-old George Vigus, Jr., the night of Sept. 10, she said he had spent the evening at home and had gone to bed early—about 10.30 p.m. She had roused him at 5 a.m. to tell him his father was missing.

If Your Family is Small Try Turkey-Split for Christmas Dinner

By W. R. WHEATLEY

Montreal, Dec. 6. (CP)—Maybe this Christmas you'd like to have a turkey-split (with or without the hyphen), which is something like splitting a bottle of beer with your neighbor or sitting down to a banana-split, but nothing like a splitinfinitive.

With a split infinitive you get something in between, to either figuratively or literally speak. But with a turkey-split. . . .

Let's start over again. Montreal poultry dealers say many families are too small to require turkeys weighing between 15 and 35 pounds. There is a heavy demand for birds of 10 pounds or so, but the supply is limited.

So the dealers talked it over with Department of Agriculture officials. Surprisingly enough, all hands came up with the identical suggestion—put half-turkeys on the market.

Then they did a little research work and found out—without consulting the turkeys, which were dead by this time anyway—that a split turkey is just as satisfactory as a whole turkey.

All the dealer needs is a sharp knife and knack of butchering. The turkey is plit from north to south or viceversa; never from east to west or V.V.

The researcheds including Miss Laura Pepper and Mrs. Dorothy Batcheller of the Agriculture Department's economic branch discovered that half a turkey will cook more uniformly than a whole turkey. Since the half is smaller you don't need an overgrown pan or monster-size cooker.

The half-turkey can be dressed as easily as if the bird hadn't been bisected said the researchers.

Don't ask us why the farmers don't raise more small turkeys and eliminate the splitting. That's a Biological subject. Only female turkeys can be classified as "small" and somehow or other there are far fewer female than male turkeys.

There's one drawback to this split turkey business that the researchers didn't consider; at least they offered no solution. Suppose th efamily has two children and each wants a drunstick. Now to split a drumstick. . . .

ANGRY OPPOSITION FACES GOVT. ON AUSTERITY PLANS

Fireworks Set off By Motion of King

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Dec. 6 — (CP) — An opposition, angered by the government's handling of decontrol and by methods followed in establishing import restrictions, gave vent to its feelings yesterday within minutes after the Throne Speech officially marked the opening of the fourth session of the 20th Parliament.

A motion by Prime Minister Mackenzie King outlining government suggestions on how the work of the session should be proceeded with set off the fireworks and drew from John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, the charge that the government had "murdered the constitution" by imposing its new economic controls.

Considerable Opposition

After M. J. Coldwell, C. C. F. leader, Solon Low, Social Credit leader, and some private members joined the opposition to the proposed procedure, Mr. King withdrew his motion and said it would be re-submitted Monday.

Main objection centred on the government's suggestion that the debate on the Throne Speech be adjourned Monday after party leaders have been heard to permit the handling of legislation which must be passed prior to the Christmas adjournment, tentatively set for Dec. 19.

The 1,200-word Throne Speech, read in the Senate Chamber by the Governor-General, Viscount Alexander, contained little in the way of surprises. But in the debate on the speech members are allowed to refer to practically any subject. The opposition made it clear that there were things they wished to bring up that could not be referred to in debate on a single piece of legislation.

The Throne Speech said parliament would be asked to deal with measures arising out of the moderate austerity program inaugurated Nov. 18 in an effort to conserve American dollars. It also would be asked to approve trade agreements and tariff concessions signed by Canada at the recent international trade conference in Geneva and scheduled to become effective Jan. 1.

A third matter is the need for extending the transitional emergency powers Act under which the government forces rent and other controls. The Act is scheduled to expire Dec. 31.

After the Christmas adjournment, members will be asked to deal with less urgent legislation, including bills to increase the initial wheat payment and to launch a low-rental housing project for veterans.

A Federal Labor Code bill and bills amending the Income Tax Act the Dominion Election Act and the Canada Shipping Act all introduced at the last session but not considered will ze re-introduced.

A bill to consolidate all statutes relative to defence will be placed before parliament

The Speech referred to the unsettled conditions in world affairs and said a permanent solution to Canada's exchange problems and her future well-being rested on the revival of world trade.

Fact Cannot be Denied 'Cold' War Being Waged

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs analyst)

We are faced with the tragic but certain fact that war—"cold" but nevertheless war—is being waged between Russia and the democracies, that Moscow's purpose is to communize the world and that the democracies are determined to prevent this. It is a fight to a finish.

The question arises therefore why the combatants devote so much time and energy to international conferences which rarely reach agreement. Take for instance the bogged-down London conference of Big Four foreign ministers called to draft a German and Austrian treaties. On the face of it this parley is serving mainly to ruffle tempers and act as a sound-board for propaganda.

All this being so, why don't the combatants abandon their conferences and get ahead with the job of finishing that "cold war"? One hastens to all that this is a rhetorical question which we shall try to explain.

I think the chief reason they don't make a clean break is that both sides are appalled with the gravity of trying to run two words in an atomic age. They hate to admit officially that there are two worlds.

Moreover, neither side is absolutely sure of the real strength of the other. For that matter they aren't sure of their own strength, in some instances. That is true of the crisis in France and Italy. Communist striking power in those two countries hasn't yet been put to the final test and therefore is an unknown quantity to both Moscow and to the western democracies.

Upon this unknown strength hangs the fate of the Marshall aid plan. If the Reds in France and Italy should succeed in their efforts to cause the downfall of the governments of those countries, Russia certainly would have taken a mighty stride toward winning its "cold war." The western Allies need time to get the plan into operation to give France and Italy the material aid with which to withstand the Communist aggression.

Then from the standpoint of the democracies, time might swing countries like Czechoslovakia and Poland back into the democratic fold. And Moscow doesn't overlook that this same delay might enable Russia to consolidate her position in eastern Europe.

Marshall Calls for Removal Of German Zonal Boundaries, Asks What Are Russian Terms

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

London, Dec. 6 —(AP)— Virtual partitioning of Germany between Russia and the Western Powers for an indefinite time was indicated today by developments in the foreign ministers council which convened here two weeks ago to recreate German unity.

As the second week of the conference drew to a close, one more issue — German economic unity —was added to the list of those which have provoked basic disagreement between Russin on the one hand and France, Britain and the United States on the other.

The latest deadlock came yesterday when State Secretary Marshall challenged Foreign Minister Molotov to stop talking "generalities" about the German peace treaty and state precisely the conditions under which Russia would agree to unify Germany. The American secretary called for the elimination of Germany's zonal boundaries as a starter.

Molotov Attacks West's Policies

In response, Molotov launched into an attack on British and American policies in Western Germany, accused the two powers of breaking the Potsdam agreement on reparations, said they were "actually hindering" economic recovery in the western zones and claimed there had been a contradiction between Marshall and United States Commerce Secretary Harriman over the issue of unifying Germany.

The Soviet Minister said Harriman had recommended in a recent report to President Truman on the Marshall Plan the creation of a separate regime in Western Germany.

This, Molotov said, was contrary to Marshall's call for the unification of all Germany.

Marshall and Foreign Secretary Bevin both counter-attacked as soon as Molotov finished. Bevin asserted that Molotov's arguments were designed to convince the Germans that they have but one friend — the Soviet Union."

Recovery in Western Zone

Marshall cited figures to show the extent of recovery in the merged British - American zones and once more appealed to the council to "leave generalities and engage in a discussion which may enable us to make some progress."

Foreign Minister Bidault also clashed briefly with Molotov over French economic proposals for Germany.

Issues over which the Big Four now have split three to one cover Germany's frontiers, the procedure for creating a German peace treaty, the completion of Austrian independence and economic unity over Germany. These differences have been unrelieved by any willingness to reach compromise agreements except on minor points.

Western diplomats say that unless there is a radical change in the direction of the conference it may break up in failure fairly soon.

Durocher Back As Manager Of Dodgers

By JACK HAND

Brooklyn, Dec. 6 (AP) —Leo Durocher today was returned to his old job as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers by President Branch Rickey. Durocher will succeed interim pilot Burt Shotton now that Leo's season-long suspension by Commissioner A.B. Chandler has been served.

No salary terms were announced. Durocher was said to have signed a 1947 contract calling for $50,000 last winter before his suspension. The Dodgers never announced whether he was paid while "sweating out" the ban in California.

Durocher, always a stormy petrel during his 20 years in the major baseball leagues, was suspended April 9 by Chandler for the entire 1947 season for "conduct detrimental to baseball."

The suspension was the direct result of hearing in Sarasota and St. Petersburg, Fla., last March following charges brought by Larry MacPhail, former New York Yankee president, against Durocher, Rickey and Harold Parrott, the Dodgers' road secretary.

MacPhail's charges involved newspaper stories quoting Rickey and a daily column under Durocher's name in the Brooklyn Eagle in which it had been inferred that the ex-Yankee president had entertained known gamblers in his box at a Havana exhibition game.

French Assembly Passes Drastic Anti-Strike Law

Paris, Dec. 6 (AP).—After a tumultuous, 21-hour session, the Upper Chamber of the French Legislature today approved Premier Robert Schuman's new drastic anti-strike, anti-sabotage law 217 to 82.

The bill, which heavily increases the punishments for sabotage and sets up penalties for persons inciting strikes or keeping them going, was approved by the National Assembly, the lower Chamber, Thursday.

It now goes to President Vincent Auriol for signature and is expected to become effective today or tomorrow. The measure was demanded by the Schuman cabinet to guarantee non-strikers the right to work without interference, to suppress sabotage and to allow the state to use force in accomplishing these purposes.

Agence France-Presse quoted Schuman as saying that Auriol had already refused a demand by the Communist-led General Confederation of Labor (C.G.T.) that the bill be sent back to the Assembly for revision.

Listen to Fight; Two Drop Dead

Schenectady, N.Y., Dec. 6 —(AP)— Two Schenectady men dropped dead last night while listening in separate taverns to broadcasts of the heavyweight championship fight. They were John Firello, 56, and Andrew J. Adams, 6. Both suffered heart attacks.

POLICE DISCARD SUICIDE THEORY IN BADGLEY CASE

Father Sure 'Jean Did Not Kill Self

Frankford, Ont., Dec. 6 — (CP) — Police investigators were said today to have discarded the theory of suicide in the death of Marion Jean Badgley, 25-year-old blonde whose body was found in the woodshed of her parents' home last Sunday with a .22 calibre rifle nearby and a bullet wound in the head.

Inspector Wilford Franks of the Ontario Provincial Police Criminal Investigation Bureau arrived here to investigate and now has returned to Toronto. He is expected to confer with officials of the Attorney-General's Department.

The girl's father, Hugh Badgley, said yesterday that he was sure the girl died while "defending herself against a brutal attacker." The father added: "I am sure that Jean did not kill herself. She was always cheerful and enjoyed living too much to think of that."

Inspector Franks said nothing about his investigations before he returned to Toronto. It was reported however that a number of angles had cropped up to suggest the girl's death either was murder or a peculiar accident with the gun, owned by her father.

Last of Russian Espionage Trials To End Today

Montreal, Dec. 6 — (CP)—The last of the prosecutions arising from the Royal Commission inquiry into Russian espionage activities in Canada two years ago will probably end today with a verdict in the conspiracy trial of Dr. Raymond Boyer.

Hearing of evidence concluded Friday and both the Crown and defence counsels will address the French-speaking jury today, followed by Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure who will sum up the evidence heard during the past two weeks.

This will mark the end of the third trial for Dr. Boyer. One ended with a disagreement among the jurymen while the other was halted by the sickness of a juror.

The accused, a wartime explosives research expert and a former professor at McGill University, is charged with having conspired to violate the official Secrets Act giving Fred Rose, former Labor Progressive Member of Parliament, information about a new process developed in Canada for manufacture of the super-explosive known as RDX.

Rose is now serving a six-year penitentiary term for conspiracy.

Dr. James Ross of McGill University, wartime director of chemical and explosives development research, appeared for the defence yesterday.

He testified that the Germans had RDX during the war. Cross-examined by the Crown about a book published in 1943, introduced by the defence as evidence and which mentioned some ingredients of the super-explosive. Dr. Ross said that he did not think anyone could make RDX with information contained in the book.

Two Women Die Violent Deaths In Montreal

One Shot While at Work Completing Wedding Dress

Montreal, Dec. 6 (CP) — The cycle of violent deaths in Montreal reached a new high last night when two women were killed in separate slayings.

These were the fourth and fifth violent deaths in the metropolis in 11 days. Police said that both were caused by "family arguments."

Dead are Mrs. Martha Sparling 28, mother of two children, and Mrs. Marie Jeanne Parns May, 65 John Sparling, 40, brother-in-law of Mrs. Sparling, who was taken to hospital with shotgun wounds in the chest after he allegedly fired the shots that killed her was reported in serious condition.

Police said that Sparling shot himself after calling a relative that "I have shot my sister-in-law."

In the second case, Atkinson May, 57 was arrested by police after he allegedly beat his wife to death while in an intoxicated condition. Some 200 empty wine bottles were strewn about their house.

Finishing Wedding Gown

Mrs. Sparling a dressmaker was shot in her east-end Rosemount home while she was putting the finishing touches to a wedding dress which was to be used at a marriage today. The unidentified bride-to-be arrived on the scene shortly after the shooting.

Mrs. Sparling's husband Joseph was away and she was alone in the house with her brother-in-law and her two children, age five and seven. The children were asleep when the shooting occurred.

The motive was not known, police said. John Sparling had been boarding with his brother and his sister-in-law for about two years. He apparently was not on good terms with his brother, police said.

J. L. McEvoy, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Sparling, told police that he received a telephone call from John Sparling who said "I have just shot my sister-in-law."

He said he rushed to the Sparling's home and found John Sparling leaning over a shotgun and asked him "where is Martha?"

Shot Heard

"She is in the back room," Sparling replied.

As he ran towards that room, McEvoy heard a shot, Looking back, he saw Sparling lying on the floor with the gun in his hand.

In the back room, he found Mrs. Sparling dead, lying in a large pool of blood with her chest torn apart by shotgun pellets fired from a 12-guage shotgun at close range.

In the other case, the badly bruised and battered body of Mrs. May was first found lying on the floor of the bedroom of her Montreal south cottage of Dr. J. Marcil who came to investigate after alarmed neighbors had told him a "fight" had been going on there for "two or three" days.

The furnishings in the house were in a state of disorder and about 200 wine bottles were strewn about the rooms and the house was freezing cold.

When May was arrested police said that he was "too drunk to talk."

The coroner's inquest in both deaths will be held today or Monday.

Elusive Quebec Group Is Still At Peace With Santa-Just Misquoted

Quebec, Dec. 6 (CP).—It isn't true at all—the Diocesan Morality Committee of Quebec has not declared war against Santa Claus. It was misquoted.

The elusive Quebec body, that Thursday startled the continent by referring to Santa Claus as a neo-pagan custom, in the second communique within two days last night said that the content of the first press release was misinterpreted.

Beyond that it didn't elaborate on the point. But it did reveal a little more information about itself.

Last night's communique—also sent by mail—said the committee was founded in April 1946 and is a group of laymen studying various moral and social problems.

"Periodically, it issues communiques to newspapers which dispose of them at their discretion. When they contend that the D.M.C. has started a war against Santa Claus, they over-reach by far the intent of the last communique."

Like the first message, it bore only the initials of the committee name.

After Thursday's communique, members of the committee successfully resisted all efforts to be drawn out in the open.

Reporters who first tried to track down members of the mysterious organization came up against a stone wall. They might just as well have been looking for Old Santa himself.

The committee in their original release called the annual Christmastime fuss over Santa one of a number of neo-pagan customs which had appeared in Quebec City in the last few years.

Corbin Injunction Dissolved, Union Man Restrained

Toronto, Dec. 6.—Mr. Justice Keiller Mackay yesterday dissolved the week-old Ontario Supreme Court injunction restraining organizers of the striking United Electrical Workers Union (CIO) from denying company officials and maintenance crews access to the Corbin Lock Company plant in Belleville.

Union members have been on strike at the plant since the alleged dismissal of 19 employees on Oct. 3.

Mr. Justice Mackay said the injunction would remain in an amended form against Ross Russell, union organizer. He is enjoined from making any "threatening attitudes" or "acts of threats" against the Corbin Lock Company management so as to interfere with access to the plant.

The amended injunction is, in effect, a new injunction against Russell, Mr. Justice Mackay said. It does not include Russell's "aides, associates and agents" as formerly.

E. V. Elliot, company counsel, contended that if the injunction were not continued, the company would be unable to move fuel and material into the plant or carry on construction already started.

Mr. Justice Mackay said an affidavit alleged that Russell used loudspeakers to tell a group of strikers that if the plant reopened, police would have to guard it "day after day".

The affidavit also said that in his loudspeaker address outside the plant Russell referred to the Corbin management as being unfair to organized labor and as not wanting a union. He named those who entered the premises as "scabs" and said the police would have to stand by if they did enter, said the affidavit.

"This clearly is a veiled threat," commented Mr. Justice Mackay. "I don't think it is in the interests of society that any one should have to keep a battery of police to maintain access to his property. Although I came here today after reading the law with the intention of dissolving this injunction, now I hear of the threat of this man Russell. I am motivated solely by this threat."

OBITUARY

LATE CHARLES N. SULMAN

The funeral of ex-Mayor Charles N. Sulman was held Friday afternoon from his late residence, 154 Bridge Street East. The service in the home was conducted by the Rev. D. C. Amos, minister of Bridge Street United Church, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Bruce Hunter of Toronto. Interment took place at Belleville Cemetery and the committal service was conducted by the Rev. D. C. Amos.

The honorary bearers were Arthur McGie, Harry W. Ackerman, William C. Springer, Howard J. Clarke, Harry J. Clarke, Edwin W. Cooley, Wilfred Holmes and Harry W. Rollins.

The pall bearers were John V. White, John D. O'Flynn, Russell Wotten, Cameron MacDonald, Fred H. Deacon and Charles L. Hyde.

The late Mr. Sulman was a member of Eureka Lodge No. 283 A. F. and A. M. and the last rites of the Order were conducted at the graveside by Very Wor. Bro. R.E. Houston, Wor. Bro. E.C. Wood, Master of the Lodge; Wor. Bro. R. L. Orr and Bro. W. B. Humphrey.

JOHN WILLIAM LAVERY

John William Lavery died at his home, 284 Charles Street, late Friday evening. He was in poor health for the past six months, but death occurred suddenly.

Born at Goodwood, Ontario, the late Mr. Lavery was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lavery. For the past thirty-five years he lived in this city and was engaged as a locomotive engineer with the Canadian National Railways. For some months he has been on sick leave. Prior to coming to Belleville he lived at Sunderland, Ontario.

Mr. Lavery was a faithful member of St. Michael's Church and in connection with the parish he was a member of the Holy Name Society and the Altar Society. Fraternally he was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Agatha Keenan; four brothers, Frank, Horace, Charles and Donald, all of Toronto; one sister, Mrs. K. Forester, Toronto.

Resting at the Corrigan and O'Brien Funeral Home, 30 Moira Street west; the funeral announcement is made in this edition.

Famous Rescue Ship for Sale

Hingham, Mass., Dec. 6—(AP) — The U. S. S. Bear, an oak-hulled veteran of government service since 1884 when she was hastily purchased in Nova Scotia from a sealing fleet to rescue survivors of the ice-bound Greeley polar expedition, is up for Maritime Commission sale.

Her tall topmasts have been cut down from her former glory as a full-rigged barkentine but seafarers say her hull is as sound as when she was built in Dundee, Scotland, in 1874.

(In Washington last night the Maritime Commission said that the apparent high bid submitted for the Bear was $5,199,999 offered by Frank Shaw of Montreal, but no decision has yet been made on whether to accept any of the five bids offered.)

The 200-foot vessel has been given up for lost in Arctic ice-jams, survived to ply Alaskan waters for nearly half a century and at one time settled down to a quiet life as a marine museum.

She snapped back to active duty with Admiral Richard E. Byrd in the Antarctic and now she is resting from her labors as a patrol vessel in the Second World War.

City Industries to Enjoy Long Christmas Holiday

With the exception of the Stewart Warner Alemite, Company, Ltd., which ends its fiscal year at the time, all major industries personnel in the city will enjoy a "long holiday" at Christmas, a survey this week revealed.

Stewart Warner will close on Wednesday and re-open on December 26th. The Stephens-Adamson Company, Ltd., will close at noon Wednesday and re-open the following Monday. Employee will work three previous Saturday half days.

The Northern Electric Company employees will get a longer holiday over the festive season. The plant will close on Wednesday noon, December 24th., and re-open Monday, December 29th. It will close again on Wednesday, December 31st., and remain closed until Monday, January 3th.

Belleville Sargent, however, due to annual inventory, will close its plant on Wednesday, December 24., and remain closed until after New Years. Only a skeleton staff will return for inventory purposes.

The Deacon Bros., Ltd., and the American Optical Company, Canada, Ltd., will close on December 24th., and remain closed until Monday, December 29th.

Britain Cuts Bacon, Sugar, Egg Purchases in U.S.

London, Dec. 6 (CP).—An absolute cut-off in purchases of bacon, sugar and dried eggs in the United States was announced in the House of Commons by Food Minister Strachey.

Such action previously was promised by Sir Stafford Cripps, Minister for Economic Affairs, and Chancellor of the Exchequer, to conserve United Kingdom dollar resources. A British delegation now is in Canada seeking financial arrangements under which Canadian shipments of bacon and dried eggs can be continued, even if full payment on dollars cannot be made at once.

Strachey was asked whether he had information on the quantity of exportable bacon, sugar and dried eggs available in the United States.

"As dollars cannot be provided for the purchase of these foodstuffs, I have not taken any steps to buy what exportable supplies may be available in the United States," he replied.

He did not reply when asked what quantities would be available if he had the dollars.

FIRE DESTROYS POPULAR RESORT

Val Morin, Que., Dec. 6 (CP).—An explosion of undetermined origin followed by fire destroyed the Pinehurst Inn, a well-known Laurention Mountain vacation resort, here last night. Damage was estimated at $200,000. No injuries were reported and the few guests in the inn at the time immediately evacuated their rooms.

Industrial Commission Reviews Year's Activities and Pledges Co-operation to 1948 Mayor

Full co-operation of the Belleville Industrial Commission to Mayor-Elect D. L. Storey and the incoming city council was pledged by members of the commission at a special dinner party held at the Queen's Hotel on Friday evening. Council members, members of the commission and several civic minded citizens attended the meeting.

During the meeting, Lorne McDougall was honored by Commission members as a token of appreciation for his work as a commissioner and as commission secretary he was presented with a lovely scenic painting from the brush of Manly MacDonald.

Mr. McDougall will retire at the end of the year as a member of the commission, it was stated.

Prior to the presentation to the commission secretary, the chairman, Robert A. Pringle reviewed the work of the organization since its inception seven years ago. It was the policy of the commission, he said, to assist in bringing industries to the city and to advertise Belleville. However, the commission had never taken the credit for bringing any one industry to the city.

Mr. Pringle expressed appreciation for the co-operation of all civic organizations and to various civic minded citizens who had done much to get industry established in the city, mentioning especially ex-Mayor Harry Ackerman and former commission member the late J. Owen Herity, and the late J. B. Boyce.

Vice-chairman of the commission, Harry Rollins recalled the inauguration of the industrial commission under Glen Thompson who was mayor at the time. The commission was formed, he said, to bring together a cross section of civic minded citizens and thus present the most favorable impression to representatives of potential industry.

Commission Business Discussed

Various phases of city business were briefly discussed at the meeting, including the industrial site at the eastern limits of the city for which taxpayers voted $25,000. The deal had not been finalized owing to delay in securing a proper deed, according to City Comptroller Harold Bateman. Debentures for the amount had been sold and the money turned over to the city's current account. In this way considerable interest would be saved until the money was needed for the purpose it was intended.

The proposed railway siding to service the area and also to serve the Stewart-Warner-Alemite was mentioned with Art Young pointing out there had been considerable criticism of the commission paying for a railway siding to serve his company. The criticism was unjust, Mr. Young stated. His company was prepared to pay its share in the construction costs of the siding.

Attending the meeting were Commission members Robert Pringle, Lorne McDougall, Oswald Scott, Harry Rollins, Aldermen Bruce Lattimer, C. D. Tice, E. E. Follwell, Newton Wilbur, Charles Hyde, Jack Allin, Angus Duffy, James Lazenby, Ormonde Butler and H. Armstrong, Alderman-elect "Sandy" Lummiss, Chamber of Commerce members Gus Freeman, James Galloway, Jack Trudeau, C. B. Morgan, Harry Ackerman, Harold "Twig" Woodley, Arthur Young, Harold Bateman, Glen Thompson, and bank managers Clarence Jewell and I. Hefkey.

White's Cemetery To be Repaired, Fund Opened

The last resting place of many of the township's early pioneers, "White's, Front of Sidney" Cemetery is to be cleaned up with plans calling for ultimate perpetual care. Of late years this well known cemetery on the Belleville - Trenton highway has been in a general run down condition and termed as an "eyesore" in the community.

To make plans for the project of cleaning up the cemetery, members of the cemetery board met last week. Mr. W. S. Jones, Charles Street, Trenton, formerly appointed as secretary of the board was in addition named as treasurer and was authorized to solicit and receive contributions to be used for the improvement of the cemetery.

To start the fund members of the Women's Institute have forwarded a cheque for $50.

One of the original trustees of the cemetery board, Mr. F. Glen Myers, will retain the original cemetery plan and is authorized to sell vacant plots and to give a provisional deed. A meeting with a representative of the provincial department of public health to determine required action to bring the present organization in line with provincial law, will be held in the near future.

No definite action regarding yearly or perpetual care of the cemetery will be taken until after the meeting with the provincial department.

Public subscriptions to the cemetery fund will be welcomed to provide funds for the clean-up campaign and to purchase fencing and the necessary equipment. Contributions will be accepted by W. S. Jones, 20 Charles St., Trenton, phone 1060-W.

G. Brennan Wins Speaking Contest

Various phases of junior farmer work including the duties of officers, conducting of meetings, the proper procedure of handling motions and the proportioning of programs were discussed at a leadership training school conducted at the Stirling high school. The school was held under the direction of T. R. Hilliard, Ross Beatty and Misses Jean Scott and Mary Carmichael.

The juniors took charge of the evening program which consisted of district public speaking and amateur entertainment contests. This was under the direction of Wesley Down, president of the Ontario Junior Farmers' Association. The banquet was provided by the Women's Association of St. Paul's United Church.

Winner of the public speaking contest was Gerrard Brennan of Hastings County, while in second place was Miss Sheilla Wilson of Peterborough County. The competition was closely contested. Taking part in the amateur entertainment contest were Walter Anderson, Peterborough, who sang a solo and Messrs. George Blatherwick and Earl Badgley, Hastings, who presented a short skit, "Crazy Capers". The winners will take part in zone competition at Peterborough on Dec. 10.

Mayor Follwell Heads Large Class Of Candidates

At the regular meeting of Belleville Lodge No. 1004 Loyal Order of Moose held on Thursday evening, December 4, another large class of candidates, headed by Mayor Frank Follwell, were initiated into the Order. The work was exemplified by the degree team of Belleville lodge under the direction of Past Governor Albert Burtt. After the initiation ceremony, a banquet was provided.

Speeches were given by Mayor Follwell and by visiting brothers from neighboring lodges Governor Freeman addressed the lodge on the activities of the local lodge and urged the members to assist local charities outside of the Order. An hour's entertainment under the direction of Brother Gerald Vance, chairman of the Entertainment Committee, was given by local artists.

Final arrangements were made for the Christmas Tree to be held for members and their families..

Prices of Eggs Slightly Down

Price of eggs dropped slightly on the local produce market Saturday with firsts quoted at 50 cents, mediums at 48 cents and pullets at 40 cents the dozen. This is a drop of two cents from the prices quoted last week on firsts.

Attendance on the market was slim, especially on the market square where only a few vendors put in appearance. However, fowl was fairly plentiful on the inside market with prices at 40 cents for mature birds and up to 45 cents for fully dressed chicken. Ducks were available at 55 cents the pound and up to $3.25 per bird.

Christmas trees made their initial appearance of the season on the market with several vendors offering spruce and balsams at prices ranging from 50 cents up to $1.

On the vegetable market potatoes were quoted at $2.80 per bag while carrots and beets sold at 50 cents the basket.

Top grade Red Spys were quoted at $3.25 with $3 per hamper being asked for fancy McIntosh. Combination pack Spys and McIntosh were quoted at $2.75; Snows were $2.25 and Greenings $2 per bushel.

Pork by the quarter was offered at 32 cents per pound for hinds and 26 cents per pound for fronts.

Only one or two vendors offered young pigs, prices ranging from $4.50 to $5 each. One load of hard slabwood was quoted at $13 the cord.

HUNT DOES NOT DELAY TRIP TO HOSPITAL

Valencia, Pa., Dec. 6 — (AP) — William Fum, 58, refused to let a little thing like illness prevent him from bagging a deer.

Fum was preparing for a trip to a hospital when the deer season opened last Monday. Stepping onto his back porch, he sighted a buck and dashed into the house for a rifle.

One shot felled the animal. Then Fum went back to his packing.

F.A.R.McFadden, Toronto, Named County Auditor

Hastings County Council endorsed a motion at its closing December session Friday afternoon, empowering its Finance Committee to make an effort to secure a lower rate of interest on borrowed money and to report its finding to the January meeting.

The motion, moved by Reeve P. J. Kirby, Deseronto, brought out statistics of monies paid through interest to chartered banks. The Deseronto official stated that everyone was aware of the fact that the council had compulsory borrowing, but he was against paying the rate of four per cent while other communities could get it for two per cent.

He quoted the City of Belleville as having borrowed $40,000 with which to purchase an arena. 'Belleville," he said, "borrowed this amount for a two-year period at a two per cent rate of interest.

He felt that if one bank could not decrease its rate, then by all means go to another one An eighteen million dollar corporation like the County of Hastings is one of the biggest accounts in the city and as such should deserve some consideration. He urged that the Finance Committee visit local banks and see what can be done along the lines of reduction of the interest rate. The motion carried after a minor discussion.

To Buy 80 Acres

Council through its Agricultural Committee which had a special session at noon, authorized the purchase of a parcel of eighty acres of land adjacent to its reforestation plot near Actinolite. The price paid was $700 and the land purchased from Mr. Felix Letonne, who agreed to maintain a fence between the two areas.

Several by-laws passed their third reading but some were laid over till the January session. One by-law to close certain roads in Thurlow township went through but the township of Mayo's effort through the Warden met with stiff opposition from Reeve R. T. Adams of Dungannon.

"The road in question", he said, "was three-quarters of a mile long and closing it would mean a detour of some thirty miles. He felt it was the only inlet to that part of the two townships where forest rangers could battle fires if they broke out."

Warden A. A. Harvie, reeve of Mayo, pointed out that his township could not maintain the road and fix the bridge. Not two cars a year go over the road and it should be closed, in his opinion. By being closed, he explained, it would not mean that the road would not be accessible. Anyone can use it if they want to, but township maintenance will stop.

Approved by Council

Reeve Joseph Davis, Monteagle and Herschel suggested that a committee of northern reeves interview Department of Lands and Forests official to see if the government would finance the repair of the bridge, for their own convenience. This met with the approval of council and a report will be brought back in January.

Another by-law authorized the county treasurer, Ross Bailey, to act as an issuer of licences for auctioneers. Fees were set at $25 for one year from January 1 to December 31st; $20 for a six months' licence and $10 for a three months' licence.

Council passed a by-law authorizing F. A. R. McFadden, Toronto, to be the county auditor at a cost of $550 for the first year and $400 for ensuing years. The increase cost of the first year would be incurred because of the installation of a new-bookkeeping system, claimed to be simpler and more accurate than the one now being used.

Finance Committee Chairman George West, Madoc, pointed out that the county should have a proper set of books and he felt that Mr. McFadden, who audits the books of the city of Belleville, was the proper man.

At the conclusion of the session, Warden Harvie, who completed his year, expressed his appreciation of the co-operation afforded him by council during the year.

BIRTHS

STEWART—At Grace Hospital Toronto, November 18th., 1947, to Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Stewart, a daughter, Maureen Beryl. D6

O'HAGAN—Miss Barbara Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred O'Hagan, 76 Pine St., is happy to announce the arrival of her baby sister, Patricia Louise on Tuesday, Dec. 2nd., 1947, at the Belleville General Hospital.

IN MEMORIAM

UENS—In loving memory of my dear dad, Mr. Fred Uens, who passed away, Dec. 6th., 1946.

You left sweet memories to blossom,
Bearing fruit for the years to come,
In the lives of those who loved you
Precious memories of days that are gone.

Sadly missed by his daughter Nellie, son-in-law Lou and granddaughter Betty Lou, Harvey. D6

DAY—In loving memory of my dear mother, Phoebe E. Day, who passed away Dec. 6th., 1946.

You oft times said I'd miss you,
Those words have proved too true,
I lost my best my dearest friend,
Dear mother, when I lost you.
Sadly missed by daughter Agnes.

DAY—In loving memory of my dear granny, who passed away one year ago today, Dec. 6th., 1946.

One year has passed dear granny,
Since you were called away,
How well do I remember,
That sad and dreary day.
I cried and prayed that your dear life.
Would not be taken away.
Loving granddaughter, Margaret.

UENS—In loving memory of our dear dad, Mr. Fred Uens, who passed away Dec. 6th., 1946.

We often sit and think of him when we are all alone.
For memory is the only friend that grief can call its own;
Like ivy on the withered oak, when all other things decay,
Our love for him will still keep green and never fade away.

Sadly missed and ever remembered by Ab, Bernice and Mary Jane (Uens). D6

UENS—In loving memory of a dear father, Fred Uens, who passed away Dec 6th., 1946.

I have only your memory dear father,
To remember my whole life through,
But the sweetness will linger forever,
As I treasure the image of you.

Remembered by his daughter, Mabel, son-in-law Clarence and grandson Billy Mason. D6

UENS—In loving memory of my dear husband Frederick Arthur Uens, who passed away Dec. 6th., 1946.

They say time heals all sorrow,
And helps one to forget,
But time so far has only proved
How much I miss him yet.
God gave me strength to fight it,
And courage to bear the blow,
But what it meant to lose him,
No one will ever know.

Lovingly remembered by his wife. D6

BELCH—In fond and loving memory of our dear mother the late Mrs. Geo. Belch who departed this life Dec. 7th., 1934.

Beside your grave we often stand
With hearts, both squashed and sore,
But in the gloom the sweet words come
Not lost but gone before.
God knows how much we miss you,
He counts the tears we shed,
And whispers, she only sleeps,
You're loved one is not dead.
So we'll be brave dear mother,
And pray in God each each day,
And when he calls us home to you
Your smile will guide the way.

Ever remembered by daughters, Helen and Edna and sons Everett and Roy. D6

UENS—In loving memory of a dear father, Frederick Arthur Uens, who passed away 1 year ago today.

In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly, tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear father,
That we do not think of you.

Ever remembered by daughter and son, Geneva and family. D6

AYLESWORTH—In loving memory of Miss Bessie Aylesworth who passed away Dec. 6th., 1932.

She is gone, but not forgotten,
And, as dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of her are always near.
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow,
That lies within the heart concealed.

Ever remembered by mother and brothers, Edwin and Harold. D6

SAVING THE REST

Two-thirds of the population of Scotland live in one-tenth of the total area of the country.

THANK YOU

For the past three years I have faithfully served the people of Belleville as their Chief Magistrate, a post made pleasant by the support and co-operation given me by the Citizens, the Council, and the Industrial Commission, and Parks Commission, in particular, which has enabled me to supervise the affairs of this city during its greatest industrial expansion, an expansion which is greater than any other city in Canada, comparable in size.

I have endeavored to make Belleville a better place to live in during my term of office and would advise at the present time for every citizen to give his whole-hearted support to the new administration, so that this work can be continued. I wish also to offer my fullest co-operation to the incoming Mayor and Council, as it is my sincere desire to help make Belleville one of the most outstanding cities in Canada.

My sincere congratulations to Mayor Storey and my personal thanks to one and all.

YOUR MAYOR FOR 1945-46-47,
Frank S. Follwell

Father on the Farm

'He Was His Own Weather Forecaster'

By KENNETH C. CRAGG

Father knew enough to come in out of the rain but he seldom came in time.

Consequently, all through the growing season and on into the fall, a dozen times—at least, he would walk into the kitchen, his clothes sodden and water running down his face, where his straw hat leaked.

Mother had no patience with such dallying with the weather and didn't hesitate to say so.

"One would think you'd have more sense waiting out till it pours," mother would say as she got a dry shirt and underwear out of the bureau drawer.

Father's unvarying excuse was. "I didn't think it would amount to much," and he would look sort of aggrieved, as if the weather had turned on him when he was stooped over with his back turned. In the meantime his smock would be steaming behind the stove and throwing of a moist blend of horse and cow.

His Own Forecaster

The remarkable thing was that father, as his own weather forecaster—within a twenty-four-hour limit, was not only good, but nearly perfect. Unlike some of his neighbors, he put no faith in the almanac. "No city fellow is going to tell me a year ahead what the weather is going to be tomorrow," he'd say.

Nor, with some reason, did he have much confidence in the official forecaster of the day. For no matter what the forecaster seemed to be predicting somewhere else, the weather seldom knew what it was supposed to be doing on father's farm.

His system was a somewhat loose one that came partly from what an Indian told him, while pulling flax on the new clearing, and partly from the way the hens acted. First thing each morning father would look at the hens, give a long look at the sky and plan his day.

If the hens stood around uncertainly, like men grouped by the church door before the service, instead of stepping off briskly about their business, it was a sign of rain. If, by after breakfast, they had congregated in the open implement shed, it was a sign that father would get in a temper. He liked an egg for breakfast to put on top of his porridge, but he had no affection for hens.

"Blame dirty things," he called them, when not forecasting the weather, and they were too. What a dozen hens could do to a new seed drill in one muggy morning a flock of pigeons on a politican's statue couldn't accomplish in a year.

A Wetting Every Spring

At least one good wetting could always be guaranteed to father in the spring, because he always wanted to go "just another round" with the drill. But in the fall it was no different—"just another round" with the plow. He was nearly cured once—but it didn't take—the spring a neighbor was struck by lightning while going another round with the disc.

"It might have been me," said father with white face. But he'd got wet again several time before the Twelfth of July.

His excuses in time, kind of wore on mother, like Uncle Pete's insistence on drying his socks on the oven door. Uncle Pete didn't live with father and mother all the time, but used to stay for spells. Father claimed Uncle Pete was a little touched and that it ran in the family.

He never suggested the latter except in private, and with the admonition. "You'd better not tell your mother," because Uncle Pete who really wasn't anybody's uncle, was a distant relative of mother's.

She used to explain it with a little laugh when she couldn't ignore the relationship, slight as it was, that her grandfather and a great uncle of Pete's had one time traded roosters in the backyard.

Even this family connection had no mollifying effect on her when Uncle Pete put his socks on the hot oven door. As is widely known socks that have spent a whole day in rubber boots with tightly laced leather tops have lost some of their freshness, a fact not unnoticed by mother when they were warmed up by oven heat.

Each time a clatter of angry words would beat about Uncle Pete's head and, unless he was fast, mother would have the woodshed door open and the socks would go flying out to land usually where snow sifted, on a west wind, through a crack in the siding.

Mother was not a squeamish woman but she never put a hand to Uncle Pete's socks, except to wash them. She always made a point of lifting them from the oven door with a mop handle.

Defied the Weather

Father was not stubborn about the weather so much as defiant. Probably he never quite understood why he stayed out until he was thoroughly wet, or his face and hands half frozen. All of his work, his plans, practically his whole life depended on the weather and as he grew older he became less tolerant of its vagaries.

If it were the kind of day that mother would say, "No person in his right senses would go out," whether it be raining in summer or storming in winter, there was no guarantee that father wouldn't pick up and take a load of grain to be ground at the mill.

He would think nothing of going to the woods to cut either timber or firewood in a blizzard so thick that often the barn could not be seen from the house. The horses, foolish as they might ordinarily be, would try to rebel, but would be urged forward while the people on the sleigh cowered beneath horse blankets.

He wouldn't listen to protests. It will be all right when we get in the bush," he would say. By the time the horses reached the fence gap and plunged into the deep and loose snow in the woods, father's face would be hardly recognizable. He always wore his moustaches long and the driving snow would build up little drifts in the hair and the heat of his breath would melt them to form little icicles.

Cut Wood in Blizzard

But he knew what he was talking about. If it wasn't all right in the bush it was next thing to it, with hardly a breath of wind down close to the ground, while up in the tops of the trees there was a great grinding and clashing. The snow, which was rushing by outside, stinging as it went. would sift down like gentle mist and, for working, it was as warm and comfortable as if the sun were shining.

On such a day, father cut down a beech and in the hollow near the top found a nest of young squirrels all dead, and in around the bodies were scraps of paper from the page on which the obituaries were printed in The Globe. The printing was plain with lists of names and the story of the finding subsequently appeared in the Southeast Corner, a feature of The Globe in the early 1920's.

In his defiance of the weather, father was usually mild and unruffled, if, as mother claimed, a bit stubborn. But his calm was badly shaken the day of the big storm, when a number of barns lost their roofs and some were partly blown down.

The trouble was the storm came in the early summer when there was little in the barns to ballast them or hold them down firmly to their foundations and the empty mows let the air in to build up with explosive pressure. Even father couldn't miss the storm signals. He was urging the horses in the stable when the first sighing of the trees in the woods, rising to steady bull-voiced roaring like a cataract in flood gave a final warning of the wind.

Cheating a Storm

He didn't wait to tie the horses but rushed up into the barn and wired the hooks down on the big barn doors, already rattling and jerking, so that they couldn't possibly get loose and let the wind in.

As it was, there was a lightness to the barn that could be felt. Dust and chaff floated from the floor and the noise of the wind was accentuated by the wracking and groaning of the barn timbers.

The worst moment was when father looked up and saw a perlin post dancing up and down out of its seat on one of the main beams. On his barn the post went up at an angle to the plate which bore the weight of the rafters, midway between the eaves and the peak. It should have been anchored to the beam with wooden pins, but whether the pins had been drawn or broken there was no time to enquire.

Father yelled for six-inch spikes and the big hammer. By luck, he found almost at once the right length of a piece of inch and a half rock elm, started some spikes in it and climbed the ladder to the beam.

The whole barn was shaking and the post was churning up and down. First, he spiked the board to the post, catching the spikes on the fly, at it were. (Father wasn't a swearing man but the occasion called for something more challenging than his meagre store of expressive words, and, in his way, he rose to the occasion.) He had to spike the board to the barn between gusts when the post was down in its footing. The trouble was there were more gusts than lulls.

Down would come the post and wham would go father's hammer. Finally, a spike held until he got a second crack at it and then another, and from high up on the beam came a rhythmic sort of cadence.

"Wham! Gol glammit! 'Wham! Wham! Dal help you! Wham. Got you! Wham, wham! Clarty thing! Wham! Gol blammit! And so on till every spike had been socked in the head.

Father beat the weather that time.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BY
WINIFRED E. WILSON

BIRD'S ENEMIES

Sometimes we wonder that the number of birds in our locality does not increase, remembering how many young each pair brought up in previous seasons. But if all eggs hatched and all families supervised there would soon be lack of food for such an enormous bird population, and eventually no place for man or any other animal. Nature has arranged matters for the best.

The elements are responsible for much bird mortality. Fierce spring gales frequently blow migrants off their regular flyways sometimes away from food supplies, at other times over unfriendly waters where they are forced down into the waves. Hail storms at the nesting period often wipe out whole families; dry seasons bring devastation. Our non-migrants suffer most, and are apt to perish, when sleet storms freeze their feet and make both their perches and their food inaccessible because of coatings of ice.

Some animals prey on birds and eat their eggs. Chipmunks weasels, and foxes are among the marauders, but, according to statistics, the domestic cat is by far the worst offender, Birds of prey, Crows and Blue Jays are to blame for the disappearance of small song birds.

Man, however, takes the heaviest toll, though it must be admitted that he generally does it only inadvertently. Countless birds are killed annually by flying against lighthouses on their trips north or south. Forest fires burn the trees and char the ground so that no bird life exists in the blackened area for years to come. The clearing land deprives birds of their nesting site: draining it means a loss of homes and food stores. The farmer's cattle tramp down the Meadowlark's grassy fields; the city builder removes the Cliff Swallow's sandbank and the Blackburnian Warbler's coniferous trees.

The number of birds man now kills intentionally is, in comparison, negligible. Primitive peoples used to destroy for the sake of the feathers, which they wanted for ornamentation, and it is yet considered legitimate for Indians Esquimaux, and trappers in the far north to kill birds for food. Not so long ago, when fashion demanded feathers, birds were sacrificed, but since the Migratory Bird Convention Act the rules of the game must be adhered to North America. The real sportsman is learning, though slowly, to take only what the law allows. Today there is more shooting done with the camera, and less with the gun.

Newsprint Prices Will be Higher

Toronto, Dec. 6 — (CP) — Higher newsprint prices for 1948 were touched off Thursday with announcement by Abitibi Sales Co., Ltd., of an increase of $6 a ton effective Jan. 1.

The Abitibi announcement followed one by Consolidated Paper Sales, Ltd., Montreal, that its prices will remain unchanged in January and February but after that "a price advance perhaps of substantial amount seems unavoidable because of continuing sharp advances in our production cost.' '

Other companies either said they have formed no price policy for the future, or refrained from comment.

Present price of newsprint is about $86 a ton in Canada and $90 in New York.

Increased prices have been forecast for the last several months and are in line with industry statements that increases "have been outstripped by the rise in cost items, particularly mill labor and wood."

The announcement by Abitibi Sales, distributors for Abitibi Power and Paper Co., Ltd., one of Canada's largest producers with operations chiefly in Northwestern Ontario, said:

"In order to assist you in your planning we are making the new price firm for the first six months of 1948 . . . If we are to maintain production at the highest possible level this increase is absolutely necessary."

New Traffic Lights

Motorists and pedestrians who use the lower bridge have long realized the necessity for traffic lights at the intersection of Coleman and Bridge Streets. That need has now been met by the installation of lamps which will direct the traffic through this entrance to the business section downtown.

The intersection in question is one of the most importance as it is on the Provincial Highway system, is close to Front Street and runs into the very active business section of Front and Bridge Streets. Everyone has seen the immense volume of traffic from outside the city and from the city which is funnelled through this part of the city road system.

Without lights there was possibility of traffic being held up as drivers were unable to get into the line of traffic. This has been changed with the Coleman Street traffic having opportunity to feed into the traffic moving west, east, south and north at the intersection.

Motorists appreciate the installation and so do pedestrians, who have had difficulty in time of heavy traffic of being able to cross the two streets.

Citizens and outsiders who have noted the growth of Belleville since before the recent war have not failed to notice the very heavy traffic which passes into the city through from east and west along the Bridge Street bridge. No one has any doubt of the developments which are before their eyes and the long lines of motorcars which enter the traffic proceeding east and west and north and east are signs of the development of Belleville in importance.

Great Care Required

Friday was one of the days motorists dislike, with snow blown against the windshield and a slippery condition of the roads making uneasy treading for the driver. It was typical of the first real storms of winter in the element of moisture associated with the snow, these making for hazardous driving. All the elements of risky driving appeared during the course of the day, in reduced visibility by reason of the darkness gathering more early than usual as the year rushes to the shortest day, little over two weeks away.

Motorists have had a long season as conditions since autumn set in have not been as hazardous as usual, owing to the fact that snow and sleet and cold weather have not been as prominent as usual. For this they are pleased. Henceforth more attention will have to be given to snow and what it means to the car which can so easily be stalled and which finds it so easy to slip and slide. The deeper time enters into winter the greater will be the hazard from getting stuck in snowdrifts. But against this may be set the greater attention which is given today to the maintenance of cleared roadways in the city limits and on the highways. In recent winters the city streets have been of great advantage to the motorist and incidentally to the pedestrian who finds that cleared roads are appreciated by the walking citizen and the motorist.

Collection of 75,000 Birds

Carefully stored in cabinets of an original design, catalogued with equal care and precision, there are more than 75,000 bird skins preserved at the Royal Ontario Museum. It is the most complete and most widely used collection in Canada. Accumulated through the years from donated private collections, from the endless parade of specimens secured by field surveys, and by exchange with other museums, the collection is in charge of Mr. L. L. Snyder, the Museum's Curator of Birds. It has been the background, together with extensive field work, for many of the staff publications in the realm of ornithology; and is in constant use for reference by students of the same science. It was in recognition of Mr. Snyder's scientific work and supervision in the building up of this collection, and of his writings and research in ornithology, that he was elected a Fellow of the American Ornithological Union recently.

Archaeology in Nebraska

A new interest in archaeological investigation on this continent is aroused by the findings of the University of Nebraska State Museum in excavations being carried out in the southwestern part of the state. Three camp sites of seminomadic hunters have been uncovered which go back perhaps 35,000 years.

Dr. C. Bertrand Schultz, director, reports that these "were among the first tribesmen to cross the Bering Strait from eastern Asia to the mainland of North America." The antiquity of these peoples is emphasized by the fact that these migrations took place before the last main advance of ice sheets down into what is now the United States.

These discoveries are the reward of 17 years' search for reliable evidence of prehistoric animals associated with the earliest peoples on this earth. They include fossilized remains of a marsupial sabertooth tiger. Altogether now more than 30 important sites of prehistoric tribesmen have been found.

Archaeological explorations in the old world have divulged much concerning the trek of the human race from its cradle in Biblical lands. The increasing number of significant discoveries in the new world add to the hope that the path may be traced backward through Asia.

They remind us also that the great mariners of the age of Columbus were tens of centuries behind these obscure Asiatics but, as their travels were unknown, the mind of Europe was inflamed with new ambition on the "discovery" of America.

Suppose that the spirit of exploration which suddenly came into being in Europe had risen instead on the other side of the world? The Bering Strait might have become the gateway to American colonization. — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Horse Auctions

People have been telling us for years that automobiles and other mechanical contrivances meant that horses would soon become a thing of the past. Well, that state of affairs is a long time arriving.

None will suggest that Detroit, the largest automotive centre in the world, is a horse-and-buggy metropolis. So it may amaze some to learn that until recently, a horse market existed in Detroit. It ceased operations only when its premises were taken over for street purposes. Even at that, it is merely moving out to the country.

Probably there are more motor vehicles per capita in Detroit than in any other city in the world. Yet, withal, there has been a sale for horses.

Even automotive-minded Detroiters may miss the horse market. Time was when every city and town featured its equine auctions. There was an atmosphere — as well as an aroma — about them that does not exist in the classiest motor sales room. —Windsor Star.

Those Tooth Picks

A Wisconsin surgeon reports that he has fished tooth picks out of the stomachs of 22 patients. People with false teeth, especially, have difficulty with these things which are stuck into cocktail olives and fancy sandwiches.

In some ways, the olden days were better. Who ever heard of anyone swallowing one of those big goose quill tooth picks? They were durable and did not break off between your teeth, or get stuck in your gullet.—Windsor Star.

"Umbrella" Honesty

If you had 200 umbrellas, and every rainy day you loaned them to any person who might walk in, ask for one, and leave a name and address — how many umbrellas would you have left after six months?

A woman's apparel shop in Cincinnati has been doing just such lending ever since last February as part of the store service—and offers an interesting answer. After six months of this trusting service, a census of the umbrella stock shows: umbrellas on hand, 197; storm casualties, 1; swiped by public, 2; new accounts opened, many.—"Better Way."

Although homes are still scarce, it is still advisable to marry a good homemaker, notes St. Thomas Times-Journal.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

SNOW

Old folks grumble at the snow,
But the children love it so.
Gray heads sadly look upon it.
Youngsters joy in rolling on it.

Men who shovel it away
Better love the month of May.
Red of cheek, the children show men
That it's fun to fashion snow men.

Old folks dread the coming storm,
Sigh and wish for weather warm.
Children with their faces glowing
Shout with rapture: "It is snowing!"

Let the grownups fear the cold.
Who'd run life to please the old?
'Tis a blessing God's bestowing
On the children when it's snowing.

Mr. Frank S. Solmes of this city has returned home after spending some time in Cuba.

Mr. Ryan Jones of Vancouver, B.C., is visiting relatives in the city. He resided here 22 years ago.

As usual, the city police found the entrance to a couple of stores unlocked last night. Some day the report will be more serious.

The recent snow has entirely disappeared.

The public library will be transferred to the new building this month. Until then no more books will be issued.

The Rev. C. E. Emerson, pastor of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church for the past two years and three months, has resigned and will enter upon a business career in Brantford. Many friends regret his departure from Belleville.

The St. George's Hotel on the east side of Front Street, a short distance north of Bridge Street, has been put in first class condition and was opened today with Mr. A. C. Mott, formerly of Hotel Quinte, as proprietor. We predict success for Mr. Mott in his new undertaking.

Mr. S. E. McCartney of this city is spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. Jasper Nelson an old Belleville boy, who has been home on a visit, left today for his home in Detroit Mich.

Mr. Harrison Ross of Thurlow township, will leave tomorrow for Mentona, Calif., where he will spend three months with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Benmore, formerly of this city.

Mr. James Hall has sold his butcher business on Bridge St. and will leave shortly with his wife for England.

How heavy was the largest silver nugget ever found?

Under natural conditions silver, unlike gold, seldom occurs in nugget form. That is why we do not hear of "placer silver mines" and of prospectors "panning" for silver.

This metal is generally found in ores in combination with other metals and often it is a by-product of gold, copper and lead mining operations. In fact there are very few "silver mines" in the world.

The largest mass of comparatively pure silver ever discovered in a natural state is believed to have been found by an Indian in Senora, Mexico, when that region was still a Spanish possession. The lump weighed 2,750 pounds Troy weight. Because of a dispute over its ownership the entire mass was appropriated by the Spanish government. The largest lump of silver ever mined in the United States was taken from the Smuggler Mine, Aspen, Colorado, in 1894. It weighed 1,840 pounds. A lump weighing 1,640 pounds was found in the Cobalt district in Canada. Other notable "silver nuggets" have been reported from Peru, Norway and Honduras, weighing respectively 800, 500 and 200 pounds.

North America produces more silver than any other continent and the United States and Mexico are the leading silver-producing countries. Idaho leads all the States in silver production, and the Sunshine Mine several miles east of Kellogg in that State is the largest silver mine in the world. A silver mine in Mexico—the Real del Monte — has been operated since the days of Montezuma and still produces 10 per cent of the world's silver supply.

Where is Llanfairpwllgywngyllgogerychwyrndrobwllllantysiliogogogoch?

This word of 58 letters and 19 syllables is the name of a village and vacation resort on the island of Anglesey in northern Wales. The name is generally written "Llanfairpwllgwyngyll" or "Llanfair P.G." for convenience.

According to the Welsh alphabet the word contains only 51 letters, because "ch" and "ll" are regarded as single letters. The English spelling of the name varies somewhat because in certain cases the same letters are not always used to represent the same sounds.

Sir John Morris Jones, a native of Anglesey and a professor of Welsh at Bangor University in Wales, said the name means "Mary Church of the Pool of White Hazels Rather Near the Swift Whirlpool of the Church of the Tysilio of the Red Cave.

On March 4, 1931, Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, a native of Wales, declared that ceremonies on St. David's Day were held in this native country "from Llanfairpwllgwyngyligogerychwyrndrobwllllantysiliogogogoch in the north to Pontllenfraith in the south. Although Senator Davis pronounced the 58-letter word without hesitation or tongue-tripping, Theodore F. Sbuey, veteran official reporter, said the word was the most difficult he had encountered in his 63 years in the Senate.

Two CIO Officials Innocent, Another Trial for Third

Windsor, Dec. 6 — (CP)—With two union colleagues acquitted of charges arising from the Chrysler Corporation strike of 1946, Harry Rooney, business manager of Local 195, United Auto Workers (C. I. O.) Friday looked forward to facing a county court jury for the third time on the same charge.

Thursday, a 12-man jury found George Burt, Canadian U. A. W. director, and Thomas MacLean, assistant director, innocent of conspiring to watch and beset the Chrysler plants during the 112-day strike of 4,000 workers in the summer of 1946.

It was the second time all three had been tried on those charges. Last December a jury disagreed and a new trial was ordered. Yesterday the jury again disagreed in the case of Rooney and a new trial was ordered for the next county court session. He was released on $500 bail.

The charge against the three was to the effect that they were responsible for ordering picketing at the Chrysler plants which went beyond the law in stopping persons from entering while the strike went on.

The jury was recalled once after it had retired and the judge read a petition from the prosecutor drawing attention to the fact that Rooney had actually been seen on the picket lines, according to testimony.

This is believed to have had a bearing on the verdict. There had been no direct testimony during the trial to indicate that either Burt or MacLean were ever near the picket lines.

By What Law These Searches?

(Ottawa Journal Editorial)

Come repeated reports of Canadian citizens travelling to the United States having their pockets searched at the border by Canadian customs officials, of women officials compelling women to undress to prove non-possession of more dollars than the law says they should possess.

If such reports are true, and not merely official moonshine put out as a deterrent, the government has a duty to explain by what right and under what authority such searches are made.

The law-breaker, the man or woman who at this time seeks to take into the United States more Canadian dollars than regulations say he or she should take, need expect no sympathy. Punishment should be theirs.

But the number of these people who have no instinct of patriotism must be few, and the total amount of the dollars they smuggle must be trifling in comparison with the total export it is aimed to reduce. For 99 percent. of Canadians who travel to the United States — and tens of thousands cross the border each week—are honest, decent people who get the funds they require from the proper channels and no more. That these should be subject to personal search, with their women-folk compelled to disrobe to satisfy the curiosity of prying officials, would be vicious molestation—an intolerable invasion of a citizen's rights.

Under our Canadian law there is such a thing as the search-warrant. If the government should have reason for believing that certain individuals are engaged in smuggling dollars across the border, then the search-warrant can and should — be resorted to. But we know of no principle of law, certainly no theory of liberty, under which the government may recruit an army of officials, station them on the border, and instruct them to seize the person of the citizen, to molest and search him without due legal processes. And if there is such a law on the Canadian statute books, it is a most dangerous one — open to abuse as in the present case.

This country, in recent years, has travelled a long way, sometimes unconsciously, towards government by men instead of by laws. If in that journey we have reached the stage of what is practically the police state, with officials holding power to interfere with the person of the citizen, then we had better know it.

TWO YARDS OF UNBLEACHED MUSLIN

Since the heat has been turned on in our office I find the usual head (you know what) are back. The heat seems to dry up my nostrils and cause my head to be blocked... (E.T.H.)

Please, Miss Blockhead, try pronouncing this word: C-R-I. You may choose the pronunciation kree. It means the same thing; a Common Respiratory Infection, that's all. There's a better reason for using this term instead of the misleading word you used, Miss B., than there is for using the term T-B or Tbc. for tuberculosis. Originally, you should remember the term T-B was used when a physician wished to say that tubercle bacilli were present without letting the patient know what he was talking about. So it ~~is~~ improper to say T-B if you mean tuberculosis: the correct abbreviation for tuberculosis is tbc.— actually it stands for tubercle, which is the characteristic lesion of the disease.

Of course heating the winter air invariably dries it out, no matter what type or form of heat may be used.

There are two fairly simple precautions you may take to protect the lining of your respiratory tract and your skin from the damage these delicate membranes suffer from wintering in the great indoor Sahara. First, cover the radiator, register, or heater with a suitable open tank holding a few gallons of water in which dip many loops or folds of wicking or obsorbent cloth like Turkish towelling hanging on a wire or wood rack over the water. The heated air passing over the wet wicking or toweling evaporates considerably desirable moisture and makes the air of the room more comfortable and more healthful to live in.

Second. Raise a window and place in the opening a screen made of unbleached muslin. This admits light and desirable moisture or moist air from the outside, yet excludes wind, snow, rain, dust, insects. In schoolrooms where full sash size screens of this type are used there is a pure fresh, wholesome atmosphere and evidence of better health and better conduct and study, besides a saving in fuel. The fuel saving is due to the fact that an air temperature of, say, 68 degrees F. and perhaps 40 per cent relative humidity is more comfortable than an air temperature of 73 degrees F. and only 30 per cent relative humidity.

Try it and see for yourself.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

That Winter Cough

My husband has the chronic morning cough you so well described in an article last winter. He would not take anything for it then but now it is getting bad again and he is willing. (Mrs. C.J.D.)

Answer—Study the chapters on climate bronchial trouble, catarrh and fool-proof cough medicine in the booklet Call it Cri. For the booklet send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope. Ask for it in writing, not with a clipping.

It It Funny

Does an alcohol rub down after a bath before going to bed do a tired person any good? A says No. B says Yes. What do you say? (E.M.)

Answer—A five-minute rubdown after a hard physical contest helps an athlete but for ordinary fatigue rest is best.

Yankee Stomach

I suffer from nervous intestines and sour stomach almost every day (Mrs. L. D.)

Answer—Heaven knows what "nervous intestines" or "nervous indigestion" may be. You may get some help from the pamphlet "Yankee Stomach" mailed on written request (no clipping please) if you provide stamped self addressed enevelope.

COLLEGIATE NEWS

Assembly last Wednesday was under the direction of the Students' Council, with Ronald Godden acting as chairman. The program opened with a Scripture reading by Betty Zebedee, who read part of the second chapter of St. Luke, after which the assembly repeated the Lord's prayer and sang the National Anthem.

At this point, Bill Wesley, editor in chief of the Elevator, made an announcement about the prizes offered by the Elevator for literary contributions. There are prizes for each of: senior story, senior essay, junior story, junior essay. Also, there are prizes for poetry and for a cover design. So turn in your masterpieces and who knows—YOU may have the pleasure of seeing your name and work in print, and oh yes, there is the small matter of five dollars.

The next announcement was by Dot (oo-la-la) Bishop, who told us about the movie we were about to see, entitled "Queen of the Future". This is a picture about the life of Princess Elizabeth, and was greatly enjoyed by all.

As the stage was being cleared for the movie, the B.C.I. band played "White Christmas", which I'm positive made everyone feel very "Christmassie". As the students came into the assembly, the band played the march, "Here They Come" and as the students lined up for period two, the band played another march, "The Line-up".

After the movie, B. J. Houston led us in a few carols, after which we all hurried (?) to period two.

In conclusion I bring you a Christmas exam poem:

'Twas the week before Christmas,
And all through the schools,
We students were moaning,
'Cause we'd been such fools.

We've studied 'n' crammed,
And we hope that we've passed,
But praise be to Allah,
Here's Christmas at last.
Good-bye 'til '48.

Cuff Notes by J.W.P.

Note: If there's any similarity between you the reader, and the characters described in this column, please don't admit it.

My topic of interest this week is dancers—not the ballroom type, but just the pests that are present at every dance.

First, there are the dreamers. This couple steps on the floor and thereupon becomes oblivious to everything and everyone. Just because the tempo of the music changes, does that make any difference? No! They glide (?) along at the same gait all night and heaven help the poor couples who happen to get in their way!

Next come the whirlwinds. These couples are generally made up of would-be rugby stars. They pivot! Pivoting done well and at the right time is fine, but pivoting done to make room or clear a space is in poor taste. Besides, it's hard on the constitution.

The ostrich type is another bad one. These dancers tuck their heads on each others shoulders and as a result their vision is—well it isn't. They realize a change in the rhythm of the music but what they don't realize is that there is someone else on the floor! Oh well, what's a couple of runs in the stockings or bruised shins among friends?

Of course the chatterers must be mentioned. These specimens talk all the time (about nothing) to cover up their poor dancing. Conversation is swell but after all there is a limit to everything. It would be much easier for all concerned if the dancing was improved.

A floor has an area of 4x square feet. There are x couples on the floor dancing. One couple starts to jitterbug (or that's what they call it). The result is—you can draw your own conclusions.

Technically speaking, the following class is not one of dancers. They might be called the "sideline Arthur Murrays". They give plenty of free advice but never practise what they preach.

In spite of all these things, dancing is still fun, and I, personally, wouldn't give it up for love or money.

Girls' Sports

Say now, our grades nine and ten are really showing their worth. On Monday, Dec. 1, Napanee Collegiate played against our 9, 10 and 11's as you were told about last week. B.C.I. grade 9 won with a score of 35-4. There were three girls who did outstanding work: H. Weston, spiking; K. Mills, serving; and Valerie Fleming. Grade teners experienced a truly thrilling game, winning with a final score of 25-24. Two of their good players were B. Tann and N. Fraser for serving. Our grade 11 lost out but not by too much. Their score was 38-34—game going to Napanee. Betty Rees made some pretty good plays.

After the games the girls, in good spirits thronged up to the cafeteria where they exchanged jokes, latest fashions, etc., while eating sandwiches and cake, topping off with chocolate milk.

Previous Games

Dec. 4—G9D 24, G9B 7, referee M. Miller; H10A 14, G10B 10, referee D. Sills.

Well folks, I guess that winds up our Collegiate news until after the (very much needed) Christmas holidays. There's no use of my wasting time in wishing you happy ones as I'm sure each one will have a joyous time.

So, until we meet again, cheerio.

The Glee Club by Myrtle Reid

As you probably know by now, we have found it necessary to cancel our Christmas pageant. Despite the fact that we had such angelic angels we decided that we just couldn't compete with five concerts on the same night. Next year, we will begin earlitr.

Rehearsals for the operetta are getting under way again and characters are being chosen. This in itself is a heavy undertaking. There are so many characters to select from!

"Purple Towers" contains music with a modern lilt and a very 'dreamy' story about the usual spring, flowers and free-running sap. The cast, having read the entire operetta, are beginning to get the general drift of the story behind the music.

This will be my last column until after the exams so I would like to wish that you may be as successful in them as we hope to be in our operetta. Anyway, good luck!

Boys' Sports by John Francis

Last Thursday, B.C.I. juniors and seniors tangled in their annual pre-season basketball tilt. The game was a rough, spirited affair in which Referee Ed Shortt handed out a total of 29 personal fouls, and several technical fouls. By the time the smoke had cleared away, the boys had dragged themselvs to the dressing room ,the seniors had captured the contest by a 42-28 count.

The juniors fought to an early 6-4 lead in a rather scrambly first quarter, but two senior baskets and a foul shot pulled the white shirts into a 9-6 lead. From that point on, the seniors were never headed, although several times the juniors were only a point behind. The first period ended with the seniors in front 9-7.

In the second quarter, the teams continued their disorderly tactics and Tom Buchanan was put out of the game for incurring his fourth and fifth misdemeanors. Each team netted five points during the quarter, and the seniors still clung to a scant 14-12 lead at the half. Miller and Lockyer of the seniors, and Buchanan of the juniors each garnered five points during the half.

The seniors hit their stride in the third quarter when they outscored their younger rivals 14-5, to pull into a comfortable 28-17 lead. They hammered the juniors in their own end for most of the period.

In the final quarter, the teams began to forget about rugby, and settled down to play basketball. The seniors held a slight 14-11 scoring edge, and as the final whistle blew, the seniors left the floor with a 42-28 win.

Had it not been for Kip Summers' prolific scoring, the juniors would have suffered a much worse defeat. Summers scored half of his team's points on five baskets and four foul shots. Eleven of his points came in the second half, when the seniors were turning on the heat. "Beezer" Watkins led the seniors with a total of ten points.

Seniors—Massey 6, Galbraith 3, Miller 7, Lockyer 8, Burshaw, Cameron 6, Thompson, McBurney, Ketcheson, Watkins 10, Thrasher, Rose 2, MacMillan, Pappas—42.

Juniors—Summers 14, Lepore 2, Faulkner, Buchanan 5, Dolan, McBride, Ewald, Dudley 1, Burke 5, Scott, Morris 1, Muirhead—28.

If the teams display as much zip and fire as they showed in this game, look out rivals! B.C.I. is on the warpath!

Educational Notes

ALL WORK AND NO PLAY MAKE JACK A DULL BOY

(Contributed by Belleville Teachers' Council)

We all agree that the physical development of our children is as equally important as their mental progress. The fact that dental and health clinics for schools have been established in most centres indicates concern over their physical welfare.

There have been rumors of criticisms that the Belleville Public Schools are lacking in their sports activities. This is possibly due to the absence of scheduled inter-school games. It was found by past experience in such programs that only a minority group of athletic-minded pupils benefited, while the majority of pupils who needed attention along these lines were neglected.

The ideal situation would be to give all pupils equal opportunity to participate in the activities and encourage the backward few. It is certainly not the duty of the school to single out pupils with athletic ability and train them to become future hockey or baseball stars. Yet we must not let the interest of this minority group subside.

Activities Outlined

To counteract criticisms, let us summarize the activities of one of our Belleville Public Schools.

Rinks were erected last year on all school grounds by the city and in spite of the unusual weather conditions for outdoor rinks midget, junior, intermediate and senior inter-class hockey leagues were successfully carried out. The week was divided to allow three days for hockey and two days for skating only, from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. In addition every class in the school from beginners to seniors were given the opportunity of skating periods of their own during school hours. This being supervised by their respective teachers.

Inter-school games were arranged at convenient times for senior teams, and one inter-city game was played in Kingston Arena against a Kingston Public School, with the local boys being royally entertained at a banquet in the school after the game.

In Spring and Fall baseball and soccer games are played.

Have Limited Time

At the present time the organization and carrying out of the sports program is left to some interested classroom teacher, whose only available time is from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. There is little likelihood of further improvements in our present system of physical education until special teachers are designated to carry on the activities and time so arranged to free them from class-room duties to enable part of the program to be carried out in regular classroom periods. Some large centres employ athletic instructors, whose only duties are the organization and carrying on of the physical education program, and all work is carried on in regular classroom periods.

Under our present system many difficulties arise. A few of these might be mentioned.

1. Proper maintenance of good ice surface. Rinks should be flooded after 9 p.m. to provide the utmost use of the rink. Daytime flooding interferes with all forms of activities for the day and upsets scheduled programs. Who is going to do this?
2. Proper supervision of rink during and after school hours.
3. Supervision of rinks from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. to prevent hockey enthusiasts from interfering with skating programs.

"It is felt that far too many of our citizens are satisfied to take their physical recreation vicariously, sitting in a grandstand, rather than actively participating in healthy activity. Too often this is because as young people they have never had the opportunity to develop sufficient skill to enable them to enjoy tennis, badminton, golf, etc. When they reach adulthood and want to participate in these games, many feel too self-conscious and embarrassed at their lack of skill to attempt to learn. The modern trend toward shorter working hours allows a large amount of time for recreation. Hence, it is imperative that our adults be interested in participating in healthy physical activities."

Hamilton Defeats Mrs. H. Anderson For Control Board

Hamilton, Ont., Dec. 5 — (CP) — Feature of Hamilton's civic elections Wednesday night was defeat of Mrs. Helen Anderson, Labor-Progressive party, in her bid for re-election to the four-seat Board of Control. Coupled with retirement of Controller Nora-Frances Henderson previously it meant that the two women members of the 1947 Board of Control will both be absent next year.

Mayor Sam Lawrence was re-elected by acclamation previously.

The vote for Board of Control, four members elected was: Hugh McIntyre 22,637; Walter Chadwick 22,274; Andrew Frame 22,211; Leslie Parker 20,666; Mrs. Anderson 12,622; Roy Aindow 11,484; Matthew Allman 2,586.

Two women were among those elected to the city council, which had three women members this year. The women councillors elected are Ellen Fairclough and Bessie Hughton.

BACKACHE
The Plague of Outdoor Men

The outdoor man, whether he be farmer, truck driver, or railway operator, is often subject to backache. This may be the result of exposure to cold and dampness or the result of strain from the jolting and bumping of the vehicle he rides.

To many people, women as well as men, it would be great to be free of backache—one of the most common and annoying of ailments. And here is how you may be relieved of backache and other symptoms of poisons in the blood.

The treatment suggested is Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills. By reason of their stimulating action on both the liver and kidneys, you have two chances to one of getting relief from your backache by using Dr. Chase's Pills. The torpid liver is aroused to action, the kidneys are stimulated and consequently these organs help to purify the blood of the poisonous impurities which bring pains and aches and tired feelings.

Keep regular and keep well by using Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills. 35cts. a box.

Property Owners - Attention

Question:—What is landscaping?

Answer:—Landscaping a home, a public building or an industrial property is simply that of taking into consideration such factors as driveways, walks, service area, property lines, shades and sun, then planting suitable trees, shrubs and flowers in the right place.

The result of good landscaping is a dignified, pleasing picture — restful and inviting. No cluttered, gaudy appearance. Good plantings become the pride of the owner and the community. They enhance the value of a property as nothing else will do.

Our Mr. William Hogle will be in BELLEVILLE shortly. His years of experience in landscape survey, design and construction will mean much to you, should you have a genuine planting problem, whether large or small. DEATH PUZZLE

Marion Jean Badgley, 25, above who was found shot to death in the woodshed of her home in Frankford, Ont. Her father, Hugh Badgley, believes she died defending herself from a brutal attacker. He is sure she did not kill herself for "she was always cheerful and enjoyed living too much to think of that." Mr. and Mrs. Badgley both admitted there had been reports that the fatal bullet could not have been fired by the weapon found with the body, but declined to discuss it, beyond saying, "The police are investigating the entire matter; it is in their hands."

Anglican Guild Holds Successful Bazaar and Tea

Picton—In spite of inclement weather, more than two hundred ladies attended the tea and bazaar held by the Anglican Church Guild in the parish hall yesterday. The president Mrs. S. J. Collier and Mrs. H. Swayne were at the door. The tea table was centred with chrysanthemums as were quartet tables. Pouring tea were Mrs. Swayne, Mrs. H. B. Tully, Mrs. George Cook and Mrs. H. A. Le Heup.

The sale of cakes was in charge of Mrs. Owen Jones, Mrs. R. Fox and Mrs. N. Medhurst. Mrs. Lyall Robinson and Mrs. R. Byers had charge of candy and a touch and take table. Mrs. Thomas Drew, Mrs. Ted Manlow and Mrs. Walter Thompson convened home cooking.

The Girls' Branch of the W.A. sold gifts and the Girls' Auxiliary sold handicraft.

Picton — (Special) — Warden Donald Thompson has sent out invitations for the annual Warden's banquet to be held in the Parish Hall Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Kennington and son sailed from New York city on Wednesday, on the Queen Mary, for England where they will spend three months.

Prince Edward County experienced a real taste of winter yesterday. Snow fell all day and a high wind prevailed most of the time, making a blinding blizzard. Late in the afternoon sleet added to the slipperiness of road conditions and motorists were forced to travel slowly.

Snow plows wung into action and main highways were kept free of bad drifts. In several sections, roads became impassible due to drifts. These will be plowed out as soon as the wind abates.

This time last year, there was no snow on the ground here.

Ed. Waterhouse Heads A.Y.P.A.

The Hastings and Prince Edward Deaneries local council of the Anglican Young People's Association held its second annual meeting in Trenton on Wednesday. Close to a hundred young people from Belleville, Marmora, Picton, Trenton and Tweed assembled in Canterbury Hall to hear reports from the council executive and discuss the activities of the council over the past twelve months.

Following the presentation of the reports of the executive and one special committee (Leadership Training Course held here Nov. 8-9) came the report of the Nominating Committee and election of the 1948 executive. With the exception of the offices ot president, treasurer and promotion and extension convener all posts were filled by acclamation.

The Officers

Chaplain: Rev. W. G. Hope Swayne, Picton; President, Ed. Waterhouse (Christ Church); Vice-President, Frank Clark (St. Thomas); Secretary, Jean Greene (Christ Church); Treasurer, Carl Fisher, Tweed; Promotion and Extension, Vera Flindall Christ Church); Diocesan Affairs, Nancy Jarrett, Picton; Program, Margaret Kellar (Christ Church); A.Y.P.A. Monthly, Eleanor Serson, Marmora; Publicity, Gordon G. Leggat.

Trenton Group Hosts

Trenton's newly-formed St. George's A.Y.P.A. was host for the evening. Prior to the business sessions a short devotional period was conducted by Rev. A. S. McConnell, 1947 chaplain and rector of St. George's Anglican Church. The choirmaster and a group of boys from the choir of St. George's were present during this part of the meeting and led in the singing of the hymns. Before leaving they also favored those present with an anthem.

With the conclusion of business the meeting was officially closed with prayer by W. G. H. Swayne, newly-elected chaplain. Then followed dancing and refreshments.

Women's Activities

REDNERSVILLE W.I.

The November meeting of the Rednersville Women's Institute was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Hugh Weese on Thursday evening, Nov. 27th.

Following the opening and business part of the meeting, Mrs. George Roblin gave a splendid report of the area convention.

Mrs. Harmon Montgomery, convener of the program took charge; the topic being "Agriculture and Canadian Industries." Suitable readings were given by Mrs. E. McKay and Mrs. C. Vancleaf.

Mrs. Ross Bush was guest speaker and gave an interesting talk on the topic of the evening.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants and a social time was enjoyed. The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ralph Redner Thursday evening December 11.

PINE GROVE W.I.

The monthly meeting of Pine Grove W.I., was held at the home of Mr Fred Heasman, on Thursday, Nov. 27. The meeting opened with 1st Vice President, Mrs. Charles Ross, presiding.

The treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $85.48.

Mrs. Ross expressed thanks on behalf of Mrs. Jerry Marshall for the box sent to her recently.

Mrs. Leslie Finkle thanked the Institute for the cards sent her on for the gift sent to her new daughter.

A letter was read, describing the "Weaving Course", given by the government and available to groups of eight or more, but no action was taken.

Mrs. Ross introduced Mr. Dalrymple, Agricultural representative for Hastings County, who took as his subject, "Canada Agriculturally".

Mr. Dalrymple mentioned different provinces in Canada, and described agricultural products specialized in, each province. Apples come from British Columbia, perfectly graded. He also mentioned that the wheat queen is a native of British Columbia and said the horses, beef cattle and sheep, are of a better class than we raise here. He spoke of the fine potatoes from P E I.

He said there are wonderful possibilities for agriculture in Northern Ontario, and spoke particularly of potatoes, their wonderful growth and freedom from disease in that new country.

Mr. Dalrymple said that Hastings county has the largest number of dairy cattle in the province; many orchards and canning factories, also that in Hastings County the tourist area is one of the best in the province. He spoke of the splendid cheese manufactured here, and of the minerals. He advised strongly that we "toot our own horn" more often and advertise our county. Mr. Dalrymple reminded the members of "Farmers' Week" at the O.A.C. Guelph, during the second week in June and assured all of a hearty welcome there.

Mrs. Ross thanked the speaker, on behalf of the members, who certainly appreciated and enjoyed Mr Dalrymple's informative address.

The Secretary was asked to write the local school board about the possibility of having a kitchen built at the schoolhouse.

Mrs. Tanner was named as a W.I. representative to buy cups for the Institute.

It was decided to hold the Christmas meeting on the 30th of December.

Plans were discussed regarding a social evening for Friday, Dec. 5, at the home of Mrs Alec Tanner and Mesdames Ross Tanner and Heasman were named as a committee to look after same.

Mrs. Saltes and Mrs. F. Campbell gave a splendid reports of the area convention.

"Current Events" was exceptionally well prepared and given by Mrs. Allyn Finkle.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem and the social committee served delicious refreshments.

Trenton
LOBA No. 604 Installation of Officers For 1948

Trenton—(Special)—On Tuesday evening, December 2nd, the members of Trenton Branch L.O.B.A. No. 604, held a very special meeting, the occasion being the installation of officers for the coming year. The meeting was held in the Lodge Hall, Front Street, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion.

The new officers installed were as follows:

Worthy Mistress — Sister. E. Jones

Deputy Mistress — Sister H. Vantassel.

Junior Deputy Mistress — Sister J. Tym.

Chaplain — Sister L. Bennett

Recording Secretary -- Sister M. Hill

Financial Secretary — Sister N. Frauts.

Treasurer — Sister E. Coukell.

Guardian — Sister E. Spicer.

Director of Ceremony — Sister L. Wannamaker.

Senior Lecturer — Sister N. Ruckstahl.

Deputy Lecturer — Sister E. McKeown.

Inner Guard—Sister A. Cowdy.

Outer Guard — Sister E. Brant.

Pianist — Sister F. Oldrey.

2nd Committee — Sister E. Leitch.

3rd Committee — Sister G. Dawson.

4th Committee — Sister R. Reid.

5th Committee—Sister M. Patterson.

Immediate Past Mistress — Sister L. Stickle.

Auditors — Sisters L. Stickle, P. Bowden and E. Spicer.

2nd Visiting Committee — Sisters E. Bennett, R. Smith, L. Burke and E. Spicer.

Degree Captain and Flower Committee: Sister E. Bennett.

Sister E. McKeown installed the officers and was assisted by Sister M. Hill, Director of Ceremonies, Sister E. Bunnett, Deputy Mistress, Sister P. Bowden, Chaplain, Sister M. Ward, Recording Secretary, and Sister F. Oldrey, Pianist.

At the close of the installation, Sisters M. Hill and E. McKeown were brought before the altar and presented with beautiful china plates for their work in the installation.

Sister E. Jones, Worthy Mistress, was re-elected to the chair and was presented with two beautiful cups and saucers in appreciation of her work during the past year.

Sister Florence Oldrey, pianist, was presented with a cheque for her work during the past year.

At the close of the meeting a delicious banquet supper was served and all present enjoyed a pleasant social hour.

Madoc
Pianoforte Pupils Present Delightful Informal Recital

Madoc — A delightfully informal pianoforte recital was presented by the pupils of Jenny O'Hara Pincock, L.T.C.M., for their parents on Monday night last. Explanatory remarks were given by each contributor before playing his or her number.

Not only Madoc, but Eldorado, Queensboro and Gilmour were represented, other pupils from Gunter Lake and Tweed being unable to attend.

After "The King" Mrs. Pincock entertained with three compositions from Chaminade, Petro Yon and Chopin.

Refreshments, donated by the considerate and interested parents, were served at the close of the program.

These recitals are followed with great interest from year to year. Pupils from the earliest pianoforte age learn to perform naturally in public, and, seeing the advancement of others in the class, naturally develop a healthy competitive interest in their own work.

Teachers' Assoc. Hears Address On Education

A meeting of the Teachers' Association was held at Consecon Hall in the form of a pot luck supper and Christmas party on Tuesday with an attendance of 40.

The room appeared very festive with its decorated tables and Christmas tree loaded with gifts. After the supper, Miss Vera Pyne took charge of the meeting.

Miss Grace Saunders gave a report on superannuation.

Mrs. Velma Matthews was appointed convener of the project—"Know Our Ontario".

A discussion took place regarding a field day or oratorical contest for schools in the Wellington teachers' unit.

Christmas carols were sung, led by Mrs. Walt with Mr. Stanley Hawthorne at the piano.

A group of Consecon high school students sang "O Come All Ye Faithful" and "Winter Wonderland" which were much enjoyed.

Mrs. Ross Bush gave a very interesting address on "Education". She stated that the aim of all education should be the production of good citizens. It is a life-long process and its changes are many and varied. Most people are awake to the changing currents but some still say too much money is spent on education. Have they stopped to think that approximately four times as much is spent on cosmetics, eight times as much on tobacco, and 12 times as much on passenger automobiles? Education and civilization should go hand in hand for civilization is built on the foundation of education.

She felt there were two purposes of education; first, to make a living; second, to lead a better and more intelligent life.

She stated that the larger unit of administration was coming in the form of township school areas. In the past, the main credential to be a trustee was—"Has he a family?" That day is past. Today they want men or women chosen for the position who are known to be interested in education. Education is the most important tax supported business in any country and no child should be denied a free education.

Mrs. Velma Matthews moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Ross Bush and presented her with a small gift as a token of appreciation.

Distribution of the Christmas gifts brought the evening to a close.

Mrs. Freeman expressed a cordial vote of thanks to Mrs. Walt and her committee for the splendid evening.

The next meeting will be held at West Lake School, the guests of Miss Roberta Williams, on Jan. 13. Program committee is Miss R. Williams, Miss M. Walters, Miss I. Stark and Mrs. J. Gough.

Education Committee Will Bring in Report At January Session

Motions to discharge the County Educational Consultive Committee; amendments to establish a sub-committee and to appoint committee to the southern and central school inspectorates featured the second day of argument over Hastings County's controversial point, the establishment of a high school district in Central Hastings.

Motion to discharge the committee was met by mixed opinions on the part of council. It was later pointed out that since the committee had been appointed by by-law, it was illegal to discharge the body. The matter ended when Reeve William Davis, Bangor, moved that the committee be asked to bring in a special report to the January session, regarding remedying the the high school situation in Marmora and Deloro.

Reeve George West, Madoc, chairman of the committee which came under sharp critical fire for the second day of argument, told the council that nothing had been done about the matter in 1947 and in his opinion the people were not ready for the project yet.

Not Willing to Give Up

The four municipalities in Centre Hastings which have high schools are not willing to give them up until such time that they educate themselves to the fact. He felt that two committees instead of one could accomplish more.

He was of the opinion that if a sub committee was appointed either under the consultative body or County Council they could get somewhere with the Central Hastings Problem. "If this council wants to discharge the committee and appoint one which could do more than I did, why I am perfectly willing to resign," he said.

School Inspector for South Hastings, H. Macklem addressed the council on the subject pointing out that it would be a great mistake for the council to set up a committee to condemn a school giving minimum courses. The problem of the north is solved, he said, the south is all right, but centre does not know the facts. A series of meetings should be held to educate the people in this section of the county.

Wants Committee Discharged

The Royal Commission Education report will likely complicate matters, the inspector said. "While we do not know what it will bring in, it will likely be larger school centres. Any small community which thinks it will have its own high school will be badly disappointed. People should be given all the facts."

Reeve William West, Stirling felt that matters should wait until it is seen how the situation works out in Bancroft where a new high school district has been established.

But Reeve Ross Neal, of Marmora, who argued strenuously for the discharge of the committee stated that "we can't get anywhere. Nothing has been done. And we won't get anywhere unless this council makes a move to discharge the committee, then the government might do something."

We cannot neglect this matter any longer," he said. "We are being staved off and are entitled to some consideration."

Same in January

The matter would be the same in January, even if the committee was changed the Marmora reeve said. One large school is not feasible for Centre Hastings. He moved that the council disband the Consultative Committee for the government will not do anything until some action is taken by county council.

Deputy Reeve Wilfred Spencer, Rawdon, felt that it would not be a good idea to disband the committee for the Royal Commission on Education may come up with something concrete that will benefit all concerned.

Reeve Arthur McCarey, Tweed, told council that he had been informed last year that it would take from five to seven years before a new high school district would be put in operation. He felt that with the government's policy of decentralization of industry and with plants coming to rural areas, conditions would be such in the future to warrant a high school in every centre.

Firm in Stand

Reeve Neal was firm on his stand to disband the consultative committee and moved that it be discharged for the time being. The question was not completed and Reeve Charles Buskard, who felt the committee should remain as a whole, suggested that pressure be brought to bear upon it so a report could be given to the county in January .

Reeve H. A. Harrison, Thurlow township suggested that the council appoint a sub-committee to act in both centre and south Hastings on the matter of education, but Reeve P. J. Kirby, moved that the committee be allowed to function until a new one was appointed.

"This committee was appointed by by-law" Deputy Reeve Spencer reminded council, adding that as such, it was not legal to disband it. Reeve William Davis then introduced the motion to request the committee to bring in a report in January on the situation in Marmora and Deloro and the matter ended there.

Reeves J. McKenzie, Faraday and P. J. Kirby, Deseronto who are retiring this year, voiced their appreciation of the co-operation shown them by members of council during their two years in office. They paid special tribute to Warden A. A. Harvie, as did Deputy Reeve Spencer.

Gore

Gore — Miss Audra Brickman, Mrs. Earl Fox and Mrs. Ralph Redner attended the Women's Institute meeting at the home of Mrs. Hugh Weese on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Green and Sandra spent last Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Green and family, West Huntingdon.

The many friends of Mrs. Burton Redner were sorry to hear of her accident on Monday morning when she slipped and fell on her kitchen floor breaking her hip. She was taken to Belleville Hospital by ambulance where she will be confined for a number of days. All wish her a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fox spent Thursday with the latter's father, Mr. Geo. McCurdy and Mrs. McCurdy of Rawdon.

The pupils with their teachers, of Centre and Victoria schools are very busy practising for their annual Christmas entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Green, Wilbert, Ronald and Sandra Jean, spent the weekend in Toronto, with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brickman and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Houlden, of Coyley, Alberta, called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fox on Thursday.

Mrs. Rhoda Sager has returned home having spent a couple of weeks visiting her niece, Mrs. Floyd Kirkby and Mr. Kirkby of Gananoque.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Houlden, Mrs. Mae Humphrey and John called on Mr. and Mrs. Winston Pulver on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Brickman and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Fox spent a few days in Toronto and attended the Royal Winter Fair. They also visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brickman and Mr. and Mrs. Mac Lont.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Anderson of Belleville spent Sunday with the latter's mother, Mrs. Julia Fox and Mr. and Mrs. Willie Fox.

TOY GUNS REMOVED UNDER ANCIENT BYLAW

Painesville, O., Dec. 6 — (AP) — The annual "disarmament" of Christmas toy displays in Painesville stores has been resumed this year.

Acting under regulations of a 45-year-old city ordinance, police uncovered three miniature "depots" of toy guns and pistols in local stores and ordered them removed from the sight of admiring youthful eyes.

Police explained that the ordinance prohibits sale of toy guns "of metal or any hard substance" within Painesville city limits.

In Manhattan:

Anderson and Cornell Give Splendid Performances in Great Tragedies

By PAT USSHER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Dec. 6 (CP)—Whatever its achievements or failings, the current Broadway theatre season has to its credit two outstanding performances in great tragedies by accomplished actresses.

Judith Anderson gives one as Medea, the furious, violent central character of the old Greek horror story. Now Katharine Cornell has come along with another as Cleopatra, the tempestuous, love-sick queen of Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra."

High tragedy has been more or less in eclipse on the Manhattan stage in recent years but these two gifted women seem to be well on the way to overcoming the distate of the local theatre-going public for such strong fare.

Best in a Decade

The Katharine Cornell production of "Anthony and Cleopatra" was a hit in road try-out cities where it played prior to its local engagement at the Martin Beck theatre. Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Toronto and other cities were agreed on that point. But Broadway often before has given a "thumbs-down" verdict to plays that were labelled successes out of town.

This time it was not so. Manhattan's critics agreed that it was a hit. One went so far as to term this version of the romantic tragedy, one of the most difficult of Shakespeares works to produce, the best thing to come to Broadway in a decade.

The praise was well deserved. Miss Cornell, who handles in her brilliant fashion the trying role of Cleopatra, has staged a magnificent production in a lavish setting. This, her 16th presentation in 16 years as the only actress-manager in the American theatre, seems destined to be among her more profitable, despite its estimated $125,000 cost.

Godfrey Tearle as Anthony, of course, makes the play. It had been languishing on Miss Cornell's production schedule for want of a suitable "triple pillar of the world." This is his first appearance in the United States in a classic role—perhaps he's better known here as Franklin D. Roosevelt's movie impersonator— but in England he's ranked as one of the world's greatest Shakespearane actors.

Entertainment Brevities

Current entertainment at Zimmerman's Hungaria, a mid-town cafe, included songs in Russian, Ukrainian, Polish and English by Alga Pavlova, titian-haired soprano of Ukrainian parents who comes from Winnipeg . Eva Le Gallienne and Jessie Royce Landis each have plans for appearing in Ibsen's drama "Hedda Dabler," and both productions may be seen here during the winter. . Arthur Klein plans to bring Broadway an old-fashioned minstrel show, "Minstrels on Parade," but it will be modernized in one respect—there will be girls in the cast.

The Experts Say . . .

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, (CP) — Many a Christmas dainty this year is climbing the cost-of-living ladder, and if mother is budget-wise she'll step into the festive season with a lot of home-made food on hand.

Such fruit-cake ingredients as currants, seedless raisins, she now may find hard to get, but if she has a supply on hand here is a recipe for Old-Fashioned Fruit Cake, guaranteed to bring good results.

Ingredients: One cup butter, one cup brown sugar; two cups flour; three eggs; one pound raisins; one pound currants; one-half teaspoon soda; one-half teaspoon cream of tartar; one-quarter pound mixed peel; one tablespoon cinnamon; one nutmeg.

If she would have her holiday food list complete it's time now too for the housewife to make up a supply of mincemeat.

Fruit Mince Meat: two pounds suet (finely ground); eight pounds apples; three pounds brown sugar; four pounds raisins or two pounds raisins and two pounds currants); 1 1-2 pounds mixed peel; grated rind and juice of three oranges and three lemons. Mix sugar and spices—one-half tablespoon mace, one tablespoon nutmeg, one tablespoon cinnamon, three-quarter tablespoon salt.

Mincemeat is good for pie but home economists of the consumer section, Dominion department of agriculture also suggest it makes delicious cookies.

Mincemeat Cookies— Ingredients: One-half cup butter or mild-flavored fat; one cup sugar; three eggs; one teaspoon vanilla; two cups mincemeat; 3 1-4 cups sifted all-purpose flour; one teaspoon baking-powder; one teaspoon baking-soda; one-half teaspoon salt; one teaspoon allspice.

Cream fat, add sugar gradually continuing to cream. Beat eggs and add, beating until the mixture is light and fluffy. Add vanilla and mincemeat. Mix and sift dry ingredients and add, combining thoroughly. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased baking sheet and bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) 15 to 20 minutes. This makes about five dozen cookies.

Plain jelly, blancmange, or snow pudding may be turned into a special Christmas dessert if topped with Holly Sauce

Ingredients: two tablespoons sugar; one teaspoon cornstarch; pinch of salt; two egg yolks or one whole egg; one-half teaspoon vanilla; 1 1-2 cups milk; one-third cup maraschino cherries, coarsely chopped.

Polite "Rat" Thanks Fire Chief For Cheese Feed

Brantford, Dec. 6 —(CP)—Fire Chief Basil Baines was bothered by a big rat every time he turned on his machine at the broom factory in nearby Norwich so he baited a trap with a good-sized lump of Oxford cheese. The next morning in the trap he found a scrawled note: "Thanks a lot for the lunch. It was good."

New Markers Ready

Guelph, Dec. 6 (CP)—A record output of 923,416 automobile licence plates for 1948 is expected to be completed shortly by prisoners at the Ontario Reformatory here, prison officials said Friday. The new plates are blue with white letters and motorists will get two plates in 1948 instead of the one used during the war to conserve metal.

85 PER CENT OF FACTORY MACHINERY TAKEN BY RUSSIANS

Berlin, Dec. 5 — (AP) — The American military government said Thursday it had estimated that the Russians removed from Berlin as war booty 85 per cent of all undamaged factory machinery in the two months after the war when they were the sole occupier of the city.

Thanks Club For Gifts Sent ToCzechoslovakia

Members of the Soroptimist Club, meeting in restaurant "Chez Henri" for luncheon on Thursday, had as their guest speaker Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova. Mrs. Georgia Smith, president of the club, introduced Dr. Hitschmanova very informally, remarking that after having heard the doctor speak to the Women's Canadian Club on Wednesday evening, a more formal introduction was unnecessary.

Dr. Hitschmanova expressed gratitude to the club for parcels sent to Czechoslovakian children, and said that although the packages might not arrive in time for Christmas Day, that when they did arrive it would be Christmas for the children. She hoped some personal messages were included in any letters sent; they would be easily translated because, in Europe now eleven out of fourteen people are learning English, and when answers are received in Canada she will be personally responsible for their translation into English, if they are forwarded to her Ottawa office.

She continued, "Wool cannot be bought in Europe today, no matter how much money one has, so warm garments are doubly appreciated. Dolls and toys are important to children, in order to bring them back to a normal mode of living.

Canada Magic Word

"Today Canada is a magic word in Europe, and the most beloved and adored country in all the world. Canadian goods are always of highest quality and are joyfully received. There may be some delay in delivery, as all parcels go first to England, then to Belgium or German seaports and reach Czechoslovakia by American train service, where postal authorities are responsible."

She told of a parcel delivered to her sister while she was in Prague, and of the great joy experienced in getting packaged food which money cannot buy in Europe. $10 pays for a parcel of 29 pounds of food sent by C.A.R.E., a commercial organization sending parcels to Europe. She said, "The situation in Europe is tragic, dramatic, horrible. Words cannot express the dire need of things Canadians consider necessities."

An expression of appreciation was voiced by Miss L. Johnston, who said, "We hope that the Christmas spirit of goodwill will continue in the days ahead."

Women's Activities

KIWANIS AUXILIARY

The Kiwanis Auxiliary held its December meeting on Thursday evening at the Centre on Dundas street.

There were 53 members in attendance and the president was in the chair.

The president for 1948, Vi Kuntze, who was elected at a directors' meeting held at the home of Ella Trepanier during the past week, was called forward to be introduced to the ladies. After a very warm welcome had been extended to her she graciously thanked the ladies for the honor which had been conferred upon her.

Plans are under way for the Christmas party to be held in the near future, with Clara Smith and Don Stanton as co-conveners.

The birthday draw was won by Pat Rutherford.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of a beautifully decorated birthday cake, complete with candles, and centred with a miniature nosegay of tiny white 'mums to President Flossie Smith from the members of the auxiliary. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

The bridge and euchre which followed was convened by Muriel Joss. The prize winners were: For bridge, Grace Vanner, Bessie Marsh, Gertrude McKenna; hidden score, Margaret Warner; lucky chair, Jessie White and for euchre Eva Dustin.

Delicious refreshments were served by Edna Dobbs and her committee.

Big-Hearted Bandit-

Seattle, Dec. 6 (AP). — "Now I'm broke. How'll I telephone the police?" shouted John Dozier, as two men sped off in a car after robbing him of his wallet yesterday. One of the robbers leaned from the window and flipped a nickel back to the victim. The pair escaped.

ERNST LUBITSCH HONORED IN DEATH

Glendale, Dec. 6 — (AP) — The great and near-great of Hollywood paid final tribute Thursday to Ernst Lubitsch, German-born film director-producer who died Sunday. Jeanette MacDonald, one of those he boosted to stardom, sang a Lubitsch composition, "Waltz in A Major," and writer Charles Brackett gave a eulogy.

Louis Retains Heavyweight Title but Walcott Obtains Plaudits of Large Assembly

Decision Unpopular But Handlers Say Louis Broke Hand in Fifth

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Dec. 6 (CP) — The fight world was in a turmoil today as Joe Webster, Manager of Jersey Joe Walcott, followed up his fighter's surprising battle against Joe Louis last night by entering a formal claim for the world heavyweight boxing title, which a contrite and damaged Louis retained by an unpopular split decision.

Webster said early today he had told Chairman Eddie Eagen of the New York State Athletic Commission that he claimed the title for Walcott, wanted a public hearing, and based his protest on "your one point scoring system."

Eagan said he had not called a special meeting of the commission.

"I merely told Webster that he could see me Monday at 11 a.m. and if the matter was worthy the entire commission would consider it at our regular meeting on Friday," he added.

Webster did not elaborate on the reference to the point scoring system which gave the fight to Louis after the Detroit Brown Bomber, his fists apparently no longer carrying the old calamity, had found the going rough.

For the first time in his 24 successful title defences, the boos were for Louis and the ungrudging applause of 18,914 Madison Square Garden fans went to the underdog challenger from Camden, N.J.

In the stunning turn of events against a man he had been expected to shell into submission within five rounds, the Brown Bomber was forced to travel the full 15 to gain a vastly unpopular split decision. Twice Joe was on the canvas, once for a two-count in the first and once for seven in the fourth.

Stumbled Once

Walcott kept his feet throughout, except once in the 13th round when he stumbled and fell, lurching forward under the momentum of one of his own punches.

When it was over the capacity crowd, which contributed to a record Garden gate of $216,477, vigorously booed and hissed the champion, long an idol of the fans and roared its approval when Walcott stood up in his corner.

Before that there had been a heart-pounding hush as announcer Harry Balogh cleared his throat to announce the decision. Frank Forbes, the first judge, gave Louis eight rounds, Walcott six and called one even.

Referee Ruby Goldstein voted for Walcott, 7 to 6, with two even. Then the decisive vote: "Judge Marty Monroe, nine—for Louis.." And the rest of the announcer's words were lost in the bedlam.

Inquestionably, the majority of the fans, and many newspaper men, considered that Walcott had the better of a slightly disappointing fight which erupted into violent action only briefly.

The Canadian Press score card was six rounds for Walcott, five for Louis and four even. The Associated Press gave Walcott nine, Louis five and one even.

Barred Reporters

In the turmoil that followed the unexpected course of the fight, the disconsolate Louis barred reporters from his dressing room for 25 minutes. But when the press was admitted, the champion's trainer, Mannie Seamon, gave a possible clue to his charge's showing with the announcement:

"He fractured his right hand about the fifth round."

Joe's manager, Marshall Miles, said merely that two doctors "thought" it was broken and that X-rays would be taken today.

Walcott, heretofore a nondescript refugee from boxing's retirement rolls, said "I thought I won." His handlers were equally emphatic. Walcott added: "Louis himself said he was sorry."

Barring confirmation of the fracture, there seemed little doubt that Louis at 33 had slipped slightly from the peak that made him acknowledged ruler of the ring for 10 1-2 years, with 14 straight knockouts to his credit up to last night.

He was the same old Bomber in appearance, boring in steadily, flicking a lightning left jab, but the payoff weapon—the jarring right which chilled five opponents in the first round—just wasn't there.

Whenever Louis lashed his right in Walcott's face, Jersey Joe zipped back with what appeared to be an equally powerful blow

WHO GOT BEST IN BIG HOCKEY DEAL. LEAFS OR HAWKS?

Tonight May Provide Some Idea When Teams Clash in Toronto

(By The Canadian Press)

That historic feud between Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens might well be overshadowed by another National Hockey League situation which is simmering nicely. To wit: Who got the best of the big player trade between Toronto and Chicago Black Hawks?

The Hawks traded high-scoring Max Bentley and Cy Thomas for five Leafs, Bud Poile, Gus Bodnar, Gaye Stewart, Bob Goldham and Ernie Dickens. Rival managers Conn Smythe of Toronto and trader Bill Tobin of Chicago seem to have got themselves in an argument as to who benefited the most.

Bill Tobin is reported to have said that right now he wouldn't trade Gaye Stewart on even terms for Max Bentley. That report was on the authority of Canadiens' coach Dick Irvin who said yesterday that Tobin told him at New York that Doug Bentley, Max's brother, is playing "much better hockey without his brother than he did with him."

Max Bentley led the league in point - scoring last year but has not garnered many points since he donned a Maple Leaf uniform.

Which doesn't faze Conn Smythe one iota. Conny pointed out that since the big swap, Leafs have reached the league leadership. The Toronto director's point is that the deal was intended to strengthen the team, not the players. "Bentley has given us a third line that is a definite scoring threat," he instanced. "Joe Klukay at left wing with Bentley scored only one goal in seven games before. He has eight in 12 games since the deal, in addition to his penalty-killing."

The strategians can watch the physical results of the swap on the same ice tonight as Leafs entertain the Hawks, while Montreal Canadiens take on Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers travel to Boston. Sunday night has another full card, Leafs back at Chicago, Canadiens at Boston and Detroit at Rangers.

Leafs were expected to hang on to their league lead, inasmuch as they meet the tail-enders in both games.

Fight Quotations

New York, Dec. 6. (AP) — Here's what the principals and others said about last night's heavyweight title fight at Madison Square Garden.

Champion Joe Louis—I can't open my mouth no more," Joe answered in response to a photographer who asked for a "wider" smile. "He deserves it," the Champion said when a reported asked him if he thought Walcott should be given another chance at the title.

Challenger Joe Walcott—"I thought I won. Louis told me he was sorry. I wasn't hurt bad. I knew all the time what I was doing. After the first round I was confident I would beat him."

Mannie Seamon, Louis' trainer—"He fought like he was the challenger and Walcott was the champion. You can't win a fight running away."

Danny Florio, Walcott's trainer—'He won the fight. If he didn't I don't know anything about fighting. I was so sure that after the 14th round I told him to take it easy, to coast. I wouldn't do that unless I thought he had won."

Mrs. Lilly Barrow Brooks, Louis' mother—'Whew, what a surprise, he's going to get it some time and I thought sure tonight was the night."

Joe Webster, Walcott's manager—"I intend to make a legal protest for the World's Heavyweight Boxing Championship, Monday morning."

Motion Pictures Fail to Give Complete Picture

(By The Canadian Press)

Motion pictures of the East-West football final game were shown in Toronto yesterday but failed to give a complete picture of a disputed play on which Winnipeg scored a touchdown against Toronto Argonauts only to have it called back by officials.

The play was too deceptive for the cameraman and because of this the picture did not show whether Winnipeg's Johnny Reagan had crossed the line of scrimmage before receiving a forward pass on which he made the run over the Argo goalline.

The movies showed the third-quarter play—a forward off a fake placement—right up to the point where Bob Sandberg was about to throw the ball and Reagan was at least three yards behind the line of scrimmage at that point. Then the scene shifted to a view of the upright's because the cameraman thought the ball had been kicked from placement. By the time the camera swung back, Reagan was well on his way to the disallowed touchdown.

Billed as the unofficial Ontario Junior Rugby Championship, the London Kiwanis Juniors will clash with the Windsor Ako's at the University of Western Ontario's Athletic field today.

The two clubs agreed on the "outlaw final" after the Ontario Rugby Football Union voided the semi-final in which Hamilton Junior Wildcats defeated London, and ruled there would be no further Junior play-offs. Hamilton was charged with using ineligible players. The O.R.F.U. suggested a replay of the semi-final but both London and Hamilton clubs declined, and the unofficial final was then arranged with Windsor which had been waiting for the official wind-up game.

The executive of the Ontario Hockey Association at a meeting in Toronto last night suspended Coach Jack Skinner of the Windsor Spitfires, Junior Club, until Jan. 31. The suspension followed an altercation between Coach Skinner and Referee Jack MacEachren at a recent game. Skinner allegedly struck the referee in protesting the official's "stiff" referring in the game which Galt Rockets won 4-2.

The Ontario Cricket Association has voted to raise $4,000 to send a team to Vancouver next Summer to compete in the inter-provincial cricket week at Brockton.

The team also will be sent to Quebec for the annual inter-city cricket matches there, if Quebec is agreeable to the plan, the O.C.A. also decided. Teams from Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton and an undisclosed location are to take part in an inter-city match here in July.

Crauford Martin of Toronto, was elected president of the Association.

Veteran Jockey Johnny Longden yesterday broke the modern record for the number of winning mounts in a single year by riding four winners at California's Bay Meadows track and boosting his year's total to 304. The previous record was 3001 held by Jackie Westrope.

Sixteen team members, exclusive of Canada's hockey representation, will make the journey to Switzerland for the Olympic Winter games, it was announced yesterday. The combined official list is made up to ten active members of the skating team, with four spares; three figure skaters and three speed skaters.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

There aren't too many "I-told-you-so" guys hanging around boxing circles in N'Yawk this morning. But there are plenty of "If I had only known" gents who naturally couldn't see the writing on the wall. For Joe Louis' heavyweight crown tottered dangerously on his sepia pate in Madison Square Garden last night, and if we heard the radio broadcast correctly, that bauble should be adorning the cranium of Jersey Joe Walcott from Camden, N.Y.

• • •

It was a stunning upset to say the least. And it proved beyond a doubt that you can be a champion one minute and a chump the next. The underdog Walcott, not conceded a dog's chance against the powerful Brown Bomber received a chilly ovation when he entered the ring, while the Gardens rocked to the reverberating roar for the champion.

• • •

But an hour later it was a different story. For the first time in his life Louis heard thousands boo him as he went slowly to his dressing room, while the roar of acclaim that echoed in the Gardens was for the gallant old warhorse who was supposed to fall victim to the lethal fists of the champion long before the fifth round.

• • •

In fact Walcott figured he had the match and title in the bag by the end of the 14th heat. During the fifteenth he did a cross between a cross-country run, a rumba, a samba and a highland to keep out of range of Louis' fists, just in case a knockout blow might connect. But that apparently was his undoing, for the judges counted the round against him — and he needed it.

• • •

At that, the consensus was that Walcott had won the fight by a two or three round margin. The United Press gave him seven, six for Louis and two even. The judges were split on their decision, while the referee gave Walcott his verdict.

• • •

Louis' manager claimed that Joe fractured his right hand in the fifth round and couldn't hit Walcott with any of the old power. Walcott claims he can lick Louis any night of the week, and his manager has entered claim of the heavyweight title on the grounds that the point system as used last night is not fair. All of which makes great ballyhoo for the certain-as-death return match which will likely be staged outdoors next Summer where a near million-dollar gate can be collected.

• • •

True, Walcott "rode a bicycle" for a large part of the fight, but he stood there and lashed out whenever he got the chance. Louis had him on the ropes on one occasion and it looked like the end, but the deadly power of the Louis right was missing. He stung Walcott, but couldn't put him down. And the Jersey Joe dropped Detroit's champion to the canvas twice.

The Philadelphia Rockets' No. 1 line celebrates a birthday next Sunday. It will be one year old.

It is an interesting story how Phil Hergesheimer, the American League's scoring champion of the 1946-47 campaign, and Wally Stefaniw and Mike Narduzzi got together to play as a unit on Philadelphia's ice hockey team.

It is more interesting how they immediately "clicked" and Hergie — the Phanton Phil of the ice — went on to take the scoring title in the league (despite playing for a last place club); Mike became one of the leading rookies of the year and Wally has since moved into the No. 1 spot as the 1947-48 leading point-getter for the Rockets.

• • •

It was no secret early last season that the Rockets were in need of a middle man to set up plays so that Hergie, always a prolific scorer and dangerous around the nets, could pick up goals. As it happened, along about December 3rd of last year, the Rockets secured Wally Stefaniw from Cleveland Barons — by way of the Barons' Minneapolis Millers' farm club. He had been the No. 4 center for the Millers, which meant he wasn't seeing regular action.

The Rockets — who won only 5 games all last season and tied only 7 for a total of 17 league points — battled the Caps to a 5-5 deadlock. Stefaniw scored the tying goal; got one assist. Hergesheimer scored two goals, got one assist. Mike assisted on one of Hergie's counters. In an earlier meeting with the Caps, the Rockets had been beaten 8 to 1!

When the season ended last year, Wally, Mike and Hergie had totalled altogether 77 goals, 115 assists for 192 total points. Subtracting what Mike and Hergie had assembled before Wally joined them, they had—as a line — 63 goals, 92 assists and 155 total points . . . and Hergesheimer had the league's scoring title.

They still are, by virtue of their point-getting, the Rockets No. 1 line this year. The team plays St. Louis at the Arena on Saturday night, December 6th to wind up their first year together.

Sam Breadon's greatest thrill, as owner of the Cardinals, came in the seventh game of the 1926 World's Series with the Yankees, he told The Sporting News in 1943.

• • •

In the seventh inning of that game, the Cardinals were leading, 3 to 2. Earle Combs, first to face Jess Haines in the New York half of the frame, walked. Mark Koenig sacrificed and Babe Ruth was passed intentionally. Bob Meusel forced Ruth on a roller to Less Bell. Haines lost control against Lou Gehrig and walked him, filling the bases.

• • •

"My heart began to do back-flips," related Breadon. "A hit would spell disaster. We would be ruined."

• • •

With Tony Lazzeri, a dangerous hitter in a pinch, coming to bat, Manager Rogers Hornsby summoned Grover Alexander, who had worked a full game only the day before and had been up most of the night. Old Pete tightened his belt, adjusted his cap and struck out Lazzeri on three pitches, ending the inning. He did not give up a hit the rest of the way.

• • •

"Possibly 1926 lives in me, far down on the inner side, because it was our first pennant and championship," said Breadon. "Old Pete in the deciding contest! What a thrill it was!"

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By JACK MITCHELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Dec. 6 (CP) —Sports prophets play in a hazardous league. That was underscored again in the Dominion Football final when Winnipeg Blue Bombers did everything but beat the vaunted Toronto Argonauts in the latest of a long line of make-fools-of-the-experts events.

Jack West, Bomber coach, summed it up after the Argo last-play victory when he said that "about 25 of us were among the few people in all Canada" conceding Winnipeg a chance. The sports experts had helped take care of that. They gave free assurance that an Argo victory was just a matter of score, evidently had Argos believing it themselves until Bombers proved otherwise, and helped bloat those 5-1 betting odds.

From his editorial-page column, J. V. (Globe and Mail) McAree notes that "a consensus of the inmates of any mental hospital could not have been more grievously mistaken" and in scholarly style chastises the never-never-learn fraternity as the "most unreliable of all characters."

But he offers the hand of friendship.

Hazards Are Many

"Our experts fail to predict correctly for the chief reason that they prophesy on what is unpredictable," he points out. For example, "what is apt to ruin the most carefully pondered predictions is the fact that the difference of a foot is the difference between a foul and a home run; that half the diameter of a goal post makes the difference between a goal and a miss in hockey; that the way a football lands on the ground can make the difference between a winning and a losing play."

However, if the sports experts are more vulnerable than other newspaper writers, he suggests, "it is because only they, as a general rule, are called upon to go on record before the event."

Out of the Picture

Concerning Winnipeg's disputed third-quarter touchdown, which you won't be seeing in newsreels, Ted (Evening Telegram) Reeve comments: "The gent in the screen news office who cut off that part of the picture because there was no score was voted a dozen of our best coaches' association crying towels."

MORE POLICEWOMEN

Montreal — (CP) — Montreal has added 13 policewomen to its police force, bringing the roster of constables to 23. The salary is $1,500 a year.

GOOD HUNTING

Port Arthur — (CP) -- A. Anderson of Port Arthur thinks he has one of the larger deer taken this season after bagging a 20-point specimen, estimated to weigh 350 pounds, in the Black Sturgeon area east of here.

WIN A $5.00 PRIZE

And Get Acquainted with Your Local Businessmen

Here's something new and different. The merchants advertising on this page are co-operating in a contest which gives its readers an opportunity of winning a weekly prize of $5.00. Here's how you win: Each week in one of the advertisements a word will be "Scrambled." Read the advertisements, find the scrambled word, unscramble it, and send it with the name of the advertiser in whose ad. it appeared to the "Contest Editor," Ontario Intelligencer, Box 190, Belleville. All answers must be in by the THURSDAY following publication, and winner will be announced the next week in the Business Directory. The winner will be drawn from among the correct answers, and a cheque for $5.00 mailed promptly. No member of the staff of the Ontario Intelligencer or their families are eligible for a prize.

THE WINNER IN LAST WEEK'S DIRECTORY CONTEST IS:

MRS. E. ABRAMS

11 EMILY STREET, BELLEVILLE

THE UNSCRAMBLED WORD IS:

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Expert bridge players do not depend much on luck. If they take chances it is with knowledge of what peril to expect. Usually it is with advance reckoning of how the danger may be overcome.

An expert player was sitting south in this deal:

NORTH
♠A K 5 4 2
♥Q J 8
♦A Q 3

WEST	EAST
♠J 10 9 8 6	♠7
♥6 4	♥3
♦9 8 6 5 4	♦K J 10 7
♣J	♣K Q 8 7 6 4 2

SOUTH
♠Q 3
♥A K 10 9 7 5 2
♣A 9 3

The bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
1 H	Pass	2 S	3 C
3 H	Pass	4 H	Pass
4 NT	Pass	6 D	Pass
7 H	Pass	Pass	Pass

The north one-jump takeout to two spades shows six tricks and a biddable spade suit. Being an immediate jump it also shows a hand containing two sure tricks.

With a count of seven tricks in his own hand, south is able to see 13 expected tricks in their pair. However, the count for a grand slam must be backed up with enough aces and kings.

Four no-trump is the ace and king requesting convention. Six diamonds in reply thereto is Kibitzer convention signal for showing two aces and only one king. The other three north tricks must be queens and two short cards.

Two kings are out against declarer. Knowing this, why does he go to seven? The east bid told him where to expect both. There are plays by which an expert can expect to kill two kings in one hand.

Ordinarily, a grand slam bid is a poor bet with two opponent kings to worry about. Only expert players should attempt such bids.

The opening lead from west is club jack. Lay out the cards and figure the play that forces the east kings to abdicate. Make each of them say: "My kingdom for a horse."

Club Commodore To Feature Party New Year's Eve

Club Commodore will feature a gala New Year's party and plans are now under way to stage the most glorious event of the year at the Club. No expense will be spared as Arlene Thompson, stage and radio songstress, direct from New York City has been engaged to sing with the Commodore Band. All kinds of favors will be distributed and special novelty numbers will be featured by the band itself, while at 1.30 a.m. New Year's morning a buffet luncheon will be served and dancing will continue until the sun breaks through. All in all it will be an evening of entertainment long to be remembered and club officials state this party will be the best ever staged locally. Tickets will be on sale at Bill Cook's Cigar Store and the United Cigar Store on Saturday December 13th and all are advised to secure their tickets early. —Advt.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Dec. 6 —(AP) — So much has been written about New York's Broadway characters that it is often overlooked that Hollywood has a lion's share of unique individuals, too.

Since the spotlight is usually on this town's famous folk, the lesser and more colorful inhabitants are largely ignored. There are lots of Hollywood characters, the place being what it is. Let's take a look around town and spot some of them.

The slim, impeccable man walking down Vine Street, his moustache waxed green to match his tie ... the rafter worker on Warner sets who daily drops pieces of candy to his favorite stars and directors, most of whom have never met him ... the middle-aged man who sweeps up cigaret butts and other debris on MGM sets ... the one with hair down to his shoulders.

The character actor who plays gin rummy with his dog when he (the actor) has been hitting the bottle, which is often ... the aged crones who trudge with their shopping bags down Hollywood Blvd., the sun shining in their dyed orange hair.

The punchy ex-pug who occasionally works in fight pictures—he can be seen sometimes walking down the middle of Gower Street, shadow boxing ... the film writer who hates all child actors and asks friends for new ways to exterminate them ... the sharpies who cluster outside the Hollywood Legion Stadium on fight nights and make it look like a scene from a gangster movie...

The Gower Gulch gang of western extras and stunt men who frequent Brewer's saloon, creating an atmosphere of the old west ... the guy whose principal function was to supply gags for the private amusement of a noted crooner .... yes, and there are lots more, though they're not all roaming the streets. Many of them are working on the inside, making $5,000 a week.

AT THE McCARTHY — Sabu, featured in the Technicolor hit "Black Narcissus," now playing at the McCarthy Theatre. Deborah Kerr and David Farrar play starring roles.

AT THE BELLE—Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn co-stars with Melvyn Douglas and Robert Walker in "The Sea of Grass," much touted adventure and love story, arriving at the Belle Theatre today.

AT THE CAPITOL — Youthful Lon McCallister enacts the role of an intrepid teen-ager in "The Red House," Sol Lesser's film opening Monday at the Capitol. On the same program Ginger Rogers in "Heartbeat" with Adolphe Menjou.

NO TURNING

by Kathrn Bemis

CHAPTER 14.

She yanked down the window shade against the sun's sudden scorching rays. She leaned her head against the back of the comfortable seat and closed her eyes. A knock came on the door. Webb Taylor called, "Kay! Kay! Ready for breakfast?"

Her day had begun.

For days after arriving in Deweyton, Kay lived in a bewildered maze. Webb's mother, overjoyed by the turn of her son's affairs, insisted upon taking the place of the absent Cora in Kay's life, while Cora herself was sending Kay daily wires and special delivery air mail letters begging her not to marry Webb.

This being the only wedding she could ever have in her immediate family—Webb being an only child—his mother was urging Kay to be a real bride. She must be smartly married in the cathedral with several hundred guests present. Mrs. Taylor promised to attend to everything, if Kay would carry out her wishes. She wanted to assist in Kay's trousseau shopping, she wanted to entertain lavishly for her. She was all excitement and radiant happiness over her son's choice, so relieved that at last—at thirty, to be exact—he was to settle down and be a responsible family man. For years, she had hoped and prayed for this and finally become reconcilled to its never-happening. But now her son had miraculously been accepted by the right girl, and she must lavish her affection and gratitude upon her.

It made Kay inwardly rebellious. This would be a perfect setting for a bride who actually loved this woman's son. But for one who didn't it was a torture. However, Kay acquiesced in all but one plan. She refused to stay in Taylor's Deweyton home or in any of their other homes in various parts of the country. She must have one niche where she could find complete seclusion for hours at a stretch or she would not be able to endure Webb's society or that of any member of his family with good grace. She could find this seclusion only in her old home, saved for her by Horace Peek, and so there she insisted upon remaining.

Jinnie Stout, her old nurse, was now housekeeper here and, Kay often thought, understood her far better than Cora ever had. Jinnie had been with the Milsltroms ever since Cora was first married and considered herself, and indeed was, almost a member of its inner circle.

Kay had let Aimee go, after finding her a position with Ann Sledge, an old friend. She didn't need a personal maid now that Jinnie always giving parties, people were dropping in for cocktails, and unexpected guests were arriving at inconvenient time. Now, Kay encouraged none of this.

The house often seemed a lonely, empty place without the black-haired, bright-eyed Cora flitting restessly about. But when Kay remembered Cora's intense dislike of Webb, she could manage to endure the gloom of the many uninhabited rooms because she must finally marry Webb.

The first of October rushed upon Kay like a calamity. Always before she had loved the fall, loved the feel of the spicy cool air in her nostrils, the jewel—like gleam of fiery-colored foliage. Always before she had taken a delighted interest in selecting a new wardrobe befitting the daughter of one of Deweyton's wealthiest families.

This was usually the time of the year when Cora and she were returning from a hectic summer spent in going around the world, or from the Alps, or from one of their several summer homes; or from Paris and its environs, where they had mingled with famous painters, musicians, writers; or feted spatted, butonniered members of a decadent nobility who were ogling the Millstrom fortune and herself who went with it. She refused their repeated offers of marriage, declaring that a real American man was what she would eventually choose. Well—she had chosen one! She had done it — and ruined her whole life.

When she considered herself she could not imagine what had happened. She seemed to have changed into an exotic, temperamental some one, a stranger even to herself. The slump in her financial affairs surely was not entirely responsible for all this. It was that elusive factor called love. She was begining to realize that love could alter personalty to such an extent that all days and most of the nights dragged out in miserable tempo. It was even miserable to be alive, and impossible to rise above her own despondency.

What was not confusing to Kay now was perplexing. Everything was different. Financially, she was cared for by her mother's fine new husband, she had become involved in a murder mystery, she was about to marry a man whom she detested so thoroughly she could scarcely treat him civilly.

She wrote to Cora repeatedly endeavouring to make her believe that this marriage with Webb was what was best. Yet what good reason could she advance for this peculiar decision of hers? It must seem not only peculiar to her mohter, but calamitious. She couldn't write Cora that she was in love with Webb, and she dared not write her the truth. She was torn between love for her mother and love for Chuck. These two persons dearest to her she must hurt cruelly, in order to save one of them from disaster? She had asked herself this, over and over again. The answer seemed to swing high above her grasp, too lofty for her mind to touch.

One month more! One month and she would be married to Webb! Her heart ached with the burden of her intense disavowal of love. It would never stop aching, she knew. She went out, here and there, with Mrs. Taylor pretending to enjoy herself, acting her part. Days when she could no longer live up to being Webb's fiancee, she shut herself up at home, refusing to see any one. Jinnie was marvelous. She kept strict guard over her young mistress during these times, allowed no one to disturb her.

Kay spent much of herself in sobbing, long and bitterly. She would come out of these spells looking thin and wan. Jinnie would say nothing, but fetch hot milk, plan nourishing meals with the cook, see that Kay ate them, petting her like an infant.

Kay had not seen Chuck Nourse since returning home. He seemed to be paying strict attention to the new factory. What he did with his evenings, no one mentioned to her. She knew that he was not going about with Adele Sanders, because Adele was now patently enamored with the new young doctor in town and seen everywhere with him.

Webb was acting like a man who had accomplished big things. If he had discovered a new world, he couldn't have been better pleased with himself. His father was giving him a wedding present of a substantial sum of money, enough to keep a wife in befitting luxury.

It meant that he would never be obligeu to work another day in his life, and Webb hated work. He and Kay could play together from country to country. His existence from now on was to be an eternal holiday. He was getting the woman he wanted, and he would force her into loving him, as easily as he was forcing her into giving him her marriage vows. It was a rosy arrangement —for Webb Taylor.

Mrs Taylor gushed and gurgled over the beautiful new clothes she helped Kay to select. Cora had at last sent her daughter a large check to cover this added expense, but done so against her best judgment. Kay, sick at heart, was obliged to accept this further kindness from the South American or the Taylors would insist upon showering her with even more. She preferred, for some indecipherable reason, to be indepted to her mother's husband. Later, she might find a way to reimburse him.

In the smart Deweyton shop where she ordered her wardrobe, Kay luckily found a model who was her exact build. All the new gowns were draped and fitted on this girl, saving Kay many tiresome hours of standing. Even the wedding gown was made and fitted to the model. Kay felt that she couldn't put that on until it was absolutely necessary.

But the day did arrive when Kay must give her trousseau final inspection, when she must try on all her new clothes. Mrs. Taylor accompanied her to the shop and Kay meekly allowed her opinion to be in accord with that of the older woman. What did it matter? She wasn't interested, she took no pleasure in appraising the array of exquisite silks satins and laces, in the shimmering velvets and fur trimmings made up into wedding garments.

It was when she put on her wedding gown and stood before the full—length mirror, gazing at her reflection that panic overcame her. She saw a slim figure closely wrapped in heavy ivory satin, a tulle veil extending the length of the long satin train.

RHEUMATIC PAINS

Here is a medicine made specially to help you

Tackle those rheumatic pains NOW—do not delay. You must remember that rheumatic pains may be warnings of impurities left in the system. They may have been left there because the kidneys are not working properly. The kidneys play a very important part in the well-being of the general system as a whole and it may well be that they have become sluggish—partially fallen down on their job. You must help those kidneys before the condition gets chronic, and a way to do it is by using a remedy made specially for them. De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills act directly on the kidneys, soothing and aiding them in their vital task of helping to rid the system of excess acid and other pain-causing impurities. For over half a century sufferers have filled the De Witt files with world-wide and grateful testimony to this trusted family remedy for joint and rheumatic pains, backache and bladder disorders.

De Witt's Pills are sold at drug stores everywhere. Prices 60 cents (40 pills), LARGE SIZE $1.00 (100 pills).

Michael to Ask Permission To be Married

Lausanne, Switzerland, Dec. 6 — (AP) — Maj. Jacques Vergotti, private secretary to King Michael of Romania, said the King soon would ask the Bucharest government for permission to marry Princess Anne of Bourbon-Parma.

Vergotti indignantly denied a London press-report that the Romanion government already had forbidden the marriage as the result of a Russian veto.

He described the London report, which appeared in the Daily Graphic, as a "stupid, malicious story" designed to disrupt relations between King Michael and the Romanian government.

"It is quite true that the government must sanction the marriage," Vergotti declared, "but the King has not yet given any notion of his intention and will not do so for a few days."

NorthernReevesOpposeBy-law To Restrict Cutting Certain Trees, Matter is Laid Over

A by-law to restrict the cutting of certain trees in the County of Hastings met with stern opposition from several northern reeves at the closing session of council on Friday afternoon.

Lengthy discussion followed the reading of the by-law and the men from the north stood almost solidly for "no action." The by-law was eventually laid over for further discussion at the January session of council.

The by-law also called for the appointment of officers to enforce the provisions of any by-laws passed under the Trees Conservation Act.

It stated:

1. Except for dead, broken, stunted, fire-damaged, diseased or insect infested trees and other trees that should be removed to improve growing conditions (such as thinnings and improvement cuttings) no White or Red pine of a diameter of less than 13 inches measured at 2 feet from the ground or no White spruce of a diameter of less than 10 inches measured at 2 feet from the ground or no Hard maple, Yellow birch, basswood and oak of a diameter of less than 8 inches measured at 2 feet from the ground, shall be cut by any person within the County of Hastings.

2. The cutting of Christmas trees from naturally reproduced stands of White spruce or balsam or White or Red pine shall only be done as a thinning operation and one healthy tree of the species removed shall be left in each 100 square feet of the area.

3. Where in the opinion of the Trees Conservation Commission special circumstances exist which warrant the cutting of trees other than specified hereinbefore, the said Commission may authorize the cutting of such trees.

4. In cutting or removing trees, no person shall conduct his operations as to unnecessarily injure or damage any young trees adjacent thereto.

5. On all operations where there is or may be danger of fire, all coniferous tops must be lopped so as to lie flat on the ground to hasten decay and reduce fire hazard.

6. When the above regulations would result in clear cutting of woodlands within 100 feet of any provincial, county or township road or any lake or river within the County of Hastings, such cutting must be approved by a commissioner appointed under this by-law.

7. This by-law shall not:

(a) interfere with the right of the occupant of land to cut trees thereon for his own use;

(b) interfere with any rights or powers conferred upon a municipality by the Municipal Act;

(c) interfere with any rights or powers of The Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario or of any other board or commission which is performing its functions for or on behalf of the government of Ontario;

(d) apply to trees growing upon any highway or upon any opened road allowance; or

(e) apply to trees growing in a woodlot having an area of not exceeding two acres.

8. Any person who violates the provisions of this by-law shall be guilty of an offence and liable to a penalty of not exceeding $500. or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months.

9. There is hereby established and constituted as officers to enforce the provisions of this by-law a commission of five members to be known as the Trees Conservation Commission of the County of Hastings to be appointed by resolution of the council and to hold office during the pleasure of the council at a remuneration for each member thereof of $8.00 per day while engaged on the duties of the commission.

Moved No Action

Reeve David Mawson, Limerick, immediately moved that no action be taken on the by-law and he was strongly supported by Reeve Jas. H. Sprackett, of Tudor and Cashel. Reeve Charles Rush, Hungerford, urged that the by-law be "shelved" for the time being, and should not be given such harsh treatment as suggested.

"People in my municipality are very bitter against this by-low, for it affects those who make their living from timberlands" Reeve Sprackett said. Reeve R. T. Adams, Dungannon suggested that northern reeves take copies of the by-law home with them and discuss it fully with their township councils before January session.

"This is a poor piece of business in my opinion", Reeve J. McKenzie, Faraday said. "What is the sense of buying land for reforestation purposes and let the natural growth be destroyed."

Reeve Rush was of the opinion that a lot of people are hostile to new laws when they first come out, but later there is not so much sting in the laws after people become educated to them. He felt there were a lot of good clauses in the proposed by-law which people will like. He reminded council that there were a lot of barren spots in the county today because of wild cutting years ago.

Bald Spots Due to Fire

Reeve Sprackett stated that the many bald spots apparent in the county were not a result of cutting but of fire. He claimed the areas which were cut years ago are now growing up and reforesting themselves as long as fire is kept out. There will always be timber if reasonable care is taken into consideration.

"I do not see why this council should not pass this by-law" Reeve Harry Harrison, Thurlow, said. "It was shelved last June, was re-written and it seems to me to be all right now."

Referring to enforcement officers, Reeve Mawson told council that not one case in ten would "stick". Yet these jobs done by the suggested five commissioners must be paid for.

"That depends a lot on the type of commissioners," Deputy Reeve Seldon Honan said. "They should resort to educational lines and not show the teeth of the by-law too much. The motion to lay the by-law over till January carried.

Picton

Jury Verdict In Driving Case Is 'Not Guilty'

Picton — A jury verdict of not guilty was returned in Quarter Sessions court here yesterday following a four-day hearing into a charge of dangerous driving preferred against Ray Carson. The charge arose out of the death of Basil Jenkins, who died of injuries suffered when struck by a car driven by Carson. Evidence was given to show that lights on Jenkins' car had failed and that he had parked at the side of the highway. While at the rear of the car repairing wiring, a car driven by Carson crashed into the rear of it, and pinned Jenkins between the two cars

The Crown charged that Carson was driving at an excessive rate of speed and did not have his car under control. Defence was that Carson was driving at a proper rate of speed and that the immediate cause of the accident was the fact that Jenkins had parked his car on the highway without lights and without any warning.

Twenty witnesses were called. Following the verdict, His Honor Judge W. S. Lane, who presided, stated that he agreed with the verdict of the jury.

County Tuberculosis Free Area

Word was received at the Agricultural office here yesterday that Prince Edward County is again a tuberculin-free area for cattle. Prince Edward was the first county in Canada to become such an area but lack of inspectors in wartime resulted in tests not being carried out and the record lapsed. This summer, retests of cattle were made with few reactors. This fact means a great deal to the county as such areas are favored by those wishing to export cattle to the United States. Last year more than 3,000 head of cattle were exported. It is also expected that there will be a premium paid for cattle from this area.

SAYS PARKING FINES TOO HIGH

London, Ont., Dec. 6 — (CP) — According to L. R. Eddy of London, Canadian motorists are being gypped when they pay overtime parking fines. He said that when h sic when his car was tagged in Mendota, Ill. for parking overtime, he paid a 15 cent fine at the police station as compared to the $1 charge here.

U.K. TO SURRENDER PALESTINE MANDATE MAY 15

Eight Jews, Arab Killed as Bitter Strife Continues

Members of Arab League Hold Conference in Cairo

By JOSEPH C. GOODWIN

Jerusalem, Dec. 8 (AP)—Eight Jews and an Arab died today in bitter, continuing communal strife over the partition of Palestine while both sides intensified mobilization for the expected showdown.

Unofficial tallies show 91 persons have been killed in nine days in wrangles over the future of the country, which Britain said she intends to quit as mandate power next May 15.

Five Jews were killed and a number of Arab stores and houses were set afire in a renewal of the fighting on the border between Jewish Te Aviv and Arab Jaffa.

A British policeman was killed in Haifa tonight. It was announced he was shot by unknown persons while dismounting from a police armored car.

Yehoshua Bloberman, a prominent officer of the underground Hagana defence force, was reported to have been killed when the motor convoy in which he was travelling was attacked. An Arab, stabbed in Tel Aviv two days ago while breaking curfew died of injuries. Another Jew was killed by gunfire and another was stabbed to death.

Numerous Jews and Arabs were wounded in sporatic exchanges of automatic weapons and small arms fire in various parts of the country.

Seven Jews and an Arab were killed during the night.

Sharing the spotlight with the situation in Palestine were developments in Cairo, where leaders of the seven member powers of the Arab League met to decide steps to oppose implementation of the partitioning plan.

Some observers thought that the meeting might fix a zero hour for a general Arab uprising throughout the Middle East.

Crows of Arabs were reported lining up before "recruiting centres" in all middle eastern countries, and in Palestine the Jewish press called Jewish youths to register for security duty at registration places which will be opened tomorrow.

Irgun Zvai Leumi, extreme underground group, indicated that it was ready to unite with the more moderate Hagana in the event of an open Arab-Jewish war.

FOUR OFFICERS, CITIZEN HELD FOR POACHING

Men Captured After Wild Chase Through Algonquin Park

Toronto, Dec. 8,—(CP)— Four police officers and a citizen of Bracebridge, Ont., face charges of shooting deer illegally in the game preserve of Ontario's Algonquin Park, it was announced Saturday. One accused, Provincial Constable W. Burns of Bracebridge, has been suspended from the force pending outcome of trial of the charges at Pembroke.

G. H. R. Phillips, park superintendent, said in a telephone interview today that other charges may be laid against the party. An inspector of the Criminal Investigation Branch of the Provincial Police has been assigned to the investigation.

Charged besides Constable Burns are: Chief Constable G. Bishton of Bracebridge, Night Constable G. Taylor of Huntsville, Constable W. Cudmore of Bracebridge and W. Troull of Bracebridge.

Superintendent Phillips said Rangers captured the men Monday nuight after a wild chase of the two cars in which they were travelling over park roads. The men were brought before him and Mr. Phillips said they could give no satisfactory explanation of their presence in the park or of blood and deer hairs found on the back seats of the cars.

Four Carcasses Found

He said further search along the roads of the chase — which see-sawed between barriers and gates in the 50-by-80 mile park for most of the night — revealed the carcasses of four deer. One of the animals was said to be a "tame" deer which frequented Killarney Lodge grounds at Lake of Two Rivers.

Mr. Phillips said the men put up $50 with a park wildlife officer as a quarantee they would appear to answer charges against them.

Residents of the Huntsville-Algonquin Park area are reported demanding a full investigation of alleged poaching and Mr. Phillips promised that a thorough probe would be made.

"We are determined to stop poaching in the park," he declared. Algonquin Park lies north of Halliburton County and northeast of Renfrew.

Mayor Frank Kelly of Huntsville said the town council would deal with the accusations against Constable Taylor next Monday.

The Bracebridge officers told their council last Thursday they were in the park "on police business."

G.M.C. Cancels Sales Franchise

Detroit, Dec. 8 (CP) — General Motors Corporation has cancelled the franchise of Hacquoil Buick sales, the world's second largest Buick dealer, on charges of diverting new cars to used car lots it was learned today.

The cancellation means loss of thousands of dollars of business to Clarence J. Hacquoil, president of the firm, who is awaiting trial on charges of sales tax evasion.

Judge W. McKay Skillman's probe of new-used car rackets in Detroit accused Hacquoil of selling "upwards of 38" new Buicks directly to Fred Ford, a used car dealer, at an extra profit averaging $500 on each automobile. Hacquoil paid no sales tax on the extra profit, Skillman charged.

Judge Skillman said a similar agreement existed between Hacquoil and Jerry Lynch, another used car dealer, who is also among 11 persons charged as a result of the judge's report.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto, Dec. 8 (CP)—Synopsis: An intense storm over the Kirkland Lake Region continues to move rapidly northeastward. Colder air pushing in from the northwest following this storm will reach the eastern limits of Ontario early this afternoon and temperatures will drop steadily during the day. Storm warnings are displayed on all lakes.

WEST SHOWDOWN SEEN ON GERMAN ECONOMIC UNITY

Molotov is Expected To Make New Move

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

London, Dec. 8 — (AP) — The Big Four Foreign Ministers conference entered its third and probably climactic week today with Britain, the United States, and France preparing to force a prompt showdown with Russia over German economic unity.

Soviet Minister Molotov, however, appeared to be ready with a new move of his own — a long-expected demand that a German delegation chosen by the communist-sponsored "German People's Congress" in Berlin be given a hearing by the Big Four on its views of Germany's future.

On the western side a tightening of French policy on Germany with that of Britain and the United States was indicated with the return here from Paris of John Foster Dulles, adviser to State Secretary Marshall.

Dulles said that the result of his trip, during which he conferred with French government leaders and Gen. De Gaulle, was "most satisfactory."

Solidarity of Western Powers

Dulles is an advocate of complete solidarity among the Western Powers in relation to Russia and the German problem.

Foreign Minister Bidault of France has worked closely with Marshall and Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain in the conference here. There has been some uncertainty on the part of American leaders, however, as to how far France would go in merging her German occupation zone with those of the United States and Britain if the four powers fail to agree on Germany. Dulles presumably sought an answer to that question in Paris. Two issues overshadowed the London meeting as the ministers scheduled resumption of their sessions today after the Sunday recess.

Two Problems

1. Can Russia and the western powers find any basis for actually negotiating such practical questions as the removal of zonal boundaries in Germany? They were unable to agree Saturday even on how they should go about tackling the problem.

2. If they cannot find such a basis, on which side will the responsibility fall for failure of the conference?

Marshall is expected to press Molotov for answers on three questions: Whether the Soviet minister still insists on $10,000,000,000 in reparations from Germany, how he thinks the German people could pay such a sum, and whether he will lay before the council a comprehensive proposal for Germany's economic unity.

The tentative opinion of the American delegation is that if Molotov will not answer these questions there is not much point in going on with the conference, but it remains to be seen under what circumstances Marshall would take the initiative in breaking it off.

Common Cold Studied in Britain On Largest Scale Ever Attempted

By FRANCES DENNIX

Salisbury, Wiltshire, England, Dec. 8 —(Reuters)— A virus too small to be seen through the most powerful microscope in Britain is causing the common cold.

This has been discovered by the British Government's common cold research unit, set up 18 months to carry out experiments never before attempted on such a scale.

After tests of 500 volunteers—honeymoon couples, students and office workers anxious for a holiday and rest at Government expense — research has found, by the use of special filters, that the virus is 1/10,000th of a millimetre in size. It also has been discovered that it can withstand freezing at temperatures as low as 94 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

The two problems the unit has set out to solve are the exact nature of the virus causing the cold, and how colds are transmitted from one person to another.

The human guinea pig has a 10-day rest at Harvard Hospital here with three shillings a day pocket money. The only disadvantages he is required to put up with are isolation in pairs, nose drops believed to contain cold virus, and the possibility that he will be the one in every three who will develop the common cold. But the colds are not serious.

If the volunteers like the job they can come back again after six months and, according to the Ministry of Health, there are many Britons who have found it such a satisfactory holiday that they have promptly filled out new applications forms.

Other proposals, as indicated on the map above, include the setting up of a unified command in the Atlantic area with Admiral H. P. Blandy, commander of the Atlantic fleet, in authority over army, navy and air forces from Iceland and Greenland to the Caribbean. Prompt ratification of the hemisphere defence treaty between North and South America has been urged by Senator Arthur Vandenberg. Defence zone (indicated by dotted lines) would range from pole to pole.

Attorney-General's Dept. Orders Second Autopsy On Body of Jean Badgley

Toronto, Dec. 8 (CP)—An order to exhume the body of Marion Jean Badgley, 25-year-old blonde secretary found shot through the head in her Frankford, Ont., home eight days ago, was issued today by the Attorney-General's Department.

A second autopsy will be performed by Prof. W. L. Robinson, consultant pathologist with the Attorney-General's Department.

"This is one of those cases where the findings of the first pathologist may be questionable," a department official said.

He referred to the earlier autopsy conducted last week, and added that "the doctor who performed the autopsy and, perhaps, the coroner did not realize the significance" of a fractured bone in the girl's neck.

She was found dying on the floor of the Badgley summer kitchen with a bullet wound in her head and a .22 calibre rifle nearby.

An inquest will be held Dec. 18.

A 28-year-old Frankford man, accused of window-peeking and held at the Belleville jail since investigation started, has been eliminated from the case by Inspector W. Franks of the Criminal Investigation Branch.

No Official Statement

However, provincial police here and Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, have as yet made no official statement on the case. Investigation of the death is now in charge of Inspector Wilford Franks, of the Criminal Investigation Department of the Ontario Provincial Police who visited Frankford last week and has now returned to Toronto.

Frankford, Dec. 8.—(CP)—One week after blonde Jean Badgley was shot through the head while her parents attended church, police intensified their investigations into the pretty private secretary's death tonight following reports that an autopsy showed she may also have been strangled.

Crown officials broke their close-mouthed secrecy Saturday to disclose that the autopsy showed a broken bone in the girl's neck. Coroner Russell Scott described this as "very slight evidence" that she was strangled. The bullet from the rifle found by her side might equally well have been the cause of death.

But the theory that the bullet was fired to cover up a strangler's work was more acceptable to this Eastern Ontario village of some 1,100 persons, who, like the girl's father, early rejected the suggestion that the fun-loving 25-year-old girl committed suicide.

The Coroner said the autopsy made by Dr. C. B. Waite of Peterborough, last Monday, disclosed a broken thyroid bone. It showed no evidence that this neck bone was broken by external pressure nor did it show the girl was attacked. But the evidence was enough to send Inspector Wilford Franks of the Ontario Provincial Police scurrying to Toronto to confere with the Attorney-General's Department.

Police Chief Edmund McGeachey, of Frankford, said there was no sign of a scuffle in any part of the house, and close neighbors had heard no disturbance.

Jean was visiting her parents here for the weekend when the tragedy occurred. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Badgley, said she waved goodbye when they left for evening church service last Sunday. About an hour later the body was found in the Summer kitchen of their home by a neighbor, Harold Hagerman, 28, who called to drive her to Belleville.

Chief McGeachey said an early theory of suicide was contradicted when no powder burns were found around the right temple, where the bullet entered the girl's head. He said there was a "remote possibility" the 22-calibre rifle, which belonged to her father, could have discharged accidentally.

Pilot Officer Pleads Innocence

London, Dec. 8 — (Reuters) — Pilot Officer William Cavendish-Bentinck, 23, son of the former British Ambassador to Poland and godson of Queen Elizabeth, pleaded innocent today at a court martial to charges of "scandalous behaviour unbecoming to the character of an officer and a gentleman."

The charges said that early Nov. 12 Cavendish-Bentinck was found clad in his undershirt in his sleeping quarters at an aircraft station. Mavis Bannister, a member of the Women's Air Forces, was lying partly undressed on his bed, it was alleged.

The prosecution contended that one of Cavendish-Bentinck's duties was to look after the physical and moral welfare of the men and women at the station. He misapplied the trust, the prosecution charged, adding that parents were entitled to assume their daughters would be protected.

SEVEN BURNED IN FIRE

Mansfield, O., Dec. 8 —(AP)— This was to have been the "best ever" Christmas for the family of Warnie Rice, one of 400 employees who shared in a $50,000 Yule bonus.

But today Rice, his wife and five of their six children were dead, victims of a fire yesterday which destroyed their apartment as they slept.

Firemen said an overheated wood kitchen stove probably caused the fire.

ONE ARRESTED, FIVE FLEE AFTER OFFICER WOUNDED

Gunmen Surprised in Trying to Rob Store

Kitchener, Dec. 8 — (CP) — Lorne Morgan Burns, 35, of Toronto, was remanded until Friday today on charges of shooting with intent to maim and breaking and entering. Burns was arrested following a gun battle in the Woolworth store here last night in which police constable Richard Cowan was wounded in the leg.

Five other men who police said participated in the battle, escaped.

Hospital officials said today that Constable Cowan was not seriously hurt, the bullet having gone through the fleshy part of his leg without striking any bones. He was also suffering from shock.

W. S. Marshall, manager of the store, and his assistant Earl Palmer entered the establishment Sunday night and Marshall was immediately surrounded by the six men but Palmer ran out the front door shouting for help. Police Constable Cowan and Constable Harold Ulmer went to the rear of the store and entered by the back door.

As the constables entered they were greeted with a burst of gunfire and Cowan dropped with a leg wound. Ulmer pushed on in and said he spotted Burns firing from behind a counter. The constable fired a shot over the man's head and shouted to drop his gun, which he did. While placing the man under arrest the constable said the five others fled on foot, leaping over a board fence.

Ten Shots Fired

About 10 shots were fired in the exchange before the man who gave his name as Burns surrendered and the others disappeared. The counter was riddled with bullets and some glass was broken.

Later a car with a Quebec licence was discovered on a parking lot and police said they recovered burglars' tools. The gang escaped with a small amount of cash from a cash drawer but did not have time to break open the safe which they had moved to the rear of the store after breaking through the roof.

Police of neighboring communities were put on the alert and Hamilton police said the believed the car used by the gang had been stolen in Hamilton. Toronto police reported the address given by the arrested man was that of a cheap rooming house on downtown York Street and that the man was not known there.

The possibility was seen that the bandits might have escaped in a car reported stolen in Kitchener during the night. The stolen car, a black 1946-model coupe, carried the licence number 94P45.

Suspect "Numbers Gang"

Toronto, Dec. 8 (CP) — The smooth-operating 'numbers gang' blamed for a number of Ontario bank robberies a few months ago, may have been responsible for the wounding of a police constable in a shooting affray after six men were surprised in a

Will Withdraw Troops from Jewish Areas This Month

Suggests Independent States Come Into Existence June 1

London, Dec. 8 (AP)— Britain has informed the United Nations she intends to surrender her Palestine mandate May 15, government sources reported today.

Britain suggested that independent Arab and Jewish states come into existence June 1, after a two-week transition period.

The same informants said the British government had authorized creation of Arab and Jewish civic guard organizations to maintain law and order in key Holy Land areas to gradual concentration of all British troops in evacuation "beachheads" around Haifa.

British troops are to be withdrawn from the Jewish areas of Tel Aviv, Petah Tiqva and Ramat Gan this month, it was said.

Meanwhile this countries diplomatic representatives are continuing negotiations with Trans-Jordan to obtain units of Arab Legion to police strategically-important parts of Arab Palestine including oil pipeline and installation areas. Formation of the Arab Legion already are in the Holy Land.

It was emphasized that the British plan for handing over power to Arabs and Jews was subject to approval of the United Nations commission of five nations. This commission would set up the provincial governments during the proposed two-week transition.

Britain's final deadline for evacuation of her troops will remain Aug. 1, which was the limit originally set for surrender of her mandate.

Concentrated Gradually

The sources said British troops would be concentrated gradually at evacuation "beachheads" around Haifa.

Meantime, it was learned the cabinet has instructed Sir Alexander Cadogan, top British United Nations representative, to inform the five-state U.N. Palestine commission that Britain proposes surrender her Holy Land mandate next May 15.

A colonial office spokesman declared that the High Commissioner in the Holy Land, Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham, has been told to go ahead this month with the evacuation of Tel Aviv, Petah Tikvah and Ramat Gan, three key Jewish-populated areas.

Local Jewish authorities, empowered to create an armed civic guard, would assume responsibility for maintaining peace there, once British forces withdrew.

Creation of a Jewish guard did not automatically imply British recognition of Hagana, the Jewish Defence Army, the spokesman added, but it was more than likely the civic guard would be based on the Hagana organization.

The spokesman said he understands a complimentary plan has been worked out for certain Arab areas.

'WARNING STRIKE' GOVT. WORKERS DUBIOUS SUCCESS

Communist - Dominated Labor Union Suffers Sharp Setback

Paris, Dec. 8 —(AP)— The Communist - dominated General Confederation of Labor (C.G.T.) suffered a sharp setback today when a two-day strike of Paris subway and bus workers, scheduled to begin this morning, apparently collapsed.

At the same time a five-day "warning strike" of government workers, called by the C.G.T. in an attempt to pull approximately 1,200,000 civil servants off their jobs, met with dubious success.

The strike started for some groups of government employees last Friday and was due to extend to all departments, but government officials declared their offices were functioning normally.

A spokesman for the Paris transport system said the subway and bus strike had been called off by the union because it was "a failure."

Headquarters of the C.G.T. affiliate which called the strike confirmed that it had been "annulled," but did not say why.

The strike vote had been carried by a strong majority of union members at a closed meeting last night after a central strike committee composed of C.G.T. members rejected Premier Robert Schuman's offer of a cost-of-living money indemnity for workers.

Public transportation workers holding members in two other union groups had opposed the work stoppage, called by the Discovery of 45-Foot Skeleton Revives Talk of Caddy, Sea Monster

Vancouver, Dec. 8 — Fishermen who have had their veracity doubted and swimmers who have been viewed with suspicion over reports of seeing a sea monster "that long," today were saying "I told you so."

For it looks as if Caddy, long a legend on the Pacific coast, is dead. Of if it isn't Caddy, it's a first cousin.

A skeleton, more than 45 feet in length, with a skull measuring 12 inches across and closely resembling a horse or camel, has been found by four fishermen of Vernon Bay, B. C., on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

The monster's vertebrae consists of 145 sections, measuring six inches in width and tapering down to 1½ inches at the tail.

It was found wedged in the rocks at the water's edge between Useless Inlet and Effingham on Nov. 2. However, the four men had to tend their nets and it was not until last week that they could take part of it to Port Alberni, B. C., in the Dana, their tiny fishing vessel.

Owing to its size, the skeleton had to be transported in sections, and now is on display.

Caddy's read name is — or was —Cadborosaurus, taken from his favorite stamping-ground of Cadborg Bay, Vancouver Island.

In 1943, reports of his death circulated when Ernest Lee, skipper of a sturdy fishing boat, reported ramming a monster off Vancouver Island twice, adding that it sank below the surface and "didn't rise again."

He was sighted off lonely Point Estevan in April, 1946, the same year that a Japanese submarine shelled the lighthouse there and superstitious fishermen said it was actually Caddy the warship was firing at, mistaking the weird monster for a secret weapon.

City and District News

RAIN REMOVES MUCH OF SNOW

Winter's immaculate white mantle of the past few days was converted into a grey slushy mass following Sunday night's rising temperatures accompanied by a drizzling rain.

City residents wakened this morning to find black patches of earth dotting the hitherto snowy brilliancy of the landscape. Slush inches deep covered pavements and streets in the city and early morning workers plowed through the watery mass which in places reached their ankles.

Water ran in rivulets down city hills, and pedestrians who braved street crossings during heavy traffic were plentifully sprinkled with icy slush.

But, according to the weather man the "mild spell" is short-lived. He predicts colder weather tomorrow with snow.

TRUCK, CAR DAMAGED

Damage amounting to over $500 resulted to two vehicles Saturday afternoon when they were in collision on Coleman Street. Bernard LaPalm; Coleman Street, driver for Moira Fuels, was driving north on Coleman Street when in turning out to pass a car proceeding in the same direction his truck was in collision with a southbound vehicle driven by Harold Robinson, Deseronto.

Damage to the Robinson car amounted to $500 with the radiator and grill of the truck also being damaged. No one was injured.

ROTARY REPORTS $700 REGATTA PROFIT

Directors of the Rotary Club here at a special meeting decided to entertain blind guests and their escorts on December 29th., and will furnish transportation for them. They also heard a report from Rotarian Ken Reid on the 1947 regatta held off Massassaga Point, which, the report revealed showed a net profit of $700.

Other business included a grant of $25 to the Girl Guides and gifts for speakers of the future.

BLAZE IN COALSHED EASILY EXTINQUISHED

Believed to have been caused from sparks, fire burned a small hole in the roof of Lynch's coal shed near the C.P.R. tracks this morning. Firemen were called to the scene and found the roof of the coal shed blazing with some of the embers having dropped through to the coke stored in the building. The blaze was quickly extinguished with the use of the small hose.

Claim $61,063.75 For Internment

Montreal, Dec. 8 —(CP)— Claims for damages totalling $61,063.75 were contained in two more petitions filed in Exchequer Court in Ottawa by Salustre Lavery, K.C., on behalf of two Montrealers interned during the war.

The petitions bring to eight the total of such claims, said by Mr. Lavery to be the forerunners of more than 100 requests from the Montreal district. He said he had been approached by 32 Canadian citizens and 72 persons of foreign origin who had been interned.

These two claims are in the name of Henri Norbert Bernier, a plumber ,and Nordocci Tuccie, a former tramway employee. Bernier is demanding $41,563.75 and Tuccio, $18,500.

They claim that the R.C.M.P. raided their homes and arrested them; that they were treated as common prisoners at the Montreal jail, before being interned without and specific complain against them, and without ever appearing before a legally constituted court of justice.

The damages sought are for lost wages, humiliation, loss of property and hardship to their families.

ENLARGE IMMIGRATION PLANS SAYS DREW

Toronto, Dec. 8 — (CP)—Premier Drew told the 17th annual meeting of the Toronto Railway Club Saturday night Ontario would enlarge its immigration plans. He said the province would continue to bring in "more of the right class of people" and asserted Canada had space and opportunity for a larger population.

MRS. SARAH JANE MASON

Ill for the past six weeks, Mrs. Sarah Jane Mason, 5 Grove St., died in Belleville General Hospital late Sunday evening.

Born sixty years ago at Egan Creek in North Hastings, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter VanAllen, Mrs. Mason had lived in Belleville for the past 39 years. formerly living in Springbrook. Her husband, George W. Mason, died some time ago. She was a member of Tabernacle United Church.

Surviving her are two daughters, Mrs. James McLuskie and Mrs. C. A. Brown of Belleville, and two sons, Clarence Mason and Lawrence Mason, also of Belleville. There are two sisters, Mrs. W. A. Lickner of Nelson B.C., and Mrs. John McLeod of Belleville, and one brother L. C. VanAllen of Toronto. There are seven grandchildren.

The funeral announcement is elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. MARY A. (WRAGG) ROY
(Hamilton-Belleville)

Mrs. Mary A. Roy, widow of Robert Maitland Roy, died at her home, 143 Markland Street, Hamilton, on Sunday. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Wragg, prominent residents of Belleville many years ago. The family lived on William Street, adjoining Corby Park and were members of St. Thomas Church. Old friends here will regret to learn of Mrs. Roy's death

The funeral announcement is made in this edition.

ARTHUR A. WENSLEY
(Formerly of Belleville)

Arthur A. Wensley, a well known resident of this city many years ago, died recently at Nutley, N. J. He was born here and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Victor Wensley. His mother's maiden name was Margaret Merrin and her family lived here for some years and later in Kingston. During the years Arthur Wensley lived here he was a member of Christ Church. Old friends will regret to learn of his death.

Surviving him are his wife, the former Frances Craig; one son, Victor Wensley of Baltimore, Md., and one daughter, Mrs. John (Edna) Jobes of Ridgewood, N.J. Mr. W. R. [illegible] Wensley, 267 Bleecker Avenue, this city, is an uncle of the late Arthur Wensley.

Appeal Expected In Boyer Case

Montreal, Dec. 8 (CP)—An appeal is expected to be inscribed this week by Dr. Raymond Boyer against his conviction Saturday by a Court of King's Bench jury on a charge of conspiracy to violate the Official Secrets Act.

The guilty verdict was returned shortly after 6 p.m. Saturday and Boyer's $15,000 bail was immediately cancelled and he was taken to provincial police cells pending his transfer to Bordeaux jail Tuesday.

Counsel for the former McGill University professor said Saturday that they would seek to appeal and that they would also ask for bail pending hearing of this appeal, probably next spring.

Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure, who presided over the two-week trial postponed sentence until the end of the present term of the Criminal Assizes.

The jury found the wealthy wartime explosives research expert guilty of having conspired with Fred Rose, former Labor Progressive member of parliament, and others, to communicate information illegally to Russia.

Rose is now serving a six-year penitentiary term after having been convicted of a similar offense. Evidence showed that Boyer gave information about the Secret Wartime Explosive RDX to Rose who in turn gave it to Russian agents.

This was Boyer's third trial on this accusation. Illness of a juror necessitated discharge of the first jury while the second jury failed to agree on a verdict after a lengthy trial last March.

Boyer was the eighth Canadian to be convicted after the sensational disclosure two years ago by Igor Gouzenko, Russian Embassy clerk that a network of espionage agents directed by Moscow was operating in Canada.

1,000 HOMELESS BY FIRE

Tokyo, Dec. 8 — (AP) — Fire Sunday destroyed 70 buildings in Miyazaki, Southeastern Honshu, including the city hall and chamber of commerce, the Kyodo news agency reported. It said about 1,000 persons were homeless.

Son Meets Parents After 22 Years Of Separation

Reunion of a Royal Air Force hero and his parents after twenty-two years of separation took place at the Canadian National Railways station here, the other day, when Mr. and Mrs. Robert Findlay and two tiny sons, Brian Robert, eighteen months, and James Garry, six months, of Scotland, met their parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Findlay of Wellington. Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Findlay and their family left Prestwick, Scotland, aboard a Swedish aircraft, arriving in New York 22 hours later after stopping at Iceland and Gander. They entrained at New York for Toronto by way of Buffalo but ran into considerable difficulty in changing money.

After speaking with a sister, Mrs. John Farnell, St. Catharines, Ont., the couple with their family left for Vancouver, where they will join a former comrade of Mr. Findlay. They expect to make their permanent home there.

During the war, Mr. Findlay joined the R.A.F. and was sent to Canada where he underwent training at North Battleford, Sask., and Moncton, N.B. His duties were such that he was unable to visit his parents before being sent back to Britain.

The Findlays were astounded at the supplies of food and other commodities in Canada, and related many stories of the shortages in their native Scotland. Mr. Findlay is a bookkeeper and expects to follow that vocation in Canada.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Findlay, are well-known and highly respected residents of Wellington and have resided there for the past twenty-three years.

Walker and Two Hurlers Traded For Shortstop

Brooklyn, Dec. 8 —(AP)— Dixie Walker, hard - hitting Brooklyn outfielder and pitchers Victor Lombardi and Hal Gregg were traded today to Pittsburgh Pirates for shortstop William Cox and two other players, Branch Rickey announced.

No cash was involved, said Rickey, in revealing one of the most important trades of the year.

In addition to Cox the Dodgers acquired Elwin (Preacher) Roe, a left-handed pitcher, and Gene Mauch, utility infielder who had gone to Pittsburgh early in the season from Brooklyn in another deal.

Branch Rickey, Jr., in commenting on the trade, said: "There may be another deal in a couple of days, with Pittsburgh or with others."

John B. Hall Ordained Deacon In Anglican Ch.

John B. Hall, Maynooth, was ordained a deacon in the Anglican Church in Canada at a service held in St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, on Friday. The Right Reverend John Lyons, Bishop of the Diocese of Ontario, conducted the service, with the Rev. William Robinson, rector of Tweed and rural dean of Hastings County preaching the sermon.

The Venerable Archdeacon J. H. Coleman, celebrated the Holy Communion and the Rev. Briarley Brown, rector of the Cathedral and dean of Ontario, said the Litany.

Rev. Mr. Hall who served with the Royal Canadian Air Force during the Second Great War, is a son of Mrs. T. H. H. Hall, Maitland. His father, the late Rev. T. H. H. Hall, was incumbent on the Augusta charge at the time of his death.

Postponement of the ordination of William Ernest Tilley, Newfoundland, now of Oxford Mills, and Alan N. Brandon, Plevna, had to be made because both were ill.

Trenton Motorist Charged After Highway Collision

Riding as a passenger in a car which went out of control and crashed into another vehicle on the corner just north of the city on the Tweed highway, Albert Wade, age 26, of 34 1-2 Bridge Street, East, suffered severe head lacerations which took 20 stitches to close. The accident occurred early Sunday morning.

John Haffey, Trenton driving a station wagon, in a southerly direction failed to make the corner and collided with a northbound vehicle driven by Joseph Hart of Roslin. Wade was the only party injured in the accident but both cars were considerably damaged.

Haffey was arrested by provincial police on charges of dangerous driving, also careless driving and was later released on $100 cash bail.

Woman's Death Likely From Natural Causes

Hamilton, Dec. 8 — (CP) — Police, still searching for a man who accompanied Mrs. Julia Kabas into Dundurn Park late Friday night, today were awaiting result of a post mortem to show definite cause of the 54-year-old woman's death. When her body was found Saturday morning on a rear verandah of the Dundurn Park Museum, with the clothing disarranged, there were no marks of violence.

Inspector of Detectives John Thompson denied Sunday that he had ever said the woman's death looked like the work of a sex maniac. Contributing to police belief that the woman may not have been attacked and murdered were several circumstances. Mrs. Kabas had been a sufferer from high blood pressure and an enlarged heart, and police investigators said tracks in the snow showed that she had walked to the museum verandah in the park where she died.

There was an accompanying set of footprints, apparently those of a man, and it is this man police are hunting. The disarranged state of the woman's clothing was a puzzling factor if it was true that she had suffered an attack and died there. The post mortem report was not expected before Tuesday.

A coroner's investigation is being conducted by Dr. Jurben Lannin and an inquest is planned for some time shortly after the post-mortem report is received.

Mrs. Kabas was the mother of four daughters. Tracks in the snow showed that she had walked to the verandah with one shoe off. There was a small cut on her knee and her nose had been bleeding. Police said these minor injuries might have been caused by a fall.

IN MEMORIAM

WAY—In loving memory of our dear Marjorie who was killed, Dec. 7th., 1946.

We shall not cry, Return! Return!
Nor weep our years away;
But just as long as sunsets burn,
And dawns make no delay,
We shall be lonesome—We shall miss
Your hand, your voice, your smile.

Sadly missed by mother, father, brothers and sister. D8

BURKE—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Fred J. Burke, who passed away December 8th., 1946.

Calm and peaceful he is sleeping,
Sweetest rest that follows pain:
We who loved him, sadly miss him,
But trust in God to meet again.

Fondly remembered by wife and children. D8

WAY—In loving memory of dear Margie, who passed away Dec. 7th., 1946.

No one knows how much I miss you,
No one knows the bitter pain
I have suffered since I lost you.
Life has never been the same.
In my heart your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender fond and true,
There is not a day dear Margie,
That I do not think of you.

Ever remembered and sadly missed by Grandma Davison. D8

HANNAH—In loving memory of our father, James Hannah, who passed away one year ago today, Dec. 8th., 1946.

You are gone but not forgotten,
Father dear we think of you,
Silent will the tear drops start,
When we think that you are gone.
Little did we know the pain you suffered,
But God the father, He knew best,
So silently at the hour of midnight
He said come to Me and rest.

Sadly missed by his son Maury daughter Gladys and friend Bill. D8

WAY—In fond and loving memory of our school friend, Marjorie Way, who met death through accident, Dec. 7th. 1946.

You oft times said we'd miss you,
Your words have proven true,
We lost our best and dearest friend
Dear Marj when we lost you.

Ever remembered by Don Vance and her Cannifton Rd. friends. D8

BARNUM—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Frank Barnum, who passed away, Dec. 8th., 1946.

With tears, we watched you sinking
We watched you pass away,
We tended you with loving care
But could not make you stay.
We watched beside your bedside,
As the lonely hours passed,
How are hearts were broken,
When we saw you breathe your last.
God knew that you were suffering,
That the hills were hard to climb,
So he closed your weary eyelids,
And whispered, peace be thine.

Deeply mourned by wife and family. D8

Gold Stocks Take Substantial Drop

Toronto, Dec. 8 (CP) — Golds tumbled sharply in heavier volume as lack of good news on proposed assistance for the industry sent producing mine stock down for losses on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Several junior issues dropped up to 20 cents. Base metals eased.

Volume for the first three hours was 663,000 shares, about 396,000 higher than Friday's similar period.

Falling prices affected producing mines primarily and speculatives were largely neglected as senior golds eased fractions for the costly issues while Aunor, Lamaque and Teck Hughes lost up to 25 cents, juniors hit hardest were Campbell, Cariboo, Central Patricia, Central Porcupine, Cochenour Consolidated Beattie, Conwest, Crestaurum, Donalda, East Malartic, Eldona, Hasaga, Kirkland Lake Little Long Lac, Louvicourt, Macassa, Malartic, MacLeod, Madsen, Negus, O'Brien Upper Canada, Preston and Pamour.

Price range in industrials was narrow but key issue gains predominated. Newsprints and liquors were easier but utilities, steels and foods held.

No Interference With Decision

New York, Dec. 8 — (AP) — Eddie Eagan, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, refused to interfere today with the decision that gave Joe Louis, heavyweight champion, the verdict over Jersey Joe Walcott Friday night.

Walcott and his manager, Joe Webster, appeared before Eagan and Commissioner C. B. Powell today to protect the scoring of Judge Frank Forbes.

Forbes awarded the fight to Louis on the basis of rounds won, marking up eight for the champion, six for Walcott and one even. On a point basis, however, he named Walcott the winner, 12 to 9. On the back of his card he named Louis the winner.

Eagan said that the Commission did not make a practice of reviewing decisions of its officials but granted a hearing to Walcott and Webster because they were residents of another state and might not have full knowledge of the New York rules.

Walcott's home is in Camden, N.J.

FIRE HOSE-PIPE PROVES TOO SHORT

Milverton, Ont., Dec. 8 — (CP) — Two Milverton men watched a fire spread out of control in Milverton creamery yesterday when hose-pipe which they used in an effort to combat flames proved too short. By time firemen arrived flames had spread to great extent through upper and lower storey offices of the building.

The damage, not yet estimated, may run into thousands of dollars.

$75,000 Fire At Hawkesbury One Man Dead

Hawkesbury, Ont., Dec. 8 (CP) —Firemen checking back amid the ruins of a $75,000 fire they battled in a sleet storm a few hours earlier, today found the body of Albert Cayen, 47, head of the town's volunteer fire brigade on the second floor of the gutted structure.

The blaze, which broke out early today, destroyed the town's largest general store, a butcher shop and two apartments before three volunteer brigades fought it to a standstill. No one missed the chief until some hours later, when a check of local hospitals and homes disclosed he was missing.

The firemen then returned to the still-smoking ruins and found Mr. Cayen, his hand grasping the knob of a door. Apparently he had died of suffocation.

Hawkesbury, Ont., Dec. 8 (CP) —Three fire brigades fought a losing battle today with a $75,000 fire which razed Hawkesbury's largest general store, a butcher shop and two apartments before it burned itself out.

Starting in the rear office of the general store and butcher shop owned by Reeve Omer Laurin, the blaze spread rapidly with a strong wind fanning the flames. Local firemen, joined by brigades from Lachute, Que., 17 miles away, and a nearby paper company, were hampered by freezing sleet but managed to keep the fire from spreading.

Hawkesbury is about 50 miles east of Ottawa.

Witnesses at the fire which roused out the entire town and for a time threatened an entire business block, recalled that Mr. Cayen had been overcome earlier, about an hour after the blaze broke out in an office in the rear of the general store.

At that time, the chief was noticed staggering groggily out of the burning building. He declined assistance.

After a six-hour battle, the fire fighters returned to their station, noted their chief was absent, and returned to the scene of the fire.

Mr. Cayen had been employed as a millwright at the Hawkesbury plant of the Canadian International Paper Company for the last 30 years.

ONE ARRESTED

break-in attempt at Kitchener last night, Inspector John Nimmo of Toronto police said today.

Inspector Nimmo, who returned today from Kitchener where he helped local police investigate the shooting, said the men were equipped with a tarpaulin similar to one found at Grand Valley, Ont., where the "Numbers Gang" attempted a bank robbery early in the year.

An elaborate set of burglars tools found in Kitchener last night was similar to equipment left behind at Grand Valley, Inspector Nimmo said.

Tagged "The Numbers Gangs" because they always referred to each other by number only, the Grand Valley gunmen were disturbed by a passerby whom they held as a hostage, together with a couple who live above the bank, until they escaped. The "number" technique was also described by victims of other Ontario bank robberies.

Scottish National Parks

Some of the most magnificant scenery in Scotland is being preserved for all time from any danger of being spoiled by industrial developments. As soon as the necessary legislation is passed, five areas recommended by the Scottish National Parks Committee in its report just published as a white paper will become national parks. The five areas, all situated in the picturesque landscapes of the Highlands, are Loch Lomond-Trossachs, Glen Affric-Glen, Cannich-Strath Farrar, Ben Nevis-Glen, Coe-Black Mount, the Cairngorms, and Loch Torridon-Loch Maree-Little Loch Broom.

The committee estimates that the total cost will amount to about $13 million. The purchase price of the land itself would be $5,200,000, while the provision of the necessary holiday accommodation and recreational facilities would require another $3,000,000, says Niagara Falls Review. The report suggests that the capital expenditure could be met from Britain's National Land Fund of $250,000.000 by setting aside $10,000,000 for a separate Scottish fund.

When the parks are established the annual expenditure will be $600,000 on wages and upkeep. There will be no charge for admission, but strict measures will be taken to ensure that this easy access does not drive away or intimidate wild animals and birds who make their homes in these parks. Nature reserves are to be created for the preservation of rare species and a Wild Life Service is to be established. This will include regional organization with a mobile staff and a central headquarters.

Nor is it only the nature lover, rambler, artist, mountaineer and angler who will benefit from this fine plan. Those who already live in those areas will reap many advantages. For the report proposes not only to provide amenities for visitors but also to ensure that the best possible use is made of all the potentialities for farming, forestry, hydro-electric power and rural industries.

Troubadour Retires

News that F. Beverly Kelley had retired at the age of 42 as chief publicity man for The Greatest Show on Earth and would settle down to the life of a small-town merchant in Ohio is hard to take. What are we to think now of all those songs he used to sing, come March, of the joyous, carefree, glamorous life of the circus?

For seventeen years he had been in and out of city rooms. weaving a wordy spell of fantasy about this show and that; he was the envy of the stay-at-homes, an erudite disciple of the open road, a poet patently in love with his work. He was the robin to Manhattan. People who lived in the subways and never saw the light of day learned of spring's coming when he sang of miracles soon due in Madison Square Garden with the advent of Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey. Has all this fine enthusiasm chilled and become now as sounding brass and tinkling cymbal? Is this the man, now wintering by the lazy Olentangy, who was lately crying, against a background of calliope, that New York was about to view "for the first time, anywhere, I repeat, anywhere, new spectacles — endearing, enticing, enthralling"? Apparently middle age has had its way.

There was a sort of world-weary philosopher who, with the enthusiastic help of newspaper reporters, had made himself a "character." A college graduate who contributed a learned touch to press agentry, he had made a fine art of cultivating friends wherever he went, in the high tradition of the late Dexter Fellows. He kept book on the names and ages of the children of newspapermen, sent them souvenirs of the circus, remembered them with gaudy poster greetings mailed at Christmas time. Who knows? That boy of five might sometime be city editor. We shall miss the fine, hyperbolic, polysyllabic flights of the somber man in the Western sombrero who will now be selling love-seats in his furniture store in Delaware, Pop. 9,500. — New York Times.

Sermon Diversion

A Church of England vicar recently condemned "sermon disturbers" and placed them in three categories: Snorers, coughers and whisperers.

Perhaps the most disturbing of all religious service interruptions occurred some 300 years ago, when the vicar of the Parish of White Waltham Mr. John Blower, was preaching to a congregation which included Queen Elizabeth. He addressed her by the appellation of, "My Royal Queen," which a little while afterwards he changed for "My Noble Queen." On which, in loud, clear tones the Queen observed, "What, am I 110 groats worse than I was?"

So disconcerted was the preacher that he gave up on the spot and swore never to preach another sermon as long as he lived. In view of the fact that he was then middle-aged and lived to be a centenarian, it is difficult to believe that he adhered to his resolve, says Manchester Guardian.

Music From the Sun

Two Harvard professors listening over a special radio receiver have heard "music from the sun."

What poetry is in the phrase! What cosmic harmonies it calls up, what ethereal sweetness ravishing the ear, what radiant purity of tone creating again that immaculate hour when the morning stars sang together!

"It sounds," said one of the professors, "like gravel on a tin roof."

With the single phrase physics blows poetry sky high. Or does it only demonstrate the inadequacy of laggard mortals' listening apparatus? Proud but prosy, their most ingenious achievements still fall short of the vision of the golden-tongued poet who wrote:

"The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars (our sun), but in ourselves," says Christian Science Monitor.

Dealing With Habitual Criminals

History was made in Vancouver when a man was convicted of being a habitual criminal and was given an indeterminate sentence. It was the first such charge and conviction in Canadian history and was made under a 1947 amendment to the Criminal Code.

The recent amendment to the Criminal Code is the first sign that at long last the authorities are prepared to seek a substitute for the stupid and ineffective in-again-out-again-in-again prison system. But the system needs revision from stem to stern, and the job should be tackled in a comprehensive way, says Vancouver News-Herald.

Biggest Gain

Canada recorded its biggest population gain since Confederation during the year ended June 1 last, according to population estimates of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

While "war brides" and "war babies" contributed to this increase, it will be realized that immigration was still closely curbed during the year covered.

If immigration projects now in operation or programmed develop on schedule, the next twelve-month estimate will assuredly score up an impressive high. — Montreal Herald.

Quebec is Fifth Largest City

Quebec continues to consolidate its position of fifth largest city in Canada, according to Municipal Archivist Valere Desjardins' statistics for 1946-47, which reveal that the Ancient Capital's population now stands at 190,021. He estimates that the city's citizens are increasing by at least 3,000 souls a year. No fewer than 175,437 of the population are listed as French-Canadian; English-speaking Quebeckers, mostly Irish, English, Scotch and Welsh, total 13,348. Quebec has only 460 Hebrews, 170 Chinese and 120 Greeks, apparently the three largest foreign groups, says Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph.

It is easy for men to write and talk like philosophers, but to act with wisdom, there is the rub.—Rivarol.

SITTER FAILURE

These modern days have modern woes.
  There's little, blemish free.
Our every joy some care bestows.
  With gain a loss may be.
Now disappointment strikes a blow
  Which leaves young parents glum;
On nights when out they'd planned to go,
  The sitter doesn't come.

To us this grief was never known.
  To keep engagements made,
We needn't leave our babes alone;
  With them their grandma stayed.
But best laid plans are tinged with doubt.
  Today young mothers fear
The night when they're invited out
  The sitter won't appear.

At last a call upon the phone:
"The hour is growing late.
We'd hoped to come, but we're alone.
  For us no longer wait."
The mother in her loveliest gown,
  The dad in tux or tails,
At home must calmly settle down
  Because the sitter fails.

The Vanderwater Cup, generously donated by Col. Roscoe Vanderwater, Reeve of Sidney township, for competition among the schools in that township, has been won by S. S. No. 10, taught by Mrs. B. Bush. This school has the honor of being the first to win the cup, which becomes the property of the school winning it twice in succession. The judges were Ray Atkinson, B.S.A., Agricultural Representative, and H. J. Clarke, B.A., Public School Inspector. The schools of Sidney township owe a debt of gratitude to their public spirited Reeve and the competition should result in a higher degree of proficiency in the schools.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

When did Negroes first come to the New World?

The first authentic reference to Negroes in the New World is a decree issued by Ferdinand and Isabella of Spain in 1501, nine years after Columbus first sighted land in the West Indies. Permission was granted to introduce Negro slaves born among Christians into Hispaniola (Haiti) and the other Spanish colonies, the theory being that the Negroes would relieve the Indians of heavy work to which they were physically and temperamentally unsuited.

That no time was lost in sending Negroes to America is shown by the fact that in 1503 Governor Nicholas de Ovando requested the sovereigns to permit no more to be sent out.

In 1508, two years after Isabella's death, the Spanish government stipulated that only Negroes from Seville who had been instructed in Christianity and who might contribute to the conversion of the natives should be transported to Hispaniola. Four years later King Ferdinand, being assured that the Indians were too weak to labor in the mines and on the sugar plantations, ordered that 50 Africans be sent to the island at once.

Although a decree of 1506 had forbidden the transportation of slaves from the Levant or of those brought upon among the Moors, in 1511 this policy was reversed, and Ferdinand, being told that one Negro could do the work of four Indians and thrive at it, ordered that a large number of slaves be procured in Guinea in Africa and shipped to Hispaniola. He signed similar decrees respecting slavery in 1512 and 1513.

Cardinal Ximenes, while acting as regent after Ferdinand's death in 1516, positively forbade the sending of Negroes from Africa as slaves to the New World. But Charles I (afterwards the Emperor Charles V) ignored the Cardinal's wishes and even while still in Flanders granted his chancellor Selvagio and other Flemmings licenses to transport as many slaves from Africa to Hispaniola as the colonists needed. The number required was ascertained to be 4,000 and the Flemmings farmed out the job of transportation to the Genoese.

In 1517 the venerable Bartholomew Las Casas, known as the Apostle of the Indies, reluctantly sanctioned the traffic. His chief interest was in saving the Indians and he recommended that the colonists be permitted to import Negroes for such work in the mines and on the plantations as was destructive of the lives of the natives. It is a common mistake to suppose that the introduction of Negro slaves into America resulted from the proposal of Las Casas, which was not made until after the traffic had been going on for 16 years.

Negro slaves were found to be so much more serviceable than Indians in working the mines and cultivating sugar-cane that the institution spread to the other islands and from there to the mainlands of South and North America. By 1520 the Negro slaves were numerous in Hispaniola and when Diego Columbus, who had succeeded his father as Admiral, returned as governor in that year he carried instruction to reduce the forced labor of the Indians to one-third and to see that Negroes were procured from Guinea to take their places. The first Negro revolt of consequence in the New World occurred on one of Diego Columbus's sugar plantations in Hispaniola in 1529, only 30 years after the discovery of America by his father. The second Admiral himself took an energetic part in suppressing the uprising and in hanging the captured Negroes to the nearest trees as a lesson to other slaves.

BILIOUS HEADACHE

The old timers confidently pronounced most headaches "bilious" and some medical authors, if not authorities, still reiterate that intestinal stasis and constipation is the couse of most headaches.

In his book Nervousness, Indigestion and Pain, published by Hoeber, '43, Walter C. Alvarez says:

"Everyone knows that constipation can cause headache, but, as I showed years ago" (indeed he did) "this type of headache must usually be due to irritation of the nerves by distension of the rectum, because in all but a few cases it disappears within a few minutes after the bowel is emptied."

The fact that the headache stops soon after the distension of the rectum is relieved should reassure any one whose morbid introspection is not irrational or insone that "poisoning" of the system by "toxic" waste products or by products of putrefaction in the intestine does not occur as a consequence of constipation. If that favorite song of the quacks and nostrum makers of the past and the colon filling station proprietors of today were true, we'd all pay tribute to these bunk merchants. The truth is that thousands of people whose knowledge of physiology has not been obtained from the almanacs and the nostrum testimonials suffer neither headaches nor other symptoms if or when they fail to have the usual evacuation for a day or two.

Asphyxia Headache

The dull, sickish, heavy headache many persons get from confinement in an unventilated room is familiar enough. It is, I think, a manifestation of anoxia, insufficient oxygen, asphyxia — not because there is insufficient oxygen in the air of the room but because stagnation and overheating of the air, foul or bad air, as it is commonly called, depresses the circulation and hence the blood does not carry oxygen to the body cells or tissues to maintain their normal functions. To open a wondow or door or to turn on an electric fan or to step out of doors and get a little "fresh" air brings quick relief — although the amount of oxygen in the indoor and outdoor air is virtually the same.

Real asphyxia, anoxia or oxygen deficit more likely produces a sense of tightness across forehead, at least this peculiar feeling should be a warning signal —the usual cause of real anoxia, oxygen deficit, asphyxia is carbon monoxide in the air. After the sense of tightness across forehead, if the warning is not heeded instantly, slight headache and sudden flushing of the face, throbbing in the temples dizziness, dimness of vision, nausea, syncope, perhaps inability of the victim to seek safety or irrational resitance to the efforts of another to get the victim out into the open.

Well, time-up. We'll talk about another kind of headache soon.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Practice of Preventive Medicine

Have been trying to get preventive medical care, with little success. Do reputable physicians practice preventive medicine seriously? To date I have met with only patronizing facetiousness or brusque dismissal. (C. W. C.)

Answer — Every good doctor practices preventive medicine, but Preventive Medicine has not been "recognized" as a specialty by the medical politicians as it is not likely you will find a physician limiting his practice to preventive medicine.

Chronic Running Ear

That leaflet on running ear which you sent me has proved of more value to me than much costly treatment and prescriptions. In fact it looks as though the ear discharge has stopped altogether. (L. S.)

Answer — Anyway, it does no harm. On written request (do not send a clipping) any reader may have the pamphlet on Running Ear — if he provides stamped self-addressed envelope.

Milk Is Fine Food

Many doctors claim milk is bad for arthritis. (G. M. A.)

Answer—I believe it is excellent food for one with or without arthritis.

FORMER DANISH NAZI LEADER DIES

Copenhagen, Dec. 8 — (Reuters) — Fritz Clausen, 55, former Danish Nazi party leader, died of heart failure Friday. He had been in prison since the liberation, awaiting trial. Clausen was one of the most hated men in Denmark. At one time a village doctor, he gave up his practice when the Germans provided him with funds to live as an "independent politician."

The Used Car Situation

A survey made recently in Toronto by a leading Used Car Dealer pointed out that there is no apparent shortage in used cars except that the large dealers are endeavoring to accumulate good used cars for the Spring when it is anticipated that prices will increase 20 per cent over present day prices. This survey is based on the normal increased demand for cars in the Spring, plus the shortage of new cars, accentuated by the present embargo and the advance in new car prices caused by the increased cost of production and the additional Government Tax.

Anticipate Higher Prices on Used Cars

Observations taken from a recent survey made by the Used Car Dealers indicate that should the embargo continue even under a quota system on United States made cars, the additional tax will in all likelihood cause a continued shortage of New Cars, thus increasing the demand for good Used Cars which will mean an increase in the Used Car prices. In fact the large metropolitan dealers are offering increased prices now for used cars, anticipating a 20 per cent increase in the coming spring.

WEDDINGS

TAYLOR—JOHNSTON

Marmora.—A wedding of local interest took place in Toronto on Saturday, November 29, when Margaret Burnadette, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Johnston of Marmora, and Frederick Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Taylor, were united in marriage in St. Cecelia's Church. Rev. Father M. Ryan officiated. Miss Anna Jones of Toronto was the bride's attendant and Mr. Edward Bailey, uncle of the bride, was groomsman.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor will reside in Post Credit.

Good Companions Club Presents Christmas Program

The Good Companions Club of Tabernacle United Church had a very interesting Christmas meeting last Friday evening.

Mr. Albert Mulvey presided and welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Clare Finkle to the group. It was decided to withdraw the next two meetings, which come during the holiday season.

Capt. J. Buchanan, accompanied by Miss M. Ferguson led in several Christmas Carols.

During the devotional period, Rev. F. R. Harback, told that the hymn book was one of the great factors in Christiandom which drew all religions together. Cardinal Newman wrote "Lead Kindly Light." The psalms are arranged in the "Hymnary" as the Scottish people sang them. Charles Wesley gave to the world the beautiful Christmas carol "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing." Mr. Harback told of hearing German girls singing "Silent Night! Holy Night,, in two part harmony. This carol originally came from Germany. America has contributed greatly to the carols at Christmas. Phillip Brooks wrote "O Little Town of Bethlehem," while E. Sears, a Unitarian, composed a real message in "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear."

With Miss Jane Smyth, members followed the Other Wise Man in his journey, as she read the story written by Henry VanDyke. This Other Wise Man was delayed by a sick man on the desert, to whom he gave aid. So he was too late to start off with the Wise Men as they followed the Star. He had with him three great jewels, a ruby, a sapphire, and a pearl but gave them to people in need. For thirty-three years he searched for Jesus and arrived at the foot of the cross as Jesus was dying.

A lighted Christmas tree and red candles formed the centrepiece for the refreshment table. Mrs. J. Hall and her committee served delicious refreshments.

RHEUMATIC PAINS
Here is a medicine made specially to help you
Tackle those rheumatic pains NOW—do not delay. You must remember that rheumatic pains may be warnings of impurities left in the system. They may have been left there because the kidneys are not working properly. The kidneys play a very important part in the well-being of the general system as a whole and it may well be that they have become sluggish—partially fallen down on their job. You must help those kidneys before the condition gets chronic, and a way to do it is by using a remedy made specially for them. De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills act directly on the kidneys, soothing and aiding them in their vital task of helping to rid the system of excess acid and other pain-causing impurities. For over half a century sufferers have filled the De Witt files with world-wide and grateful testimony to this trusted family remedy for joint and rheumatic pains, backache and bladder disorders.

Aikens W.M.S. Holds Impressive Candlelight Service

Members of Aiken's W.M.S. held their December meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred Moon, with an attendance of 19 members and two visitors. The Pianist, Mrs. Lee Grills, played quiet music and the President, Mrs. E. Hubble, led in the Call to Worship.

The story of the Babe of Bethlehem, as told in the pages of the Bible, has been made known to the peoples of the world. In 1,000 different tongues that story will be read this Christmas and in Canada it will be read in 110 languages.

Business was completed, so that no interruptions would occur during the beautiful candlelighting ceremony. Reports were given by secretaries, showing a very successful year in every department. A note of thanks from Mrs. W. Wellman was read, thanking the society for remembrance during her stay in the hospital. Mrs. C. McMullen moved a vote of thanks to the retiring president, Mrs. E. Hubble, for her efficient services during the past three years.

Mrs. H. Hamilton offered her home for a "donation tea" to be held on the afternoon of Dec. 17th.

The Nominating Committee presented the slate of officers for the coming year. These were installed by Mrs. Neelands, as follows:

Hon. Pres., Mrs. A. Finkle.
Past. Pres., Mrs. E. Hubble
President, Mrs. S. Westover.
1st Vice President, Mrs. C. McMullen.
2nd Vice President, Mrs. E. Kells.
3rd Vice President, Mrs. S. Spafford.
Recording Secretary, Mrs. K. Jones.
Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. F. Moon.
Treasurer, Mrs. D. McPherson
Mission Band, Mrs. P. Hamilton.
Baby Band, Mrs. B. Hollinger.
Departmental Secretaries—
Christian Stewardship, Mrs. S. Marshall
Christian Citizenship, Mrs. O. Pearson.
Community Friendship, Mrs. M. Jeffery.
Supply Secretary, Mrs. C. Grills
Associate Members, Mrs. W. Bailey.
Missionary Monthly, Mrs. H. Hamilton
Press Secretary, Mrs. E. Hubble.
Literature, Mrs. C. Smith.
Pianist Mrs. Lee Grills.
Finance Committee, Mrs. S. Westover, Mrs. C. McMullen, Mrs. S. Marshall, Mrs. G. Denike.
Nominating Committee—Mrs. K. Jones, Mrs. M. Jeffery, Mrs. F. Moon
Auditors—Mrs. G. Willman, Mrs. W. Bailey.

The candlelighting service was beautiful and very impressive, with a worship centre arranged on a table, centred by a Bible opened at the Christmas story in St. Luke's gospel. On either side and behind the Bible were candles arranged for effectiveness of color and height. Those taking part were the leader, Mrs. M. Jeffery, assisted by Mrs. K. Jones, Mrs. D. McPherson, Mrs. E. Hubble, Mrs. H. Hamilton, Mrs. F. Moon, Mrs. S. Westover and Mrs. S. Spafford.

Mrs. P. Hamilton contributed an African carol as a solo—"O Little One Lowly, O Little One Holy".

Other carols were sung in unison throughout the program.

Prayer closed this inspiring service and the hostess served delectable refreshments.

Marmora

64th Anniversary Of Wedding Is Celebrated

Marmora — The sixty-fourth anniversary of their wedding was quietly observed by Mr. and Mrs. George Albert Henry of Marmora, Dec. 6th. On that date in the year 1883 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Castle Hawley, half a mile north of Bancroft village, Rev. George Scamell united in marriage Mary Hawley and George Albert Henry. The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Henry were residing in Monteagle Township at that time. Prior to that they had lived at Collins Bay, where their son was born. When he was about ten, they moved to Mullett's Corners, near Madoc, Mr. Henry, Senior, working at the tannery there for over twenty years.

It was at Madoc that the son received his schooling and later worked on the old railroad that was being laid from Madoc to Tweed. From Madoc his parents moved to Monteagle Township. At the time of his marriage he was clearing land in the same township to establish home and farm. He cleared land for the erection of four homes in Monteagle Township and one in Dungannon Township. He also spent a considerable portion of his life in shantying. He was also interested in municipal affairs but the only office he ever accepted was that of auditor for S.S. No. 9, Monteagle. At one time in his life he had to go about sixteen miles to the polling station to register his vote. In politics he has been an ardent Conservative.

He has always been fond of reading and has smoked from an early age. In January he will celebrate his ninty-fifth birthday with all faculties well preserved. His wife, who will be eighty-one on her next birthday, like her husband has made many friends locally during their nineteen years of residence here. She lived an industrious life, doing considerable nursing in her younger years. She has been adept at knitting and sewing and has attended many quilting bees. Knitting socks and mitts is still a pleasant pastime with her. Congratulations of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Henry and their family will be augmented by those from a host of friends.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

She Shouldn't Smoke . . But She Mustn't Be Self-Righteous

Dear Mrs. Beeckman

I am almost 18 years old and have recently gone to work in an office where there are quite a few other girls. I like them very much, and I want them to like me. But I don't smoke—I don't want to smoke. . . and when we have lunch together or a coke on our way home, some of the girls keep insisting that I should smoke "just to be sociable". I don't want to antagonize any of these girls, but I just don't see any sense in doing something I don't want to do or which doesn't interest me. How can I convince them without having them think I am a poor sport?

Florence H.

Stick by your guns, no matter what anyone says. It's a ridiculous idea, not grown-up, for anyone to insist you take a cigarette to be "sociable" or a "good sport", and for you to do what you don't want to do or don't believe in doing won't win you any worth-while friends or influence any worth-while people!

However, I do believe that I detect more than a little self-righteousness on your attitude, and I wonder if perhaps either your self-righteousness or your disapproval shows in your manner of refusing a cigarette. Watch this, for such a nicer-than-you attitude is offensive, priggish and downright boring. The girls may be resenting this more than what they say they are resenting. If you toss off your "no thank you", with a casual and gracious air when they offer you a cigarette, you won't need to worry about about these girls not liking you!

Correct to Use Colored Ink on Christmas Cards

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

Is it considered correct to use colored ink when signing your name on Christmas cards, or even when writing a message as well as your name? Some time ago I bought at my stationers a supply of some lovely cards that especially appealed to me: they are of generous size, and have the word Greetings in red script on the cover, a narrow red border, and no message printed inside. I'm going to follow your advice and write my own messages on the inside pages. . . .and I thought it would be nice to use red ink, to match the script and the border.

D. H.

Yes, indeed it's correct to use colored inks for signing and writing messages on Christmas cards . . . .festive too, and "merry", particularly the season's own colors, red and green. As a matter of fact, for the past two or three years and this year again, one of New York's smartest shops supplies a bottle of either red or green ink (your choice) with their several beautiful and distinguished designs of Christmas cards that are to carry hand-written messages.

Buying the Rings for a "Double-ring Ceremony

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

When my fiance and I select the rings for the double-ring ceremony, do we go together to buy them? And does each pay for the other's ring?

Claire

It is correct and sensible for the couple to go together to the jeweler to select their wedding rings for the double-ring ceremony. And each pays for the other's ring.

"And on Earth, Good Will"

In these rushed and rushing days before Christmas, when you are shopping or otherwise busy, think of those wonderful words of Christmas .. . "And on Earth, Peace, Good Will".

Particularly powerful, particularly appropriate at this blessed season are words of Good Will, of cheer, of encouragement, of kindness.

Fashion Flashes

GAINING POPULARITY is the top-to-toe look achieved by matched accessories, a boon to the clever woman who can make her own. To pep up a side-buttoned jacket of cocoa-brown wool and a slim, black wool skirt, one house shows a sequinned paisley turban and matching box-bag.

BOUNCING BACK into the high-style fashion scene comes silver fox, once given up as lost. A beautiful bolero if the frosty fur is made with a very deep collarless V neckline that merges into a red velvet cummerbund sash. Similar velvet insert at the cuff of the full melon sleeves.

WARM BEAUTY is the seasonable theme of a group of evening sweaters. Heavy silk yarn in off-white is used for an off-shoulder evening sweater detailed with a wide band of fish-net crocheting interspersed with gilt and crystal beads.

SUMMING UP the most-in-demand fur coat silhouette wanted by fashion-conscious women, it would seem that—no matter what the fur—the long three-quarter length coat, wrapped around the figure, or hanging free from narrow, padless shoulders, seems to be the ideal. Tomorrow—who knows?

THERE'S NO DOUBT about it, the well-handled dinner hat, touched with flattering feathers, is good stuff. A head-hugging little cap-turban of chamois-yellow felt is draped, with a coarse-meshed veil of gold and silver knotted in back with long, hanging ends. For front height there is a wide spray of yellow Bird of Paradise cleverly simulated in processed grass.

It's About Time . . .

IT'S ABOUT TIME to make white or pastel washable and detachable trimming, for those dark town and office frocks. Avoid the usual tack-in collars and cuffs. Make bands and bows of linen or pique to button. Buttons covered with dress fabric are trimming, used alone.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Dry Hair and Dandruff

Considering the wails of women who are afflicted with extremely oily hair and those whose locks are dry and brittle, it would seem as if the sebaceous glands of the scalp are not inclined to function normally. They are overactive; they go on strike. Specialists say it isn't their fault. The cause is a diet that is either too rich in fat or doesn't include enough fat. Maybe, some day, we shall have special diets for various beauty sorrows. Eat and grow handsome!

No matter what the condition of the hair may be, the scalp must be kept scrupulously clean. Within a fortnight the hair is ready to be laundered. The "drys" are inclined to break this rule, postponing the shampoo because the hair is unmanageable after a washing. By shirking their good-looks duties, they are inviting trouble. Dead skin scales are collecting on the scalp and there are deposits of chemicals from the exudiations of the sweat glands all of which may set up an irritation prove a stamping ground for dandruff.

It has been determined that dandruff is a fungus growth, something like yeast. Once established it is difficult to overcome. It may not have a bad effect upon the health of the hair, but it invites bacteria that cause scalp infections.

Like a dry skin, the arid crown requires frequent lubrication. Mineral oil is an excellent medium for this purpose. It should be applied the night before the shampoo.

Give the hair one hundred strokes of the brush to stimulate the sebaceous glands and to remove surface dust. Vigorous grooming of this kind tugs at the hair roots, rouses the little capillaries that provide them with nourishment. Brisker circulation is bound to have a favorable effect.

Part the hair at various places and apply the oil along the partings. One can use a large medicine dropper, a small brush or a pledget of cotton for this purpose. When the oil has been distributed, give the scalp a five-minute massage. Place fingers and thumbs outspread over the flesh keep the fingers stationary and do circles with the thumbs, using pressure. The oil should remain on over night.

Next morning have a thorough shampoo. If soap appears to cause excessive dryness, use one of the new cream or oil shampoos. They are especially effective for dry tresses. Use several applications, together with friction, each application followed by a rinsing with fairly hot water. A bath spray gives a more satisfactory rinsing than the shower that clears away the shampoo medium from the crown of the head, but does not always do a good job at the temples or nape line.

The scalp must be kept scrupulously clean

THE SNUG bodice and full, circular skirt reminiscent of the ballerina costume is all the go just now for dresses and suits. This ballerina suit has a form-fitting jacket with a cuffed hip line and deep, selfbanded collar and is lined with quilted red satin. The fullly flared skirt concentrates its gathers in front. It is an especially nice costume that becomes even nicer when worn with a Persian lamb skull-cap and muff.

Napanee Quits Wood Sales

Napanee, Dec. 8 — (CP)—The town council left the wood business yesterday after 4½ years of selling firewood to residents. A total of 9,000 cords were bought from the north part of the country, sawed into suitable lengths and sold in quarter-cord lots.

RULES THUMBPRINT IN HOSPITAL ON WILL IS NOT LEGAL

San Francisco, Dec. 8—(AP)—Judge Franklin A. Griffin Thursday ruled that a thumbprint in lipstick on a dying man's will has no legal force. Mrs. Grace Donoghue testified she supplied the lipstick for Guy Wren on his deathbed to make the imprint on the document with the intention of transferring some property to her daughter.

Clean Your Nails Carefully

Scrubbing with a good nail dress is an excellent way to get nails really clean

By HELEN FOLLETT

ALTHOUGH we shouldn't tell it, a manicurist tells us that some of the cash customers are not as fussy as they might be about the care of their talons, covering up neglect with the rosy polish, not passing the orange wood stick under the nail eaves once or twice a day, a practice that should never be side-stepped. Germs may be lurking there to be transferred to the skin or the lips where they can set up housekeeping and do mischief. Scrubbing with a good nail dress is an excellent way to clean the nails.

It is especially necessary for the boss of the domestic works to keep her coral finger sheaths in splendid condition. She handles food and the careless cook, like the casual dish washer, can hand along bacteria that brings sickness into the family circle.

Creaming the nails, keeping them beautifully clean, means that they will retain their pristine coloring and the surrounding tissue will not cling, break and form hangnails. Believe it, or doubt it, but neglected pink shells will look old and forlorn as will hands that do not have proper attention.

If you have a buffer left over from the remote period before liquid polish struck the popular fancy, use it freely on your nails before you apply a cuticle cream at bedtime. The buffer will act as a massage agent. It will stimulate the underlying blood streams that give pleasing coloring to the nails. It will help keep the matrix in a healthy state. From the matrix emerge tiny overlapping cells that create the new nail fabric.

You'll find some lovely new shades of polish among the Spring offerings. It will be worth your while to give them a look-see.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"Boyless Girls"

A great many letters have been received by this column recently with the dreary signature, "Boyless Girls". The majority of such letters come from unhappy teenagers who want to know why they cannot get even one boy friend when so many other girls have more than they know what to do with. But many also come from young women in their twenties who are afraid that they will never find a husband because they just don't seem to attract the male sex.

All of these letters boil down to a single bewildered monosyllable—Why?

Why is it that some girls have so many boy friends and others none? Why is it that some girls have a line of chatter that keeps them in the centre of a circle of male admirers, while other girls are tongue-tied in the presence of a single boy. Why is it that some girls always know exactly what to say and how to say it? And why is it that some seem to get attention without making any effort at all?

The answer, of course, to this basic 'Why" is that some girls are apparently born with the type of personality which makes them attractive to the boys, while others do not come naturally by the essential qualities. But that doesn' mean, however, that things have to stay that way. It is perfectly possible for a girl to develop her personality into one that will make her, if not always the life of the party, at least one that will keep her from being a wallflower.

Probably first on the list of things to do, if you want to develop a more magnetic personality, is to acquire a great many interests. This will enable you to meet either girls or boys on their own ground and make it easy—or, at any rate, easier—to find something to talk about. Certainly you are not going to develop into an easy talker if you are not able to discuss in which your associates are terested.

Most girls who are pu over the reason why others more attention from the than they do put a disproport ate amount of emphasis on matter of looks. They are say something like this, w comes from one of these lett

"We are three girls betw the ages of 17 and 19. We very neat in appearance, but just don't seem to get the As for looks, none of us homely."

Now the actual fact is some of the most fascina women in the world have homely women, and that have almost less to do with wh er or not a woman is attrac than anything else. Friendlin a sincere interest in other peo being a good sport, knowing to do things that other people unselfishness, and a warmth generosity of heart that make impossible for a girl to be m jealous, or petty, are far gre assets in a girl's quest for ularity than beauty and the est styles.

Take it from there, girls, see what you can do!

ll the inter-changing of play- between Toronto and Chicago n't affect the battling spirit shown in both games. Last night Bob Goldham, recently of the Leafs, and Gus Mortson of the present Leafs, tossed off their gloves and started swinging at each other with Mortson being felled by a blow to the chin before it was broken up with five minute penalties to both.

Another ex-Leaf now in Chicago uniform, Gus Bodnar, will be lost to the Hawks for probably three weeks. He suffered a deep cut above his instep on the right foot in the second period.

Detroit Red Wings, who were atop the league standing until a few nights ago, were blanked by Montreal Canadiens 4-0 at Montreal Saturday and then lost to New York Rangers by 3-1 Sunday. New York Rangers and Boston Bruins tied 5-5 Saturday and Boston beat Montreal by the only goal scored in their game Sunday.

At Montreal goalie Bill Durnan turned in his fourth shut - out of the season as the Wings were baffled by a Canadien team that stressed speed and wide-open play. Durnan was a stand-out as he blocked 14 shots while Harry Lumley had to handle 32 at the other end, in addition to the four he missed. Big Butch Bouchard scored two of the Montreal goals, the others going to Elmer Lach and Rip Riopelle.

Egan Scores Only Goal

The Bruins had gone seven games without a victory when they finally shut out the Canadiens on a goal scored by defenceman Pat Egan from 30 feet out, in the fourth minute of the second period. The Canadiens were aggressive throughout but Boston's close checking game had them pretty well tied up, and Frankie Brimsek in the Boston cage handled only 19 shots as he turned in his second shut-out.

Canadiens on Sunday night however were playing without their top scorer, Maurice (Rocket) Richard, who suffered a knee injury in the game at Montreal Saturday.

The New York Rangers, now only two points behind Montreal, played their first tie of the season in the 5-5 game at Boston Saturday. Grant Warwick and Buddy O'Connor each scored two goals and Tony Leswick got the other for New York, less than two minutes from the final whistle. Wally Wilson scored two Boston goals and the others went to Pete Babando, Billy Taylor and Pat Egan, the latter's shot travelling 65 feet before crashing off Jim Henry's pads into the net.

At Madison Square Gardens Sunday Rangers chalked up their fifth victory in the last seven starts. Grant Warwick and Tony Leswick scored in the first period and Ed Kullman got the third in the final frame. It was Len Kelly who spoiled a shut-out for New York.

LOUIS, WALCOTT LIKELY TO MEET NEXT SUMMER

New York, Dec. 8 — (AP) — A contention that Jersey Joe Walcott should be declared heavyweight boxing champion of the world goes before the New York Boxing Commission today with every indication that if Jersey Joe gets the title he'll have to fight for it again.

That is the big talk now — a second meeting next summer between the challenger and Joe Louis, who gained a split, torridly - disputed decision in the 24th defence of his crown Friday night at Madison Square Garden.

It's that decision which Walcott's manager, Joe Webster, wants to talk about — and protest — in his tete-a-tete today with Commission chairman Eddie Eagan.

Eagan has indicated that he will listen and that's about all. For him to reverse the decision of the judges is virtually out of the question, observers insisted.

Webster's main complaint deals with the scorecard of Frank Forbes, the Negro boxing judge who pencilled Walcott a 12-to-9 lead in points but gave the bout to Louis on rounds 8-to-6.

Forbes' decision helped swing the pendulum in the direction of the champion, the other judge, Marty Monroe, also going along with Louis while Referee Ruby Goldstein was voting for Walcott.

Jersey Joe's manager contends the Boxing Commission's own rules nullify Forbes' vote for Louis.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

What has all the appearances of a "grudge" battle will take place at the Memorial Arena tomorrow night when the Hornets tangle with the Juniors in the curtain raiser of the District Hockey twin - bill. Hornets will have their backs to the wall in a fight for a playoff berth, and besides that, there is nothing they'd like better than to tack the first league defeat of the season on the saucy Rockets juniors.

Hornets have three points in the league standing with Point Anne crowding them with two. If Hornets can stop the Juniors tomorrow night they are definitely "in" for the Pointers who have only one game left and that against Bloomfield can't reach them, for a win over Juniors will give them five points while a Bloomfield defeat by Point Anne will give the Green crew four points.

• • •

But there has been plenty said by the players of these two teams, Juniors and Hornets that is, and by their supporters as to their respective merits. That can only be settled one way and that takes place on the ice tomorrow evening. Both squads will be at full strength and as feeling is running high, there should be fireworks which no red-blooded fan should miss.

• • •

And the second tilt of the dual bill should be a dilly. Tweed who has yet to win again will try for that victory column at the expense of Trenton who at present is in a first place three-way tie. It is the final league game for both teams and the battle should be interesting.

• • •

The Belleville District Hockey League immediate executive held a special meeting yesterday and among other matters dealt with player certificates. It was noted that two or three teams had submitted over the required eighteen certificates and these will be required to drop players over that number as required by the constitution.

• • •

After some discussion, presentation of various facts, the Executive unanimously endorsed a motion, that, "Player Lee Tremblay is hereby declared ineligible to play for the Trenton Hockey Club and the Trenton RCAF Flyers, due to the fact that he played for both teams without proper sanction after being duly warned. And that the Trenton Hockey Club be reprimanded for disregarding the president's instructions regarding using the above-mentioned player against the Madoc team on Dec. 2nd."

• • •

The Executive also endorsed and passed a motion that "Effective December 7th, no more players' certificates or transfers will be granted. With playoffs coming soon, this motion was endorsed for the protection of all teams."

• • •

The Ontario Hockey Association announced at its 58th annual meeting held in Toronto on Saturday that it will expand to eight divisions of competition, two more than last year. President George Panter speaking to the well attended meeting said the two new divisions would be Senior "B" and Junior "D."

• • •

With the exception of Senior A and junior A, all series have been arranged on strictly population basis, which permits a centre with a small population to play in a higher series if it wishes, but does not permit a centre with a large population to play in a lower series," the president said. "All the regulations have been adjusted according to safeguard this general rule, which should provide the fairest competition possible.'

• • •

Each club in all eight divisions will be asked to choose its most valuable player before April 1 by vote of the players. "The winners will all be recorded in the O.H.A. Annual so that their names will not be forgotten and the award will be of sufficient worth to make it an incentive for every boy to give his best."

• • •

Panter explained that the province was divided into eight O.H.A. divisions for player registration administration, and announced the award of nine O.H.A. orders of merit.

• • •

The awards, tiny gold hockey sticks suitable for wearing on coat lapels, were given to W. A Hewitt, O.H.A. secretary; Captain Jim Sutherland, Kingston, pioneer worker for the International Hall of Fame; Dave Pinckney, Stratford; Frank D. Smith, Toronto; Reeve Otta Hardwick, Bolton; Max Ressor, Markham; Dr. J. R. Seaton, Sheffield and Bill Hisey ,of Preston.

• • •

Among those attending from this city: Bill Cook, representing the Belleville Rockets junior club, Claude Tice, representing the Belleville ANAF intermediate squad; "Toots" Holway, and "Smokey" Harris.

President Panter came out flat footed with the statement that "amateur" hockey teams with surplus funds at the end of the season should share with the players. You might also," he added, "use a little to encourage the small fry in your neighborhood."

"We found," he went on, "that amateur as well as professional hockey requires a lot of things that costs money, so we legalized the dollar, and advise all clubs to do the same."

• • •

Which might be well in some amateur circles, especially the senior brackets, but in this corner's opinion, giving the league lettuce to minors should not be permitted. If this suggestion is adopted by minor hockey league teams, it might create a situation that would be hard to cope with in the future.' It means the days of windbreakers, proudly bearing the crests of the team, sported by proud youngsters will be over. Not that we think sane-minded minor hockey team managers will adopt the pay-as-you-leave system, for it will create if not accelerate the idea in the minds of the young fry, to go where they can get the most money.

In the old days it used to be the idea of getting hockey players jobs, even if it was only winding an eight-day clock. Now with the suggestion that amateur teams all over the province get paid, it is a question of all pay—and no work. And you'll find that the hockey Jacks won't be such dull boys when it comes to the signing of certificates.

Sports Shorts from Britain

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Dec. 8 (CP)—England-South Africa cricket games last summer yielded a net profit of more than £25,000 ($100,000) and resulted in a "bonus" to first-class counties, minor counties and Oxford and Cambridge Universities. The South Africans received £10,000 as their share.

The advisory cricket committee at its annual meeting distributed £1,084 to each first-class team and £148 to all minor-country teams and to Oxford and Cambridge.

The committee ruled also that professionals chosen to play in the five-day tests against Australia next year would receive £75 a game—25 more than sum some paid to pros when Australia visited England last in 1938. Umpires will receive £50 a game.

Brian Sellers, 40-year-old captain of Yorkshire county cricket club who piloted the county to six championships in his nine years as skipper, has resigned. Norman Yardley, England's test captain against South Africa last season, has been invited to take over.

In his letter of resignation Sellers said he felt it only fair to give Yardley, expected to lead England against Australia in 1948, the opportunity of leading the county and gaining valuable experience.

David Reid, wing halfback with Glasgow Perthshire football club, has caught the eye of many big-league coaches but after agreeing he's just the man they're looking for, they shake their heads and turn him down.

David wears glasses when playing and senior clubs won't take a chance on him.

All possible training facilities will be given Britain's Olympic track and field possibles in county athletic parks. Use of the parks was made after the British Amateur Athletic Association told local government officials the normal cost of Olympic training was a big financial burden on the athletes.

Col. William Parkinson, 70, chairman of Blackpool football club, died suddenly after a recent Blackpool-Sheffield United game. He had travelled thousands of miles in search of players for the club, for whom he played 40 years ago when it was known as Blackpool South Shore.

Matt Busby, Manchester United soccer club manager and former Scottish international halfback, will manage Great Britain's Olympic Games next summer.

Twenty-two countries have entered for the soccer tournament. First round will be played July 31, second round Aug. 2 and third Aug. 5. Semi-finals will be held Aug. 10-11 and the final two days later at Wembley stadium, scene of the games.

LUBS CAN CARRY S MANY PLAYERS S THEY WISH

eferees' Fees Given Boost and New Member Elected to O.H.A. Executive

Toronto, Dec. 8 — (CP)—Limitions on player strength of a am competing solely within the tario Hockey Association were ted in most classes Saturday at e final sitting of the organizaon's annual meeting.

Formerly, teams were limited 18 players each. But the new ulations permit unlimited rosrs, providing the players are herwise eligible.

"Senior "A" and Junior "A" ams, however, still are bound the 18-player limit since these ams come under Canadian Ameur Hockey Association jurisction.

The new ruling was part of a ries of amendments added to e O.H.A. constitution.

Other constitution changes inude:

Provision permitting a player join any team within a radius 25 miles, once his home team s given him a waiver. The am he plans to join may not be a lower O.H.A. classification. ormerly a player had to obtain aivers, not only for his home am, but also from any team elible to claim him which was sitated between the team he pland to join and his home club.

The ruling requiring each team have eight players from its ome town on its roster was anged to make it necessary that e eight home town players take art in every game. O. H. A. ofcials said this change was made prevent teams signing eight ench-warmers for the purpose complying with the hometown layer rule.

eferees Given Boost

Referees' fees were given a oost, Senior "A" referees now ill reeviec ill eceive $15 a game plus avel allowance; senior "B," inermediate "A," Junior "A" and ntermediate "B" referees $10; unior "C" and Junior "D" referes $8.

O. H. A. ban of professional oaches and exhibition games was ropped.

Clubs were given permission to hift players within their own lass until Dec. 15 and players ailing to succeed in "A" competition were granted permission to eturn to their home clubs.

Frank Buckland of Peterborough was elected to the O. H. A. execuive committee and three other embers of the committee were e-elected — Roy Reynolds, Chatam;; Stewart McTavish, Oshawa, M. L. (Tory) Gregg, Wingham.

Two other members of the excutive are scheduled to be named by Mr. Panter at an executive eeting here Dec. 12, while Max ilverman, president of the Norhern Ontario Hockey Association nd John Nelson, president of the Toronto Hockey League, both have been named to voting memberships in the executive as representatives of O. H. A. affiliates.

George B. McKay of Kitchener and William E. Easson of Stratford both were named to life memberships in the O. H. A. executive.

Unhappiest player was the Hawks' Rookie netminder, Doug Jackson shown being assisted to the Gardens' hospital for first aid after being struck on the neck with a puck in the third period. He spent a miserable evening fanning on the efforts of Leafian sharpshooters.

GALT ROCKETS DOWN GENERALS BY 4 TO 2 COUNT

Farm Team of Philadelphia Beginning to Click Under Alfie Moore

(By The Canadian Press)

This season will not be a one-team walk-away affair in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A race as was earlier surmised by the "hot-stove leaguers."

With 68 scheduled games under its belt the O.H.A. Junior ladder looks top-heavy with but five points separating the first five clubs. Windsor is in first place with 22 points. There is a three-way second place tie among Oshawa, Stratford and Toronto Marlboros, with 20 points, followed by Galt with 17.

Of most significance in the weekend's five Junior tilts was Galt Rockets' 4-2 decision over the powerful Oshawa Generals at the Motor City. This is twice within seven days the Rockets have upset the league's top clubs —last weekend it was a 4-2 victory over Windsor Spitfires. Galt is the only club to hold wins over both these teams.

Windsor Spitfires moved into lone top-spot with their 4-3 victory over the sixth-place Barrie Flyers at Windsor. Stratford Kroehlers joined Oshawa and Toronto Marlboros, all two points behind Windsor, with their 6-2 win over the eighth-place St. Catharines Teepees.

10 Losses For Guelph

In Saturday afternoon's twin-biller at Toronto Maple Leai Gardens the eighth-place Toronto St. Michael's Majors ran up a four-point 5-1 win over Toronto Young Rangers and Marlboros edged Guelph Biltmores 3-1 to give Guelph their 10th loss in 14 starts.

The lone Senior game saw Stratford Indians swamp Brantford Redmen 14-4 at Brantford. Indians moved into a fourth-place tie with Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen in the seven-team loop.

Galt's seventh victory in 14 statrs at Oshawa, Saturday night was marred somewhat in the loss of Norm Webster, alternate winger, who was bumped hard by Sullivan early in the second period and suffered a broken left wrist. He will be lost to Rockets for at least five weeks.

Galt Marksmen were Harry Pidhorny, Sam Mulholland, Wiggie Wylie and Harry Hopper. Dusty Blair tallied the Oshawa counters.

Cunlac Scores Winner

Jim Unlac, Spitfires' centre, scored Windsor's winning goal against Barrie with but 15 seconds remaining in the game to give them their 11th victory in 14 starts. The game had been even all the way with both goalies registering 15 saves each in the first two frames . The score was tied 1-1 and 2-2 at the end of those periods.

Cam Church led Windsor with two counters while Uniac and Gord Haidy tallied the other goal.. Paul Meger, Gerry Reid and Rusty Alkin scored for Barrie.

Dutch Hiller's Kroehlers held a 6-0 lead until the game's last five minutes of play when Jim Mexwell and Kodatsky rapped in two quickies for St. Catharines at tSratlt soa..i m'it s at Stratford. The Stratford squad divided its goal-getting evenly among the three sessions.

Kroehlers' marksmen were Jim Loader, Dinny Flanagan, George Armstrong, Elwood Small, Pierre Cadieux and Candler.

Joe Primeau's majors notched their fourth win in 13 starts and sat in eighth place with ten points. The Irish took an early lead in the afternoon's opening match at the Gardens, with the winless Rangers never threatening them.

DeCourcey Led Irish

Joe DeCourcy led St. Mike's with two counters while Pete Whelan, Joe Primeau Jr., and Oberholtzer tallie done each. Doug Chapman scored Rangers' lone counter.

In the rugged nightcap Marlboros outbumper the stubborn Guelph squad in a 10-penalty game. They took a 1-0 first-frame lead, both teams went scoreless in the second and Howey Lee with Bob Hassard put the game on ice for Toronto, each scoring in the final stanza. Frank Kent tallied the other Marlie counter. Guelph's tally came from Ron Plumb.

Brantford Coach Kenny Kipp used two goalies, switching Harry Frogley with Buzz Cockburn in his futile attempt to stem the flow of Stratford rubber into Redmen's nets. This Senior tilt was Brantford's 12th loss in 13 starts—they tied one game against Owen Sound.

Billy Flick and George Blake led Stratford with three counters each, Willy Zuke and Jim Eady tallied two each. Other Indian marksmen were Pete Long, Jack Cain, Bill Walsh and Pete Ducharme. Brantford goals came from Robin Hewson, Hoyle, Wiacek Denneny.

The second-place Hamilton Tigers visit Toronto Marlboros in tonight's lone Senior game. Tigers are 10 points behind the league-leading Dukes. There are no junior games scheduled.

JOE LOUIS MAY LOSE TITLE

Still the world's champion boxer is Joe Louis, left, who won a split decision over Jersey Joe Walcott in a 15-round battle at Madison Square Garden, New York. The champion and challenger are shown during their weighing in ceremony. Walcott weighed 194½ and Louis 211 pounds. The New York State Athletic Commission is holding a special meeting Monday to decide whether Walcott actually won the world heavyweight championship from Louis.

South became the declarer at a grand slam contract of seven in hearts. Early in the bidding east had struck in a club call. This was an indicator of where the unseen two kings may be.

West led his singleton jack of clubs and declarer must study the plays he may be called upon to try. He can sluff a club on the dummy third top spade. But he must get rid of a second south club .

He plans to lose the other losing club on a long dummy spade if it can be established. If not, he may resort to a finesse. Or he may make a try with some other play that offers a safer chance.

Trick one goes to club ace. Two top hearts pull opponent trumps. Three top spades let south sluff a club. But they reveal that dummy diggers will not set up. An alternative play must be considered.

If a diamond finesse is successful, the second club can sluff on a diamond top. But diamond king is suspected in east from the club bid. So, the safer alternate of a squeeze is tried first.

Four more trumps are led. This leaves south with a trump, a club, a diamond; dummy with A Q 3 of diamonds; east with club king and K J of diamonds. In this spot south leads his last trump.

Dummy throws diamond trey. But what will east give up? Jack of diamonds? Then dummy ace and queen are no good. Club king? Then the south club nine is good. East is utterly crushed.

The Movie Column

Hollywood, Dec. 8—(AP)—That old Bogey—man, censorship, is haunting Hollywood again. The issue has been brought into sharp focus by such recent headlines as: Un-American committee claims 'Red' films, federal censorship of movies urged, church boycotts 'Forever Amber', producers ban gangster films

The Hollywood Adage, "Everyone in the United States has two business—his own and motion pictures," was never more true than today. The industry is censored on all sides, either by rule or by pressure.

First and foremost censor is the production code adminstration, headed by Joseph I. Breen. The code is the self-regulating law established by the producers themselves. Among other things it decrees that crime in films must be punished and prohibits swear words, nudity and excessive sex.

But regulation doesn't end there. Eight states have censor boards of varying strictness. Most rigid is Ohio's, which has particular distaste for acts of violence.

The recent Christmas fable, "Miracle on 34th Street," was trimmed in Ohio. Scenes showing Santa Claus intoxicated had to be deleted.

Most cities have police censorship of movies, although the power is generally used only to curb indecent shows. However, there have been some complaints over films portraying police officers as dumb. In the south there are frequent cuts of scenes involving Negroes.

Federal censorship ended with the war, but producers still are aware of Washington's desires. Films dealing with the army, navy, Federal Bureau of Investigation or other agencies are closely watched. Hollywood usually avoids unsympathetic treatment of congressmen, for fear of reprical. The forthcoming "The Senactor was Indiscreet" is causing much uneasiness.

Despite the recent collapse of the overseas market, a weather eye is kept to foreign censorship. Prime concern has been Britain, Hollywood's best foreign customer until the 75-per cent tax

It is Britain which keeps most film couples sleeping apart. British censors require that men and women must sleep in separate beds on the screen. And if there's any scene-playing on one bed, one party must keep at least one foot on the floor.

Britain is strict about religious subjects. Christ, the Holy Trinity and the Lord's prayer cannot be mentioned in pictures. Even a Tom and Jerry cartoon which featured an angelic mouse was banned because of the rodent's halo.

Nearly all countries have some variety of censorship. Eire's is one of the toughest. Latin-America bans pictures dealing with revolutionary subjects.

FLAMES SWEEP WRECKINGS AT U.N. SITE

Firemen direct streams of water from a high water tower as they battle a spectacular blaze in a partly demolished building at New York's First Ave. and 43rd St., on the scene of the United Nation's new home project. Flames shooting high into the air were visible from across the East River and traffic along the East River drive was diverted. Three alarms were sounded and two fireboats joined land apparatus at the scene. The fire was believed to have started by sparks from an acetylene torch.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—Jim Hendy, United States Hockey League President, reports that "never before in his history of hockey" have the pro leagues been on such harmonious terms. What a contrast with the amateurs... Hottest baseball battle at Miami last week was over an amendment which would increase the number of rookies allowed on each minor league club. The farm teams favored it, but for once the independents won out.

Monday Matinee

Billy Herman, who'll get $26,000 for not managing the Pirates this season, still is looking for a minor league managerial post. And the guy who'll be helping him make connections at this week's Major League meetings is none other than Roy Hamey, the one who fired Billy. Marcel Cerdham, French and European middleweight boxing champion, continues to differ with his manager, Lucien Roupp, concerning his future plans... Marcel, now in Paris, says that as far as he knows his next fight is to be a return match against Anton Raadik, the Estonian American, in Chicago next month... Roupp, at present in the United States, had previously contradicted Cerdham original announcement that he would give Raadik a return bout, stating that the European champion was interested only in a world title fight.

Switcheroo

Montreal hockey fans will be surprised to learn that Mike McMahon, once a hard-hitting defenceman with Canadiens, is a changed man now, a strict disciplinarian who rides careful herd over his players... Now coaching the powerful Houston Huskies of the United States League, McMahon is said to assess fines for even slight violations of training ...He is as earnest in his new capacity that he sends long, indignant letters to President Jim Hendy of the U.S.H.L. protesting the unfair treatment accorded his boys of rival teams...Once he complained that an enemy player, Knick Knott, had deliberately kicked a Houston man.

Frank Filchock To Handle Tigers Next Three Years

(By The Canadian Press)

Windsor, O.K.O. lay claim to the "unofficial" Junior Ontario Rugby Football Union championship today following their 7-5 victory over the London Kiwanis on a snow covered gridiron at London's Little Memorial stadium Saturday.

The O.R F.U. did not recognize the final because the previous week's semi-final between London and Hamilton Wildcat's was thrown out, several Hamilton players being declared ineligible. The Union suggested a replay but both teams declined and then the "outlaw" final was arranged with the Windsor Club which had been waiting for the official final.

Frank Filchock, United States Football star with Hamilton Tigers who took over coaching duties of the Interprovincial Rugby Senior squad in mid-season, has entered into a "gentleman's agreement" to handle the club for the next three years and perhaps longer, President Jack Langs said Saturday.

Victoria Rugby fans saw something unusual in rugby, Saturday when Canadian Scottish Senior fifteen scored a 29-3 victory over visiting Fiji Islanders, several of whom played in bare feet after tossing away cumbersome football boots. Feature of the performance was a penalty kick by John Watson, Islander's captain, for their lone three points . Watson kicked 25 yards between the uprights using his naked "tootsies".

Ed Heusser of Montreal, Luke Hamlin of Toronto and Jim Prendergast of Syracuse, captured top pitching honors in the International Baseball League during the 1947 season. Official averages showed Heusser had the highest percentage of victories—19 wins and three defeats Prendergast won the most games 20; and Hamlin came through with the best earned-run average, giving up 2 runs a contest while winning and losing 6.

The National Police Gazett arbiter of boxing in the days John L. Sullivan, announced Sa urday it is withdrawing reco nition of Joe Louis as Wor Heavyweight Boxing Champio and recognizing Jersey Joe Wa cot.

CHAPTER 15.

Where it was arranged in cap affect over her glistening golden curls, the veil was studded with real pearls. It had been worn by Mrs. Taylor and her mother before her at their own fashionable weddings.

This wedding was to make Kay a Taylor—she already felt like a Taylor. Webb Taylor's wife! The wedding was being planned and executed by the Taylors! She was wearing the Taylor veil!

Wildly, she whirled about, crying hysterically, "Take it off! Take this gown off—it's—it's terrible!" then fell in a limp heap on the fitting—room floor.

Kay was carried to a lounge and worked over until she regained consciousness. Mrs. Taylor was all concern over this beautiful girl, soon to become her daughter. She made the proper excuses for the benefit of the hovering shopwoman: "So much entertaining, so much rushing about—the poor dear is exhausted—her nerves are on edge." She salved over the hurt feelings of the modiste, who thought Kay's wedding gown the most chic creation she had yet turned out.

Kay allowed them to assist her into the Taylor limousine, but refused to be taken to the Taylor home. She was soon in Jinnie's hands, Jinnie, who understood her best of all and had no relish for her idol marring a playboy. She undressed Kay, put her to bed, and gave her a sedative.

When Kay awoke it was late afternoon. She lay against the pillows, wondering what had caused her to make such a display of feeling in the shop. The modiste was really a nice person; she regretted having offended her. What must she think? And Webb's mother? If she couldn't control herself when trying on her wedding gown, what would she be apt to do at the wedding?

Oh—merciful heaven! —was there no way out? She buried her face in the pillow and burst into sobs.

Soon, her emotion spent, she abruptly sat upright.

"This can't go on!" she cried aloud. "It can't! I'll see Chuck—make him tell me what happened that night — that hideous night in Henn's apartment!"

She scrambled out of bed and flung open a closet door. From a long row of dresses hanging there, she snatched the first one her hand chanced to touch. Hurriedly, she pulled the rough tweed skirt over her head, next a creamy blouse. The tight—fitting tweed coat went on in a hurry, and also a small black felt hat. She called Higgins on the house phone and ordered the limousine brought around. She snatched up her black gloves and handbag, and ran downstairs.

Soon, she was climbing into the big car and saying to Higgins, "To the Bringo airplane factory—as fast as you can make it."

Higgins touched his cap, closed the door behind her and took his place at the wheel. The luxuriously appointed car swung out the long curving drive like a mammoth graceful swan.

It was nearing the close of a busy business day and the heavy downtown traffic, through which the car traveled to reach the airplane factory on the flats across town, impeded its progress. Kay sat on the edge of the back seat, impatiently drumming on the sill of the open window beside her.

She was composing a fine little speech especially for Chuck Nourse. She was trying to make it an astute speech, one that would bring out a man's highest sense of honor, make him realize how futile was concealment of crime. make him realize that it would be much wiser to face the issue of crime. She wanted him to know that she would stand by him, and no matter what came of his frankness, he could depend upon her loyalty—yes, her love. She would even tell him that.

The car moved quietly over the river bridge and slid slowly down the grade into the poorest part of Deweyton. The streets were cluttered now with boys' ball games, and dirty, ragged urchins who were the audience. The unkempt streets, the musty old buildings nauseated Kay. She drew back in the seat, closed her eyes against thesedrab surroundings where people lived abject poverty. She wondered vaguely why nothing was done about it.

Sunlight pounded down on the graceful slopes and wooded hills surrounding the Bringo landing field. A few mechanics and pilots were working in the open on shiny new airplanes. They gave Kay swift glances of curiousity, then continued with their work. "Another rich dame buying a plane," said one.

Kay stood hesitantly beneath the sign "Bringo Airplane Factory" hanging over the door, resolutely pushed it open. She walked quickly through a long hall, paused before the door marked "Manager."

Timidly she knocked, her heart pounding in her throat. This was her chance, her one big chance. She must carry through. Protect Chuck, escape from marrying Webb—both must be settled here this afternoon.

A familiar voice called sharply, "Come in!"

She flung back the door and stood trembling on the threshold, waiting for Chuck to glance up.

He sat at a big desk, thoroughly in a chart before him. His blond hair was as touseled as ever, but he looked like an executive now. He was wearing an expression that was new to her, so stern it frightened her.

"Good afternoon," she offered timidly.

He jumped as if he had been shot. "Kay! " His voice was filled with unadmitted longing.

She saw how drawn his face was as he strode toward her with outstretched hand. He looked as if he had been suffering acutely over something.

She withdrew her hand from his with quick determination. She must get hold of herself.

"I—I hope I'm not intruding," she faltered.

"Not at all—so glad you came."

He crossed the room, placed a chair for her, sat down behind his desk, seemed to search for words.

A light in his eyes flared, died down.

She got out jerkily, "You've—you've a nice factory here. It looks interesting."

She glanced helplessly around the big, nearly bare room, wondering how she could have made so insane a remark.

"Yes—I find it interesting," he said soberly.

He was thinking, "All this beating about the bush—she's come for a purpose. I must find out about it."

"I'm glad—you're so successful."

"Thank you. You prefer successful men, don't you?"

She flushed at this tinge of sarcasm.

He could have bitten off his tongue.

"Forgive me, Kay. That was a crude remark—and unnecessary. You can't exactly help being what you are—after the training you've had. Town houses, country houses, famous hotels, travel—all a habit with you. Hennington wasn't so bad—bnt now—your latest choice—Oh well" he laughed harshly, "I'm off again. Forgive me—it hardly concerns me."

"Yes Chuck—unfortunately perhaps—it does concern you," she said softly.

His burning hazel eyes widened. He spread his two capable hands on the desk and leaned toward her.

"Would you — like to explain that statement?" he challenged quickly.

"If it hadn't been for that letter you wrote me—or call it a note if you like — I would be free now to act differently."

He frowned, sank back in his chair.

"I'm as sorry about that note as you are. Kay. That piece of literature," he laughed again "must have caused you no little embarrassment. How I could have been so careless as to lose it, I can't fathom."

"It's where you lost it —that matters."

He looked up at the white ceiling apparently deep in thought. She watched him wistfully, praying to share his confidence.

Finally, he said slowly, "Hanged if I know where I lost it. I wish I did. You've asked me about that before — as if it mattered!"

He looked worried.

She went a little white and urged low, "Please try to remember, Chuck. It's—it's so very important."

He glanced at her speculatively said almost sharply. "You're a perfect enigma to me, Kay. Ever since Hennington Blare passed out, you've been one."

She rose stiffly.

"Don't go!" he exclaimed, getting up and walking around the desk to her.

She laid a hand on his arm, pleaded, "If you'd only remember—where you lost that letter."

He moved from her hand, shrugged his broad shoulders.

"Well—that's that, Kay. I wish I'd never written the letter. It's kept me in hot water ever since. You wouldn't blame my carelessness so much, Kay— you would forgive me for everything—if you weren't so set on making a brilliant marriage."

She felt as if the floor were rocking beneath her feet, For a tense second she wanted to blurt out the truth. But never, never must he know what she was doing for him by marrying Webb Taylor.

She turned away and left him standing there, looking as disturbed as she had ever seen him. He had said, "You would forgive me for everything." What did he mean by —everything? Oh —Chuck!

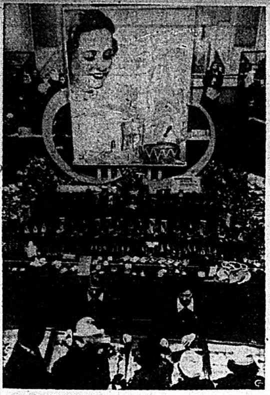
MOSCOW STORES CLOSE IN PANIC BUYING



This is a view of the perfume counter in Moscow's principal department store, Mostorg, which reportedly shut its doors and posted signs saying, "Store Closed for Repairs," in the wave of panic buying and bank runs which hit the Russian capital and other large cities in Russia. The U. S. State Department's official "Voice of America" broadcast in 23 languages told the world of Russia's serious economy trouble. The broadcast said that the bank runs and panic buying started when it was reported that the Russians are planning to devaluate the ruble.

Dominion Steel Grant Increases Of 40 Cents Day

Glace Bay, N.S., Dec. 8—(CP)—Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation will hand a Christmas package in the form of wage increases of 40 cents a day effective Dec. 1 to its more than 12,000 Nova Scotia miners because of increased levels of production, raising the daily basic wage to $7.24.

Announcement of the increase, provided for in the company's agreement signed last spring with District 26, United Mine Workers (C.C.L.), was made yesterday by District President Freeman Jenkins. Though the 6,000 miners of South Cape Breton fell short of the pre-war level production goal by one-fifth of a ton, they will also be given the boost.

Following the announcement, Mines Minister M. A. Patterson said the government colliery at Inverness would grant a similar increase to its miners and small independent operators in the province were expected to follow suit.

At the same time, H.C.M. Gordon, manager of coal operations for Dosco, said employees of Florence Colliery, out of work for the last 10 days, would receive advances of $60 each to tide them over the Christmas season. The pit had been idle since a gale ripped down a bankhead trestle.

Complete Report Requested by Justice Dept.

Toronto, Dec. 8. (CP)—A complete report on the evidence and sentencing at Kitchener Thursday of Denton Johnston, 26-year-old London contractor, has been asked by the Attorney-General's Department, C.R. Magone, Deputy Attorney-General, said Friday.

Johnson was fined $3,500 for having carnal knowledge of a girl under 14 with an alternative of one year definite and another indeterminate in Ontario reformatory.

"We want the details of the charge and the case explained for the purpose of examining the evidence to see whether we should appeal," said Mr. Magone. "If a man is convicted for having carnal knowledge of a girl under 14, he could not be fined but is liable to imprisonment for life with whipping. We don't know the details yet."

Will Investigate Poaching Reports

Toronto, Dec. 8—(CP) — Commissioner William Stringer of the provincial police said today his department is investigating reports that five men, including policemen, have been accused of illegally shooting deer in Algonquin park.

The five were said to have been turned over to the Wildlife Officer at Pembroke after being caught by park rangers and game overseers Monday night in an autombile chase ending at Smoke Lake.

Another case of poaching was reported in the park when James Latour, 52, of Mackey was convicted on five counts of poaching and sentenced to three months and fined $500 or an additional five months.

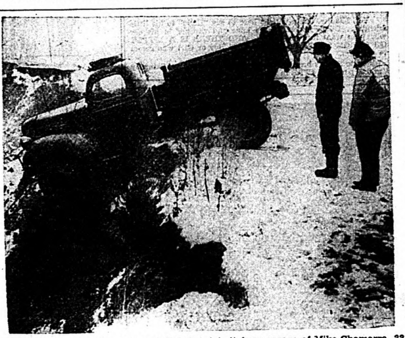
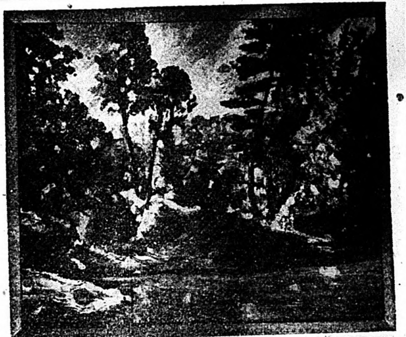
Cause of death of Mrs. Julia Kabas, 54, found in Dundurn Park, Hamilton, Saturday, had not been determined last night, Hamilton police said. Report of the post-mortem examination is awaited, but there were no marks of external violence that could have caused death. Seen above are Mrs. Kabas' husband and four daughters, left to right: Mrs. Linda Moroz, holding "tippy," the family pet; Mike Kabas, Mary (on father's knee), Mrs. Janet Dunn and Rose Kabas.



Truck Driver Nearly Dumps Self Into Lake — Abandoned truck hanging half over a 300-foot face of Scarboro Bluffs, at edge of R. H. Curtiss' front lawn, indicates narrow escape from death to driver who stole it from garage of Mike Chamarra, 33 Edwin St., Toronto, some time Sunday night. Chamarra didn't know the truck was gone until the police phoned him.



Canadian landscape by Igor Gouzenko, former cipher clerk in the Russian Embassy at Ottawa and key witness in the spy trials, depicts a pool in the woods with low-lying hills in the background. Three of his paintings, all done while under R.C.M.P. guard, are on view at Eaton's in Montreal. R.C.M.P. frown on exhibition. Gouzenko follows an impressive style of painting and slaps his colors on thickly and vividly.

WARNING STRIKE

strike committee to enforce demands of a general wage increase.

Two persons were injured, one severely, in attempts to halt transport in the Paris area. At three subway stations strikers tried to close the gates, but were prevented by police, who made several arrests.

Buses Stoned

At Mairie D'Ivry terminus a dozen strikers tied up the assistant station master and another employee, took their keys and cut telephone lines.

Some buses were stoned.

A few hours before the subway and bus strike was called, the government announced the arrest of nearly 1,000 persons in a campaign against sabotage in strike-crippled industries.

The Interior Ministry said security police had made the arrests in the last eight days — about half of them Saturday and Sunday.

"Some have been detained," he said. "Others have been fined and a few jailed."

Despite these measures, there still were scattered reports of alleged sabotage. Among these incidents was the derailment of the Lyon-Paris express yesterday near Vaise, where a section of track was reported unbolted. There were no casualties and damage was reported slight.

Apparently encouraged by developments on the strike front, Labor Minister Daniel-Mayer said today he believes an end to the work stoppages is "in sight."

Government sources said that many strikers had returned to work in the last week and that the total number out has receded considerably from the peak figure of between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000.

The C.G.T., however, has not called off strikes on France's railways, in her ports, mines and mills which still are crippling industry and transportation.

Mrs. Julia Kabas,

Whose death, at first believed due to violence, is being investigated.

Editorial Writer On Windsor Star Dies Suddenly

Windsor, Ont., Dec. 8 — (CP)— James Jeffrey Dingman, 42, of the Windsor Star editorial staff, member of a well known Canadian newspaper family, died suddenly at his home here Friday.

He had been in failing health for the last two years although he was on the job Thursday.

Jeff, as he was known to scores of newspaper men and others across Canada, was a native of Prince Edward Island. He was brought up in Calgary, starting his newspaper career there where he was made city editor at 19.

Later he went to the Regina Leader-post, the London Free Press, Toronto Mail and Empire, the Globe and Mail and the Windsor Star.

Surviving are his widow, formerly Isabel Turnbull of Winnipeg, and one daughter, Jocelyn, at the University of Toronto; a brother, Harold, of the Ottawa press gallery; and a sister, Mrs. E. J. Thompson of Peterborough.

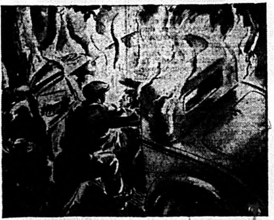
Truck Driver Saves Two From Blazing Car

WINS DOW AWARD



STEPHEN ARTHUR

OF ANCASTER, ONT.,

makes quick, courageous rescue

A big transport truck was just beginning a night run to Woodstock. It was after midnight. There was little traffic on the roads.

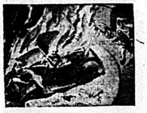
SEES TWENTY FOOT FLAME

Suddenly, above the roar of his engine, Stephen Arthur heard a loud crash. Then, on rounding a bend, he jammed on his brakes. Piled up against a tree he saw the broken wreckage of a car. Before Arthur could stop his truck, a sheet of flame leaped nearly twenty feet from the wreck.

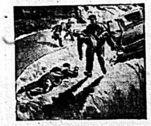
OCCUPANTS UNCONSCIOUS

By the time Arthur reached the car it was blazing fiercely. The gas-tank had blown up, spraying the unconscious occupants with blazing fuel. A wall of flame confronted Arthur as he wrenched open the driver's door. Heedless of his own safety, he reached into the fire, grabbed the driver and pulled him clear. On turning back he saw another body in the flames. Again he reached through the blazing gasoline, and hauled the man from the car. Shortly afterwards, both men were rushed to hospital.

In spite of his efforts, Stephen Arthur was unable to save the life of a third victim. This in no way lessens our admiration for his courage in saving the lives of two men. We are proud to pay tribute to Stephen Arthur of Ancaster, Ontario, through the presentation of The Dow Award.



Flames were already leaping from the wrecked coupe when Arthur raced to the rescue of the unconscious victims.



In spite of the intense heat caused by the blazing gasoline, Arthur managed to drag two men from the car. His bravery undoubtedly saved their lives.

THE DOW AWARD is a citation for outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. Winners are selected by the Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Canadian daily newspapers.

Dr. Murray Butler To be Buried on Columbia Campus

New York, Dec. 8 (AP) — Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, who died early yesterday of bronchial pneumonia, will be buried tomorrow after funeral services in St. Paul's chapel on the campus of Columbia University which he served as President for 44 years.

The eminent educationalist and world peace advocate, 85 years old and blind in his last years, died in hospital where he had been taken after an attack of indigestion.

Dr. Butler was President Emeritus of Columbia since his retirement in 1945. A native of Elizabeth, N.J., he entered Columbia as a freshman at 16 and almost his entire life was spent there. He was decorated by 15 foreign countries and received honorary degrees from 38 institutions of learning, including several in Canada.

One major accomplishment in Columbia's great expansion during Dr. Butler's regime was establishment of the country's first graduate school of journalism. He served on the Columbia faculty, and was dean from 1890 until he became president in 1901.

In 1931, Dr. Butler shared the Nobel Peace prize with Jane Addams. He had been a leading advocate of the League of Nations and World Court. In 1912, he was the unsuccessful Republican candidate for Vice-President.

(Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada said in Ottawa Sunday that Canada shares with the United States the loss of Dr. Butler, described by the Prime Minister as one who had been foremost in promotion of international understanding.

(The Prime Minister said he enjoyed the personal friendship of Dr. Butler over many years.)

Police Patrols Watch Poultry, Christmas Trees

London, Dec. 8 (Reuters) — The approach of the Christmas season in Britain's countryside has been marked by increased police patrols and farmer precautions against large-scale raids by poultry and Chrstmas tree thieves.

Rackateers, large and small know that at this time of the year stolen turkeys, geese, ducks and other fowl find a ready market among meat-starved restaurants, hotels and private buyers "with no questions asked." Last year thousands of pounds worth of poultry passed into the black market in this manner.

The thieves often work in highly-organized gangs. One band of robbers is believed to use chloroform and specially-equipped van in regular swoops on farms in the counties around London. Gang agents tour the countryside to spy for favorable opportunities

A subsidiary racket is the plundering of fir tree and holly plantations. "Spivs" working just before dawn uproot young saplings or saw them off at the base Within a few hours the trees are for sale in the London street markets where they fetch high prices.

Farmers, armed with rifles and sticks will keep a night watch during the next two weeks to help police. In addition, Scotland Yard cars keep a vigil on the edge of the metropolitan police district and check incoming traffic.

Ministry of food officials, meanwhile, are worried by illict slaughtering of pigs and cattle, for sale in the black market. Unofficial estimates say that the number of pigs illegally killed —and thus lost to the official meat-rationing scheme— amounts to more than 500,000 in the last 12 months.

Tonnage of Year Over 100,000,000 Thru St. Mary's Canal

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Dec. 8 (CP)—The Canadian ship canal, by-passing the St. Mary's River rapids, closed at midnight as inter-lake navigation neared its close after one of the busiest seasons in years.

Locks on the United States side of the river remain open to handle the remaining 41 vessels expected to head from Lake Superior to lower lake ports with grain cargoes. Of the 41, 10 are U.S.-owned and 31 are Canadian. The last two ore carriers of the season locked down Saturday night—the Widner and the George Crawford of the Pittsburgh Steamship Company.

Yesterday only one vessel went through the locks, the Prescott heading downward at 10 p.m. A northwest gale with snow held three vessels—the Hagarty, Evertton and C. A. Reiss—at anchor above the locks over night. They were due to continue their voyages today.

Tonnage through the locks — both U.S. and Canadian—is expected to surpass 100,000,000 tons for the season.

Three Traffic Deaths in Seven Fatalities

(By The Canadian Press)

Slippery conditions with roads banked by heavy snow made motorists cautious and there were only three traffic deaths out of the seven reported weekend fatalities in Eastern Canada, a survey by The Canadian Press showed today.

Of the four other weekend deaths, one man suffered a heart attack in the excitement of watching a fire, a woman was found dead of an undetermined cause, a six-months-old baby was burned to death and one man was victim of a fall.

Chris Fowler, 72, dropped dead from excitement watching a garage burn in Hagersville, Ont., Saturday night. Two cars were lost in the fire.

John Adam. 22, of Toronto, was struck by an automobile in North Toronto Saturday. The vehicle jumped a curb when the brakes apparently failed. A Toronto window cleaner, John Jones, was killed in a three-storey fall from a Toronto building. Police said he had not used his safety belt.

Mrs. Julias Kabas, 54-year-old mother of four was found Saturday morning on the rear verandah of Hamilton's Dundurn Park Museum. There were no marks of violence on her body but her clothing was disarranged.

Willis Smith of Hull, Que., 24, was drowned yesterday when his motor car plunged into the Gatineau River near Wakefield, 25 miles north of Ottawa on the Hull-Maniwaki highway. Five other passengers were rescued.

Six-month-old Zayne Gordon Dawson burned to death at Montreal, Saturday, when a large wooden building serving as temporary housing at the Jacques Cartier barracks was destroyed by fire.

At Brockville, Frederick King, elderly district farmer died in hospital yesterday of injuries suffered Friday when knocked down by a truck during a snowstorm while assisting occupants of three cars involved in a collision in front of his farm.

Microscope Looks Inside Chocolate Bar

Camden, N. J., Dec. 8—(AP)—Scientists have developed a hyper-sensitive electron microscope that can see inside a chocolate bar, examine threads of rayon hose and inspect fibres of rubber tires, but electron microscopists to use the electron "eye" are scarce. Methods of coping with the shortage will be discussed at a three-day international conference, bringing together research specialists from Canada, Britain, France, Australia, Holland and United States. The conference opens Thursday is Philadelphia.

FRED COOKE
A Guardian of The AO Belleville Plant

Dependable is the word for Fred Cooke, a watchman for the Belleville plant of American Optical Company Canada Limited. He is shown above registering the time and department on a special clock as he makes the rounds of the factory. As he travels from room to room, he makes certain that the plant is not endangered in any way, particularly by fires, most dangerous and costly of all industrial hazards.

A guardian over the safety of the AO Belleville plant for the past five years, Fred also fires the boiler in the furnace room so that plenty of hot water and steam are constantly available. Watchman duties in any plant are extremely important and that's why we entrust them to Fred. When he's on the job, making his rounds faithfully and promptly, we know the plant is in safe hands.

Fred is a member of the AO Service and Social Club and is also affiliated with the Orange and Black Preceptory Lodges. At one time a farmer, he is still interested in farm work and particularly enjoys ploughing contests.

We might add that Fred's son-in-law, Mel Wickens, is also employed on the night shift. It really does look as though the Cooke family is firmly convinced that AO is a good place in which to work. And that, we might add, is one of the reasons why the company likes to consider itself a good neighbor and a good citizen in Belleville.

2,000,000 French Strikers Ordered Back to Work

Communists Capitulate To Govt. Ultimatum

Paris Dec. 9 —(AP) — The Communist - dominate French confederation General du Travail ordered France's 2,000,000 strikers back to work tomorrow and thus complied with a government ultimatum.

Communist leaders had indicated previously they would defy the government, which had set tomorrow as the deadline for the return to work.

The French government earlier had indicated it would take militant steps against strikers who defy its new order.

Express Dissatisfaction

Benoit Frachon, Communist Secretary-General of the confederation General du Travail, to which the ultimatum was delivered, expressed extreme dissatisfaction with the terms of the cabinet statement, offering bonuses and promises to the strikers.

The Central National Strike Committee, a solidly Communist group of C.G.T. leaders operating independently, declared immediately that its strike order still stood adding that steps even were being taken to strengthen effectiveness of the work stoppages which have crippled the French economy.

Premier Robert Schuman's new offer to the strikers, made last night, provided:

1. Strikers must return to work by tomorrow.
2. For so doing, they will receive—as will the millions who did not strike—cost-of-living bonuses of 1,500 francs ($12.50) a month, dating from Nov. 24.
3. In addition, the government will undertake immediate studies in an effort to stabilize salaries and prices, retroactive to Dec. 1.
4. Further, the government will not attempt to prosecute strikers, except those guilty of sabotage, violence preventing non-strikers from working, or for other violations of the new anti-strike law.
5. Strikers will receive no pay for time lost during the walkouts, which began nearly a month ago.

The strikers want the minimum monthly wage boosted to 10,800 francs ($91), which is $7 more than the government's best offer so far and $20 better than the present minimum.

CORONER'S JURY GIVEN SHADOWY GLIMPSE OF MEN

Inquest Into Deaths of Vigus and Scott Enters Into Fifth Day

Toronto, Dec. 9 — (CP)—For the second time since the opening of the inquest into the strangle-slaying of George Vigus and Iris Scott, the coroner's jury yesterday was given a shadowy glimpse of two men who may have been responsible for their death.

A street-car motorman told the jury inquiring into the death of the 39-year-old factory superintendent and his 21-year-old friend that he picked up two men at 2:25 a.m. at an intersection 1½ blocks from Toronto's west-end High Park one mid-September morning — "it might have been Sept. 11."

The bodies of the couple were discovered in the trunk of an automobile in the park Sept. 12. They disappeared from their homes two days earlier.

Crown counsel Henry Bull explained that the motorman, William Weedon, was not approached by police until some time after the bodies were found.

Before Weedon's surprise testimony, a crowded courtroom heard 19-year-old George Vigus, Jr., undergo two hours of intensive cross-examination which shed little new light on the case.

Calmly Answers Questions

The slim, well-groomed youth calmly answered Mr. Bull's rapid-fire, questioning, assuring the Crown counsel repeatedly that neither he nor any other member of the Vigus family had suspected any illicit relations between his father and Miss Scott.

With no outward show of emotion, the youth responded to Mr. Bull's questioning on every detail of his movements from the time his father disappeared to his discovery of the bodies.

Electors Approve Wide Range Of Civic Enterprises

(By The Canadian Press)

Ontario's citizens in more than 60 towns and hamlets yesterday elected their councils for another year and voted — mostly approvingly — on a wide range of civic enterprises and plans.

Only two of the three cities concerned held mayoralty contests, the other — Sault Ste. Marie — having elected its chief magistrate previously by acclamation. In the others, Stratford elected Thomas E. Henry mayor by 1,429 votes over Wilfred P. Gregory with one poll to be heard from, and North Bay put into office its youngest mayor in history.

He was 34-year-old Alderman C. Price who defeated his only opponent, former Alderman J. F. Grainger, by 2,580 votes to 1,627. Another highlight of the North Bay election was the installation of Mrs. Gordon McNaughton as Another storm appears to be developing over New Mexico and it is expected to move to the central states Wednesday with snow spreading into the Windsor area late in the day.

Prime Minister Says Situation In Europe Appalling

Ottawa, Dec. 9 — (CP) — A warning by Prime Minister Mackenzie King that the European situation is shaping up in a more "threatening manner" than at any time since before the Second World War today was placed before the Canadian people.

Mr. King put his warning on the Common's record last night when he entered the Throne Speech debate and in a review of his recent trip overseas termed the situation in Europe "appalling."

"I do not believe," he said, "it is possible to exaggerate what may come at this time or almost

RENT CONTROLS ON DWELLINGS LIKELY EXTENDED

May be Held At Least to Mar. 31 '49

Ottawa, Dec. 9 (CP). — Rent controls on domestic dwellings are expected to be extended by parliament, either at its current sitting or when it resumes next month, to the end of March, 1949, informed sources said today.

One of the things parliament must crowd into its two-week, pre-Christmas session is approved of some measure to continue present controls beyond Dec. 31, when they are due to expire under the Transitional Measures Act. The Throne Speech did not indicate the length of this extension, but possibly it would be for only a few months, to enable parliament to discuss government policies at greater length after the session resumes.

Finance Minister Abbott, however, has stated previously that domestic rental controls would outlive all other price controls, and sources here think any extension of rent ceilings would be for at least a one-year period, probably to March 31, 1949.

It already has been announced that commercial rent controls will expire next March 8. Commercial controls were eased by 25 per cent last spring.

There is no indication of whether the government intends to keep ceiling rents on domestic dwellings at their present level. Last April landlords were permitted to increase rents by 10 per cent provided they offered their tenant a two-year lease at the new figure.

Abbott Announces Changes In Economic Program

Ottawa, Dec. 9 —(CP)— First concessions in the government program to conserve Canada's dwindling supply of United States dollars were announced in the Commons yesterday by Finance Minister Abbott.

The changes, effective Nov. 18, are in the new Canadian excise taxes. They lift the 25 per cent tax from purchase of electric and gas refrigerators and oil burners for industrial and non-recreational commercial use.

25 per cent tax is withdrawn also from electric and gas stoves, ranges and heaters adapted for any purpose.

Mr. Abbott said, however, that the 25 per cent tax on electric or gas refrigerators, refrigerating components, oil burners and oil burning equipment, will still apply when these items are adapted to household use or for use in apartment houses, places of entertainment, amusement or recreation such as rinks, halls, clubs or auditoria.

The tax will be extended to air-conditioning, cooling or filtering equipment for the same uses.

Tax officials said that wholesalers and retailers will not be compelled to refund the tax to buyers on purchases made since Nov. 18, the date the taxes went into effect and the date from which the changes will be effective.

"The government will not collect the tax and it will be a matter between the seller and the purchaser and the seller's conscience as to whether there will be any refund if a higher price was charged," said one official.

Some Pointed Questions Will be Asked Before Vote Taken on Foreign Aid

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP).—Official Greek secrecy over the number of casualties in the campaign against Communist-led guerrillas drew the ire of several United States senators today.

The refusal of the Athens government to provide casualty lists to members of the appropriations committee who toured Europe last fall was cited by some of the senators as indicating there has been little real fighting.

They said the 125,000 man Greek army compares with about 15,000 guerrillas.

This was one aspect of the senators' findings which may touch off fireworks when the appropriations group is called upon to vote funds to finance long-range foreign aid.

The committee members told a reporter they want explanations on these other widely separated developments:

1. The destruction of 2,000 four-engine American bombers on German flying fields at the time Greece was using American dollars to buy smaller second-hand British war planes.
2. Evidence that American fishing boats, turned over to the Greeks, are lying idle in Greek ports.
3. Reports that Russia has refused to return 8,000 freight cars in which dismantled German industrial equipment was shipped from the Anglo-American zones to the Soviet Union and its satellites.
4. The failure to distribute what some members said amounts to $75,000,000 in United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration (U.N.R.R.A.) supplies that have been standing in European depots for months.

Senator Milton Young (Rep.-N.D.) said it is his understanding that the Russians had protested the presence of so many American bombers on German flying fields and that they had been ordered destroyed before the United States stiffened its policy toward Russia.

City Council Accepts Offer Of W.C.A. to Turn Over Hospital to Municipality

In accordance with the provisions of the offer of the Women's Christian Association, city council at their regular meeting Monday evening voted to take over and operate the Belleville General Hospital as a municipal project. The city will assume all liabilities and assets.

Provisions of the W.C.A. offer are that the city will provide "up to $100,000 for extension of the Belleville Home for the Aged and that a private bill turning the hospital over be prepared and forwarded to the Association for approval. The money for the extension to the Home for the Aged would have to have the approval of the Ontario Municipal Board.

Tabling of the committee recommendation for acceptance of the W.C.A. offer brought out considerable discussion on the part of council members, several of whom objected to the sum of money for the proposed addition to the Home for the Aged being contingent on the city taking over the hospital.

Ald. Allin Opposed

"I am strictly opposed to spending $100,000 on the Home for the Aged without a vote of the people," stated Alderman Allin in opening up the discussion. Alderman Hyde also took this attitude.

Alderman Lazenby wanted to know why the ante for the Home for the Aged had been raised from the $60,000 figure which had been originally mentioned.

"The W.C.A. does not know what the addition will cost under the present day building costs," returned Alderman Lattimer, chairman of the special committee appointed to investigate the hospital proposal. "As it is we are getting a half million dollar plant to operate."

To a question from Alderman Allin, Mr. Lattimer replied that the hospital was currently operating under a small deficit but it was considered that with the recent increase in rates, the deficit would be taken care of. He added that the council had no alternative but to take the hospital over as the W.C.A. had stated it was now too much for them to handle.

Wanted Separate Vote

Alderman Allin declared however that the matter of taking over the hospital and of providing up to the $100,000 for the Home for the Aged should be dealt with separately. Alderman Tice wondered if the city could legally transfer $100,000 to the association.

Ald. Butler pointed out that it was not a question of the W.C.A. coming to council this year or possibly even next year for $100,000. "The association merely wants assurance that the money will be available for the addition to the Home for the Aged when it is decided to build."

"If the old people in the city were not looked after by the W.C.A., then the city would be trying to do it," continued the alderman. "We councillors represent the taxpayers and at times we must take the bull by the horns and this is one of the occasions when council should take the responsibility of granting the needed money. In any event the amount would have to be approved by the Municipal Board."

Relieve Congestion

Ald. Hyde wanted to know if the addition to the Home for the Aged would take care of the clinical patients at the hospital. He was told that it would relieve congestion at the hospital to a certain extent as the city had several patients at the hospital for whom the bills were being paid.

"We have been criticized before for going to the Municipal Board for approval to spend money and I for one will not support the recommendation," reiterated Ald. Allin.

"But just what would happen if the taxpayers turned the amount down?" asked Ald. Lattimer.

"After all this is still a democracy and the people have the right to vote on a money matter of this nature," returned Ald. Allin.

Council Not Bound Claim

Alderman Armstrong stated he was agreeable that the city should take over the hospital but he was not in favor of spending $100,000 on the Home for the Aged when there were negotiations underway for the construction of a convalescent hospital.

"The W.C.A. are asking up to $100,000 and that does not bind this council to anything" replied Alderman Butler. Alderman Chamberlain was of the opinion that with the W.C.A. out of the picture, the proposed convalescent hospital was now "gone by the boards."

Alderman Armstrong felt however that the convalescent hospital could be operated as an auxiliary to the hospital. More accommodation was needed, he said.

Alderman Clarke pointed out that the city was now paying for accommodation at nursing homes of a considerable number of old people who could be at the Home for the Aged if there was additional accommodation.

Up to Municipal Board

Alderman Allin made it clear that he did not oppose the city taking over the hospital but that he did oppose the granting of up to $100,00 for Home for the Aged without vote of the people. "That matter is up to the municipal board," replied Alderman Butler by way of closing the discussion.

When the recommendation to take over the hospital and to provide up to $100,000 for the Home for the Aged came to a vote, Alderman Allin and Wilbur opposed the recommendation while Armstrong, Butler, Chamberlain, Clarke, Duffy, Follwell, Harvey, Hyde, Lattimer, Lazenby Tice and Vanner voted in favor. Mayor Follwell was not present at the time the vote was taken.

Christmas Buying Shows More Cautious Attitude

(By The Canadian Press)

Canada's Christmas gift shoppers this year are buying cautiously — and practically — with one eye on zooming cost-of-living and the other on slimmer pocketbooks, a survey by The Canadian Press shows today.

Main reasons given for lack of splurge or sales rush include increased most of household day-to-day needs, commodity taxes, recent custom restrictions and higher duties.

The general trend reveals that in most Canadian centres gift purchases are at par or below with those of last year while luxury goods are slow in finding buyers.

Meantime, with less than two weeks of shopping before Christmas, this is the buying trend as reported by major Canadian cities:

A Vancouver department store manager said that during the war the stock phrase was "I want it. How much is it?" Today, it's "How much is it?"

Westerners Want Real Thing

Edmonton is typical of many Western centres with customers preferring hosiery, shirts and children's underwear. Some are spending more but carefully and are not so willing to accept substitutes. General opinion was divided on luxury sales with one store saying prices "are far ahead of last year but there's still considerable buying."

Total of units sold so far are less, but with hiked prices counter-tills are ringing a merry tune, Toronto department stores report. Generally, most goods are up 10 per cent, while other lines—leather, metal and glassware, dresses and suits, millinery and shoes — are up 25 per cent. Early Christmas trees sold 10 per cent over last year.

As in other Ontario cities, merchandise is plentiful — except in silk and nylon hosiery and lingeries. One merchant added he thought all departmental lines are up at least 100 per cent since 1943.

Ottawa, Montreal Unchanged

Both Ottawa and Montreal consumer buying is "just about the same" as 1946. Luxury purchases are up and toy counters have been pretty well stripped.

Retail spokesmen in St. John, N.B., report that, unlike recent years, the Christmas rush has yet

GEN. MacARTHUR BECOMES 33RD DEGREE MASON

Tokyo, Dec. 9 — (AP) — The 33rd Degree of Masonry was conferred upon Gen. MacArthur was elected to the 33rd Degree, ancient and accepted Scottish rite of Freemasonry, at a Supreme Council session in 1945.

FIRST WOLF SHOT IN YEARS

Meaford, Dec. 9—(CP) — The first wolf shot in this area in 10 years—a 50-pounder, was brought down by Ross and Roger Gibbons in nearby St. Vincent township on Monday. A wolf hunt is being organized because of the heaviest slaughter of sheep in 25 years.

GENERAL ELECTION HINTED AS KING, BRACKEN CLASH

Non-Confidence Vote Called by Opposition

Ottawa, Dec. 9 — (CP) — Hint of a possible general election sooner than the opposition expected was dangled by Prime Minister Mackenzie King in the Commons yesterday after John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, called for a vote of non-confidence in the government.

Mr. King gave the cautiously-worded hint after Mr. Bracken concluded a 1½ hour address in the Throne Speech debate by urging that the Governor-General be advised that his "advisers do not possess the confidence of the Canadian people."

Mr. King, who devoted most of a 45-minute speech to depicting a sombre picture of conditions in Europe, said there was no better test of the people's confidence than an election and recalled that the government had won the last five by-elections.

"What about the sixth?" Mr. Bracken called across the floor.

"The sixth may be a general election and may come sooner than my honorable friend expects," retorted Mr. King.

"I am not saying that it will, but what I do say is that my honorable friend, the leader of the opposition, would be the most surprised and disappointed person were it to come at any time, in the position in which he is, as leader of his party, at the present time."

Sharply Critical

While Mr. Bracken was sharply critical of the government's price control, agricultural and economic policies, Mr. King made only a brief reference to these matters. He said Mr. Bracken's statements would be answered during the next two weeks when the Geneva trade agreements, the import restrictions and continuation of price control legislation will be discussed.

Referring to Mr. Bracken's request for a report on his recent trip overseas, Mr. King learned that the situation in Europe now is "more threatening" than at any time since before the outbreak of the Second World War.

The speeches of the leaders came after J. A. Dion (L — Lake St. John-Roberval) and J. H. Dickey (L — Halifax) moved and seconded the address in reply to the Throne speech.

Debate Limited

A short time earlier members ended a noisy, name-calling debate on procedure by voting 139 to 69 for Mr. King's motion that would limit the pre-Christmas debate on the throne speech to one day. The C. C. F. party supported the government while Progressive Conservative and Social Credit members opposed it.

Mr. King said the debate would be extended beyond one day to allow all party leaders and one member of the government, besides himself, to speak. He felt that if a halt was not then called to the debate the House would never get around to the special legislation it was called especially to consider at this time.

Creeping Paralysis in Red Industry Military Power Seen in Lack of Oil

Ras Hanura, Sadui Arabia—(Via Cable)—Russia's industrial economy and military potential has developed a case of creeping anaemia from lack of oil.

The International Oilfield "grapevine" says Soviet oil production has slumped at home and is falling off at an astounding rate in the satellite countries.

It says exploration for new sources is slow, and development of new fields even slower.

It takes into account that American shipments which once supplied over 3,000,000 barrels a year to Russia are drying up under protests from Congress.

In all geologists and technicians here expect Russia to run a 7,000,000-ton oil deficit for 1947. They explained that inefficient Russian production methods are notorious throughout foreign oil fields.

Dale Nix, production manager for the American oil development in Arabia, said it long has been considered "just a matter of time" until Russian methods began to cut the production from fields in Romania, Hungary and Austria.

In Romania, home of Europe's richest oil fields, the flow is said to have dropped from 85,000 to 68,000 barrels a day. Russia gets half the output as reparations payments.

Oilfield "Intelligence" reports Hungary's production has fallen off 2,500 barrels a day from last year's rate. In Russia, the Baku yield —is reported down 15 to 25 per cent.

Russia Orders French Mission To Leave Country

Charges Hostile Acts Contrary to Agreement

London, Dec. 9 (AP) —Soviet Russia called off her trade talks with France today and accused the French government of acts "hostile and contrary to the spirit of alliance and mutual assistance" between the two countries.

Moscow radio broadcast the contents of a note handed to the French Charge D'Affaires in Moscow by the Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, Feodor Gousev in which the Russian decision on the trade talks was disclosed.

Agreement Annulled

Simultaneously Russia's note charged the French Government with "unilaterally annulling" the two-year-old repatriation agreement for the return of each other's nationals, ordered the Russian repatriation mission home from France and announced the expulsion of the French mission from Russia.

The Soviet embassy in Paris announced earlier that the French repatriation mission had been ordered to leave Russian territory at once.

Gousev cited a letter of Dec. 6 from M. Pierre Charpentier, Charge D'Affaires of the French embassy in Moscow, which he asserted "shows the French government is unilaterally annulling the Franco-Soviet repatriation agreement of June 29, 1945."

The Russian said in his own note that the French letter had accused "two members of the Soviet repatriation commission, Filatov and Sorokin, of subversive activities against France." He said the Soviet Government regarded those accusations as "foul slander, devoid of any foundations and fabricated..."

Moscow radio last night criticized the French action in searching Camp Beauregard and taking away three children of a naturalized Frenchman whose former wife, a Soviet citizen, had taken them there. French mobile guards, who were reported to have surrounded Beauregard, were said to have seized a small quantity of arms.

The radio said the Russians also had protested the scattered arrests on Nov. 25 of a number of members of the Union of Soviet citizens.

Gousev contended in his new note today that the French actions were attempts "to mislead French public opinion on the subject of the true position in France at the present time."

The French foreign office announced last Friday that French experts were going to Moscow to negotiate for shipment of 300,000 tons of Russian wheat for France with France supplying industrial articles in exchange. The French government said that among the goods it could export were phosphates, electrical parts, optical glass and rubberware.

CANON J. TURNER NORTHMISSIONARY DIES IN WINNIPEG

Succumbs to Accidentally-Inflicted Bullet Wound in Far North

Winnipeg, Dec. 9 — (CP) — Death ended the saga of Canon John Hudspith Turner today, the Anglican missionary, whose evacuation from an Arctic sick bed Nov. 22 became one of the storied exploits of Army-Air Force rescue operations. He died in hospital here at 6.30 a.m. C.S.T., Dr. H. M. Speechly, medical representative of the Anglican Church, announced.

It took death to balk the English-born Canon's determination to return to his mission post at lonely Moffet Inlet following hoped-for recovery from an accidentally-inflicted bullet wound Sept. 24, just as polar blizzards for seven weeks balked efforts to fly him south from his Arctic Diocese following the injury.

His eventual evacuation, performed by an R.C.A.F. Dakota aircraft, came after the long Arctic night had shrouded the mission, 1,000 miles north of timber in a wintry twilight of storms, fogs and wailing winds.

Pierced His Brain

Youth Carries Wounded Brother Home, Saves Life

The strong back and speedy legs of Norman Craig, 16, of Picton, Ont., are credited with saving the life of his brother, Oakley, 12, who today is in hospital at Kingston following an operation to remove a .22 calibre bullet from his stomach.

The boy was wounded when a rifle the brothers were handling accidentally discharged. Norman placed Oakley on his back and raced two miles across snowy fields to their farm home. A third brother, Floyd, ran ahead for help.

Rushed to hospital in ambulance, his condition is "progressing favorably."

O.S.D. SENIOR PUPILS TO PRESENT PAGEANT

The senior pupils of the Ontario School for the Deaf presented a Christmas Pageant in the school auditorium this afternoon and will repeat it tomorrow night at 8:15.

The pageant depicts in five colorful scenes, the events leading up to the birth of Christ as recorded in the Bible. Approximately 50 children take part.

Directing and costuming are in charge of Miss H. Keeler, while music and dialogue are under the supervision of Alec Gordon. The public is cordially invited to attend tomorrow night's performance. Refreshments will be served in the Home Economics room 9 to 10 p.m. for which a slight charge will be made.

Restaurant Association Holds Annual Meeting

Proprietor of the local Bar-B-Q restaurant on Bridge Street, Mr. George DeVyust was re-elected president of the Belleville branch of the Canadian restaurant association at their annual meeting held over the weekend.

Vice presidents named included J. T. Bothwell and Tom Karis, while T. Moyers is secretary treasurer. Directors include J. Dickens, H. Maillard, B. Lattimer, W. Bean and Z. Tobe.

The recent increase in milk prices was discussed by the members who felt that the increase was unfair. Commencing on a date to be decided the new price for milk at restaurants will be 8 cents per half pint with meals and ten cents with sandwiches.

Mr. DeVyust in his president's report reviewed activities of the Association since its inception four and one-half years ago and expressed appreciation to city council for their interest in writing a restaurant by-law for the city, and for their decision to grant no new licences unless all sanitary requirements are met.

POLICE COURT

Found guilty on a charge of attempting to break and enter a residence on Victoria avenue, Jack Sharpe, South Front street, and Victor Card, Victoria avenue were sentenced to four months definite and four months indeterminate when they appeared in police court this morning.

The two young men were arrested last week following their being discovered as they were about to enter a home on Victoria avenue.

Both young men were on suspended sentence for entering the Quinte Footwear last September and stealing several pairs of shoes and for their breach of recognizance were given concurrent sentences of four months.

On a charge of breaking and entering and theft, Donald Van Slyke and Roy Seymour, Pinnacle street, were given one year's suspended sentence. The two young men were charged with entering the office of the Conger Coal Company and stealing several wrenches.

Robert Orr and William Graham were assessed $10 and costs for disorderly conduct in a local pool room.

Much London Real Estate Changes Hands

London, Ont., Dec. 9 (CP)— Almost 25 per cent of local properties have changed hands in the past two years in real estate deals totalling more than $25,000,000, city assessment officials estimated today.

In two years about 6,000 properties have been sold. There are about 25,000 properties in London. Most of the transaction involved dwellings.

Last month 288 property sales were registered with $1,342,975 changing hands. Largest sale recorded was Jackson's Ladies' Wear store on Dundas St. from Salvatore Sansone to the present occupant in the name of Sarah Sherman for $55,000.

Council Approves Operation Of Gas Plant For Additional Three Months From Dec. 31st

City householders who use gas for cooking purposes will get a three months additional service from their equipment before the local gas plant is closed, it was decided by members of council at their regular meeting Monday evening.

According to a recommendation passed at the meeting operation of the local gas plant will be continued until March 31st which will be "a final and definite date for closing." Last summer ratepayers of the city voted to close the gas plant with December 31st set as the closing date.

However, due to the inability of gas users to get electrical equipment to replace their present gas stoves, there was a movement to delay the closing of the plant until new electrical stoves or other equipment could be procured. The public utilities commission, with the welfare of their gas customers in mind, recommended to council that the closing date of the plant be delayed. Council appointed a committee of H. J. Armstrong, Ormonde Butler, Angus Duffy and Mayor Follwell to investigate. the matter with result that the recommendation to delay the closing of the plant was brought to council.

However, with the operation of the gas plant to continue for an additional three months, the service will cost the 571 customers more money than they had been paying. It was pointed out in the commitee recommendation that the operating loss for 1947 would be $10,000 and there would be a further deficit of another $5,000 to operate the plant until March 31st.

To offset this customers will be assessed a service charge of $1 per month and all rates will be increased 50 per cent on a consumption basis.

Marmora

Lynch Defeats Neal by 101

Marmora, Dec. 9 (Special).— Vincent M. Lynch was elected reeve of Marmora village in the election held on Monday which drew out approximately 80 per cent. of the voters. He obtained a substantial victory over Ralph E. Neal, who held the office for the past two years, polling 297 votes to 196 registed for his opponent. The new reeve who unsuccessfully contested the reeveship two years ago, served six years on the council prior to that time. He has been secretary-treasurer of the Marmora Agricultural Society for the past two years, besides holding other important offices.

Major Percy Gray, E.D., headed the poll for council. He is a newcomer but has had experience in municipal affairs, having been a school trustee for eight years as well as village constable for a number of years. Major Gray served overseas with the 21st Battalion Canadian Infantry in the First World War and served 79 months in the last war, being officer in command of No. 33 Provost Company at Ottawa, following a period in which he was an army instructor.

Ritchie Wells, who came second, was the only member of last year's council to receive re-election.

Fred Johnston, after an absence of ten years, ran again as candidate, to secure third place. With thirteen years of previous experience he will be able to fit quickly into the routine work of the council.

John R. Reynolds, new aspirant, completes the council.

Leslie Rundle, councillor for the past two years was the unseated candidate.

How the voting went:

Reeve—	Poll 1	Poll 2	Total
Lynch	170	127	297
Neal	99	97	196
Council—	Poll 1	Poll 2	Total
Gray	207	188	395

There was a large number of the late Mr. Lavery's railway associates present in the church.

No Reason Given For Commuting Jap Sentences

By ROSS MUNRO

Ottawa, Dec. 9 —(CP)— The official reasons for the commutation of the death sentences imposed on two Japanese officers convicted of war crimes against Canadian soldiers in Hong Kong prisoner-of-war camps will never be known.

This was indicated here yesterday when External Affairs Minister St. Laurent released the British Government reply to the Canadian Government inquiry asking for the reasons behind the commutation.

The reply said that the matter rested entirely within the discretion of the British commander of Hong Kong, "who cannot be asked to disclose the grounds for his decision."

The two officers involved in these atrocities were Col. Isao Tokunaga, commander of the camps, and Capt. Shunkichi Saito, medical officer of the camps. They were tried by a British military tribunal in Hong Kong.

Tokunaga was found guilty of eight of the 10 charges against him. Three of the findings on these charges found him guilty of being concerned in the deaths of Canadians, resulting from inhuman treatment.

Saito was found guilty of four of five charges against him. On two of these findings, he was found guilty of being concerned in deaths of Canadians from inhuman treatment.

Both accused were sentenced to death by hanging. But last July the commander of Hong Kong, after reviewing the evidence, commuted Tokunaga's sentence to life imprisonment and Saito's to 20 years in prison.

The British reply said that a commander is "naturally reluctant to interfere with the sentence of a military court unless he is convinced that to let the sentence stand would result in a miscarriage of justice."

Because the matter rests entirely with the commander, it is not possible, the reply continued, to say what were the precise considerations which guided the Hong Kong commander in making his decision.

"It is possible that in Saito's case he was influenced by the fact that, although Saito was guilty of the highest degree of criminal negligence, his were offenses of ommission, rather than of commission."

The reply added that "relatives of others who suffered as a result of these war crimes, with whom the fullest sympathy is felt, may be assured that the decision was taken only after most careful consideration of all the evidence and with a full sense of responsibility, by the authority legally competent to commute the sentences."

M. BUZOJU OF ROMANIA ARRESTED NEAR BORDER

Belgrade, Dec. 9 — (Reuters)— M. Buzoju, former Romanian minister and a member of Constanin Brtianu's national liberal party, was arrested when trying to cross the Romanian - Hungarian frontier from Romania, Tanjug news agency reported today from Bucharest. Buzoju was trying to cross the border illegally with the aim of reaching the United States occupation zone of Austria, the agency said, adding that he had large sums of money with him.

Trafficking in Lots Sold By City to be Curbed With Change in Mode of Procedure

Expiration of building convenants on lots formerly owned by the city and reported speculation in such lots by persons who originally purchased them from the city for a nominal sum was the topic of considerable discussion in city council last evening.

The discussion came up when a recommendation was tabled asking that an extension be granted for the building convenant on a lot on Lewis Street owned by Mrs. Alf. Cooper. The extension was ultimately granted.

In presenting the recommendation Alderman Follwell stated he was in favor of stopping trafficking in city lots but declared the city should not discriminate There were at least 30 formerly city owned lots on which covenants had expired and nothing was being done about it, he said. In the case of Mrs. Cooper she had purchased the lot from the party who originally had bought it from the city. If the lot was repossessed the original owner would lose nothing, while Mrs. Cooper would lose the amount she had paid for improvements. Mrs. Cooper intended to build as soon as materials were available.

May Adopt New Procedure

Alderman Butler suggested that it may be wise for council to adopt a new mode of procedure in selling city owned lots. He thought that if title of the lot remained with the city until the building covenant had been fulfilled then the city would be in a better position to control trafficking in lots.

Alderman Clarke agreed with Mr. Butler but pointed out council had already passed a motion which stated a building covenant extension could be granted only to the original owner.

Council later passed a recommendation from Alderman Chamberlain stating that in the case of sales of lots to individuals the sale be made on the agreement that no deed be issued until the covenant has been completed except in cases of individuals who can satisfy council they are building under mortgage advances or other housing plans.

Speculation Discussed

The matter of speculation in city lots again came up for discussion under inquiries when Alderman Duffy informed council that one of the lots from the Holden property off Highland Ave., which had been purchased by William Judge had been sold.

The Alderman held that Mr. Judge had given a building covenant which bound him to build a house on all 11 lots within the one year. In the opinion of the Alderman, Mr. Judge by selling one of the lots had broken his covenant and the city was entitled to repossess all the lots. He asked if the city had a legal right to take the lots back.

In reply Alderman Clarke stated that when Mr. Judge sold one of the lots, the buyer assumed the building covenant.

Alderman Duffy was insistent however that trafficking in city lots should be stopped and stated that if the city solicitor could not make things law proof then the city should obtain the services of a solicitor who could.

The city engineer was authorized to prepare a list of lots on which building covenants were expired and to have same ready for the next council meeting.

Asks For Change

Ex-Mayor Glencoe Thompson appeared before council asking that some change be made in the "no parking" signs on the north side of Victoria Ave. near the Reformed Episcopal Church. Council later passed a recommendation calling for the signs to be lettered permitting Sunday parking.

The Northern Electric Company was given authority to install their own sewer and water mains on Sidney Street to connect with mains now under construction on Wilkins Street.

The recommendation of council in committee last Thursday evening calling for the payment of additional costs in refilling after installation of sewer on Purdy Street was referred back to committee for further consideration.

Accepts Payment

Council accepted payment from J. R. Rashotte for the first ten lots of the Reynolds property in the College Hill district where Mr. Rashotte is building houses under the Integrated Housing Plan. A cheque for $2000 in payment for the first ten lots was tendered by the contractor.

Boxing Day will be observed as a holiday by members of the City Hall staff with offices being closed until the Monday following Christmas. Hourly rate of pay workers will also be given the holiday and if they must work on Saturday will be given time and a half.

A request of the J. B. Boyce estate for a release of covenant on their property on Sidney street between No. 2 highway and the C.P.R. was referred to a committee who will investigate the request.

Receipts Given

Following inquiry by Alderman Allin regarding receipts of the local market for the current year, Chairman of City Property Alderman Butler told council that receipts to date had been $3,480 with expenditures for the same period amounting to $1,725.

Alderman Clarke protested that he had not been invited to the Industrial Commission dinner last Friday evening, stating that as a member of the council he was entitled to be invited. Alderman Allin stated he had attended the dinner under a misapprehension as he had expected the east industrial area to be discussed. In this matter he had been disappointed.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Dec. 9 — (CP)—Moderate advances for all groups set an improved tone on the Toronto Stock Market today. Industrials generally edged upward on pivotal gains scattered through the lists and golds posted many gains.

Volume for the first 3 hours was 413,000 shares, about 250,000 below yesterday's similar period.

The gold lists narrowed down to trading in favorites and gains were posted by Aunor, Cochenour, Donalda, Giant, Kirkland Lake, Macassa, Wright-Hargreaves, Upper Canada and Pamour. Smelters opened more than a point ahead but brisk trading brought the price down to yesterday's close. Nickel eased a fraction in base metals but Labrador, Chromium, Steep Rock added narrow gains.

Industrials mixed gains and losses with pivotals added.

PRIME MINISTER

at any moment as a result of the conditions that exist in Europe at the moment."

He reviewed conditions in France, where Communist agitators were seeking to foment trouble and menacing the security of the country, and indicated he placed a grave interpretation on reports of the deadlocked London meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers.

Then he concluded with this statement:

"I do not wish to say more at the present time because I think I have said sufficient to indicate that I believe that there has not been any time, except prior to the last war, when matters were shaping in such a threatening manner as they are at the present time."

Mr. King said the impression seemed to be that Russia was aiming at a centralized government in Germany, one government which would have control of the whole of Germany but which, according to the views of others, would be directed from Moscow.

If the Soviets did not succeed in having that aim yet, there might be a long period in which no peace settlement could be made with respect to Germany and Austria.

"There seems to be little doubt in the minds of those who are close to the matter that if western Europe be saved from the appalling position in which it is at the present time, there is going to continue to be millions of people with insufficient food and clothing; if there is going to continue to be social unrest fomented from different directions, the whole problem might get more or less out of hand altogether."

Prices, Trade and Business Costs At Bank of Commerce Annual Meeting Feature President's Address

Toronto, Dec. 9 — The President of The Canadian Bank of Commerce, Allan E. Arscott, C.B.E., covered a wide range of national and international events affecting Canada in his address before the Bank's shareholders at their annual meeting today. Prices, trade and business costs were also features of the address.

"Two years ago, even a year ago," continued Mr. Arscott, "it seemed reasonable to assume that nations directly and indirectly engaged in the war of 1939-1945 could return within a reasonable period to peacetime trading. During the latter half of this year, however, the full effects of total war have been more clearly realized with the result that the individual hopes and aspirations the world over have not been attained.

Greater Toll

"Destruction, devastation and dislocations have taken greater toll, both economically and politically, than was calculated earlier. Canada's trade, in manufactured goods and in agricultural and other basic products depends for activity on the prosperity of other nations. Unfortunately we are faced now with the fact that, as a result of the war, many of our important customers are unable to buy from us because they lack acceptable means of payment or are so impoverished that they cannot produce goods for export to Canada and elsewhere to balance their imports. Until they are producing not only for their own needs but also an exportable surplus, temporary assistance will have to be given them, whether by loans or by outright gifts."

As to the long range view of Canadian trade and commerce, Mr. Arscott regarded the progress made at the Geneva Conference as setting a pattern for freer trade substantially beyond most expectations. There emerged a series of agreements among the attending nations covering a wide range of tariff changes which, if carried out to the full intent, will bring about great advancement in world trade, and should benefit Canada materially.

Deplores Restrictions

"It is disappointing that the necessity has arisen for the reimposition of restrictive measures which affect the course of business and personal affairs, but we must remember that there is an unusual situation in the world today from which we cannot stand aloof. The common sense of the citizens of Canada, I am sure, will prevail and they will discipline themselves to accept the restraints which are necessary to help rebuild the shattered fabric of European civilization, upon which the maintenance of world peace itself so manifestly depends."

Employment is at a high level and Canada is producing more goods than under conditions prevailing during the immediate prewar years. The demand for our products has greatly increased, partly by higher domestic consumption and partly for supplies going abroad. A large volume of our production has been absorbed or drawn off by exports to other countries. Foreign trade increased to record proportions. The combined figures of exports and imports for the first ten months of this year exceeded $4 billion.

Watch Inventories

Bearing in mind present high prices, Mr. Arscott said it is more important than ever that business administration should exercise constant and close examination of inventories and accounts receivable. Also the relation of sales volume to unit production should be carefully watched; the turnover of goods should be examined in terms of unit as well as dollar volume because under existing conditions the sales volume may be up substantially in comparison to the previous year and thus appear to be satisfactory but unless considered in relation to unit volume the point at which business turns from a profit into a loss is apt to be obscured.

It is important that adequate working capital should be maintained if high prices on the one hand continue and on the other hand to serve as a cushion against the possibility of losses which we have seen occur at other times when "out-of-balance" positions have had to be corrected.

Earnings should be carefully analyzed with the view to ascertaining the extent of nonrecurring factors which have tended to swell the total. Under present abnormal operating conditions a misconception may develop as to the proportion of actual trading profit that goes to make up the aggregate earnings.

Loans Increase

The Vice-President and General Manager of the Bank, Mr. S. M. Wedd, mentioned some important changes in the Bank's financial statement for the year ending 31st October, notably an increase of $108,800,000 in loans, of which $90 million occurred in Canada. Some deposit accounts declined, particularly those of the public not bearing interest, this down-turn indicating greater employment of current funds for business purposes. Interest-bearing deposits, however, were sharply up and now total $770 million, an increase of $73 million in twelve months. The Bank's investments in most high-grade securities showed a substantial increase; those of the Dominion Government maturing within 2 years were reduced by over $197 million as that government paid off special bank borrowings.

400 More Shareholders

The Bank has about 400 more shareholders than a year ago. Over 8,000 of the shareholders are in Canada, more than 3,000 in the United Kingdom and possessions, while there are over 1,100 in the United States. The staff of the Bank, now numbering over 7,200, were paid a high tribute by Mr. Wedd, who said he could not too strongly commend the high quality of their service and co-operation. Special reference was made to the Bank's Pension Fund, which was started originally over fifty years ago. The staff had enjoyed security through this fund, kept up by contributions by the staff itself and by generous assistance from the Bank.

CORONER'S JURY

His fingers played with a length of sash cord, found near the bodies, as he told the jury he was familiar with grades of cord because of his job in a hardware store. The cord is believed to have been used by the murderer of the elder Vigus.

The witness said the cord was of a heavy grade rarely found in the city and not carried by his store.

When he took the stand, Vigus asked for an opportunity to refer to testimony early in the inquest by a mortuary attendant who said the youth appeared "cool and callous" when he identified the bodies of his father and Miss Scott at the morgue.

Vigus said he had not intended to appear cool or callous. He had already seen the bodies in the park when the automobile trunk had been pried open.

"When the morgue attendant asked me, I answered, 'Yes sir, that is Iris Scott', and 'Yes, sir, that is my father,' not 'Yes, that's him.' "

Weedon, the street-car motorman, was able to give a description of one of the two men who had boarded his tram on the run at the intersection of Dundas Street and Sorauran Avenue. He was about 25, with fair, "ruffled hair," about five feet seven inches tall and in his shirtsleeves. The other man, somewhat older, he saw only fleetingly.

Last Wednesday another witness described two men, about 25 and 35 years of age, whom he saw arguing with Vigus and Miss Scott in the north-end Armour Heights district shortly before midnight Sept. 10.

ELECTORS

alderman — the first woman ever to serve on city council.

In the Sault, the defeat of Walter Harry, an alderman for the last 18 years, was the biggest upset in the city's aldermanic history. He lost in Ward 5 to a comparative newcomer William Hare, who polled 657 votes to Harry's 335.

Nine towns elected mayors and at least 30 reeves went into office in towns, villages and townships.

Project Turned Down

In western Ontario alone, taxpayers approved expenditures totalling nearly $500,000. Only at Port Stanley did voters turn down a money by-law—a sewage project which would have cost the community $256,000.

Some of these projects were large, as at Goderich where ratepayers voted on a plebiscite to raise $325,000 for a new school. They assented by a vote of 428 to 318 with one poll to report.

Other municipal enterprise on which western Ontario electors expressed an opinion included the issuance of $35,000 in debentures for a new water tower at Kincardine and a new arena at Norwich—$20,000.

At Watford the first election in that town in five years saw voters turn out in greater numbers than ever before. David Gribben was returned as Reeves in a hot three-way fight.

The opposite was true at Orillia where one of the smallest votes ever recorded in an Orillia municipal election put two office six of 10 candidates for aldermen.

In the north, R. R. Mitchell went in as mayor of Cochrane and the predominantly railway town voted in favor of a $90,000 debenture for sidewalks. Citizens turned down Daylight Saving Time by 377 to 355.

U.K. Capital Cuts Aid Export

Britain's new capital investments program has under the recovery plan been cut by $720,000,000. Sir Stafford Cripps said that "The Battle of the Gap" must take precedence over all other facts of the national economy.

Six years of intensive war production brought additions to the maintenance of plant and equipment at the rate of $1,200,000,000 yearly before the war ended, while under-maintenance had resulted in plant and equipment running down by another $1,200,000,000 a year. This leeway had to be made up and in addition the country had to rebuild millions of houses and factories damaged or destroyed by the enemy. Merchant shipping had to be re-built for more than half had been sunk during the war. In the year following the close of the war a fine record was set.

In the year ending June, 1947, 400 locomotives, 30,000 freight cars and 1,000 coaches were built for the railways. In the same period 850 coal cutters, 100 power loaders and 2,000 conveyors were manufactured for the mines. £25 ($100) million worth of agricultural machinery, £14 ($56) million worth of new machine tools and 100,000 commercial vehicles were included in industry's output, and the volume of Britain's exports was raised well above the prewar level.

The saving will release manpower to undermanned essential industries and it will make available raw materials supplies, chiefly steel and coal, for export industries or for direct export. It will also ensure a saving in imports of five millions in lumber.

In railway maintenance and modernization, civil aviation and health services, education, agriculture building, transport and housing have had to be studied and counterbalanced. In the majority of cases the axe will fall on programs rather than on work in progress.

Road re-construction plans alone will be reduced 80%. Only those which make an immediate contribution to the needs of industrial expansion will be carried out and the 90,000 men now employed on roads by local authorities will be cut by 20,000. This surplus labor will go mainly to help farm work and rural building.

Many railway development schemes will be postponed but among those which will be carried out is the electrification of the Manchester - Sheffield line. This project, besides saving 100,000 tons of coal per annum will release 180 steam locomotives. The railways' full program of nearly 600 new locomotives and 48,000 new freight cars will also be allowed to proceed, but supplies of permanent way materials must be reduced to current needs.

Bulk Food Gift Shipments

Bulk food gifts are in the main consigned to the United Kingdom Ministry of Food whose Gift Allocation Centre is responsible for distributing the food to people who are in need of extra supplies and additional nourishment.

Not less than 70% of all such gifts received by the Ministry of Food is allocated to local authorities throughout Britain for distribution to needy individuals in their areas. The remaining 30% is distributed direct to charitable institutions (including orphanages, homes for the aged and needy persons etc.); to hospitals and to workers' rehabilitation centres.

Where the Canadian donors have expressed a desire that their food gifts should be allocated to a particular town or locality in Britain, the Ministry of Food has undertaken to arrange distribution on that basis.

Longest Swedish Reign

Just 4 years ago today King Gustav V of Sweden ascended his country's throne. He was then 49 years old — a modest man, gentle and generous, simple but dignified: the very pattern of a democratic king for a democratic age.

His long reign — the longest in all Swedish history — has confirmed those personal characteristics in practice. This forty-year period in Sweden has been a time of far-reaching social reform that has demonstrated a gratifying and valuable co-operation between individual enterprise and the state. Throughout the years as circumstances dictated, the King has encouraged, guided, advised his 6,500,000 homogeneous people with wisdom and tolerance and understanding.

Today, under his gentle direction, Sweden rejoices in what is possibly the highest average standard of education, of agriculture and industrial efficiency, of social services, of popular participation in government that exists anywhere in the world. In 1907, about 8 per cent of Sweden's people were voters; now it has reached 55.3 per cent.

The developments during King Gustav's reign have not come without effort, determination and devotion. They have been created against a background of political unrest that has spilled over both from East and from South; and against the grim terror of two World Wars. Today, however, the past is forgotten in the day's rejoicings. This is a popular anniversary in which all Sweden participates with affection and pride and loyalty and joy equally mixed. It gives also an occasion on which all the world can unite with Sweden to honor a great and good man, a great and good sovereign. — Montreal Gazette.

A Safe Place for Money

All but the most calloused will feel pangs of sympathy for the elderly, disabled Cleveland couple for whom a long and bravely borne series of misfortunes reached a climax with the loss, or theft, of a pocketbook containing $700 — their life savings.

Sympathy and hope — the hope that a far from impersonal police force will put forth just a little extra effort, just a little more tmie to the end that his money be restored to the couple — were the emotions we felt upon reading the story of the disappearance of that $700.

But we feel just as deeply that we would be derelict in our duty if we did not employ that story as an object lesson, unpleasant though it is.

We must, with candor as kindly as candor can be, say that the whole product of an elderly couple's thrift in the face of adversity, should not have been in the lap of an invalid woman traversing the streets in a wheelchair pushed by a husband whose vision is impaired. That money should have been in a bank. — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Preventable Accidents

Mr. Chuter Ede, Home Secretary, told how 6,000 people in Britain — including 1,200 babies — were killed in their homes by preventable accidents last year, says London Daily Mail.

He said that falls account for more than 60 percent, and burns and scalds for nearly 20 percent.

These are some of the falls: From bed, 61; down stairsr 711; from windows, 433; from prams, four.

Burns from domestic fires killed 103 people; burns from candles, 25; from falling into fires, 74; from clothing, 397. There were 207 deaths from scalds.

Of the 730 people who were accidentally suffocated, 162 were children in cots or cradles.

Accidental gassing accounted for 500 deaths, while electricity killed 67.

Palestine Jews are happy over the prospect of partition of that country. If the Arabs now would adjust themselves to the inevitable one of the world's sore spots would be on the way to a cure, remarks Ottawa Journal.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

ESCORT TROUBLE

As it was when I was young, so it is now I am old;
"Take the girl who lives the farthest from the party,' I was told.
Forty minutes after midnight ran the clanging trolley car,
And I learned the while I waited just how long those minutes are.
Now I drive a swifter motor, but I still have cause to grieve,
For the one I'm asked to call for is always the last to leave.

I am grateful for companions and I'm glad with friends to be.
I'm indebted to so many who have nightly called for me.
I've been driven, and I've driven, but it seems to be my fate
To have friends who like to linger, though the hour is growing late.
Be it my car or another's, this the treatment I receive:
Those I take or those I go with are always the last to leave.

When the gay event has ended and the prizes won are shown
And the numerous guests have vanished, in the hall I stand alone.
Still the women folk stay chatting; still the men folk calmly stay.
They've a bridge game they would finish though it last till break of day.
So whenever invitations for an evening I receive,
I expect the ones I go with to be last of all to leave.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

When was Negro slavery introduced into North America?

Enciso, whom Balboa accompanied as a stowaway, took Negro slaves to Panama from Hispaniola in 1510.

It is not known whether any Negroes accompanied Ponce de Leon on his two expeditions to Florida in 1513 and 1521 respectively.

Negro slaves were introduced into Mexico by the Spaniards under Cortez in 1519.

Several Negro slaves are known to have been with the expedition of Ponfilo de Narvaez, who went to Florida, Georgia and along the coast of Alabama, Missippi, Louisiana and Texas in 1528, and they were probably the first Africans to set foot on any part of the territory now comprising continental United States. One of these, a Barbary Negro named Estavan (or Estanvanico) was the slave of a Spaniard named Alonso del Castillo. Estavan and his master were among the three survivors of the ill-fated expedition who succeeded in reaching Mexico City eight years later with Alvar Nunez Cabeza de Vaca. In 1539 Estavan and several Indians preceded the Franciscan missionary Fray Marcos de Niza into the Zuni country of New Mexico and were killed by the natives.

Negro slaves accompanied the De Soto expedition of 1539-42 and one of them deserted and settled among the Indians in Alabama.

Negro slavery was introduced permanently in what is now continental United States by the Spanish in 1565 when they built a fort at St. Augustine in Florida with Negro labor imported from Spain and the West Indies.

Some writers say that Columbus had a Negro as a member of one of his crews on his first and second voyages. The person referred to was Piero Alonzo, pilot of the Nina, who was listed in the Libretto published in 1504 as "Piero Alonzo il Negro."

But in those days "Negro," meaning "black," was applied indifferently to Negroes and Moors and if Pietro Alonzo was actually colored, which is not certain but probable, it seems more likely that he was a person of Moorish rather than of Negro descent, for the Moors produced many able seamen.

CHRISTMAS

to get in full swing. One reason, they said, is less buying power and more unemployment. Except in clothing, few shortages exist.

Hamilton is experiencing a trend toward household equipment — attributed to the number of newly-married couples setting up housekeeping. Department store managers said dollar volume was definitely ahead of last year but differed on unit volume, some finding it even or a little ahead of 1946.

Customers are shying away from luxury counters at St. Thomas and are exercising care as to quality and price. Flimsy toys are not finding buyers, for most want strong, metal or wood items. Purchases, generally, are up to expectation.

"Away ahead of last year," is the opinion of Niagara Falls shops. An advance of 10 per cent in sales is expected.

One storekeeper said:

Public More Careful

"There is no foolish, reckless buying. People have become self-educated careful, clever buyers. They want what they want and won't accept substitutes. They are buying merchandise with a full sense of utility and quality in mind."

New customs regulations prohibiting import of many articles have helped to stimulate buying in the border city. This is added to by the flow of shoppers from across the border who are anxious to take advantage of lower prices.

Both Guelph and Galt trade is light, with the first city enjoying fairly substantial purchases of wearing apparel, lingerie, hosiery and novelty merchandise. The demand for cheaper toys is quite apparent. Merchants handling limited items is said poor.

Galt shoppers are definitely spending less as prices show upward thrusts, with better qualities now replacing war-time substitutes. Store stocks seem ample, but sales have not reached expectations.

In Stratford, most buying is directed to staple merchandise and best quality goods going for higher prices. In fabrics, cotton is the only material marked scarce. Wool is back in quantities. For the children, hard-faced dolls have returned following their absence during the war.

Kitchener's purchases are slightly ahead in volume of previous season's. However, sales of winter overcoats are a bit down due to mild weather. Women's lingerie will be a casualty of early Christmas rushing with women's hose, particularly the latest-styled darker shades becoming scarce.

About Break Even

Early surveys of Cornwall merchants indicate sales will "break even" with last season. While some vendors spoke of "the good old days," others were more optimistic. One said "People are are spending slightly less this year."

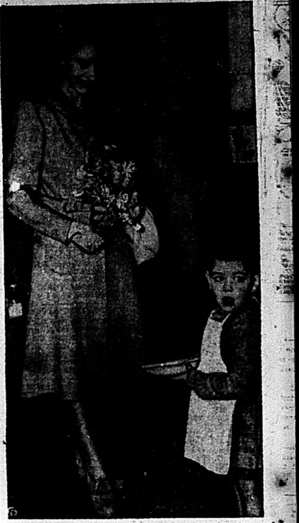
Kingston's stores are stocked with a more plentiful and varied stock but trade has been mild. Citizens are more reticent to spend. Some proprietors attributed slow sales to the lack of Christmas buying for overseas gifts.

Owen Sound citizens were out early but merchants agree there has been no panic buying and say their lay-away plans have enticed the majority of be-early-and-wise customers. A better range of goods, higher quality and good supplies have lured many, too.

Northern Ontario is enjoying one of the best Christmas trade seasons in years. Following a trend set during war years, North Bay, for example, reports gifts inclining to the practical, with some luxuries tossed in for "color." Retailers think overall trade will exceed 1946 and report luxury sales up, with people drawing most heavily on stock which was missing in war days.

Although last season's pre-Christmas sales were the largest in Sudbury's history, this year's will probably beat them. Wartime shortage of woollen articles, such as underwear, has eased a little, but clothing stores are having difficulty in buying enough stock to meet demand.

PRINCESS SNUBBED—BUT DOESN'T CARE



An incident occurred during the visit of Princess Margaret to the Union of Girls' Schools Social Service Settlement in London recently. She called in at the nursery school just as the children were enjoying tea, and when this picture was taken, the young boy seen in picture, appeared to take more interest in a photographer than the Princess.

OLD TIMERS SHOULD HAVE SOMETHING TO DO

A reader bowls on the green about three days each week during the season, plays a week, and takes long walks the other two days. At the age of 88 he plans a bit of travel this winter and hopes that if he gets around my way when it isn't raining I may arrange a game for him with my bowling playmate who is his own age.

That I will. That I will. In fact we are already booking bets on the game.

Get this, you readers who are approaching the chimney corner if not already there at an age when you should be doing things that matter. Lawn bowling matters enough to keep any man or woman from the chimney corner. If you live where the bowling green is covered with snow, slush and stuff all winter, there is still walking available, even if it is only round and round the block or the back roads and lanes or the park. And if your community is backward about providing bowling greens, maybe there is a club where you can play a little golf anyway.

The chimney corner is all right for any man or woman past thirty, if he or she likes that corner. But it is all wrong for man or woman regardless of age to settle into the chimney corner and never do anything any more.

I've mentioned only three things one of any age may do. There are dozens of other pastimes, avocations, hobbies or pursuits one may cultivate anew or perhaps follow with more purpose than has been possible in years past. Choose something, no matter what it may be or how unlike your ordinary occupation and keep right at it until you acquire knack or skill or else show you just haven't any talent in that particular direction—then take up something else.

It is a dreadful mistake for a man or woman to accept idleness in any circumstance. If you are at a loss for something to do, something you can do, communicate with whatever club, group or organization for senior citizens there may be in your vicinity, or if you know no such organization perhaps a short letter to the editor of your paper would be the means of getting you in touch.

Of course I have insufficient data to estimate how old my mid-western correspondent may be—but I must warn him he'll have to be pretty young if he hopes to make any sort of showing in the game with my bowling crony. I know whereof I speak. You just can't play with my bowling crony day after day and take beating after beating from him in hard fought contests, and think of him as anything else than a pain in the—I mean an eternally young man. I have repeatedly checked the point—looked my bowling crony up again in the blue book, and there it is, born in '59, which indeed he admits is correct. Nevertheless he is as young and as fit as any bowler on the green—and he believes lawn bowling has helped to keep him that way.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Talbot's Solution

Unable to find a pharmacist who can prepare Talbot's solution, which you recommend as an occasional application for the gums in pyorrhea. (Mrs. T. M.)

Answer—In the National Formulary it is called Glycerite of Iodine and Zinc Iodide Any pharmacist has the National Formulary.

Allergy and Asthma

Thanks to the information you sent me on allergy and asthma I now enjoy comparative relief from severe attacks and I believe my general health is much better as a result of more rest.

(R. W. A.)

Answer—On written request (no clipping, please) any reader who provides stamped self addressed envelope may have either the pamphlt Relief for Allergy or the pamphlet Asthma. If you ask for both enclose ten cents.

Eat and Sleep

Should a child 3 years old have his hearty meal at night and go to bed right after eating?

(Mrs. L. R. M.)

Answer—It is natural and normal and healthful for any one to sleep soon after a good meal or a satisfying lunch. Only certain invalids should not eat late at night. Don't ask me who—ask your physician.

Girl Goes Flabby

I am 19, 61 inches tall, 105 pounds. For the last two years I have had an increasing dread of becoming fat—imagine I see bulges after one square meal and try to starve the next two days.

(M. F.)

Answer—You should weigh not less than 115 pounds. Cultivate vite and you'll feel and look and be less flabby—that flabby state, lack of tone, makes you feel and look too fat. Send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope for The Seven Keys to Vite.

$30,000 BLAZE

Lindsay, Dec. 9 (CP)—Sunset Lodge, $30,000 summer resort on Head Lake, about 40 miles north of here, was destroyed by fire Thursday night. Fred Winterburn, whose farm is half a mile away, first noticed the blaze. He and some neighbors were able to save some furniture from the front of 15-room, two-storey building, owned by A. Miller of North Bay. Cause of the fire was not determined.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Say Your "Thank You" Always and With Grace

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

Is it really necessary for a lady to say "thank you" to a gentleman who, for example, opens a door for her, holds a door open for her, helps her on with her coat, or shows her a similar service? Shouldn't such services be taken for granted?

Frances T.

A "lady" would certainly not take such kindness for granted . . she always says "thank you" for any kindness, any service, large or small, given to her by anyone, whether by another woman, a man, or a child. Taking courtesies "for granted" is the quickest possible way of showing your lack of manners.

Questions About a Semi-Formal Wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

(1) Is it proper to have a semi-formal church wedding if the circumstances will only permit having a small reception with a few invited guests? (2) Is it proper to have a flower girl when the wedding is semi-formal? (3) And at the semi-formal wedding and reception should my mother and the groom's mother wear long dresses?

Bride-to-be

(1) After a semi-formal church wedding you may have any kind of reception you wish . . . small or large, or none at all. (2) Yes. (3) At a semi-formal wedding, the bride's mother and the groom's mother may wear dresses of either formal length or street length. The type of dress and the length is decided by the bride's mother, the hostess, and the groom's mother, who is to be the woman guest of honor, should wear the same type of dress that the bride's mother is to wear, and of a color to harmonize. They should get together on these dress-plans!

A Corsage is Dear to Her Heart

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

A social club to which I belong is giving a dance at Christmas-time, and each girl is inviting a partner. As far as I can make out, I am the only one who has invited a boy from out-of-town. I am wondering if he will think of sending me a corsage to wear to the dance. Probably the boys who live here will send corsages to the girls. Already some of the girls have told me that the boys they have invited have inquired about what color dresses the girls are to wear, thus showing they plan to send corsages. If my boy-friend does not think to send me one, what should I do . . . speak to him about it, or just not wear a corsage?

Reta

If you and your group of friends in the club consider wearing a corsage so important, I am sure your mother or father will order one for you to have "in case". Then if the boy from out-of-town does bring or send one, your family will understand if you don't wear theirs.

In a Signature, Miss Must be Enclosed in Parentheses

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

When an unmarried girl signs a business letter, is it correct for her to sign Miss before her name?

Adelina

An unmarried woman usually signs a business letter with her name without (Miss) before it . . . Adelina Brown. However, if she thinks it necessary, it is correct for her to write (Miss) before her name. The important thing for her to remember is that if she writes the Miss before her name, it must be enclosed in parentheses:

Yours very truly,
(Miss) Adelina Brown

Courtesy Tip

Goods Manners are always "becoming" to the person who has them. They reveal more about the real you, reveal your personality more quickly and inevitably, than your clothes or your make-up can ever hope to do.

Fashion Flashes

NEW EMPHASIS is on the three-piece suit Handloomed woollen, in a chrome yellow and deep black narrow and wide line plaid, is used for the high-buttoned jacket of a smart suit, with matching top-coat of the bold plaid. The black woollen suit skirt is pleated. Good for travel.

ALWAYS NEW, when well-done, is the combination of brown with black. A beautiful evening frock of deep, copper-brown silk taffeta has its slim, molded bodice and very full skirt heavily encrusted with black paillettes.

SPOTS ARE DANCING, along the streets, as the leopard coat assumes new importance. A jaunty leopard coat hews to the new line with a very full, flared, dipping back, almost padless shoulders and modified, cuffed sleeves. The Peter Pan collar is held high with a black velvet cravat, which is all very different from the old-time leopard coat!

SUPPLE HANDLING and interesting lines mark the new fur hat, far removed from the Daniel Boon-ish coonskin type of thing. A turban of mink, intricately draped and swirled, just as though the fur were fabric, is worked down to one side with a cascade of mink tails.

COLOR IS RAMPANT in the latest evening clothes, the best of which rely on color, line and lustrous fabric for success. A slim, strapless gown of navy silk satin is topped with a full-length, reversible coachman coat of fuchsia satin with oversized, soft, pointed revers .

NO MATTER what type of blouse one wants, there it is sooner or later, in this most successful of blouse seasons. Those with a liking for the beautifully handled blouse of shirtwaist design will enjoy their favorite in such lovely fabrics as silk chiffon, handled with fine tucking. Nice in pink, with big pearl studs and links.

The Sterling Sweater

By ALICE ALDEN

AS COLLEGE DAYS near the sweater takes on new importance, for, say what one will, the sweater and skirt costume is still the campus favorite. It is remarkable how many new trends and details manage to give a new look each season to this most simple and functional of garments. Now it is the personal touch, a monogrammed triangle embroidered at the throat that offers a new accent to this attractive featheray design. A delicately ribbed yoke, sleeves and waistband afford contrast.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Fight Wrinkles Before You Get Them

Tactful facial operators refer to wrinkles as "expression lines". A nice idea, but it does not fool the cash customer who knows that she has turkey tracks and frowns. Expression or no expression, she hates them. If she had been beauty-wise, maybe she would never have gotten them. When vexed or annoyed, she pulled her brows together. Two little irrigation ditches appeared between her eyes. Perhaps she postponed putting on glasses, and so acquired the squinting habit Prevention of wrinkles is easy if one has health; erasing them is well nigh impossible once they are established.

The poised woman keeps young in spirit and appearance

For the benefit of those who would avoid facial pleatings, let us explain what happens. The skin is composed of several layers of epithelial cells. Beneath the surface are delicate tissues that bind the skin to the muscles. One form of connective tissue is adipose; its purpose is to round out the contour of the face and to provide a reserve of nourishment When the diet does not include all the necessary elements, the fat cells weaken. With the underpadding in a state of dissolution, the skin falls into tiny creases. So, my friend, mind your groceries.

Women who obey health laws have an insurance against many beauty ills.

Worry and loss of sleep are wrinkle-makers because they interfere with body nourishment, have a deplorable effect upon the nervous system. All unpleasant emotions are more or less devastating. The digestive motors and the circulatory streams slow up, do not function normally. Every sensible woman should realize that fact. When she is angry her mouth will be dry, her hands cold and moist, facial muscles tense. There is a close bond between mind and body; what affects one may affect the other.

Giving way to one's feelings, indulging in jealousy or rage, never put wealth in the beauty bank, and it has driven many husbands and children away from home. It is the claim, poised woman who keeps young in spirit and appearance as long as she lives.

To help the tissues of the face to stay firm and normal, use a cream freely once a day, preferably at bedtime. The more friction, the better. Keep tapping and patting, adding more cream. Of course, the surface of the skin must be clean when this is done so that dust and epidermal debris will not be forced into the pores. Let the cream remain on overnight; the flesh will feast upon it.

Cold water is a tonic because it hustles up circulation, acts as an astringent. The best time for that treatment is upon arising in the morning.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

The engagement is announced of Jean Isobel Freeman, daughter of Mrs. M. J. Wims and the late Harry Freeman, to Cecil Ross Belyea, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Belyea, of Leamington, Ont., the marriage to take place at 2.30 p.m., Dec. 29, 1947, at St. Thomas' Church, Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cretney, Mountain View, are quietly celebrating the 45th anniversary of their wedding today, at their home.

Mrs. Eliza Izzard, James St., has gone to Mimico, where she expects to spend Christmas with her son, Mr. Harold Izzard and with other friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Taylor and daughter, Audrey, arrived in Montreal by plane from England on Thursday and were met at Belleville Station by her sister, Mrs. Carl Lundberg, and Mr. Lundberg and family, 59 Dunbar Street. It was the sisters' first meeting in thirty years.

Mr. Matt Currie of Toronto, formerly of the Bank of Montreal staff here, is leaving for California by air on December 14th. He will spend the next two months as the guest of his sister, in Los Angeles.

Miss Ann Bambrick and Miss Joan Boyle, of Ottawa, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Boyle, Bleecker Ave.

OUT-OF-TOWN PERSONALS

Sunday dinner guests at the home of Mrs. Wm. Cole of Shannonville, were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Matthews and daughter, Hilda, of Cannifton; Mr. John Hicks and Mr. Chas. Freemantle, recently arrived from Cambridge, Eng.

Mrs. May Belnap, Rossmore, entertained at a birthday party in honor of her daughter, Miss Verna Belnap. The evening was spent in playing cards, the prize winners being ladies' first, Mrs. May Belnap; second, Mrs. A. Rump; ladies' low, Miss Verna Belnap; men's first, Mr. A. Alyea; second, Mr. P. Calberry; men's low, Mr. L. Knox. Delicious refreshments brought the evening to a close with everyone wishing Verna many happy returns of the day.

WEDDINGS

BRAWLEY—CARTER

At two o'clock, p.m., December 6th, in Holloway Street United Church, Zelda Irene Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Carter, of Burr's, exchanged marriage vows with Edward Francis Brawley, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Brawley Toronto, with Rev. C. A. Perkins as the officiating clergyman.

The bride was very attractive in a suit of grey gabardine with pink feather hat, and a corsage of pink roses. She was attended by Mrs. Dorland Bell, of Mountain View, wearing a two-piece dress of brown gabardine, with a turquoise blue feather hat and a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Alfred Williams of Toronto, ably performed the duties of groomsman.

Following the ceremony a reception for immediate relatives and close friends of the contracting parties was held at the restaurant, Chez Henri, where the bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and groom.

For travelling to Montreal, the bride donned a topcoat of muskrat fur.

Mr. and Mrs. Brawley will later take up residence in Toronto.

DAWSON—OLIPHANT

White chrysanthemums, evergreens and candlelight formed an effective setting at the bride's home, Dec. 3rd., when Shirley Madeline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Oliphant, became the bride of William Roy Dawson, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Dawson, with Rev. C. A. Perkins officiating. Mrs. Edward Green played the wedding music, and Miss Shirley Hitchon was soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charmingly gowned in white satin, with a halo headdress and a finger tip veil. She carried an all white cascade bouquet of roses, calla lillies and "mum" petals.

Mrs. C. S. Lowther, was her sister's matron-of-honor, and Miss Barbara Rutherford was the bridesmaid. They wore corded taffeta gowns in periwinkle blue and turquoise blue shades with matching headdresses, and carried cascades of pink roses and baby "mums."

Mr. Jack Dawson was his brother's groomsman, and Mr. C. S. Lowther seated the guests.

Following the ceremony the bride's mother was "at home" and received the guests wearing a gown of gold colored satin, with a corsage of pink roses and sweetpeas. She was assisted by the mother of the groom in a gown of wine crepe, with gold sequin trim, and a corsage of pink carnations and roses.

For a wedding trip to Montreal and Ottawa the bride chose a grey dress, blue coat and black accessories. Her corsage, was of pink roses.

After their return Mr. and Mrs. Dawson will reside at 36 Howard Street in Belleville.

On Saturday, Nov. 29th Mrs. Wm. Oliphant entertained in honor of her daughter, when white chrysanthemums and candles decorated the attractive rooms of her home.

The door was opened by Miss Shirley Green, and Mrs. W. Dawson received with Mrs. Oliphant.

Pouring tea were Mrs. W. J. Green, grandmother of Miss Oliphant, Mrs. Denyes, Mrs. Austin and Mrs. Rayfield. Assisting in serving the guests were Misses Marilyn Woodley, Beth Robertson, Margaret Pigden, Betty McKeown and Shirley Hitchon; Mrs. Goodfellow, Mrs. F. Woodley, Mrs. Ted Green, Mrs. Spence Wonnacott, Mrs. Arnold Campbell, Mrs. G. Dobbs, Mrs. J. Diamond, Mrs. O. Anderson, Mrs. E Liddle and Mrs. A. E. Wonnacott

Among other friends who have entertained for the bride are Mrs. Ted Green, with an afternoon tea; Mrs. A. E. Wonnacott, Miss Barbara Rutherford and Miss Margaret Miller, each of whom was hostess for a shower.

Picton
Plans to Rebuild Presbyterian Ch. Now Under Way

Picton — Plans for the rebuilding of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church which was recently gutted by fire, are now under way. Committees have been named as follows:

Architectural, to secure plans for new structure, C. Ward, Neil Love, H. L. VanCleaf, W. Reid, B. Reid, Fred Falkard, S. Nourse.

Furnishing, Miss N. McDonald, G. Ross, A. McIntosh, Allan Nourse.

Finance, Gordon Oder, R. M. Wilson, N. G. Love, H. L. VanCleaf, C. D. Wilson, Dr. H. Cryan.

Quite a number of donations have already been received, the minister, Rev. P. B. Reid announced.

The church will mark its 114th anniversary next Sunday with services in the Baptist Church. Special speaker will be Rev. F. Goforth, M.C., of Kingston, former Padre of Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Canners Represented

Prince Edward canners are well represented at the Canners convention now in session in Toronto. Believed to be the only woman canner attending is Mrs. Gwen Trebell who operates Crofton Canning Co. Others attending are John A. Weese, J. A. Milligan, J. E. Baxter, D. J. Baxter, Glen Mowbray Neil Love, Howard Leavens, Alex Lipson, Percy Smith, C. M. Dice.

Negotiated For Industry

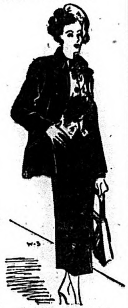
A new industry is interested in locating in Picton, the Chamber of Commerce was advised yesterday. Negotiations have been going on for some time, with a possible location now being available. No details of the industry have been released.

It was stated the industry would be a year-around one, employing approximately one hundred workers. Labor conditions here are said to be unusually good and the only problem is that which concerns a suitable location.

Miss Phyllis Ward Guest of Honor At Surprise Party

Miss Phyllis Ward was guest of honor at a pre-nuptial surprise party on Saturday evening when Miss Phyllis Manning and Mrs. Bert Howard were co-hostesses at the latter's home. The evening was spent in playing bridge after which Miss Jessie Tuite expressed the best wishes of the group to Miss Ward, and Mrs. Howard presented her with a Madeira cut work luncheon set, and a dainty cup and saucer. Miss Ward thanked the guests for their kind wishes and gifts. Delicious refreshments with a bridal motif were served by the hostesses.

Fashionable And Warm



Black suit with white fur waistcoat.

By VERA WINSTON

King George H. and S. Association

The December meeting of the King George Home and School Association was held Monday evening in the school building, Monday evening, with the President, Mrs. J. R. McCullough in the chair. Mr. E. Fairman's class won the attendance award.

A program under the able direction of Mrs. Morley Ward followed the business meeting, opening with a group of songs by Grade 8, under the direction of Miss Phyllis Beatty.

Miss Alice Heasman, who spent a year in England as an exchange teacher, gave a very interesting talk on England and her travels in Europe.

Mrs. G. Bristol expressed appreciation to the speaker, to Grade 8 and to Miss Beatty.

Following a sing-song, including novelty numbers, refreshments were served by Mrs. Brodie and her committee.

Marmora

Marmora — "Delmar Teen Age Club," to embrace teen agers of Deloro and Marmora, was organized at an enthusiastic meeting held in the Deloro Hall on Friday evening. In spite of inclement weather the attendance was large and about seventy-five members were enrolled. Transportation from Marmora to Deloro was notde as a problem and more from Marmora weer disappointed that they could not attend, due to this.

The club hopes under the direction of Charles Loveless of Deloro who was appointed Manager of Transportation, to overcome this difficulty.

The club's activities will be controlled by a special Teen Age Council consisting of president, vice president, secretary and treasurer.

The council will however, pay due regard to the advice of their Adult Board of Directors at all times.

Those joining were given special membership cards, which must be produced at each meeting. Dues for each meeting were fixed at ten cents.

Following is the list of officers, Adult Board of Directors, Leonard Begley, Eric McInroy, Earl Cousins, Barbara Churchill, Reta Farrell, Joan Sandham; President, Shirley A. Quinn; Vice President, John Cadigan; Secretary, Verna Black; Treasurer, Robert Brooks; Lunch Committee, For Deloro, Ruth Koski; For Marmora, Lois Grant; Transportation Manager, Charles Loveless.

Miss Fern Bamber, Guest of Honor At Linen Shower

Toronto.—In honor of Miss Fern Bamber daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. V. Bamber, Frankford, (formerly of Foxboro), whose marriage to Mr. Lloyd Green, will take place December 20, a linen shower was given on Saturday evening by her aunt, Miss M. Rose, Howland Ave. The house was gaily decorated for the occasion and the bride-to-be, was presented with many beautiful linens including a tea apron embroidered as a souvenir during the evening with signatures of everyone present. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. M. S. Lloyd, Oshawa, sister of the bride-elect and Mrs. J. L. Campbell poured tea.

GENERAL ELECTION

Mr. J. Coldwell, C. C. F. leader, and Solon Low, Social Credit leader, still are to be heard and possibly external affairs minister St. Laurent will reply for the government. Then, unless another battle over procedure develops, the Geneva trade agreements and tariff concessions will be debated.

Modifications Made

One announcement marked the House opening. Finance Minister Abbott disclosed that several important modifications, affecting industry and consumers, had been made in the new Canadian excise taxes.

For industry, the modifications lift the 25 per cent tax from purchases of electric and gas refrigerators and oil burners for industrial and non-recreational commercial use.

For consumer, the 25 per cent tax is withdrawn completely from electric and gas stoves, ranges and heaters.

Mr. Bracken launched his speech with a charge that government policies have permitted credit and currency of the country to expand twice as fast as the production of goods. When there was more money than goods available prices were bound to rise. The only solution was increased production.

Turning to agriculture, he said he never had seen farmers "so disturbed, so disillusioned and with so little faith in the future." The government had led them down an "empty road."

Makes Suggestions

He urged that the wheat farmer be allowed to take either the open market price, now around $3 a bushel, or the Canadian Wheat Board price of $1.35 a bushel, instead of the present system where the Board buys all wheat available.

He suggested that the embargo on agricultural products going to the United States should be lifted. He said the government's policy of selling farm products to Britain at fixed prices had kept the farmer to one price for the things he sold and another for those he had to buy, such as the rising feed costs.

He said the government had brought in the Geneva trade agreements and the import restrictions at the same time to confuse the people. If the restrictions were necessary they should have been made part of a bill submitted to parliament.

Challenges Mr. Bracken

Mr. King replied that the government had been worried for some time about the heavy drain on United States dollar reserves. However, government representatives in Geneva had warned that there was a good chance of success if nothing detrimental was done. That was why conclusion of the agreement and the restrictions were announced simultaneously.

Regarding the cost-of-living, he said Mr. Bracken could search throughout the world for a country better off than Canada.

Both Mr. Dickey and Mr. Dion referred to the Geneve trade agreements and the measures to stabilize Canada's exchange position.

Among those participating in the procedural discussion were John Diefenbaker (PC — Lake Centre), Hon. Earl Rowe (PC — Dufferin-Simcoe), Gordon Graydon (PC — Peel), J. A. Ross (PC — Souris) and Angus MacInnis, (CCF — Vancouver East).

Mr. Rowe said the government's plan to limit the throne speech and to fixe the time for debate on other measures was nothing more than a move by which the cabinet would become 'all-powerful.'

Urged to Uphold Principles

Mr. Diefenbaker urged that Mr. King uphold the "great principles of democracy" which had guided him until 1940 when parliament became a "puppet of the executive." If the motion passed, members would be rationed as to the time they would take on the subjects on which they wished to speak.

Mr. Graydon charged that the government was afraid to face the issue and Mr. Ross said postponement of the throne speech debate would mean that people suffering hardships would not be able to air grievances for several months.

Mr. MacInnis asserted that Mr. King's motion did not take away any rights of private members and said the House could not deal with the emergency measures before it if members merely spoke.

Completing this debate, Mr. King said it was the government's responsibility to arrange the legislative program "no matter what attitude" the opposition adopted. The government had made it clear that it did not deem it advisable to have a lengthy throne speech debate at this time. It could be resumed when the House reconvened after the Christmas recess, which is scheduled for December 19.

CANON J. TURNER

pierced his brain causing a skull fracture, subsequently meningitis, paralysis and other complications, was accidentally discharged when he was returning from a seal-hunting expedition—Canon Turner was no stranger to Arctic dangers.

Since 1929, save for two furloughs in England, he had spent all his time in the shadow of the pole, his headquarters missions at Pond Inlet and Moffet Inlet, the latter 400 miles north of the Arctic Circle.

Born in 1905 at Felixstowe, Suffolk, Eng., he came to Canada for mission work in the Arctic in 1929 after graduation from the Theological and Missionary College of the Bible Churchmen's Missionary Society at Clifton, Eng.

Made Canon in 1939

Ordained as a priest July 12 that year in Christ Church at Aylmer, Ont., he went north shortly after, opening a mission at Pond Inlet on the northeast section of Baffin Island.

In 1939 he was made a canon of the Cathedral of All Saints at Aklavik, Northwest Territories. Five years later he married, his wife, the former Joan Hobart of Felixstowe, came to Canada in 1944.

During his almost 20 years in the northland Canon Turner walked with death on several occasions. Once, during a trek across frozen wastes, his lead dog ran away. The missionary gave chase, but the dog faded into the Arctic mists and blowing snow hid the canon's tracks. For five days he wandered in circles seeking the rest of his team. Finally, curled in a snow drift and hungry, he was found by an Eskimo.

During the winter of 1938-39 he covered 3,000 miles by sled and dog team and ran afoul of two scourges of the north — scarcity of food and an epidemic which killed all but two of his dogs. But after five months' absence he returned to his mission with the two remaining dogs and the remnants of his equipment sewn up in the skin of a Polar bear he had shot to feed himself and his dogs.

Authorized Evacuation

It was last September, however, that Canon Turner's name became known across Canada. When word of his injury reached Ottawa, military officials authorized evacuation by a combined force of army and air force personnel.

Four army paratroopers, one a doctor, jumped to his aid Oct. 4. At that time no plane could land near the mission 1,700 miles north of Winnipeg because of soft ice. November 2, however, a successful landing was made. The canon, his wife, two children and an Eskimo ward, together with the paratroopers, boarded the aircraft for the long flight to Winnipeg.

The canon was rushed to hospital, where his once sturdy 240-pound frame—his weight went down to 160 before his death—fought a stubborn battle for life and a return to the Arctic, his "first love and where I have spent the best years of my life."

SYL APPS TOPS SCORING RACE IN THE N.H.L.

Montreal, Dec. 9 (CP)—While the top scorers of a week ago were being held pointless, Syl Apps of the league-leading Toronto Maple Leafs went on a six-point spree during the last week and climbed to the top of the National Hockey League scoring ladder.

Official statistics released today show the centre-ice veteran with 26 points, made of 13 goals and 13 assists. Maurice Richard of Montreal and Detroit's Jimmy McFadden, co-leaders last week, had a lean week failing to gain a single point but their 21 points still was good enough for a second-place tie.

Ted Lindsay of the Red Wings was another who didn't improve his total, but was able to remain in fourth spot with 20 points. New York's Buddy O'Connor and Elmer Lach of Canadiens come next with 19 points apiece, one more than George Gee of Chicago and Harry Watson of the Leafs who each have 18.

Apps' 13 goals and the same number of assists give him leadership in both these departments.

Goalie Bill Durnan of Canadiens, playing with the lowest scoring team in the circuit, took over top spot in the goals-against column from Boston's Frankie Brimsek. Durnan has allowed 39 goals in 19 games for goals against average of 2.05, while Brimsek has let in 46 goals in 20 games for a 2.30 average.

Durnan also leads in shutouts with four.

Bill Barilko of the Leafs moved far ahead in the penalty parade. The hard hitting rearguard has 73 minutes in penalties.

LOUIS WILLING FOR RETURN BOUT WITH WALCOTT

Detroit, Dec. 9 (AP)—Heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis, winner by disputed decision over Jersey Joe Walcott last Friday night, wants to "remove that blot from my record—or go down swinging," the Detroit Free Press reported today.

"I don't want a mixup if I ever lose the title," the paper quoted the champ as saying in a telephone interview, from New York.

Louis announced last night he would be willing to meet Jersey Joe again next summer under "satisfactory terms."

"Definitely not," was manager John Roxborough's answer when asked if Louis was sure to retire after a return bout. "Of course, a great deal depends on how he looks in the return meeting. And you know what Joe does the second time he meets a fellow."

In second fights with Buddy Baer, Arthur Godoy, Bob Pastor and Bill Conn, the manager recalled, Louis has improved each time over his first showing.

While ring king's explanation for his poor display Friday was "just an off night, I guess," his manager had a more specific theory.

"Joe wasn't at his best for a very good reason — which nobody has been told until now," The Free Press reported Roxborough said.

"This was one fight for which he was over-trained. He went from 215 1-4 pounds to 211 on the day before the fight. That's the first time that has happened to him."

In addition the champion's hand, while not broken was so badly bruised that "it might as well have been broken."

HAMILTON TIGERS TAKE MARLIES BY 4 TO 2 SCORE

(By The Canadian Press)

Sympathetic cluckings about the apparent demise of the perennial Ontario Hockey Association finalists, Hamilton Tigers, were dispelled last night when Tigers upset the youthful, league-leading Toronto Marlboros 4-2 in a senior A tilt at Toronto.

The second-place Bengals remain seven points behind the Dukes, who have 25 points gained in 12 victories and one tie in their 16 starts. Tigers have notched eight wins and one tie in their 14 starts this season.

The Hamiltonians never lost the lead after Clarence Shillington blasted the initial counter past Toronto's netminder Howie Harvey at the 11 1-2 minute mark of the first period.

It took Toronto another 14 minutes of play to get the evener when Ray Hannigan beat Art Childs in Hamilton's nets. Four minutes later in the second frame Johnny Conick blasted a short one to put Tigers one ahead.

Johnny Conick cashed in for Tigers at the 55-second mark to open the third session's play. Frankie Liscombe tallied at the 15-minute mark and Harry Psutka came back for Toronto in a solo effort 20 seconds later.

The fifth place Stratford Indians visit Owen Sound Mercurys and the sixth-place Hamilton Patricias meet the fourth-place Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen at Waterloo in tonight's two senior fixtures.

St. Catharines Teepees go to Galt in the only junior game scheduled.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By DON HUNT
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Dec. 9 — (CP) — Now that post-mortems on the recent Joe Louis-Jersey Joe Walcott fight have died down, sport fans — hockey in particular — are resuming their queries on Montreal Canadiens and the reasons why they are embedded in fourth place in the National Hockey League.

Canadiens have had a poor year to date and many and various explanations have been given by fans and sports writers for their hapless plight.

However it took Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll to come up with the most original suggestion. Dink said that during the recent losing streak of the Canadiens, the Montrealers had the same referee for three games in a row.

In no way suggesting that the referee — Bill Chadwick — had anything to do with the slump Carroll said, "Chadwick has been following the Canadien ship as closely as the albatross of late, so close, in fact, that the players now regard him as an omen of ill luck."

Will they play? ... ...

With the 1947 intercollegiate football season a thing of the past stories continued about the chances of the various teams next season. Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson reports that Toronto Varsity have four Big Four players lined up for next season in their hopes of dethroning the bucking Western Mustangs. Ferguson, on the word of his Toronto correspondent, says that "Fleet Fred Doty, the Argonaut quarterback, Rudy Grass, Argo lineman, along with Bruce Coulter and Bill Stockman of Balmy Beach, will probably turn out with Varsity next autumn."

Soft Touch?

Many people are of the opinion that the easiest jobs in the world are held down by professional hockey, baseball and football players. However Andy (Montreal Standard) O'Brien tends to disagree.

Having the recent injury to goalie Bill Durnan in mind, O'Brien, said "Grandstanders too often forget the times of great bitterness and worry which comes to big time hockey players."

His summing up: "They face the constant menace of injury — blessedly temporary as in Durnan's case, permanent as is Ace Bailey's case or even fatal as in the late Howe Morenz's case.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARVER, Sports Editor.

City Editor, likewise city alderman, Claude D. Tice, who represented in a pinch-hitting capacity, the Belleville ANAFS Intermediate squad at the annual O.H.A. meeting on Saturday, stopped by the sports foundry yesterday afternoon and gave forth anent the meeting of the moguls of the senior amateur (smile, when you say that, podner) body.

• • •

..Ye Ed, reported a very successful convention but sincerely regretted as do all hockey fans in this district, the defeat of popular S. R. (Sandy Burrows to an executive post, although it was felt that he would be appointed to by the president as "Sandy" has contributed a great deal to hockey in the past year and uses sound judgment on matters coming before the board.

• • •

Ye honorable Ed, whose outspokenness has never been questioned, told the august body, that "Eastern Ontario was like a lost sheep in the wilderness as far as the OHA was concerned" and he hoped the executive would see fit to bring the Oshawa, Peterborough Belleville and Kingston group into being again, especially in the inermediate series. He took valiant issue with the powers-that-be and the visiting firemen with respect to groupings of both intermediate and junior teams.

• • •

Groupings, Mr. Tice informed us, will be arranged on Friday night and he felt that the ANAF team here should have representation at the meeting to fight for its interests. And while on that subject the ANAF management could do no better than to send him right back into the battleground come fish day. He may not get anywhere but we'll bet grandpappies clickers, that the opposition gentry will know they have been in a verbal battle, before the smoke clears.

• • •

Oshawa claims that it is too long a jump to Kingston and are trying to induce the Peterborough Legion team to hop out and come with them into a western setup. As has been intimated the O. H. A. moved all towns over 10,000 population into senior "B" rating but allowed the loop hole that a city with a senior "B" team could also have an intermediate "A" team and this was the out but this column claims that the Legion team of Peterborough is too good for Intermediate "A" and should be designated as a senior "B" outfit. A group as above mentioned would draw well in this section and probably be among the best senior groups in the Province.

• • •

Bill Cook, "Toots" Holway, "Smokey" Harris and the editor stopped over in Oshawa to watch the Galt Rockets defeat the Oshawa Generals and what they saw was plenty. The farm team of the Philadelphia Rockets have two players in Doug Dougall the goalie and "Wiggie" Wylie at centre who will soon seen with the parent club. Dougall looks to be the best junior goalie to come up in some time and his father "Dutch" Dougall of Kingston was a very happy papa on Saturday night.

• • •

Sam Mullholland was also up to see his son, Sam Mullholland Jr. play and this youngster turned in a creditable performance getting the goal that put Galt in the lead. Dougall almost beat the Generals single-handed, some of his stops bordering on the sensational. He is also a great team player. The Rockets are rolling and may be tough to beat in the playoffs. Wylie is shifty, a tireless backchecker, and can perform when in close. He caught the eye of all in attendance with his smart play.

• • •

Jack Devine phoned a few minutes ago to inform us that he had been in touch with the managemen of the Canadian RCAF Olympic team in Ottawa and they in turn informed him that they would be willing to come here any time after Saturday next to cross sticks with the Belleville ANAF Intermediates or "Senior B's" as they will be dubbed shortly. The exact date has not been set at the moment, but you will probably read about it in this edition elsewhere.

• • •

That should be a "honey" of a tilt, as the Olympic team has been selected, and the squad that plays here will be the one which will represent Canada at St. Moritz next year, and not the "candidates" which performed against the Trenton Flyers a short time ago. The ANAFS are a much stronger club than the Flyers, and the resulting hockey joust should be one for the book.

• • •

But at the moment, the hockey brawl for the immediate book is that clash at Memorial Arena tonight between the Hornets and the Junior Rockets. Tension has been mounting as the time draws near for all friendship to cease, and tonight's battle won't be any powder-puff affair. The boys are not speaking to one another socially, for the moment, and tonight will settle a lot of arguments. Hornets are convinced they can fix the Rockets, in fact they must if they want a spot in the money positions, while the Rockets are all set to extract the stingers of the buzzing Hornets. So there you have it. There'll be no quarter asked nor given, and it should be the clash of the season.

• • •

Nor will the nightcap of tonight's twin-bill be any push-over. Tweed has been nursing a nice large duck-egg since the loop started, and they are out to crack the shell at the expense of the loop-leading Trenton team. And that outfit hasn't any idea of being set back by a last-place squad. So there again you have it. Worth 35 cents of any man's money.

• • •

Due to the fact that the RCAF Flyers have been ordered to play a service game in Cornwall on Monday Dec. 15, the game between the Flyers and Juniors scheduled for Tuesday, December 16 has been brought forward to Thursday of this week, taking the place of the Bloomfield-Point Anne tilt which will be played on December 16th.

• • •

After several weeks of planning, the Belleville Merchants Midget "B" hockey team came into actual existence over the weekend. Several sports-minded merchants of the city are behind the youthful team and its management and many already backed them with finances and equipment.

• • •

It is reported that a number of midget-age stars of the city have joined the Merchants team and the squad should give a fine account of itself. In the meantime the boys are selling tickets on a radio, and if you can spare two-bits don't turn them down when they ask you to buy one. The ticket besides the chance on the radio, takes you in the Arena free of charge when the first game is played here.

• • •

It was reliably reported today, that the Inter-Service Club Committee has organized, or will organize midget and juvenile hockey leagues in the city. The proposed loops will comprise teams in each category from five service clubs and the eventual winners will go into the Ontario Minor Hockey League playdowns.

• • •

And speaking of playdowns, they should be productive of some fine midget hockey here. A group will likely be formed of Stirling, Madoc, and Belleville Merchants, winners of which will play with the Belleville Service Club League winners. Madoc went to the provincial championships last winter, and its team has not lost much of last year's strength. Should be good for the fans, the boys and hockey in general.

New York, Dec. 9 (CP)—From now on, the Herald Tribune will stick to "Smith" as the most suitable name for its cartoon characters.
